'TINTINNABULA'

MR. ERNEST MORRIS has added to his list of books another this month 'Tintinnabula,' published by Robert Hale, 21s. It is the story of small bells from the earliest days to the modern electric bells. For years Mr. Morris has been a collector of small bells of various descriptions and his collection has now a permanent place in the City of Leicester Museum.

Perhaps those whose interests are confined to church bell ringing, and change ringing in particular, might have expected Mr. Morris, with his 1,860 peals to his credit and the author of 'The History and Art of Change Ringing,' to have devoted his literary energies to their immediate interest. Ernest, however, is versatile with no one-track mind. This we say for 'Tintinnabula': anyone who has dabbled in the history and development of church bells will find this book, which is profusely illustrated, very companionable. It is the contribution of the small bell to the life of the community, both in religious, domestic, secular and other forms, from the earliest days that gives this book its peculiar niche.

All ringers are familiar with the bells on Aaron's robe and the High Priest Ephod's, but it is not appreciated that they were also attached to the garments of Hebrew women and also in the royal costumes of Persians and other races. Little bells were prominent in ecclesiastical vestments of mediæval days; thus Conrad, Archbishop of Canterbury, had a cope fringed with 140 little silver bells, and Lanfranc 51 of silver-gilt around his cope.

Many of the ringers who attended the Central Council meeting last year in Dublin saw in the National Museum of Dublin the collection of bells and crotals. On these and early British bells Mr. Morris writes an interesting chapter. Small bells were in common usage at the celebration of the Mass and were not confined to a 'sacring' bell carried in the sexton's hands at the consecration of the Sacrament, but there were more elaborate affairs of bells on a wheel. Mr. Morris quotes from Britton's 'Wiltshire' the case of Brokenborough, Wilts, where 18 bells were hung in the middle of the church, which were rung by the pulling of a wheel at the Elevation of the Host.

A chapter is devoted to American Tintinnabula. Pre-Columbian bells exist, and the genealogy of the bells in this continent has been traced from a nutshell or gourd, then a clay model and finally in metal form. It seems somewhat inexplicable that bronze and copper bells found in the Calchaqui region of Argentina should have a characteristic form somewhat resembling Chinese bells. The bell was very much in evidence in this early era of history: the Aztecs used large numbers of golden bells as ornaments and for use in dances and religious sacrifices, while a kind of bell was attached to domestic llamas by Indians.

In our country the prize of a silver or gold bell was frequently awarded for a horse race and attached to the headgear of the winning horse. Records of such awards in the 17th century came from York, Paisley, Dumfries, Carlisle and Huntingdon. An epitaph quoted from Camden's 'Remains' commences:

'Here lies the man whose horse did gaine The Bell in race on Salisbury Plain.'

Small silver bells were also given as prizes at school cock fights, particularly in the North of England. These were days of crude pleasures. In vogue a century ago was a sport known as 'thrashing the hen.' A man carried a hen upon his back and had horse bells fastened to him, by the sound of which his fellows, who were blindfolded, endeavoured to follow him and strike the hen with sticks.

Perhaps closer akin to matters dealt with in this journal is the chapter devoted to handbells. Mr. Morris has nearly 300 handbell peals to his credit, and while he resists giving readers some of the handbell feats of change ringing he does outline the principle of changes. Mention is also made of Mr. William Wagstaffe's collection of old bicycle bells, upon which a handbell peal was rung. In regard to tune ringing on handbells, Mr. Sidney Harrison, of Leicester, with the brothers Hebborn, is photographed giving a demonstration.

Of railway bells quoted, the one most interesting is the 'Lady Gordon, 1785,' at Lossiemouth Station. It weighs over 50 lbs. and is secured in a strong wooden standard erected on the platform. The bell was tolled five minutes before the departure of trains and also when the Greenwich time signal was received. It was originally at Lossiemouth House, which Lady Gordon built. At her death the house was bought by a sea captain who was harbour-master. Until the advent of the railway the bell heralded the arrival and departure of vessels from the port. The sailing ship service ended with the coming of the railway and the bell was transferred to the railway station.

We regret to learn that Mr. Jim Bennett, of Grundisburgh, was rushed to hospital on September 6th and operated upon almost immediately. He is in Felix Ward, Anglesea Road Wing, of the Ipswich and East Suffolk Hospital, Ipswich.

The Bedfordshire Association have a new sub-section—'The Remorseful Society of Slider Bashers and Stay Benders'!

St. Mary's, Bexley, Kent, has some talented lady ringers. Conducted by Mr. Sidney J. Woodcock, five of them rang two quarter peals in August of Plain Bob, Cambridge Surprise and St. Clement's Minor.

Miss Joan Beazley and Miss Ann Cox wish through 'The Ringing World' to thank Worcester ringers for making their six months' in the city most enjoyable. They are really sorry to leave.

The struggling band at SS. Peter and Paul's, Ash, near Sevenoaks, desire to express their thanks to Mr. G. J. Butcher for his help and encouragement. The new Rector (Rev. S. W. Baker) is learning to ring, and apart from Sunday ringing the band hope to report regular quarter peals.

A Stowmarket, Suffolk, reader inquires of 'Woman' if any bell is named after one of the fair sex. She writes: 'Ships, aeroplanes and railway engines are always referred to as "she," but bells always seem to be given masculine names, such as Big Ben and Great Tom.'

Handsworth ringers were pleased to welcome Mr. John A. Acres and Miss Diana Perrins to share in the ringing of a quarter peal of Plain Bob Major on August 30th as a farewell compliment to the Rev. K. H. Hills, who is leaving St. Mary's, Handsworth, for an incumbency at Wanganui, New Zealand. Miss Perrins was a ringer at St. Mary's for several years before leaving the district.

BELFRY GOSSIP

After a gap of nearly 55 years, Mr. George Scott (81) and Mr. Harry Barnes (72) have rung another peal together. The occasion was at Fulbeck, Lincs, on August 29th, and it was for the first peal on these bells on December 31st, 1904, that they last stood in a peal together. Mr. Barnes now lives at Stainton, Yorks, and he travelled 50 miles for the peal. Mr. Scott carries his years lightly. It was an excellent peal.

The fine ring of ten at Aylsham, Norfolk, is shortly to be turned, tuned, rehung and generally overhauled.

On Sunday, September 27th, the bells of Mark Parish Church, Somerset, will be heard prior to the harvest thanksgiving service to be broadcast from there at 9.45 a.m. in the Home Service. The service will be conducted by the Vicar (Rev. W. T. E. Morris); the captain of the ringers is Jack Burrough.

Recordings recently made of the bells of a number of West Sussex churches will be heard on Sunday, November 1st, at 9.45 a.m., in a West Home Service programme entitled 'Pilot's Eye View.' Towers included will be those of Chichester Cathedral and of the parish churches of Arundel, Bosham, Brighton, Findon, Harting, Petersfield, Pulborough, Shoreham and Worthing.

According to 'The Cornish and Devon Weekly News,' of August 29th, the ringers of Padstow rang a muffled peal known as Watts' Knell, as has been done for 327 years, on the anniversary of the death of Nicholas Watts, a midshipman, who died in a foreign port in August, 1632. Under his will, date August 2nd, 1632, he left a sum of money to certain of the poor of Padstow and to the ringers of the parish, that 'every year upon the date of my decease they ring a peal in memory of my git.'

MIDLAND RINGERS' SOUTHERN IRELAND TOUR

THE well-known Overseale, Derbyshire, ringer, Mr. Joseph W. Cotton, popular secretary of the Midland Counties Guild, organised an Irish peal tour this year which may well become an annual event. A dozen ringers and members of his own family with friends participated. Towers represented were Overseale, Church Gresley, Lichfield Cathedral, Kingsbury, Davenport, Baldock, Packington, Harrow Weald, Liverpool (St. Nicholas') and Langleybury. Mr. Frederick Dukes kindly organised the ringing arrangements.

By air liner and by sea the party converged upon Dublin, where proceedings opened with an interesting tour of the Guinness Brewery.

The peal was on the majestic bells (Taylor, 1897) of St. Patrick's Cathedral, in honour of Mr. William H. Wilson's 70th birthday; and pleased he was for such a compliment in the tower which he has served since 1907. These are very much 'men's bells,' and in view of the inexperience of some members on such weight of metal a safe choice was Kent Royal, and a fair peal resulted, the 'roll-ups' coming up grandly throughout, in the quite fast time of 3½ hours. The locals entertained the party afterwards.

SUNDAY'S PROGRAMME

On the Sunday morning the band deployed for service ringing at the city towers. Stedman Caters was rung on the heavy ten (by Murphy's, of Dublin) at Christ Church Cathedral and Bob Major on the back eight at St. Patrick's, and also at the R.C. Augustinian Church of St. John, but only for those who braved the famous iron mid-air spiral stairway, from which the congregation is viewed from a dizzy height.

In the afternoon, the fine Classical design Church of St. George, with a beautiful 'wedding cake' steeple, was visited, and a very fair peal of New Cambridge Major (surprisingly, a 'first' for Ireland) was rung on the excellent old eight, by Thomas Mears.

In the meantime the transport had been assembled and consisted of two hired Consuls (beige twins) and Derek Jones' venerable Morris Cowley which, fresh from a major overhaul and resplendent in gleaming violet livery, had been imported into Ireland and had already done 1,200 miles there before the tour commenced. It was destined to do a further 800 and to be wildly acclaimed wherever we went.

That Sunday night, two parties went to the Wicklow Mountains at Blessington, where there is a large lake, the Pollaphouca Reservoir, but permission was not granted to ring the six bells owing to their very poor condition.

Bank Holiday Monday was our busiest day, as peals were fixed for Bray and Arklow. An excellent musical peal of Double Norwich, the best of the week, was rung at a sedate pace on the majestic bells of Bray. Arklow bells are lighter and tuned differently, and a fast peal of Braunstone Surprise Major, another 'first' for Ireland, was rung in rather stifling conditions; and one of the light bells dried up and gave difficulty, which we take it that it did not do when J. W. Washbrook rang it as one of two bells to a peal.

The weather was now becoming brilliant and the Tuesday journey took us through a blaze of coloured countryside in this fertile south east corner of Ireland. At Wexford we rang touches on the highly-musical heavy ten at the R.C. Church of the Immaculate Conception, with its tall broach spire and beautiful interior. There is a twin church, the Assumption, a short distance away, but no ring of bells: what a chance for another foundry to stage a direct demonstration of comparison!

ANOTHER 'FIRST IN IRELAND'

Waterford Cathedral, on the other hand, has an old style ring by Mears, and hard work is needed on the big bells. They are good music, however, and a very fast peal, the first of Overseale Surprise in Ireland (we could not bring Joe to Ireland without attempting this), was rung. We then proceeded to Dungarvan, under the dusky Comeragh Mountains.

Wednesday dawned another glorious day, and we sped the 50 miles to Cork, passing the quaint town of Youghal, with its gateway tower straddling the narrow street. St. Finbarre's Cathedral, with three spires like Truro, and beautiful mosaics, contains a heavy Rudhall eight, which we thought were the finest bells we had heard, full of rich beauty. Mr. Bogan welcomed the party, and somebody had thoughtfully left out a 'R.W.' open at the page with 'Peal Ringers of 1958.' Unfortunately, we were not scheduled for a peal here, nor was there time to inspect the eights at Shandon Church (chiming) and St. Mary's R.C. Cathedral (tenor 34 cwt., but unringable for many years despite efforts by local ringers to awaken interest). These are both fine towers. We hastened on to Bandon for lunch and a peal at St. Peter's, Ballymodan (one end of Bandon). The pinnacled tower is approached by a long flight of steps and the chamber gained by iron ladders up a rather alarming chimney. The bells are a very fair six that go reasonably well but are very noisy for the ringers: more than 'beb' is practically unintelligible. A good, steady peal of Waterford Treble Bob Minor was rung, which was the first ever.

Our H.Q. that night was Glengarriff, 50 miles away, between sandstone mountains becoming increasingly wild and lofty—the remotest point of our tour. The Eccles Hotel had already welcomed the advance guard, who were enjoying the open-air swimming pool and the delightful land-locked, tree-girt harbours of this end of Bantry Bay.

WONDERFUL SCENERY

Thursday was another brilliant day, and our programme was 'sightseeing via Killarney,' then 'peal at Doneraile,' and 'bed at Rathkeale': 40 miles, 50 miles, 25 miles. The first aim was amply fulfilled; in fact, due to the large number of photos taken the Cowley was so late into Killarney that it had to leave immediately, piled high with peal band, the driver having to be content with a loaf and a bottle of milk purchased at Kanturk en route.

The high passes were crossed: firstly Glengarriff to Kenmare across the wild Caha Mountains, the top being via tunnels, after circumventing two great glacial hollows, where patchwork quilt leads up to heathery bog, then to jagged, folded rocks and peaks. After Kenmare on another bay, the ridge-pole of Ireland towers grandly ahead—the MacGillycuddy's Reeks, whose great cliffs culminate in the peak of Carrantushill (3,414 feet). Below the mountains, pierced by the ice-cut Gap of Dunloe, lie the series of beautiful lakes of Killarney. No wonder we were late in such magnificence!

The long ride east to Doneraile took the Mallow road across open, wild country beneath the Boggeragh Mountains, and we arrived to meet the awaiting local captain, whose fears for the ropes on this old, light Taylor six (9 cwt.) were amply justified, for splicing was essential before the peal could commence in very stuffy conditions. Killarney Minor was the method in view of our visit there that day; but it did not settle well in the circumstances, and when the fifth sally began to disintegrate the peal came to a halt half way through, in time for the tardy sightseers to have a pull. On the way through Charleville to Rathkeale all three cars took the same wrong road, inquired of the same locals, and took the same terribly rough road as a result over a large hill! Rathkeale proved to be a one-horse town.

There were also signs of local enthusiasm for a united Ireland so we were not sorry when we took the road to Limerick on the showery Friday morning. The peal was on the pleasant anti-clockwise octave in the massive tower of St. Mary's Cathedral, where the modern Taylor tenor weighs 24 cwt. but has the surprisingly high note of F which makes it sound lighter. After a welcome from the Dean, we rang a peal of Pudsey, the first in that method in the tower. John Jelley was at the helm for a change.

After lunch, the R.C. Redemptorist Church attached to the Monastery of Mount St. Alphonsus, with its beautiful new Taylor ten (tenor 21 cwt.), was open for ringing. Several locals welcomed us, and one of them made a good job of covering to Grandsire Caters at his first attempt. These bells must be one of the nicest tens anywhere.

As the tour was now nearing its end, the opportunity was taken for group photographs and presentations: Joe Cotton received a musical jug and Joan Cotton glassware of Waterford glass for their great efforts in organising the tour so well, and Derek Jones received a prize cup, inscribed 'Jones for Peals,' as a thank-offering for shepherding the attempts to a safe conclusion!

The 120 miles back to Dublin now lay ahead, and with long stretches of straight, good, level, empty road (one of the joys of motoring in Ireland), past pleasant countryside, mostly pasture but some bog, with occasional isolated mountains.

The next morning, Saturday, was the last of our tour; and for the peal an ambitious note was struck upon Mr. Dukes' fine old ring at St. Peter's, Drogheda, County Louth, with the first peal of Louth Surprise Major. Mr. Dukes gave us an enthusiastic welcome and heard the opening changes before leaving for his peal at Belfast. The non-pealers visited the Vale of Glendalough.

So back to Dublin and to farewells as the grand tour came to its regretted end. Fourteen towers had been visited and eight peals scored out of nine attempts, including three 'firsts' for Ireland and two 'first ever.' About 700 miles had been covered in 14 counties in Eire. Hopes for 1960 join happy memories of 1959.

MATRIMONIAL DOUBLES AT ALDRINGTON

Wednesday, August 26th, saw a most happy occasion at St. Leonard's, Aldington, when Miss Gwynneth Brown was married to Mr. Derek Paine at the Sussex church where they both learned to ring.

The happy couple are the secretary and vice-captain of the band respectively. Two of the five bridesmaids, Diana and Pamela Gough, cousins of the bride, are members of the band. The ushers, too, Roy Brown, brother of the bride, and Harry Brown, are captain and honorary captain of the band respectively.

The ring of six was rung to welcome Derek and Gwynneth to the church, and after the wedding to send them happily on their new life together.

It was a lovely wedding and a great joy to all Aldington ringers, especially as the newly-weds, after their honeymoon, are to live in the parish of St. Leonard's to continue their happy associations and service in the belfry.

During the previous practice meeting, the captain, in expressing the good wishes of the band, presented the future Mr. and Mrs. Paine with a kettle.

CHESHIRE RINGERS' PEAL TOUR IN SOUTH WALES

THE long journey to Newport was started early on a Saturday morning and proved to be less eventful than the one at the beginning of last year's tour. We met Fred Wilshaw in Newcastle, and later encountered Fred Dunkerley, purely by chance, enabling us to lighten the burden laid on the other two vehicles. Pat Chapman was waiting for us by the time we arrived at St. Woolos. Here a peal of Cambridge Maximus was achieved on this fine light 12, and our peal tour had begun. We bade farewell to Pat Chapman and made for our headquarters, Llansantffraed Court Hotel, near Abergavenny.

Sunday morning found us on our way to Hereford, where we rang for morning service at the Cathedral. Lunch was taken near Worcester, and we spent a leisurely afternoon letting our meal digest. Unfortunately, we couldn't ring on the 12 at Worcester Cathedral as the clapper was missing from the tenor, but we rang the 'Minor ten' to Cambridge Royal. Stedman Triples and Spliced Surprise were enjoyed with the local ringers before Evensong.

TWO PEALS IN THE HEAT

Leslie obliged us on Monday morning by calling one of his own compositions to a peal of Yorkshire Royal at Abergavenny. The bells were found to be a good mellow ring, which have to be rung slowly to get the best out of them. It was hardly the weather for peal ringing, and the heat in the cars was almost unbearable. By the time we had finished lunch at the Angel, everybody felt more like sunbathing than taking part in a peal attempt. Despite the heat, a peal of Bristol was brought round at Ebbw Vale in 3 hours and 35 minutes. The bells are an excellent heavy eight similar to those at Eccleston, Cheshire. Excellent refreshments were provided and served to the weary ringers by some most attractive young ladies. Pentre bells were going along very nicely to Cambridge until a rope slipped off one of the wheels, bringing the attempt to an abrupt end, after about 40 minutes' ringing. They weren't the 'handful' we had been led to believe, and they certainly sounded very mellow. And so over the hills to Bridgend, where a peal of Lincolnshire was to be attempted. We dined first, and as Billy had rejoined the party, three of us were able to relax while Brian brought round the peal on this easy-going eight. Back at the hotel in the evening a course of Bob Royal was rung on handbells at the request of several guests who knew that we were ringers.

A 'QUICKIE' IN CAMBRIDGE

On Wednesday morning we had only a short journey to Usk. John conducted a peal of London on these very pleasant bells. Messrs. Jones and Harris had been swimming in the nearby river while we had been ringing the peal. Apparently they only needed a violin each, and we could have had to Noel Coward plays. After lunch we said goodbye to Fred Dunkerley, so only two were out of the attempt at Llangibby in the afternoon. We had a 'quickie' in the strains of Cambridge. Individually the bells here sound rather a poor lot, but they sound quite pleasant when they are being rung in changes.

At Caerphilly we rang a peal of Yorkshire, which was probably the best peal of the week.

Bernard officiated this time, despite frequent interruptions from the clock mechanism which would have drowned anybody else's voice. Llandaff Cathedral proved to be a most interesting place. Epstein's work here arousing both favourable and adverse comments. A peal of Cambridge Royal was rung here in 3 hours and 8 minutes.

It looked as though the fine weather had come to an end when we found it raining on Friday morning, but later on in the day the sun was shining once more. When we arrived at Blaenavon to attempt a peal of 6-Spliced 'all the work,' we were welcomed by the Vicar. It was soon apparent that 'Spliced wouldn't go,' so we rang a peal of Superlative instead. Ted called us a 3-part peal by F. Dench, which we found to be John Worth's 900th peal. Blaenavon bells are such a superb light eight that one would find it difficult to strike them badly. Difficulty was experienced in finding a parking place in Brecon before a peal of Bristol was rung at St. Mary's Church.

TWO ATTEMPTS 'FIRED OUT'

We started the long drive northwards early on Saturday morning, as we had a peal attempt at Eardisland, Herefordshire, which was due to start at 10 a.m. After arriving at this picturesque little village in good time, we had two attempts to ring a peal of London, both of which 'fired out.' John said he still couldn't trust us with a peal of London, a statement we couldn't dispute. After a short stop for sandwiches and ale at a small inn we made for Alton, Staffs, where an open meeting was being held. Here we rang a course of Bristol before we went further north into Cheshire. After 'handshakes all round,' everybody retreated to their respective abode, to store up energy for next year's heatwave.

Our thanks are due to Mr. Basil Jones for his excellent arrangements, and to Messrs. Dunkerley, Worth and Jones for the use of their cars. We would also extend thanks to all incumbents, tower captains and ringers who have helped to make this tour such a happy one, and 'kept a welcome in the hillside.' R. B. S.

OBITUARY

MR. T. ARROWSMITH

We regret to announce the death of Mr. 'Tom' Arrowsmith, aged 53, in the North Staffordshire Royal Infirmary on August 10th. Until his health began to fail two years ago, Mr. Arrowsmith was a very keen ringer and a most loyal churchman at All Saints' Church Lawton, Cheshire. He set a fine example as a regular and punctual service ringer, and it was a great disappointment to him to be unable to assist in the training of the youthful band of ringers which Church Lawton now possesses.

A quarter peal of Stedman Triples was rung on August 22nd as a tribute to his memory.

New Bells At Winchester

At St. Paul's, Bournemouth, on Sunday, August 9th, the Rt. Rev. J. R. S. Taylor, formerly Bishop of Sodor and Man, dedicated a new ring of ten bells as a memorial to the late Mrs. Louisa Norris, who was particularly well known for her work in the St. John Ambulance Nursing Division.

SOUTHAMPTON UNIVERSITY GUILD

Review Of 1958-59 Session

The year started off promisingly for the Guild with the influx of quite a number of ringers of all standards, and since few members went down last year, we have enjoyed a larger active membership. We were glad to have our numbers increased by past members of the University on many occasions.

The Guild was fortunate enough to gain the use of the ten at St. Nicholas', North Stoneham, for a weekly practice, for which we should like to thank the Rector and captain, and also for their hospitality on many other occasions. Two handbell practices a week have been held at the University and, in addition, a joint practice with Taunton's School. Considerable improvement has been apparent at all standards in both tower and handbell ringing. The standard methods on eight bells have been rung regularly, and ringing up to Cinques has been indulged in on handbells, whilst in the tower Cambridge, Yorkshire, Superlative and Bristol Major have been rung, in addition to the standard methods on eight and ten. Members also enjoy much ringing with the local bands in the Southampton district, for which we are grateful.

The Guild has also organised several outings. In the first term there was a coach trip to London, with ringing at five towers, a demonstration of Carter's Ringing Machine and a tour of the Whitechapel Bell Foundry. We were glad to be joined on this occasion by members of the London University Association. There was also a cycling tour of six churches in the south of Hampshire.

The main feature of the Guild activities during the Lent Term was the week-end spent in the Bedford area, and in the final term there was a day trip to Gloucestershire, where six towers were visited. At the beginning of the summer vacation the Reading University Guild joined us in East Anglia on a week's cycling tour.

At the annual general meeting officers were elected as follows: Master, Mr. D. J. Forder; Deputy Master, Miss Helen Nevin; secretary and treasurer, Mr. A. K. G. Jones; committee member, Mr. D. D'A. R. Blackwall.

The Guild extends a cordial welcome to all Freshers next session to contact the secretary, c/o the University, for information.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

DODGING THE PEAL TAX

Dear Sir,—The peals tax (or fee) of the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild (about which Mr. Davis writes) and the suggestion that other affiliated Guilds support the enforcing of the rules of member Associations, need considerable thought and discussion before being generally accepted. The points arising, as I see them, are:—

(1) How many affiliated Associations have a similar tax (or fee)?

(2) Did the Winchester Guild anticipate difficulty in collecting the tax when making the rule and, because of the tax, the probability of peals rung in their territory being credited to other Associations?

(3) Will the amount collected from peals add very much to the funds, and are the funds so low as to need this amount?

(4) As an average of 5 per cent. of an Association's total membership ring peals, is it fair that this percentage be taxed to help finance the other 95 per cent.?

(5) Peal ringing generally is (or should be) for the honour of the Association for which it is rung, and is to be encouraged. Does it not have the reverse effect to make a charge for peal ringing?

(6) Members pay a subscription to belong to an Association and to enjoy the privileges of that Association, one of which is to ring peals for that body. Should they be forced to pay an additional amount, however small, after having paid the subscription?

(7) If non-resident members, who only pay one life subscription, are the persons who should be 'made to pay,' would it not be a better policy to increase that life subscription?

It will have been noticed that a peal in the Winchester Guild's territory, recorded this week, was rung for the Guildford Guild. This immediately brings forward the point in Mr. Davis's letter: should the Guildford Guild refuse to accept the peal so that the ringers taking part obey the rules of the Winchester Guild? It is courtesy to ring a peal for the Association to which the tower is affiliated, but if the ringers, for any reason, record the peal for another Association, I cannot see how or why that other Association, whose rules have not been broken, can refuse to accept it.

The Guildford Guild members will have an opportunity to discuss the idea of a peal tax (or fee) during the next few months, but until it adopts the idea it cannot enforce its members to obey other Associations' rules. That is for that Association concerned to do.—Yours, etc.,

CHARLES DENYER.

Farnham, Surrey.

MEETING AT BROADWELL

Dear Sir,—I am very pleased to see that a meeting is to be held at Broadwell, this being the tower where I was taught by my brother 'Bill' to ring a bell.

I have no knowledge of a meeting ever being held here before. The notice on page 505 in 'The Ringing World' is rather misleading. There are only five bells in this tower hung for ringing: the sixth is a small bell known locally as the 'ting-tang,' and is rung for five minutes before each service.—Yours sincerely,

Ross-on-Wye.

J. J. WEBB.

CLOSED SHOP RINGING RIDICULOUS

Dear Sir,—I have of late been wondering whether it will soon be possible to read a 'Ringing World' without mention of Robin Leale and his missing peal fees for the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild.

The matter was raised at the last Guild executive meeting: a proposal that the hon. peal recorder should delete the offending peals from the records was passed. This has been carried out and legislation stops there.

Surely it is obvious to all concerned that Robin Leale is not going to pay; surely it is obvious that if he comes into the diocese again he will do one of three things: pay the fee, ring a non-Association peal or ring it for another Society.

Talk of 'ungentlemanly conduct,' 'universal suspension' and calling for member Guilds of the Central Council to form a closed shop against one man is ridiculous! Inter-Guild and individual bickering is deplorable; it makes one wonder whether the time has come to adopt the proposal of Mr. Chas. H. Kippin, which he has been advocating for years past, that is to form a National Guild.—Yours faithfully,

TOM CHAPMAN.

Bishopstoke, Southampton.

CAMBRIDGE SURPRISE MAXIMUS

Dear Sir,—The composition of Cambridge Maximus by Mr. L. W. G. Morris, on page 508 of your issue of September 4th, is a slight variation of one by John Carter published in 'The Bell News' of December 3rd, 1910. Eight of the courses are called alike, the difference being that Mr. Morris has two courses H, W. H. against Carter's 2 W. In the latter peal, incidentally, the 4th is at home at all ten course-ends.

I hope Mr. Morris will not mind my saying that Cambridge Maximus is another method in which true originality (as I understand the word) is, in my opinion, not possible if the normal calling only is used.—Yours sincerely,

E. A. BARNETT.

ASTBURY'S MAY QUEEN FESTIVAL

Dear Sir,—In the issue of August 14th, in the notes about the week's peals, the comment on a peal at Astbury, Cheshire is a little misleading. It was the May Queen festival which was late and not the peal. Being aware of the incongruity of the dates, I worded the peal footnote 'Rung on the day of the crowning...' in the hope that this would make the situation clear. However, I was mistaken! — Yours faithfully,

B. CORBISHLEY.

Macclesfield, Cheshire.

ADVERTISEMENT IDEA

Dear Sir,—We hear a good deal about the need of funds for 'The Ringing World.' What about extending the advertising to include, for instance, the motor trade. One can envisage something like this: 'The Morris Mini-Minor will make your tower-grabbing cheaper,' or, as tape-recorders seem to be popular in towers these days: 'Record your Grandsire on Grundig.' Might one even suggest 'Whitbread's for long draughts'?—Yours sincerely, Leatherhead, Surrey.

ERIC WOOD.

A BACHELOR PEAL OF LAST CENTURY

Dear Sir,—Looking through 'The Ringing World' recently I saw that it was on February 5th, 1898, that eight bachelors rang Holt's Original at St. Margaret's, Barking, and it was Mr. George E. Symonds' first peal as conductor and I recollect it quite well; and no one was more pleased to read than I was of George calling the same peal just before his 84th birthday, calling it 32 times in all—a grand performance. Of the remainder there is only one of the Barking band with us, as the other three—Messrs. Mason, Fenn and Faulkner—have passed on, also Messrs. Weller and Passmore, as far as I know. There were three brothers Fenn in the Barking company: the youngest, Ernest, was Master of the College Youths during the war, and is still with us. Also with us is G. W. Faulkner, a brother of Thomas. At that time the Barking company had a good handbell band and could ring any method on handbells that they could ring on tower bells.—Yours sincerely,

CALEB FENN.

BELL FRAMES

Dear Sir,—Apropos the letter in the 'R.W.' of September 4th, page 502, concerning rusty bell frames and their cure, might I point out to Miss Overend that there are two firms who regularly advertise in this paper each week whose business it is to advise on and attend to bell frames. This would seem the logical solution; after all, you do not go to an undertaker for a haircut.—Yours sincerely,

ERNEST J. ROWE.

WESTWARD WITH WRATTEN

A VERY enjoyable tour of the West Country, arranged by Cyril A. Wratten, commenced on Saturday, May 30th, when Messrs. Egglestone, Roast, Saltmarsh and Symonds, from the Chelmsford area, joined forces with Frank Oakshott, of Epsom, and Shirley Parsons and Cyril from Cheltenham, to ring a peal of New Cambridge at Quedgley, Glos. Although this was the first official tower of the week, the Chelmsford contingent had already 'snatched' Northchurch, Herts, in the morning.

After the peal we were met by Mr. and Mrs. Dick Roast and Tom, who were on their way to Monmouth, but who first joined us in ringing on the fine 12 at Painswick after tea. The night was spent at the Old Bell in Dursley, where midnight was heralded by three courses of St. Oswald's on the Parish Church chimes. The next morning we joined the local band in ringing for Matins. Further ringing followed at Wotton-under-Edge, and we lunched in fine style at the White Hart in Wells. With the help of the local ringers we were able to ring the ten at the Cathedral to Stedman and Grandsire Caters.

Later the fine (though rather noisy) six at Ruishton were tapping out Cambridge and 6 spliced, while Stedman and Superlative went very well at Wellington before Evensong. Heavytree, with its fine ring of eight, was the last tower of the day, before we made our way to the Queen's Hotel in Exeter.

Unfortunately, the peal attempt at Bovey Tracey would not settle and was set up after half-an-hour because of indifferent striking. After lunching well at the Rising Sun, Sticklepath, we continued westward, ringing at Okehampton, Bridestowe and Lifton, before crossing the border into Cornwall for tea in Launceston. A ring at St. Mary's, then we were up on Bodmin Moor, stopping briefly at the Jamaica Inn, on our way to Bodmin. Here we rang a touch of Grandsire Triples at the special request of the local band, who are learning 'scientific.'

CORNISH EXPERIENCES

Our abode for the next four nights was the Brookdale Hotel, Truro, where we were met by our old friends Bob and Jill Southwood. Tuesday we started at Perran-ar-worhal—a nice little six. Helston bells went very well to a bobbed course of Stedman, and at St. Mawgan-in-Meneage we rang Double Court and 5-spliced T.B. After a sandwich lunch, a peal of Grandsire Triples was scored on the grand eight at St. Keverne, Howard adding his name to those who have rung a bell without a stay to a peal. After a cream tea at Coverack we were rather late arriving at Landewednack. A couple of quick touches on the new six at Constantine, and then we were on our way back to Truro to join the Cathedral ringers in their practice.

We had some difficulty in ringing at Penzance on Wednesday morning due to the stays of the third and fifth sticking, and a splice had to be made in the rope of the seventh before we left. At Sennen, the most westerly tower, we rang Oxford T.B. The afternoon peal attempt at Gulval, a well-kept eight, was unsuccessful: after 45 minutes of Oxford Bob Triples, a shift course necessitated the call 'Stand.' The Rev. Arthur Roberts, who had been listening outside the church, invited us to go on to Carbis Bay. A touch of Cambridge here, and then we were away to tea, followed by ringing at Towednack and Tuckingmill.

Thursday's programme started with some good Yorkshire at Probus before going on to Fowey. After ringing here, the 15th century Toll Bar Restaurant was found to provide a good lunch. A 6-bell peal attempt in the afternoon at St. Winnow enabled two lucky tourists to have an afternoon off, while the rest rang 40 Minor methods. The bells are not easy to handle and have rather a long draught of rope, but with Joe 'in the chair' and Quasimodo performing on the tenor there was little fear of losing it. Lostwithiel and St. Stephen-in-Brannel completed the day's official programme.

We were joined by Bob Southwood on Friday morning before heading for St. Columb Major, where we were hoping to ring a peal of Yorkshire. However, the Vicar asked us not to attempt a full peal in view of a recent tragic death in the town, and a quarter peal of Stedman Triples was accordingly rung before we dashed away to 'snatch' St. Mawgan-in-Pydar. After lunch in Camelford, Tintagel was visited, with its nice six in a church right on the edge of Glebe Cliff. Our last Cornish tower, Stratton, is reputed to contain the finest eight in the county, and none of us would quarrel with that description. We rang a quarter peal of Stedman here.

On into Devon, and to Clovelly, where we were welcomed with an outstretched hand—that of the attendant at the car park on the cliff top! We walked down the quaint street to the harbour before climbing back to ring on the handy little six.

Bideford was the first tower on Saturday morning, followed by Tawstock and Bideford. After lunch, Frank rejoined us at Combe Martin, where we found the local ringers preparing the ropes for our peal attempt. There was some talk of losing the peal so that we could go to listen to some competition ringing at South Molton, but Kent and Oxford in the Ilkeston variation presented no difficulties, and the peal was completed at a fast pace. A run through some magnificent scenery at Martinhoe, Lee Bay, Lynmouth and Countisbury brought us to Porlock for a late tea, and later ringing at Dunster. Our hotel in Bridgwater was calling, but Pat decided that a run over the Quantocks could not be missed, and at the top of Lydeard Hill we agreed with him—the view extending across right into Wales is 'wholly wunnerful.'

Sunday morning dawned bright and clear, and we left the Royal Clarence to join the band at St. Mary's in ringing for the morning service. Rather poor ringing followed at Long Ashton before lunch in Bristol. The Cathedral belfry was well filled when we arrived, and we are grateful to John Hunt for allowing us to have a last touch as a band. Then came the parting of the ways, and goodbyes were said to the music of Stedman Triples rolling across Bristol. Many thanks, Cyril, for your splendid organisation, to our drivers, Pat and Frank, and to the many incumbents and ringers who met us on our journey and made us so welcome. P. J. E.

Another interesting chapter relates to clock jacks. There are still a number of these jacks in existence in this country and these are quoted. The old clock of St. Paul's Cathedral which was destroyed in the Great Fire of 1666 had jacks, and those of St. Dunstan's, Fleet Street, date from 1671. Matthew the Miller's clock at Exeter is well known. Here there are three figures, the centre one of which bends forward at every stroke of the hour, hence the local saying:—

'Every hour on Westgate Tower, Matthew the Miller nods his head.'

The javelin men on either side strike the quarters on hemispherical bells beneath them.

We cannot refrain from quoting the author's tailpiece: 'The most unusual bell ever manufactured by the Gong Bell Company of East Hampton, U.S.A., was called "the chestnut bell." The tiny bell was worn on the lapel of a man's coat, and whenever the wearer heard a tall story or obvious old joke he would tinkle his bell, indicating that he knew the tale to be an old chestnut.'

A secondary purpose of the book is to give the collector of small bells an idea of kinds worth seeking in contrast to the modern 'fakes.' As a help the 51 illustrations in the book are well chosen. The jacket of the book is a very good drawing of the Bells of Bethlehem by W. Cecil Dunford. Copies can be obtained from the author, 38, Strenshall Road, Eyres Monsell, Leicester.

SWANSEA AND BRECON GUILD

The first meeting in the reconstructed Church of St. Mary, Swansea, was a red letter day for the Swansea and Brecon Guild. General opinion of the new ring by Taylor's was that the tone and 'go' could not be better.

The service, conducted by Canon Harry Williams, followed an hour's ringing. In his address and welcome the Canon mentioned that a church had been on that site for over 1,000 years. Tea followed in the vestry, the Vicar thanking the ladies who waited at table.

The Rev. D. M. White, from Sketty, presided at the business meeting and expressed the pleasure of the company at having Mr. and Mrs. Pitman with them. Ringing until 8 p.m. brought a good day to an end.

SURREY ASSOCIATION

Northern District

Weddings at all the local churches during the afternoon made it impossible for the Association to arrange afternoon ringing at its meeting on September 5th. The service was held at 4 p.m. at St. Mary's, Ewell, being taken by a ringing lay reader, Mr. J. H. Pycraft, of Ewell. This was followed by an excellent tea arranged by the local ringers in the Schoolroom, under the supervision of Mrs. C. W. Munday.

The routine business meeting included the election of three new members. The members and friends present concluded the meeting by instructing the secretary to convey to the Editor of 'The Ringing World' their sincere appreciation and unanimous approval of his efforts during the recent strike.

Ringling in a variety of methods to suit all tastes and standards continued until 8.30, under the direction of the Ringing Master, Mr. G. Peters.

SOME ODD TOUCHES FOR CONDUCTORS

By EDGAR C. SHEPPARD

STEDMAN TRIPLES

The Birmingham men were always famous for their manipulation of Stedman, and among them very few were more full of tricks and quaint devices in calling than Tom Miller. Tom had a magical touch in his handling of Stedman Triples, and when he called, one could never be sure in what manner he would bring the bells round. One little touch which may well have descended from this fine old ringer is the 180 shown here. It is handy for filling up a few odd minutes, and is easy to remember. All that one has to do is to prevent 1 and 2 from going behind, calling bobs necessary to ensure this, but calling no more than are needed. It will thus be found that 1 and 2 are ringing Stedman Doubles, while the 3rd and 4th always go in slow.

Twice repeated.

The best music of Stedman Triples (as in Grandsire Triples) is made by the manipulation of 67, 74 and 46, and most ringers can scarce fail to notice when one of these pairs is behind. Many touches, indeed, can be called entirely, or almost entirely, by bobbing 67, 74 and 46 behind. The well-known 72 given here (a course that appears in most of the text books) can best be called by the following lesson: 'One on 67, One on 74, Two on 46.' The procedure is simplified by the fact that the bells to be bobbed behind actually come into position for a six before the bob is called, and so give warning, as it were, by proclaiming the excellence of their music.

There is a well-known, and justly famed, 408 Stedman Triples which is in the repertoire of most conductors. It will be found in Davies' 'Stedman' and in Powell, but Trollope rather unaccountably omits it from his work of 1938. I remember, many years ago, the late George Swann introducing me to this touch and its 'lesson,' which he described as: 'Two on 67, Two on 74, Two on 46: Call the 4th to make the Bob: Two on 74, Two on 46: Repeated.' The first part of this touch: Two on 67, Two on 74, Two on 46, if repeated, will provide a very musical 216. The latter part of the touch: Call 4th to make the bob: Two on 74, Two on 46, repeated, will give a musical 192.

Both these touches are, of course, well known, but they are inserted with a view to emphasising the practice of calling by the bells behind as distinct from learning the work of a fixed bell.

It is a well-known fact that two bobs called in two consecutive sixes will produce a course end that will repeat once and so give a touch of two courses, 168 changes. Thus, one course becomes two. What applies to the plain course applies equally to any other course. By the use of this knowledge some interesting and unusual touches can be obtained.

The two short touches, A and B, appear in one or two books. The first one, A, is called simply by the lesson: 'Call Treble 67 up with a bob, 67 up with a single.' The second one, B, is easily called: Single at 1, call 7th 67 up with a bob.' Both are worth memorising, not only because they will fill up two or three minutes in a very intriguing manner, but also because they are capable of easy extension on the principle alluded to above. Two examples will, perhaps, serve to demonstrate.

The first one, 159 changes, is merely the course A with a course inserted by calling the 4th into the Slow with two bobs. When the 4th is called into the Slow the second time the touch returns to the Plain Course, and the next six one must call according to touch A. If the student will take the trouble to prick out all the sixes of the touch the plan, or dodge, or trick (whichever you like to call it) will be revealed quite clearly. The second touch is on the same plan, and consists of Course B with a course inserted by calling the 3rd. In and Out Quick twice. Once again, a full pricking of the sixes will make the whole thing clear, and will probably lead to the realisation that there are several other ways in which Course A and Course B can be extended in simple fashion. Here we must leave Stedman Triples, not, I fear, having introduced anything very new, but possibly having indicated one or two fresh lines of approach.

The ringers of the quarter peal of Stedman Caters at Christ Church, Bristol, for the Feast of St. Bartholomew, desire to thank the Rector (Rev. S. Calverwell) and Mr. and Mrs. Hannay for their warm hospitality.

Among the many motoring designs of today the Bellringer's Car Badge will attract attention and enable the many touring parties to be identified. We would like to think that the many ringers' cars on the road today were as smart as the new badge that the versatile Mr. William H. Viggers, of 37, Highfield Gardens, Aldershot, has now put on the road.

OUTINGS

TEWKESBURY, GLOS

The Tewkesbury Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association had a most successful and happy outing on August 29th, in visiting five towers in Somerset.

We set off by coach at 6.45 a.m., and our first tower was All Saints', Long Ashton (8. tenor 30 cwt.). Here we were very pleased to meet Mr. Herbert Knight, of Wrington, who had been kind enough to obtain the towers and to arrange meals. Ringing on this excellent eight was followed by a visit to Holy Trinity, Nailsea (6. 11 cwt.), and here we were welcomed by Mr. Len Derek. After enjoying our stay here, we went to Burrington for lunch. We were very interested to see the 'Rock of Ages,' which inspired the Rev. A. M. Toplady to write the famous hymn in 1762. Our next tower was St. Andrew's, Banwell (8. 23 cwt.). Here again we had a most enjoyable ring. Weston-super-Mare was our next call, and here we rang on the light eight (tenor 12 cwt.) at St. John-the-Baptist's, and were welcomed by another old friend, Mr. George Prescott. After tea, and after sampling the sea breezes, we went to St. Andrew's, Backwell (8. 18 cwt.), where we were welcomed by Mr. John Brown.

Our thanks are due to the Ringing Master (Mr. Trevor Newbury) for the general organisation, to Mr. H. Knight and to all others who assisted us and made us so welcome.

WORCESTER RINGERS HIT TRAIL

Saturday, July 19th, saw members of the Wychbold, Hanbury and St. Peter-de-Witton companies hitting the trail in search of new towers in Southern Worcestershire.

In spite of the efforts of the map reader and navigator, Bushley was reached safely, and the pretty little six (tenor 7 cwt.) was soon ringing out well-struck rounds and Queen's.

At Longdon, the belfry stairs were eventually found in the gloomy recesses of a broom cupboard. The ponderous-sounding six here were much enjoyed, some good rounds, call-changes and Grandsire being rung. Castle Morton bells proved to be rather a handful, but the common was an excellent place for a picnic lunch.

As we were by now somewhat tired we did not do justice to the well-kept six at Welland. At Hanley-Swan the six bells are of doubtful quality and were almost inaudible above the organist's practice. The last tower was Madresfield, where the heavy-going six caused the large 'Bath' chair to be much appreciated. The Vicar's dog shook hands with some of the party in a friendly manner.

Our thanks are accorded to the incumbents and the local ringers who met us, and to the inhabitants of the various villages for not shooting us. We are also grateful to our tower captain for tolerating us, and eating all the left-over sandwiches!

PAUL.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

North Dorset Branch

The quarterly meeting was held at Motcombe on September 5th: 20 ringers were present from 12 towers, including visitors from Wareham and Charminster. Ringing started at 3 p.m., followed by the Guild service at 4.30 p.m., conducted by the hon. secretary, the Rev. R. N. Longridge, and at which the Vicar, the Rev. H. Ll. Davies, gave the address.

After tea in the Memorial Hall, the business meeting included details of the Dorset Ringing Festival, to be held at Blandford on October 31st.
