FIRE!

By P. AMOS

FIRE can be a friend. It can also be a terrible enemy. Its disastrous effects during the six years of war, 1939-45, can still be seen, and many a sad heart resulted from it. What will no doubt be a memorial for years ahead of those days can be seen hanging in the tower of the ruined Church of St. Lawrence, Old Jewry (furnished as a chapel)—a bell cast from salvaged metal of the old bells, bearing the inscription, 'Ecce Post Ignem Vox,' meaning, 'After the fire, a still small voice'!

Some of us can think back further and recall what fire did in 1931 to the church at Eaton Socon, near St. Neots, Beds. At Wellingborough since the war a towerless church was the victim of mischievous children—fire destroyed the building, which has cost around £18,000 to reconstruct.

I was delving into histories of another church, not far from here, the other day—Souldrop, Beds, where apparently fire took toll of the edifice, which had to be rebuilt early in the 19th century. Yet for all this, I found up in that bell chamber (as I did a short time previously at Pertenhall close by) enough highly inflammable material—twigs, hay, feathers, etc., carried by birds—to start a first-class blaze should a few sparks from a nearby burning hay or straw rick blow into this bell chamber and fall on to that mass of rubbish.

At Souldrop there were no louvres or wire protection of any kind and birds could enter at random. This state of affairs sometimes goes on for years, for two or three generations, and every year at the Visitations the churchwardens, whose responsibility it is to give a true report upon the state of the fabric and church furnishings (which includes the bells and their fittings), will give an O.K. report, or a mention only a dilapidations on the ground level—not troubling to go up into the bell chamber to see, as their responsibility it is, the truth of things for themselves, or even to call in knowledgeable advice if there happened to be no ringers. There must be hundreds of cases like this, especially in towers with but one, two, three or four bells.

What of those towers with more than four? It was said a short time ago by another writer that ringers in far too many cases show no interest in what is up in the bell chamber so long as there are six or more bells and they go all right! Truer words were never written, and it bestows shame upon us as a community, or as individuals, that it should have to be said that this is so. Such ringers are equally guilty as are those wardens who make out an O.K. report year after year when 'O.K.' is just a distortion of facts. To them the bell chamber is out of sight, but—not always out of danger! The casual bell archaeologist is all too often the only person to bring some alarming situation to light. That ought not to be!

It would seriously astound, and alarm, many a reader to see the state of some of the bell chambers I have been in when from time to time out searching for history. Not only highly inflammable material from birds up to the waist and sometimes the crown of the bells (as at Pertenhall), but frames and headstocks are so rotted that, apart from fire dangers, it is really a miracle that the bells do not crash under their own weight. Only a report on the presence of death-watch beetle will, as a rule, shake the authorities out of their complacency—as it has done after many years at Marston Trussell, Northants. Straight words can do no harm; in fact, they are, in the end, very often appreciated. I have had evidence of this through the post only this morning (July 26th). A certain rector writes, 'I had no idea that the situation was so bad. I am calling a P.C.C. meeting next week. Thank you for all you have told me!'

So much for the efforts of individuals; but as Guilds what are we doing to counteract these situations? Some (like the guilty churchwardens with their reports) are content to say, 'What's the good of restoring all these bells or adding more when there are not enough ringers to ring them?' At a Guild meeting these same ringers will sing, 'Fight the good fight with all thy might.' Where is their consistency?

'Fire-fighters'—yes, they'll be there like a shot if fire should occur. But preservation fighters—'Oh, well, leave it to Mr. Smith or Mr. Jones, he'll do the necessary,' is often their attitude. As Guilds, we have the Central Council with its literature on the care and maintenance of bells and belfries, but how many clergy, especially where with only three or four bells, ever hear of this publication? We could do worse than to set aside a sum of money to print a leaflet and send it to every incumbent pointing out all the dangers which I have stated in this article, and it would be money well spent! We ought not to stop at the number of bells in any tower: the three or four-bell tower of to-day may easily become the five or six-bell tower of a year or two hence. Who knows if we show sufficient interest and co-operation?

Finally, we should do all in our power to correct and counteract the erroneous idea obsessed of some clergy and church councils 'that the installation of a chiming apparatus is a cure and the answer to all their belfry and bell chamber evils.' The apparatus will not prevent bells crashing under their own weight if left in frames and fittings riddled with worm and death-watch beetle for generations, sometimes for an indefinite period altogether. Some of us are alive to these facts, others are just slothful.

ARCHDEACONRY OF STAFFORD SOCIETY

Little Aston a Tower of Great Promise

The summer meeting of the Society took place at Little Aston on August 21st. The small but beautiful church of St. Peter is delightfully situated in a sylvan setting, and the tower contains a pleasing, easy going ring of six bells.

This was the first visit of the Society to Little Aston, and the Vicar (Rev. H. H. Follis) and his young ringers had gone out of their way to ensure the success of the meeting.

The fully choral service, accompanied by the organist, Mr. E. Porter, was bright and cheerful, with a good address from the Vicar, and is worthy of note that the Little Aston ringers are choristers as well.

Tea served in the Parish Hall and very kindly given by the Vicar, his lady helpers and the local band, was one of the most sumptuous which the members of the Society have enjoyed for some time. Thanks and appreciation to all concerned were duly expressed by Messrs. B. G. Key, K. W. Knowles and F. Bennett.

Ringling during the afternoon and evening was under the direction of the newly-appointed Ringing Master, Mr. Dennis Holden. The attendance of 49 (including the local band) was below average, and those who failed to attend missed one of the Society's most enjoyable meetings of recent years.

St. Peter's, Little Aston, is fortunate in having such an enthusiastic band of young ringers, whose efforts, not only for their own church, but for the Society, deserve special commendation.

The next meeting of the Society will be at Brewood on October 16th.

A correspondent writes:
'I have to-day visited the three most famous reference libraries in the North of England, viz., Manchester Corporation, the John Reynolds Library, Manchester, and the Picton Reference Library, Liverpool. All have numerous copies of the 'Church Bells' series (Bells of Kent, Suffolk, etc.), but there is no publication of the Central Council in Manchester, and Liverpool has an old copy of the 'Triples Collection' (1911, I think). I think the Central Council should do something about the matter.'

Mr. George Baker, of Brighton, will be 87
next October, and not 89 as was recently stated.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. Raymond Philpott died on Tuesday afternoon at the Farnham (Surrey) County Hospital.

Mr. A. Patrick Cannon, having rung his 400th peal, has set himself the target of reaching the 500 mark in the next two years.

A new ring of bells will be dedicated at St.
John's, Farnworth, near Bolton, on Saturday,
September 11th, at 3 p.m.

A bracelet was left by a member of one of the outing parties to Burnham. Will the owner please write to George Gilbert, Burnham,
Bucks, and it will be forwarded.

After the peal at Ancaster, Mr. and Mrs.
W. Towns entertained the band to an excellent supper. They also sent their car to Silk Willoughby to fetch Mrs. Musson so that she could join in a happy evening.

Mr. F. G. Wilton, of Swindon, expresses thanks, through 'The Ringing World,' to the ringers of the Guildford area for making his recent stay at Guildford Fire Station so enjoyable and profitable.

BELFRY GOSSIP

When Miss Maureen Gillott was married at Whiston
Parish Church on August 28th
her bridegroom, Mr. P. Coote, of Rotherham
Parish Church band, and his best man, Mr.
Robin Rhodes, took part in the ringing prior to the service.

Mr. Colin J. Champion rang his 25th peal at Much Wenlock on August 9th.

The bells of St. Mark's, Jersey, will be broadcast on September 19th at 7.45 p.m.

The second 720 of the peal at Clive (reported on page 546) should read St. Clement's and Plain Bob, and not Double Oxford and Plain
Bob. The peal at Market Drayton of Braun-stone Surprise, reported on the same page, was accomplished in 2 hours and 57 minutes.

We regret to record the death of Mr. W. E.
Herbert at Woburn, Beds, member of the Bedfordshire Association for 65 years. Details will appear in our next issue.

Congratulations to Miss Christine Ford, of Loughton, Essex, who scored her first peal at Harlow Common on August 26th. Christine has show a great enthusiasm for ringing and has already reached the realms of Cambridge Surprise and Stedman Cinques. This peal will surely be the first of many.

St. Bartholomew's, Colne, has rarely figured in 'The Ringing World,' the last peal having been rung there well before the war, despite the fact that the 'go' of the bells is good. An attempt for a peal was made on August 21st (he nearest available date to the patronal festival) but a rope broke after 40 minutes and there was insufficient time for a fresh start. A quarter peal was, however, scored. Afterwards Mr. William Heaton, of the local band, who had to stand down at short notice, entertained the ringers to a very good tea.

A KENT RINGING TOUR

THE party from the North and Midlands which in former years was under the guidance of J. E. Cawser, chose for their venue this year the lovely county of Kent, and right well it merited the choice. The party this year had one or two new faces, and some old friends had rejoined us, making ten in all from the upper part of the country.

The long journey south began at London Road Station, Manchester, whence the now familiar Dormobile had been piloted by Ann Worth. At about 12.30 p.m. we got under way with three of the tourists on board, stopping at Macclesfield to pick up our driver for the week, John Worth; then on to Newcastle-under-Lyme, where after a few minutes wait Fred Wilshaw joined us, and on we rolled to Birmingham, where near the Cathedral a tea-less trio of Birmingham ringers waited patiently at 4 p.m., while we had tea. Soon we were once more on the road, to our haven for the night, the Bell Hotel, Aylesbury. There dinner was ready for us, and, needless to say, we were ready for it. This disposed of, a certain quartette expressed their desire for a stroll (?), and sallied forth on what turned out to be a remarkably short stroll, for a painted sign of some male animal beckoned them into a very comfortable room, and a rather hilarious evening ensued, to the delight of Rosemary, who, it is hoped, did not hear all the yarns swapped.

ROAD CONGESTION—A MISSED ATTEMPT

Saturday morning found us on the road in good time heading for Gillingham, and all went well until, some few miles from Rochester, it became evident there were other vehicles on the road beside ourselves, and eventually we found ourselves in an outside traffic jam, which must have been some miles in length, and after nearly two hours there we moved slowly on to Gillingham, arriving at 12 noon, far too late to start for the first peal of the tour. So no ringing was to be had there, and the inner man having been fortified at a nearby cafe, we fought our way back through a rather lesser traffic block in Rochester, reaching Northfleet in time to find two more of our party awaiting us. Soon the bells were rolling out to Middleton's Cambridge, whilst the organising secretary was highly delighted to encounter old friends who had turned up: Arthur G. Mason, who was to be with us for a few days, Herbert Audsley, whom the organising secretary had not met for some 26 years, and Wilfred Williams. The peal over without incident, the road was used once more to take us to our headquarters for the week, the Royal Oak, Sevenoaks, depositing on the way the Birmingham trio at a rather lesser 'pub,' on the pretext that the Royal Oak was full up.

Sunday found us at the Parish Church of Sevenoaks, where Miss Colgate and Mr. Collins warmly welcomed us to a comfortable ringing room, and we soon had this mellow old ring going to the tune of Bristol, Spliced Surprise, then Stedman. A morning stroll of great interest was then taken in the precincts of Knole House, now in the care of the National Trust, and when, watching the almost tame deer in the park, the organising secretary referred to the animals' head adornments as 'horns,' he was promptly informed that they were called antlers; he now knows that when he meets a bull he must take care to avoid its antlers!

The tower for the afternoon was Sittingbourne, and here we were very pleased indeed to meet Harry Parkes, the organising secretary getting into such deep conversation with him that he had to be reminded that a peal attempt was waiting. Yorkshire was duly rung, thus completing for George his century each of Cambridge and Yorkshire Surprise Major. Meanwhile Harry took the two 'spares' on what proved to be a very successful tower-grabbing expedition, together with a certain amount of grabbing of any local ringers who showed up, to augment the party. The peal over, some of the local company joined us to ring for evening service. A violent thunderstorm cut short the gossipers afterwards, and soon we were heading back to headquarters.

TENTERDEN NOT CHILD'S PLAY

On Monday morning we were heading south for Brenchley (via Kippings Cross!), the latter part of the journey being enlivened by a technical discussion between two method-minded ringers, probably invoked by the sight of signposts marked Capel and Horsmonden. After an inspection of the ropes and some minor adjustments, the bells were quickly set rolling to the sound of Bristol, with almost mechanical precision. The peal successfully accomplished, there remained only time to pay a very brief visit to the only other building of any size, undaunted by the large notice which declared, 'Gipsies not served here.' So very soon we were on our way to the next port of call, Tenterden. Lunch over, we had an inspection of this interesting town, the tower coming in for a great deal of attention.

At 5 p.m. we ascended the roomy tower, and the experts were taken upstairs by Harry to inspect the bells. It was then that we realised that this attempt was not going to be child's play. Tenterden's are a distinctly heavy ring, the treble weighing about 7 cwt. They are hung on the old-fashioned system of deep headstocks, which with big wheels carrying much rope means that good handling is essential. Harry's attention to the bearings ensured that the bells went well, and we appreciated his kindly thought for our comfort. Soon London was being heard, the conductor choosing one of Worsley's compositions with parted tenors, which may have sounded unfamiliar to the listeners for quite a while. This promised to be a peal to be remembered, though about half-way there seemed to be a bit of quarrelling going on upstairs, but this was the only blot on what otherwise was a grand performance. After the peal a tired band sought refreshment in the shape of an excellent meal at the Spinning Wheel, and after dissuading some of the members from seeking other places of rest, we made our way back to Sevenoaks.

AT CANTERBURY CATHEDRAL

On Tuesday the route lay along the Canterbury road as far as Chilham, where we were welcomed by the incumbent, the Rev. Sir Reginald Champion. After a look at the bells and a sorting out of possibles and impossibles, Superlative was chosen and was soon under way, while Muriel and the organising secretary watched the antics of a film unit making a reel of Chilham Square; unfortunately, as this was vision only, the Superlative will not be heard throughout the land. Canterbury was the next stop, and after a late lunch at the County Hotel the city was duly inspected despite the narrow, crowded streets, until at 4 p.m. we were guided to the ringing room by Mr. Unwin. The bells were raised, ropes adjusted, and a start was made for Cambridge Maximus; but after a few leads 'Stand' was called, the tenor man calling for a slower tempo. Perhaps he was tired after his efforts at Tenterden on the previous evening. After 3 hours and 51 minutes 'Stand' was called by the conductor, and we were all very pleased to have rung a peal in this historic Cathedral. Mark Lancefield rang the treble for us, his previous twelve-bell ringing having been limited to rounds, Fred Wilshaw had rung his first of Surprise Maximus, and Arthur Mason had renewed acquaintance with the method on twelve after a lapse of 30 years. It was also the conductor's 100th peal on twelve bells.

On Wednesday morning Wye proved to be a tower well suited for an attempt at Spliced, and all seemed to be going well, but it turned out to be our first failure. The Vicar met us afterwards and proved to be very understanding of the needs of man after a peal attempt. The Bridge Cafe attended to our more substantial needs, and we rolled on to Ashford to ring an almost immaculate peal of London, albeit rather slower than peals rung by the resident ringers. Mr. Everett, who has worked hard for so long to keep ringing going here, met us, and saw that everything was in readiness. Without wasting any time, we hurried back for dinner at headquarters, so that advantage could be taken of Miss Colgate's success in obtaining permission for us to have three-quarters of an hour's ringing at Sevenoaks; after which a pleasant evening was spent in the company of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Collins and Wilfred Williams.

A GOOD PEAL AT QUEX PARK

Thursday morning found us en route for Wingham, where the incumbent met us and provided audience for the preparations. The band then settled down in earnest to ring a peal of 4-Spliced, which was never in doubt, another good peal resulting, while the spares, together with Arthur Mason, went in search of a 'cuppa.' After the peal Arthur piloted us to the Beresford Hotel at Birchington, where he invited us to a splendid lunch, a gesture deeply appreciated by all. Tracks were then made for Quex Park and a hunt made for the Bell Tower, which proved to be rather elusive, until some one spotted the weather vane above the trees! After a look at the bells, and a hunt for o. lamps, the bells were raised, and an attempt made to adjust the sound effects, but this was not very successful, the four sound turrets, which are built right up to the bells, defeating our efforts in that respect. After settling down, a good peal resulted in rather slow time; despite their lightness, these bells are not to be hurried. Mark Lancefield rang his first of Surprise Maximus on an 'inside' bell, and the feat of progressing from rounds on twelve to Surprise Maximus in three days is a record to be proud of. Perhaps it is not too much to expect to hope that this might be the foundation stone of a peal of Surprise Maximus by an entirely resident band, though it will not be easy; it means unity of purpose of an unprecedented order.

Friday was a long trek, and we were not surprised to be late at St. Lawrence-in-Thanes, where Arthur Mason and the local company already had the bells raised for us. Here we were pleased to meet George Butcher on holiday—we had missed him at Northfleet, but this now made amends. Rope adjustments made we were soon going to the tune of Cambridge Royal in the titmuffs, and with that redoubtable pair from Birmingham, George Bannister Fearn and Clifford Landy Barron, on the tenors, quick going was indicated, and the bells ran round in just under three hours. Lunch at the Rising Sun was enlivened by dialogue in Cockney (genuine) and Yorkshire (synthetic) dialects, which proved to be highly amusing.

Leeds was our next stop, and the bells in this huge tower proved to be quite good going, in spite of the fact that it is nearly 50 years since they were restored by Bowell. This tower has no louvres, and it may well have been the first tower to have an acoustic lantern. Two of the ropes here are rather tricky, and it caused amusement when one ringer lost his sally, ultimately finding it behind him! Ralph Edwards joined us here, and after much persuasion kindly consented to ring the tenor, which he did in his usual immaculate style; Tom Cullingworth also joined us, to ring his first peal of Yorkshire Royal, though the organising sec-

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION Northern District at St. Ippolyts

A most enjoyable meeting was held at St. Ippolyts on Saturday, August 28th. The church is dedicated to St. Hippolytus, but the signposts all spell it Ippollitts.

Ringing commenced promptly at 3 o'clock, followed by a service conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. A. A. Symmington.

Tea was provided by Mr. A. Harris, leader of the local band, and Mrs. Harris and helpers, and this once again proved too much for the younger generation, as plates of food were left over.

The Vicar took the chair for the business meeting, when it was proposed to hold the next meeting at Rushden, Sandon and Wallington with the special method, Dunedin Delight. If this goes as well as Kirkstall the District will do well.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances, it was agreed that the joint meeting with the Biggleswade District be held at Hitchin on October 23rd and not October 30th.

The meeting closed with the usual vote of thanks to the Rector and to the ladies who had provided the tea. This was greeted with acclamation.

Further ringing continued until 9 o'clock, when the bells were lowered in peal. Methods rung ranged from rounds to London Surprise. The sum of 17s. 6d. was collected for the General Fund.

Towers represented were Baldock, Biggleswade, Cardington, Clifton, Enfield, Great Wymondley, Hitchin, Henlow, Houghton Conquest, Norton, St. Albans, Silsoe, Stotfold, Walkern, Welwyn and the local tower.

retary thought that by the way he rang he must have rung a dozen.

A BROKEN ROPE AND CLAPPER

For Saturday we had Edenbridge and Westerham. The former's are the peal ringer's dream, soft in the ringing room, quiet outside, just the right weight, and perfect 'go.' All seemed set for another peal of Spiced, but it was not to be, for after two and a half hours of really good ringing the conductor called 'Stand,' with the major portion of a broken rope around his feet. We were all very disappointed, but this is all part of a ringer's day. After an enjoyable lunch at Westerham we made out way to the Parish Church. For this attempt the band had been made a mixed one, being strengthened by Messrs. T. E. Sone, H. E. Audsley and A. G. Mason. Soon Yorkshire was on the way to a steady beat, but this was unlucky, too, for after 50 minutes' ringing a broken clapper put an end to the tour in Kent. Soon we went our devious ways, and the last occupants of the Dormobile found their destination at 2 a.m.

We hope we satisfied our Kentish friends; more than satisfied us, and everything possible for us was done, and probably more would have been done for the asking. Our attempts were spread out over the county, for we did not wish to concentrate on a small area, though that would certainly have meant far less travelling; as it was we covered over a thousand miles, but with the satisfaction of not spoiling the residents' own limited opportunities for peals, hoping to match in this respect the great efforts they made for us. For a week they gave us the freedom of their lovely county, its soft summer air, and; by a miracle, its sunny weather. We shall not easily forget this very English Corner of England. E. J.

EXPLORING THE UNKNOWN

By P. AMOS

CHOOSE the corners of any county and you are almost sure to find towers seldom visited, too wide-of-the-mark for many Guilds' activities, or where lack of such activity has resulted in no progress so far as bell restorations and augmentations are concerned.

In my travels to over 1,000 churches (298 of these with under five bells) I have gleaned much history, and the north corners of Bedfordshire are no exception.

From a point north of Sharnbrook it can be said that no ringing activity exists. Except for the unringable fives at Wymington and Swineshead practically all the churches in the two bulges of North Bedfordshire have three, four, and in some cases two or one bell.

EAYRES OF KETTERING

Let us take first of all the case of Yelden with four bells! When I visited this low broached steeple I found what I had been looking for for a long time—one of the very first bells of the Eayres of Kettering, dated 1717, the year in which it is said they added bell founding to their trade of clock-making. I had previously found one of 1718 at East Farndon, Northants, and many of later dates, but from this bell at Yelden I learned two things; the Eayres had evidently not made up their minds as to how and where to inscribe their names on their first bells. On the bell at East Farndon (the third of their five) is T. E.—the initials of Thomas Eayre sen.—inscribed on the rim of the bell. On the bell at Yelden (the third of their four) is T. and J. Eayre inscribed on the crown, where the cannons join, of all places—the first I had seen with an inscription on top of the bell.

A learned friend of the Archives Committee, from whom I often get requests for bell history, having earlier asked for details of the Eayres' first and last bells, naturally found this, and one other, with which I shall deal later, of immense interest. On the waist of this Yelden bell is inscribed 'October, 1717.' Can this be the first bell of the Eayres? If not, it must certainly be one of their first. The question may be asked, 'Who was the J designated to, John or Joseph?' It is most sure to have been John, who was the uncle of Thomas sen. and of Joseph. Joseph does not come into the picture until 1735.

John, who was a clockmaker with Thomas sen died in 1718, shortly after the Kettering bell foundry was established, and so this Yelden bell must go down in history as being one of the very few which John took a hand in casting. Of the other three bells at Yelden, the second, bearing the inscription of John Taylor, of Loughborough, 1885, is actually a recast of 'a very bad bell' by Bryanus Eldridge (probably from his Coventry foundry rather than his Chertsey foundry) dated 1660.

HUGH WATTS, OF LEICESTER

Both the treble and the tenor are bells by that renowned founder, Hugh Watts, sen., of Leicester—the treble, dated 1617, and the tenor, which is 1610, bearing the letters of the alphabet, A, B, C, D, E, F, G, etc., together with Watts' stamp of three bells and a crown inside a shield. John Taylor fitted all four bells with new framework in oak, and new fittings, in 1885. The tenor is about 6½ cwt. in B flat. They are ringable.

Next we come to Shelton, noted for its iron with the peculiar name—The Cat and Custard Pot. The church here is a gem of antiques in a number of ways. Its antique pews and its old porch straightway catch the eye, as does its low, west-end tower, capable of five or six light bells, but with only three, the tenor again in the region of 6½-7 cwt. This is another of Watts' bells with his favourite inscription, 'Nazareus Rex Ideorum File Dei Miserere Mei,' and 1634, around the rim. The treble, with 'Praise the Lord, 1599,' is possibly one by Francis Watts, predecessor of Hugh. This bell is one of a few which the firm of Barimar, of London, in 1926, tried their skill at scientific welding, like the seventh at St. Mary-le-Tower, Ipswich, and the old tenor at Stoke Goldington, Bucks, which had to be recast two years ago. I must say that this bell at Shelton shows no sign of where it was cracked and welded, and its note is not all that bad as one would imagine.

Of the second, we again come to some more history of the Eayres. Whereas the bell at Yelden is possibly their first casting, the second at Shelton is likely to be their last, for it bears the inscription, 'Joseph Eayre, 1770.' In that year Joseph died, handing on his business at St. Neots to Edward Arnold. The Kettering foundry of Thomas, sen., and later Thomas, jun., ceased early in 1762, when Joseph, who left his brother in 1735 to go to St. Neots, had to be called in to finish the work upon the bells of Lilbourne, Northants, which Thomas, jun., had in hand at the time when he is said to have been bankrupt. Lilbourne's bells (4) were in 1761-62 made five and here again was a bad bell by Eldridge of 1658—the then tenor. It is likely that this second bell at Shelton was originally the same as the tenor—a 1634 bell, and that Joseph Eayre recast it in 1770.

A DEPLORABLE SIGHT

Pertenhall is another North Bedfordshire steeple which holds a gem of history—the first (or one of the first) bells which Thomas Russell, the bell founder of Wootton, Bedfordshire, cast. Russell was in business at Wootton from 1716 to 1745, and this bell, the second of Pertenhall's three, is dated 1716.

Never before have I seen so much rubbish as I witnessed in this steeple—a disgrace to such a fine broached structure (capable of eight bells) with a fine church in picturesque surroundings, out of all keeping with what I found immediately I tried to open the door leading up to the belfry. I had to use force to enter—twigs up the stairs and under the bells enough to fill a three-ton lorry. A letter of mine to the Rector pointing out the danger in the event of fire, brought the reply, 'I blush at the sight of what you point out, but I can get no one interested to move it.'

These three bells are a minor three. The tenor is by the Chandlers, of Drayton Parslow, Bucks, inscribed, 'Chandler made me. 1863.' The second bears the names of the churchwardens as well as Thomas Russell, of Wootton, 1716. It is a disgrace to see this historic bell engulfed in rubbish half way up to the waist, and the treble is even worse—rubbish right up to the crown. This bell's inscription reads, 'Robart Smith, Edward Pecoke, churchwardens. William Hull made me. 1666.' Hull was a London bell founder from 1654 to 1672. The tenor is about 9 cwt.

I hope as the result of a 'straight from the shoulder communication' to the Rector (who also serves Swineshead, with five derelict bells), I have 'planted an acorn' in these two parishes, which we may see grow into an 'oak tree' very soon, despite the fact that Pertenhall has an appeal for £1,620 for roof replacement.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BY FERRY TO RING

Dear Sir.—I have gathered some very happy memories during my 34 years' ringing career, but I think 1954 will prove the most interesting.

Our summer holidays were spent at Salcombe, in South Devon. After the usual investigations concerning ringing facilities, I found that the lovely floodlit tower of Salcombe Parish Church only contained one bell. However, I also found out that East Portlemouth, across the estuary, had a ring of bells.

Out early one Sunday morning, my wife and I got down to the ferry landing stage. Twelve passengers a time is the order, but we were soon across and climbing the very steep lane to the church. It was hard going but well worth the effort to see the marvellous view from the top. I found a very handy six in the 'Tower on the Hill' and was invited to stand in. We pulled up in peal, rang Devon call changes for 25 minutes, and down again in peal.

After an enjoyable service we descended and caught the ferry back to Salcombe, just right for dinner. So very nice, we repeated the excursion the next Sunday. Many thanks to Devon call change ringers.

ARTHUR BIGLEY.

Irthlingborough, Northants.

'A HOSTILE LAND'

Dear Sir.—May I, through the columns of 'The Ringing World,' thank my friend, the Rev. W. H. R. Trehwella, for so ably replying to the anonymous writer who called Cornwall 'a hostile land.' As a 'foreigner' who has spent many happy holidays in the Delectable Duchy I have always found the Cornish a very friendly and hospitable race of people, and wherever I have gone to ring I have always been welcomed, both by the incumbents and the local ringers. If anonymous letters are not permitted, neither should anonymous articles when they are used for abuse.—Yours sincerely,

Long Sutton, Somerset.

'THE NINE TAILORS'

Dear Sir.—On August 24th, practice night at Bowdon, Cheshire, started half an hour earlier than usual, so that neither the ringing practice nor 'The Nine Tailors' should be missed. At eight o'clock prompt, ringing ceased; all sat round a portable wireless set, kindly brought up the tower specially for the occasion by one of the ringers.

The play was enjoyed by all, especially the three leads of Kent Treble Bob which, besides being a joy to listen to, set the example for the rest of the evening's ringing, when the striking showed signs of great improvement.

As the last touch came round, two gentlemen entered the ringing chamber, one an American on a short visit to this country; their interest had been aroused by Dorothy Sayers' play.

It would be interesting to know if any recruits are enlisted through this radio advertisement.—Yours faithfully,

A. J. BROWN.

Bowdon, Cheshire.

A PRIME NUMBER!

Dear Sir.—I would like, through the columns of 'The Ringing World,' to congratulate Pat Cannon on reaching another landmark in his remarkable ringing career. It must give him great satisfaction to have at last rung in his 1,823rd tower. I am sure all your readers look forward to his next achievement. Incidentally, the only thing I can find of interest about 1,823 is that it appears to be a prime number.—Yours faithfully,

RICHARD F. B. SPEED.

Hampton Wick, Surrey.

THE BELLS OF LUNDY

Dear Sir.—Mr. Patrick Chapman's letter in your issue of August 27th is most interesting. 'The Times' appears to have published a report which is not correct. I did not see any account in 'The Daily Telegraph,' which is the paper I usually rely on.

The Editor's note is quite correct; yes, Mr. Editor, quite correct, and I can add little to it except to say that you have put it somewhat mildly.

The tower of the Church of St. Helena is a disgrace, and nothing is done from year to year to remedy the defects, most of which are caused by heavy seas and salt water spray.

I know of no restoration scheme and, if there happened to be one, who would ring, there being a population of about 20 on the Island, and that includes the staff of two light-houses?

More and up-to-date information might be obtained from the priest-in-charge, the Vicar, The Vicarage, Appledore, N. Devon.

I visit the Island most summers, and last year found the board recording the peal rung in 1905 to be in bad condition. I went over again armed with turpentine, linseed oil, etc., and spent some two hours cleaning it up as well as I could, but further attention is required if the board is to be preserved, as I hope it will.

I should have gone over last week had not the steamer developed paddle trouble in the Bristol Channel, but I have every intention of making the voyage within the next few weeks, and then I can give more up-to-date information, although I feel certain there will be little to add to previous reports and the Editor's note.

You may ask, what is this to do with me—someone who is not interested in peals? The answer is, I have the photographs and records (which belonged to the late Canon Coleridge) of the memorable trip to the Island on August 23rd, 1905, when I was a boy of 9 years.

A full account of the journey was published in 'The Bell News' of September 2nd, 1905.

Nearly 50 years have passed by and can we, on the 50th anniversary, which will be August 23rd next year, do something about the peal board and possibly arrange a visit, with hand-bells?

H. J. CANN (Major).

Bridgwater, Somerset.

Dear Sir.—When staying on Lundy Island in 1951 I climbed the tower and found that the bells were unringable and that obviously some hundreds of pounds would be required to put them in order. I was, therefore, astonished to read Mr. Chapman's letter in 'The Ringing World' of August 27th, in which he says 'The Times' reported that they had been rung recently for a wedding. Accordingly I wrote to Mr. F. W. Gade, the manager of the very comfortable hotel on Lundy, to find out what had occurred, and his reply, received August 31st, says that Mr. S. Johns, one of the ringers of Stoke, Hartland, who has been working on Lundy, attached cords to the clappers and showed some amateur ringers how to chime for the wedding.

Unfortunately, it seems extremely unlikely that this ring of bells can ever be rung again in the true sense of the word, as long as it remains on Lundy, firstly because of the prohibitive cost of rehanging, and secondly because the population of Lundy could not provide the necessary ringers. I have, therefore, wondered whether the Ecclesiastical Commissioners have ever considered disposing of them and using the proceeds towards the badly-needed renovation of the church itself.—Yours faithfully,

EDITH LOMAS.

Whimple, near Exeter.

BELLS RUNG IN 1927

Dear Sir.—Like your correspondent, Mr. Patrick Chapman, I was interested to read in the press that the church bells on Lundy were rung for a wedding recently.

I visited this wind-swept island two years ago and recall seeing in the porch of St. Helen's Church the board recording the first, and I presume the only, peal to take place there. It was one of 5,040 Stedman Triples, in which the Rev. F. E. Robinson and Canon G. F. Coleridge took part. The words on this weather-beaten board were just legible, and I think the date was about 1908.

Quoting from the 'Guide Book of Lundy,' by J. Watt Smyrk, 6th Edition (February, 1950), which was the latest in 1952, 'No rector was formally inducted until 1927, when the Bishop of Exeter visited the island with a choir and band of bellringers from Ilfracombe. The ring consisted of eight bells, which have since been taken down because the frequent gales rendered their presence in the tower unsafe.'—Yours sincerely,

D. A. NEWCOMBE.

Cheltenham.

A STATE OF DECAY

Dear Sir.—Some two years ago I was talking about Lundy and its bells to Mrs. Keast, wife of the headmaster of Frensham Heights School, Surrey, whose father is the owner of the island.

She said the church, dedicated to St. Helena, was under the jurisdiction of the Vicar of Appledore, but that a good deal of neglect was apparent in the church and that rats and mice had caused much damage to curtains, kneelers and the back of the organ.

Mrs. Keast did not seem to know much about the bells but I should imagine that if there is such a state of decay in the church itself there would not have been much done in the way of bell restoration.

W. J. PAICE.

Reading.

BELLS WERE CLOCKED

Dear Sir.—I am in a position to be able to answer Mr. Chapman's query ('Ringing World,' August 27th, 1954).

On the occasion of the wedding on Lundy the bells were 'clocked' by a local inhabitant.

The fittings and frame are in an advanced state of decay.

I can assure any would-be 'snatchers' that if there were any chance of ringing these bells, it would have been taken some time ago.—Sincerely yours,

E. J. ROWE.

Tottenham, N.15.

A NATIONAL SERVICE REMEMBRANCE

Dear Sir.—Having recently completed National Service my I, through 'The Ringing World,' express my appreciation for the very pleasant time spent during my 17 months in the Huntingdon area.

During my stay I had the pleasure of participating in several peals, quarters and regular Sunday Service ringing in and around the county, due mainly to the keenness of Harold S. Peacock, that very efficient secretary of the Hunts District of the Ely Diocesan Association, of whom the Branch should be proud. Thank you, also, William J. Ridgman, of Arrington, ringers at Somershall, Holywell, Hemingford Abbots, and many others with whom I had the pleasure of ringing.—Yours sincerely,

NORMAN MALLETT.

Barnstable.

ANSWERS WANTED

We propose to start a column of questions and answers. Those replying should write as concisely as possible.

(1) Who is (or was) E. W. Tipler, and can any of his works be purchased? If so, where?

(2) What was the origin of Erin Triples?

B.B.C. TAKE ACTION

Dear Sir,—I note that in your issue of August 27th Mr. H. J. Sanger complains of the lack of co-operation which the Central Council of Church Bell Ringers has received from the B.B.C. in the matter of information about bell broadcasts.

We have now taken steps to ensure that you are kept as fully informed as possible of all broadcasts of church bells, in connection with broadcast and televised services or otherwise.

We are, of course, most interested to hear that the Council has elected a committee to deal with broadcasting and television and would like to assure you of our desire to give all the help that we can.—Yours faithfully,

F. L. COBB,
Publicity Officer.

ROCHESTER CATHEDRAL BAND

Dear Sir,—Through the columns of 'The Ringing World' I should like to express my regret to Mr. Cyril Jarrett, of Chatham, and Mr. Trevor Cross, of Rainham, that owing to the bad striking of the Ringing Master and myself at Rochester Cathedral they are unable to attend any ringing there.

The statement was made to the secretary of the Cathedral Company after a practice at St. Mary's, Chatham, on August 25th.

After 50 years at Chatham and 32 years at Rochester. I would be glad of some advice on the matter. I am not anxious to stand in any peals he may arrange. The Dean of Rochester is the deciding factor for granting permission to use the bells.—Fraternally yours,

CHARLES NORRIS,

Steeplekeeper, Rochester Cathedral.
Chatham.

'WINCHESTER SURPRISE'

Dear Sir,—No doubt Mr. Sedgley will be told that the method of Royal he suggests is entirely a different method from the Major, which is quite true. Should the author of Major and Royal, as published in 'The Ringing World,' be one and the same person, I beg to tell him; or her, that judged by the mathematical progression of Double Bob Major the Royal given contains only 20 round blocks related to the Major, the first and last ten rows of the Royal.

Double Bob has a mathematical progression in its round blocks of 3412—4321 to infinity.

I have extensions to Royal and Maximus, with a different lead head, of Winchester Major with the same progression as Double Bob!—Yours faithfully,
GEORGE BAKER
Brighton.

RINGING IN CUMBERLAND AND WESTMORLAND

Dear Sir,—The author of the above article may be interested to know that the first peal to be rung in the county of Westmorland was at Kendal in 1796.

From 1796 until 1894 exactly 12 peals of Triples and one of Caters were rung at this tower by local bands.

The 1796 peal and several others are recorded on boards in the ringing room, and all these boards are in excellent condition.—Yours, etc.,
EDWIN JENNINGS.

Braintree.

NOMENCLATURE!

Dear Sir,—I am not a dog breeder, but in case I should decide to become one later, I have registered the name 'Treblebob' at the Kennel Club for my exclusive use. My present cocker spaniel, although generally known as Sally Ann, rejoices in the exotic official name of 'Lady Vega of Treblebob.'

Unlike Miss Churchill, nobody has yet asked me what it means, as not many people know.—Yours sincerely,
V. T. O. BOASE.
Wallasey, Cheshire.

WEDDINGS

Mr. A. J. L. Bradshaw—Miss J. J. Black

The wedding took place at Geddington Parish Church on Saturday, Aug. 28th, of Mr. Arnold James Lewis Bradshaw, only son of Mrs. Bradshaw, of Kettering, to Miss Jennifer Jean Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Black, of Geddington.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was attended by Miss B. Bradshaw and Miss M. Baxter. There were two child train bearers—Miss Linda Glennis and Master D. Hearn.

The bride is a Sunday School teacher and a bellringer at Geddington, and the bells were rung as they left the church by her fellow ringers. After the reception at the Village Hall a quarter peal was rung and is recorded on page 583.

On returning from their honeymoon at Penzance they will reside at 89, Midland Road, Wellingborough.

Mr. J. D. Clarke—Miss P. C. Martin

At Wharton-in-the-Vale Church, Notts, on Saturday, August 28th, the wedding took place of Mr. John David Clarke, of Wharton, and Miss Pamela C. Martin, of Stapleford. The bridegroom is a prominent member of the local band, and his bride is learning to ring. Following local custom, the pair were rung both 'in' and 'out' of church, the ropes being manned by the local band and Nottingham friends.

Ringers also officiated as best man (Mr. Allan Simpson) and chief bridesmaid (Miss Joan E. Hoodless) and the former complimented the ringers on their striking both before and after the ceremony.

Guests at the reception, numbering 100, sat down to a bountiful repast. After the toasts, the guests were delighted to hear the handbells rung by the chief bridesmaid, best man and two Nottingham ringers, all of whom, following the departure of the bridal couple to Bourne-mouth for their honeymoon, finished off a good day by taking part in a peal of Stedman Triples at Daybrook as a parting send-off to their happy friends.

Rev. J. G. M. Scott—Miss C. A. Isles

A member of the Central Council representing the Guild of Devonshire Ringers, the Rev. John Gilbert Mortimer Scott, of St. Thomas', Exeter, was married at the beautiful new Church of All Saints, Hanworth, Middlesex, on August 26th to Miss Claire Alice Isles, of Hanworth.

The bridegroom's father, the Rev. John Mortimer Scott, officiated at the wedding service, which included the hymn 'Father, hear the prayer we offer' sung as a processional with the entry of the bride, who was attended by her sister. Psalm 67 was sung, and following the Benediction, the hymn, 'May the grace of Christ our Saviour.'

A celebration of the Holy Communion to the setting of Merbecke followed with the Rev. Mr. Shergold as celebrant. During the signing of the register the chorale prelude, 'Sleepers, Wake!' (J. S. Bach) was rendered and the Bourree from the 'Water Music' (Handel) was played by the organist as a recessional. Mr. H. Reed, of Exeter, was best man.

As there is only one bell at All Saints' Church ringers could not make their usual contribution to the service, but a peal in honour of the event was rung at Exeter.

It is understood that the bridegroom has accepted the appointment of priest-in-charge of Wobborough, near Newton Abbot.

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION

Bolton Branch at Newchurch

For some time now Bolton Branch of the Lancashire Association have enjoyed successful meetings and, as in other matters, there are outstanding features, the meeting at Newchurch, near Warrington, on August 28th was in this category.

The church, rebuilt on the site of an old church, is not dedicated to a patron saint. It has a low tower with eight very good bells and a ringing chamber like a parlour. The walls are beautifully panelled in oak and the floor carpeted.

There was a large attendance, both sexes, very young and not so young. There were visitors from the neighbouring branches, College Youths, Cumberlands. Three Guilds were represented, viz., Manchester and London Universities and Chester.

The early arrivals rang quite a number of Minor methods, followed by Grandsire, Stedman and Erin Triples, and in the Major methods were Plain Bob, Kent Treble Bob, Spliced Kent and Oxford Treble Bob, Double Norwich, Cambridge, Superlative, Bristol and London Surprise.

The striking in the higher methods was of a very high order, which drew out many complimentary remarks. This striking must have created in the minds of the learners something which they hope to achieve. There was something for everyone, every request was fulfilled, the learners got just as much as the more accomplished. Nobody envied the Ringing Master, Peter Crook, his job.

A splendid tea was provided by the Parochial Church Council, and all received a cordial welcome from the Rector, who himself is a pupil in the art.

A vote of thanks was accorded to all who had helped to make the meeting a success, also for providing and serving the food.

Members were reminded that a new ring of bells will be dedicated at 3 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 11th, at St. John's, Farnworth, nr. Bolton.

OBITUARY

DR. F. C. EELES

Reference was made in our last issue to the death of Dr. Francis Carolus Eeles, of Earlharn, Dunster, who died at the age of 78, on August 17th, the day before his resignation from the secretaryship of the Central Council for the Care of Churches was due to take effect.

In 1917 Dr. Eeles was appointed hon. secretary to the Central Council for the Care of Churches, and two years later became full-time paid secretary. In conjunction with Sir Cecil Harcourt and others he was the creator of the system of Diocesan Advisory Committees for the Care of Churches, which in 1938 were given statutory authority.

During the 37 years he was secretary he had inspected and advised on the restoration or maintenance of some 10,000 churches, cathedrals and other buildings. In the early months of the last war one of the responsibilities that fell upon Dr. Eeles was to arrange safe storage in Somerset of London church treasures of historic or artistic importance. As the result innumerable lorry loads of such objects were sent. These ranged from church bells, which were sent to Cleve Abbey, to precious artistic fittings and important archives, the latter being stored at Earlharn.

Another war-time task of Dr. Eeles was to build up on systematic lines a collection of photographs, plans, sketches, etc., and other records of the churches of the country, so that in the event of any of them being damaged or destroyed by enemy action, they could be completely restored. This collection came to 170,000 files and was kept in safe custody at Earlharn and Dunster Priory.

Dr. Eeles was a noted antiquarian. The degrees of D.Litt. of Oxford University and LL.D., of St. Andrew's University had been conferred upon him and he was appointed an O.B.E. in the Birthday Honours of 1938.

A TRIBUTE

Dr. Francis C. Eeles had a life-long interest in church bells. Almost his earliest publication was 'The Church Bells of Kincardineshire' in 1897, and in 1913 he added an equally careful and meticulous account of 'The Church Bells of Linlithgowshire.' At his death he had a great deal of material in hand towards listing the bells of other Scottish counties which he longed to complete. However, by the time the Linlithgowshire inventory was published he had moved South, and was working in the Victoria and Albert Museum. He joined with the late H. B. Walters, perhaps the greatest bell-antiquary we have had in this country, in making a MSS inventory of the church bells of Middlesex, which never found publication, and must still be in existence somewhere. His love of church bells was part of a wide interest in everything to do with churches and their furniture. During the first war he became hon. secretary of the Central Council for the Protection of Churches, of which he was also a founder, and through it gradually brought into existence the Diocesan Advisory Committees for the Care of Churches which now exist in 42 of the English and several of the Welsh Dioceses, as well as, in a rather different form, in Scotland. In 1924 he was appointed secretary. Through this system he strove for 38 years to safeguard all that was best worth preserving in our churches, the ancient and beautiful goods they contain, and the good old customs connected with them. Old ringing customs especially interested him, and he always encouraged their continuance.

Dr. Eeles knew the bells of most of the principal founders by their marks and characteristics to a remarkable degree, and could never resist climbing about in the belfry of any church he was visiting, even towards the end of his life when severely hampered by a deformed spine. The preservation of old bells he fought hard to enforce, and at his instigation the Central Council passed some strong resolutions against the recasting of bells earlier than 1750, scrapping of old and interesting wooden frames if they could be in any way preserved and kept in use, and more especially against the mockery of mechanical bell-substitutes. Nothing made him more angry than a parish whose ringers did not know the date, the founder and the historic value of their own bells, or a bell founder who failed to state these facts in a specification for recasting. Dr. Eeles was awarded the O.B.E. for his work on the care of churches, and its great value was also recognised by two honorary degrees of Doctors of Letters from Lambeth, and Doctor of Laws from St. Andrew's for his work in Scotland.

It was very appropriate that after the funeral on Aug. 20th the Dunster ringers should pay their tribute by ringing a half-muffled peal on the bells of St. George's Church, where Dr. Eeles frequently assisted in the Sunday services until ill-health prevented him from doing so.

MR. HERBERT JERMY

Survivors of the ringing company of the 'blitzed' Church of St. Nicholas, Great Yarmouth, lost one of their stalwarts when Mr. Herbert Jermy died on August 20th, aged 70 years.

A native of Bungay, Suffolk, he moved to Yarmouth in 1920 and became a member of St. Nicholas' band in the following year. He had taken part in nine peals for the Norwich Diocesan Association.

Never aspiring to great ringing heights, Herbert Jermy was a devoted Sunday service ringer and although he invariably 'blew the tenor' from Doubles to Cinques, he could occasionally on practice nights be persuaded to hunt the treble. When he was 'on the box' for a touch or a peal the rest of the band knew the 30½ cwt. tenor would set the pace with a sure and measured beat.

It was, however, as steeplekeeper, which he was in every sense of the word, that he was perhaps best known and truly found his mark. Not many Saturday afternoons passed without his ascending the tower to attend to one or other of the several maintenance tasks in which he took a just pride.

His ringing career ceased with the war-time ban, and when his charges were destroyed in June, 1942, he felt it keenly and after the war he could not be prevailed upon to ring elsewhere, although he read 'The Ringing World' to the last.

So passed another faithful servant of the Church and of the Exercise. J. G. W. H.

MR. ALBERT EDWARD NORMAN

The announcement in 'The Ringing World' of the death of Mr. Albert Edward Norman, of Worcester, at the age of 52 years, came as an unexpected shock to his many friends in the Midlands, particularly to those in Birmingham.

'Bert' or 'The Pup,' as he was familiarly called, passed away suddenly early on July 24th, he having been at work until his usual time the previous day. During the night he complained of feeling unwell. This he thought was indigestion. He arose early, as usual, and was found dead in his chair by his wife. The cause of death was coronary thrombosis.

A man of fine physique, Mr. Norman was a carpenter by trade and came to Birmingham from Swindon early in 1917. He joined the St. Martin's Guild with whom he rang many peals on tower- and handbells. The deepest sympathy of his friends is extended to his widow, son, daughter, daughter-in-law and his aged parents, left to mourn his loss.

Bert was a splendid ringer and conductor, equally at home in the tower at the light or heavy end, and a very reliable handbell ringer on any pair of bells. His first peal, Stedman Triples, in December, 1917, was followed by many on eight, ten and twelve bells. Among them he rang 11-12 in the famous peal on handbells, Stedman Sextuples, by the St. Martin's Guild on June 24th, 1922, this being the first peal ever rung on 14 bells. His 100th peal, Stedman Cinques, on handbells, he conducted from 3-4 on his 21st birthday, April 5th, 1923. Others of his peals included the first on the augmented 12 bells of Exeter Cathedral rung by the Guild on July 5th, 1924, the 'silent' peal of Stedman Cinques rung by the Guild on handbells when the position for the first five pairs of bells was drawn for out of the 'hat' (December 15th, 1933) and a 'silent' peal of Stedman Triples on tower bells at Erdington on October 23rd, 1938.

In 1939 Mr. Norman left Birmingham for Worcester and only rang two more peals—Stedman Cinques at Walsall and Evesham. His list of peals totals 178 on tower- and handbells in a variety of methods, and is of interest:—

Tower bells:—

Triples.—Grandsire 6, Stedman 30 (conducted 6 and one non-conducted).

Major.—Plain Bob 6, Double Norwich 9 (3), Kent Treble Bob 3 (1), Cambridge 4 (1), London 1, Bristol 1 (1).

Caters.—Grandsire 6 (4), Stedman 8 (1).

Royal.—Kent Treble Bob 1, Cambridge 6 (1).

Cinques.—Grandsire 1 (1), Stedman 39 (5).

Maximus.—Cambridge 6.

Total.—127 (conducted 24 and one non-conducted).

Handbells:—

Triples: Stedman 1. Caters: Grandsire 1, Stedman 5 (1). Royal: Kent Treble Bob 1. Cinques: Stedman 41 (7 and one non-conducted). Maximus: Kent Treble Bob 1. Sextuples: Stedman 1.

Total.—51 (conducted 8 and one non-conducted).

MR. S. HOOPER

We regret to record the death of Mr. Sidney Hooper at the age of 62. He was a lifelong ringer at St. Andrew's Church, Stratton, Cornwall. Although not a change ringer, he was most regular at all practices and Sunday ringing.

Mr. Hooper was first taken ill when pulling the tenor on Sunday, August 22nd, and died on the following Wednesday morning. A half-muffled peal was rung immediately after the burial service. His fellow ringers acting as bearers. The Marhamchurch captain (Mr. J. Hicks) was represented by his son, Mr. A. Hicks.

Norwich Diocesan Association

A very enjoyable afternoon and evening were spent at St. Nicholas' Church, Dersingham, on August 29th, when 30 members of the Western Branch, including the vice-president, branch chairman, ringing master and secretary, met to hold the second quarterly meeting. The numbers were a little low, as the fine weather found many ringers busy in the harvest field.

Divine service was conducted by the Rector of Dersingham (the Rev. Mr. Tippen). Tea was served in the Church Rooms.

At the business meeting four life members and one hon. member were elected. An interim meeting is to be held at Holme Hale on Saturday, October 2nd, and the next quarterly meeting at North Creake on November 27th.

THE CORNWALL AND DEVON BORDER

Combined Outing Amongst the 'Sixes'

At 10 a.m. on August Bank Holiday a party of ringers, representing the counties of Cornwall, Devon, Dorset and Somerset, converged on Davidstow in Cornwall for the start of a day's outing. A thick drizzle prevailed everywhere, and although it continued throughout the day with varying intensity, the spirits of the party were in no way damped.

Davidstow's (tenor 9 cwt.) are quite a nice ring, but the protective grease on the ropes, both above and below the sallics, made handling somewhat awkward. Lancaster (9½ cwt.) were a real job, and a touch of Siedmah Doubles here was the fastest the writer has ever taken part in, about 36 per minute! Over into Devon for the next tower, North Petherwyn (9 cwt.), where a 'demonstration' course of Cambridge was rung.

After a short break for refreshments, back into Cornwall again to Lawhiton (9 cwt.) and Lezant (7 cwt. 3 qr. 25 lb.), both with nice going bells, although at the former a wall monument was so placed as to be liable to make an impression on the ringer of the 5th! Over again into Devon to Bradstone (7 cwt.), a lonely church with only a farm as a neighbour. Then to Kelly (8 cwt.), where once the Rev. Maitland Kelly, a pioneer of change-ringing, was incumbent. The bells go well, but there is so much rope rattle that one looked apprehensively at a tablet on the wall which stated that the tower had at one time collapsed, but the party left the church intact!

Milton Abbot was the next tower and, although the tenor is only 13 cwt., the bells are none too easy to ring. This was officially the last tower of the day, but it is rumoured that some of the band went back into Cornwall for further ringing at St. Stephen's-by-Launceston.

During the day 18 methods were rung (nine each of Doubles and Minor), including a mystery Minor method by Alan Carveth and Co. Despite the weather, the outing was conspicuous for the good humour and friendship of the party and also for the standard of striking, particularly the rises and falls. Best thanks are due to all incumbents, local ringers, etc., who helped to make such a happy time.

ST. JOHN'S, LOUGHTON, OUTING

On August 21st ringers of St. John's, Loughton, with their wives and friends, had an enjoyable outing into Kent. The first stop was Aylesford, then on to Marden, where there is an excellent example of cleanliness in the ringing chamber.

After lunch at Hawkhurst the badly bomb damaged church of St. Lawrence was visited. This might almost be called a tower without a church. Next came Goudhurst, then Hadlow and finally Wrotham, where we more than satisfied our appetites at tea before visiting the church. This was voted the best ring of bells of the day.

Methods rung were Grandsire, Stedman, Kent Treble Bob and Plain Bob.
