 OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

St. John The Baptist Church, Danbury, Essex

By JOE E. G. ROAST

THE Parish Church of St. John the Baptist, Danbury, standing 365 feet above sea level and situated at the centre of a rapidly expanding parish can account for a long and varied ringing history dating back to the reign of Elizabeth I. Much research into these early years has been undertaken by Peter Came and we are indebted to him for his work in this dirction.
The first known bell was by Robert Mot, of Whitechapel, and inscribed "Robertus Motus Fecit Me 1575," This was recast by C. and G. Mears in 1856 and eventually became the 3rd to the ring of six. The accounts of an ancient charity reveal that there were at least four bells in the tower by 1603, when frequent mention is made of "ye great bell" and also the third bell. In 1622 Miles Graye cast the tenor and another bell, possibly using metal from some of the existing bells, and in 1638 there were five bells in the tower. Miles Graye also cast the fourth of the old six in 1645, and as no entry in shown in the accounts for that year it seems likely that this was a recasting of a faulty 1622 bell.
Thomas Gardiner recast two of the bells in 1759 and these became the 2nd and 5th of the six. By 1885 the bells and fitlings were in a very dilapidated condition, and restoration work was entrusted to Alfred Bowell, of Ipswich. This proved satisfactory until 1908 , when the bells were rehung by Warners. A treble was added in 1834, augmenting the ring to six, and this work was carried out by Mears and Stainbank, who rehung the back five on ball bearings in 1952.

CHANGE RINGING INTRODUCED

Before 1934 little progress in method ringing had been made although it is known that after the 1885 restoration tne curate, the Rev. Mr. Hay, was instrumental in obtaining the services of an instructor (probably William Lincoln, of Writtle) and a competent change ringing band was established. Various changes in this band took place until ringing eventually ceased in 1912. William Spokes trained a band of ladies in 1916 and was responsible for teaching numerous ringers during the '20's. A reasonable standard was maintained until the sixth belj was added, when William Burgess, an accomplished ringer from Suffolk, look over as instructor of the band. The first local band peal in two methods was rung in June, 1935, and progress in method ringing continued until the outbreak of war.
For the next ten years there was very little ringing until early in 1950, when the last two surviving members of the pre-war band, Dick and Erme Roast, started teaching a new and youthful band. Progress was slow at tirst and a few more ready made" ringers would have been a great help but following the break-through into change ringing rapid strides were made, until in 1954 a local band peal enabled the two instructors to ring their first peal in seven methods.

STRIKING CHAMPIONS THREE YEARS

Method ringing and striking standards continued to improve, the latter witnessed by Danbury winning the Essex Association striking competition trophy in 1961, 1963 and 1964.
In 1960 the first step towards restoration was taken when the Parochial Church Council opened an "Eight Bells Fund." Since 1950 the ringers have toured the village annually during the Christmas season with handbells and coilected well over $£ 1,000$ for various charities and appeals. After 1960 a proportion of the collections was deposited in the "Eight Bells Fund" until in May, 1965, competitive estimates were obtained for the instalation of a new metal frame, recastng the six bells and adding two trebles to complete the octave. Parochial discussion dragged on for nearly two years until in March, 1967. revised estimates were obtained from the bellfounders. The anticipated price increase, together with a generous offer by Mrs. Hopkirk to donate the new trebles in memory of her late husband, Rector of Danbury from 1936 to 1960, prompted the Parochial Church Council into action, and within two months an order had been placed with Mears and Stainbank for the complete scheme.

NEW EIGHT DEDICATED.

On June 21st the bells were lowered and a large party of parishioners saw the eight bells cast at Whitechapel on August 16th. Harry Parkes and Arthur Lewry returned in early November and after two weeks the work was complete. A large congregation filled the church on December 10 th for the dedication by the Archdeacon of Southend and at the conclusion of the service a short touch was rung by younger members of the local band. Our grateful thanks are extended to all who have contributed to the success of this venture, but especially to Mrs. Hopkirk as donor of the two treble bells, Mr F. E. Collins, of the Central Council Towers and Belfries Committee, for his detailed inspection, comprehensive report and numerous recommendations so essential to the smooth running of the scheme, and last but not least to Harry Parkes, Arthur Lewry and the bellfounders for an excellent piece of work.
Details of the bells are as follows:-
Treble. Ex domo Mary Hopkirk, 1967. Mears, 1967, London. Dia. 234 in.; Note A flat; Weight 3 cwt .

The back six bells recast and complete ring hung in a new cast iron frame.

FIRST HANDBELL PEAL OF GRANDSIRE CATERS

Dear Sir,-The letter from Mr. Rumens (page 915), in which he mentions a peal board recording a handbell peal of Grandsire Caters in 1863, 14 years carlier than one at York Minster, which was said to be the first on handbelis, revives a question discussed in your columns ten years ago.
"In your issue of February 21st, 1958, "H. N. P." referred to a plaque on the wali of the London Apprentice, Isleworth, recording a 5,093 of Grandsire Caters on handbells rung there in 1848. It so happened that I had about that time been reading some correspondence in "The Bell News" "o Novem-ber-December, 1900, from which it seems clear that the Isleworth peal and the Walthamstow peal were lapped. Perhaps it may be of interest to repeat part of a letter of mine, which appeared a few weeks after "H. N. P." had written :-
"Lapping must have been a favourite pastime years ago. [In "The Bell News" correspondencel, was the following letter from Frederick W. Thornton, of Greenwich:
"It is evident that half a century ago lapping was much thought of at St. Alfege's Greenwich ..for stowed away in a loft above our ringing chamber are several boards recording "true and complete" peals of Grandsire Caters by the Eastern Scholars. Until recently a similar tablet was to be seen exhibited in the bar of a tavern midway between Greenwich and Lewisham, rung on the premises in 1848.
"It is clear that quite a number of such peals were accomplished, for in a leading article (December 1 st , 1900), the Editor commented:

- The elders among the Exercise will not have forgotten the publication of records of such displays of skill in the sporting papers. Many of them will remember those impudent persons who put the word "Professor " before their names when sending these worthless accounts of "peal-lapping." And we have our doubts whether all the peals said in these early days to have been rung "in hand" were so rung.' "
Mr. Rumens, whose ringing career goes back a long way, may recall that the phrase always used in "The Bell "News " in reports of handbell peals was " on handbells relained in hand," obviously to differentiate between these and " lapped" peals. Harvey Reeves, the Editor, was, of zourse, more entitled than we are to judge the merits of the latter, but I must confess a certain admiration for such performances. I wonder how far most of us who feel reasonably at home with a pair of handbells would get if we tried lapping seriously? Not very far, I suspect, without a lot of practice.

The Mr. Joseph Waghorn whom Mr. Rumens remembers could have been the J. Waghorn mentioned on the Walthamstow board. I also met him, at one of Gillett and Johnston's gatherings at Croydon, about 1931, when he was 88, so that in 1863 he would have been 20 years old. (Incidentally, be rang his first peal for the death of the Prince Consort in 1861.) But frankly I would think it unlikely.

And finally I am reminded by my father that Thomas Dixon, who called the "genuine" handbell peal at York in 1877, migrated 10 North Kent not long afterwards. He called the second peal on Crayford bells (Kent Treble Bob) for the College Youths the following year and a peal of Grandsire Triples at Darford for the same Society in 1879, Yours faithfully, Crayford, Kent.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY BELLS - A Closed Shop

Deat Sir,-1 am writing to ask if any of your readers can enlighten me as to the procedure of ringing in Lundon and why it should be so ditierent from any wher part of the country, indeed perhaps 1 should say the world.
For the past ten years I have organised ringing outings for my team from Longparish. We have normally visited oniy six-bell towers and the occasional eight; always there has been a welcome for us. We have now gathered in a few friends from the area and have gone in for more ambitious towers and in the past year have visited Taunton, Exeter (including the Cathedral), Staffurd and Liverpool (again the Cathedral) and in all towers have been given a very warm welcome.
My suggestion to visit London, with Westminster Abbey as our main attraction, was met with a word of warning by one of, my close friends. "You won't get those," he said. but as he had said the same about Exeter and Liverpool Cathedrals I went ahead as planned in hiring our mini-bus and organising the party.

Imagine my surprise when back came the reply © Our bells are only rung on special occasions and by our own team of ringers." The question J ask is why? There are regular services held there; it is the leadink place of worship in the country; Kings and Queens are crowned in the Abbey; why then should not the bells be rung for Sunday service to call the faithful to worship? Why only for special occasions, when the Queen has ber olficlal birthday or an important statesman is buried when the bells are heard on our wireless and television sets throughout the world?
Should this be a lown hall or a clvic municipal building such as at Manchester or Liverpool one might understand the situation, but even at these two places visitors are allowed to join in the ringing.
To go back to the letter of reply-it states "If ringing were allowed other than on these special occasions, people near the Abbey would wonder why." What a ridiculous statement to make. We are constantly reminded in sermons by our clergy and in our own "Ringing World "that the purpose of our bells is to call people to worship and to let those who do not come know that there is a service going on.
With St. Margaret's, Westminster, a wellknown ten-bell tower, only a stonesthrow away and recently mistaken by our own District secrefary, when hearing the bells ringing, as coming from the Abbey, who is there likely to query the ringing of eight bells on a Saturday as anything out of the ordinary? Only, possibly, ringers who have been refused permission 10 ring on similar grounds.
I took the precaution of asking my friend a few more questions about Westminster Abbey before writing this letter and can now understand why he was so sure 1 would be refused. He told mee that only tiree cumes since the war have the rules been relaxed to allow visitors to ring, and this was in connection with the gouth celebrations of the AbDey, when bands fiom the Cumberiands and the Middlesex Association were allowed a quarter peal attempt, as well as a band from the Ancient Society of College Youths, who do not belong to the Abbey band.
This obviously did not apply to the other two Guilds that operate in Lundon towersthe Surrey Association and the London County Association-but perhaps there were insulficient special occasions to warrant more quarter peal attempts.
However, the purpose of this letter is not to criticise the Abbey authorities, but simply to ask why when all other church bells are rung for one purpose, and one purpose only, and Christian fellowship is practised in belfries all over the world, the Westminster Abbey ringers have a different code and, backed oy the Dean, they have allowed this state of affairs to exist for so many years.

I challenge somebody to give me a justifiable reason for such actions and in the absence of their doing so can only assume it is tho selfish wish of those in authority at the Abbey and no: the majority of church bell ringers in London.-Yours faithfully,

FRANK TONGE.
Longparish, Hants.

A REPRESENTATIVE CALLS

By PHILIP GRAY

Central Council Representative, A.N.Z.A.B.
Representing an Association at the other end of the earth has its problems. If I did not have the sort of job that I do, I would be an unremembered name to my constituents and they would be little to me but names either. I visited Australia for a couple of weeks in November and in between an overfull business programme did manage to register a few impressions of the current state of ringing in Sydney and Melbourne.
1 was last in Sydney in March, 1965, and since then two important things have happened: the Sydney Opera House has flowered like a gracious water lily at the harbour's edge and the St. Mary's band have learned to ring Bristol. Both could still do with a little more polish but my admiration is unbounded for each achievement . . . The bells of St. Andrew's Cathedral, which I last saw running into a mould in the bell foundry, are adding a new dimension of "go." tone and quantity to Sydney ringing. Bill Rowe's young team there are not yet at the Bristol stage but they ack nothing in numbers and keenness and I have little doubt that before long a good band will be established there, St. Andrew's has a fine ring and I can testify to the fact that the bells are easier to ring on a day when the thermometer reaches 90 degrees than most others in Sydney. . . . No proposal is ever made by a Sydney ringer on any subject without immediately evoking a counter-proposal-or two-and 1 am most grateful that the private opinions of the merits of the various Sydney beaches were swallowed sufficiently to enable their Pommie representative to have a couple of swims.
Since 1 was last in Australia, ringing has been subjected to the Lock treatment in Great Adventure II. The stimulus this has given to the more adventurous method ringing was again demonstrated to me the following Sunday morning in Melbourne. The nonchalant ease with which Siedman Caters was poured out into Flinders Street and over the neonspangled Young and Jackson's made me wonder for a moment whether I was in Melbourne or still in Bristol; in Bristol surely someone would at least have gone in the wrong way © Oh, we ring Stedman Caters for service every Sunday." "In my day," the Ancient Traveller replied, "we just said 'Go next time,' and everybody knew it was Grandsire." The Cathedral in Melbourne now looks very fine with its clean stonework and opposed by two enormous glass and concrete office slabs squatting on top of Princes Bridge Station.

Whether it is the effect on me of these glass and concrete reflectors, the new stonework, the Stedman Caters or the sunshine 1 do not know, but I do think that the Melbourne 12 are now amongst the finest 12 's in existence. It will not be long before they have a band to ring Stedman Cinques on them in a way that does them justice. My other Melbourne memory is of my feelings on producing Sterling travellers' cheques to pay a hotel bill and being told that they had just been devalued. I almost felt like joining them instead of representing them.
Possibly because they realised that in the future it would cost them less to send me to the Central Council, my constituents were very kind to me. . They arranged special ringing to fit in with my pecular working and travelling times. ... They drove me all over the place in their cars: . . . They fed me on fish and chips, beer, stew and melon, fish and chips, beer and cashew nuts. .. They pretended they had read my Ceniral Council reports. .. They asked me to convey greetings $10^{\circ}$ all their many ringing friends in England. This, as their representative, 1 most gladly do.
Happily there are, as usual, Australians expecting to come to England soon. In 1968 Tom Goodyer. Margaret Watson and Helen Henderson and probably some others will be here. They will be most welcome.

GEDDINGTON, NORTHANIS, - On Dec. 10th, 1.260 Douoks (Plain Bob and Grandsire): M. A. Coleman (cond.) 1, J C. Mitchell 2, W. Lewis 3, J. Mircbell 4. C. N. Stepbenson s.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

St. Albans District

The last District meeting of 1967 was held at Sandridge on December 16th. During the afternoon Welis, Fulbeck and London were some of the methods rung on the six. A service had been arranged for 4.30 bur in the absence of the vicar ringing continued until $4.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. Tea was then had in the Village Hall, rather less members than usual sitting down.
At the business meeting Mr. Gerald Penney was elected to the chair. The Misses Eliza beth Barber and Ann Turnbull, of St. Albans Abbey, were transferred from probationary to full membership of the District. The belfry election of Howard Smith was ratified.
The acting secretary, Robert Hardy, announced that a profit of $£ 11$ had been made on the Distric: social on Docember 2nd. It was agreed it had been a successful evening. well supported by the younger members. Discussion tollowed on which fund to put the profit in and it was finally decided to put it all in the Central Council Fund.
Under forthcoming events, Rober Hardy said that a visit had been arranged to the TV studios at Elstree for a live recording on January 2nd; a coach had been laid on for the evening.
Back on the ringing side, a District practice has been arranged for Wheathampstead on Wednesday, January 10th. The next District meeting is the annual mecting at Hatfield; please let us have good suppor from all members.
A vole of thanks went to the Vicar for having us, the Sandridge ringers and Trevor Hawkins for the tea, and the meeting was then closed.

CHRISTMAS DAY BELLS

Dear Sir,-1 would like, through "The Ringing World," to extend my gratitude and congratulations to Exeter Cathedral ringers on their ringing on Christmas morning, also remembering their kindness not only to myself but to all ringers who visit the Cathedral belfry on practice nights. 1 also desire to thank ringers at the other towers, who contributed to make a very enjoyable and much looked forward to programme.-Yours sincerely, Barton Fleming, Barnstaple.

Letters to the Editor

DUWN ST. MARY

Dear Sir,-Your photograph and article on Down St. Mary awoke memories. About 15 years ago my brother-in-law was in charge of a school at Bow, Devon. I spent quite a few weck-ends at Bow and soon got to know the local ringers and joined in their call change ringing. They rold me of the prowess of the Down St. Mary band.
On Easter morning, with my son, John, I wasked over to Down Si. Mary. After looking over the church and the grand array of trophies and certificates that overflowed from the tower into the church, we waited for the ringers. We tord them that we had some experience in call change ringing and we were invited to stand in. So we raised the bells, rang the set changes and lowered. We prepared to take our leave but they would have none of it. They insisted, as did the lads outside the church, so we rang up to service time. What a grand lot of chaps, and how proud we were that we could hold our own in such a company.

It was after ringing at Exeter Cathedral that a Reverend (1 think it was John Scott) asked me to stand in for him in a peal attempt at Heavitree. To my surprise, Bill Theobald was in the band and was ably conducted by the late Maurice Atkins. We rang an excellent peal on the noble Heavitree bells. We adjourned to the Brewery Tap, I missed the bus, and finally landed home at 3 a.m.

I think it has gone down in local folklore. It certainly hit the local paper of the local bus inspector, who missed the weekly bus ! Yes, indeed, they are a proud lot of lads in the West Country.-Yours faithfully,
J. A. HALES.

Upper Clapton, E.

PHOTOGRAPHS WANTED

Dear Sir.-I am anxious to obtain photographs or picture posicards of a number of churches at which I have rung peals to be inserted opposite the peal record in my personal peal took If any reader has a spare photo of any of the following churches and cares to send it on to me I will gladly forward cost of photo and postage, with my grateful thanks:-
Westham, Sussex: Brentford, St. Lawrence, Middx.: Per:y Barr, St. John, Birmingham ; Erith, St. John Baptist, Kent; Privett, Hants; Hawkley, Hants; Lincoln, St. Botolph; Brasted, Kent; Gravesend, St. George, Kent ; Shipbourne, Kent; Northifeet. Kent; Hythe, Kent: Hoar Cross, Stafts; Stanford-le-Hope, Essex.-Yours sincerely,

St. James' House,
36. Nelson Road South,

Great Yarmouth, Norfolk.

POSSIBLY FAISE

Dear Sir ,-A peal of Apsley Surprise Major is reported ("Ringing World". November 24 h , page 861) to have been composed by C. H. Middleton. If the composition is that traditionally rung to Cambridge Surprise Major then 1 regret to say it is false if rung 10 Apsley Surprise Major.-Yours faithfully,

DENNIS KNOX.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT AT GLASGOW RECORD

Dear Sir,-I wish to give notice of an attempt to ring 12,096 Glasgow Surprise Major at Accrington, Lancs, on Saturday, January $6 \mathrm{th}, 196 \%$, starting at 11 a m .

The composition is an amendment of Peter Border's 11,872, which appeared on page 911 of "The Ringing world "for December 15th. - Yours sincerely, JOHN H. FIELDEN.

Preston, Lancs.
MORE ABUUT BELL STAYS
Dear Sir,-As an old wheelwright, 75 years of age, I am still a regutar church service ringer. I was taught to handle a bell at the age of 11 years on the beautiful village church bells at Great Dalby, near Melton Mowbray. My bell had the clapper tied so that it would not annoy the residents with the ting tanging for an hour at a time; then the five bells were clapper-tied and I was not allowed to ring the bell open until I could strike my bell and set it gently to the captain's satisfaction.

Now, in reply to Mr. Donald Price: Cleft oak was used for wheel spokes, cleft ash was used for cart shafts, etc., and is too tough for bell stays. Stays are fitted for bells to be lowered to rest gently and not to be violently bumped, which practice soon breaks the stay and causes damage to the bearings. Bell hangers will tell you that stays should not be of too tough a nature, and mild ash is generally used. I have fitted many. which are still good after many years of service.-Yours faithtully, Tamworth, Staffs.

LONG LENGTH ATTEMPTS

Dear Sir, -In reply to Mr. Woodruffe's letter (page 914) concerning an attempt for 6.048 Lincolnshire Surprise Major, I wish to state that I discovered the composition to be false shortly before the scheduled date and consequently the attempt was cancelled. I believe that it is impossible to obtain more than 24 complete courses of Lincolnshire even with singles and the tenors split.

Incidentally, Mr. Woodruffe has omitted one record attempt for which the composition was not published "f at least seven days prior to he attempt," namely :-
24.120 Plain Bob Royal on handbells at Norbury. Hazel Grove, Cheshire, on December 23rd, 1967. Conductor: B. J. Wood-ruffe.-Yours faithfully, Herne Hill, London TIMOTHY G. PETT.

CLOSING HOUR OF MEETINGS

Dear Sir, - I was very sorry to read of Mr. M. J. Uphill's disappointment at finding the last of the Guldford District ringers leaving when he arrived at Wonersh, bringing visitors, at 7 p.m
The meeting had certainly not been "arranged" to finish so early. The trouble was the exceptionally thick fog that day (it was brave of Mr Uphill to drive through it). Those who attended the meeting had been ringing in the afternoon, and all of us, not least those who had the very young learners to escort, were anxious to be getting home. The cower captain had to leave early to visit someone in hospital in Guildford, so the ringer who was left to lock up. probably felt he had no authority to let in a visiting party whom he did not know.
I do apologise to Mr. Uphill and his friends for their wasted journey and their disappoint-ment.-Yours sincerely, Guildford.

REFLECTIONS ON THE 60th ANNIVERSARY DINNER HISLD AT COVENTRY

Dear Friends,-It was very nice seeing you all again bu: I felt a bit guilty in not making more of a speech after the very nice present you gave me. (I think it took me about 30 seconds to utter my remarks, although someone congratulated me afterwards - after all, you caught me on "one foot".)
Who was the wag who said: "Now we might hear from you sometimes"?
My wife and 1 often talk about the happy meetings and outings of the past with you all, but one member I sadly missed was Mr. W. Collett. I was glad I called on hum in september, when we chatted then about old times. I firse met him in 1913-1914, when I learnt to ring at Kineton and he used to walk over from Chadshunt to try and teach us a bit of changeringing. I remember the times when we would walk with candle and hurricane lamps across the fields on a winter's night to have a ring at the "haunted" church of Burton Dassett, or to Tysoe or Butlers Marston-yes, walk it-those were the days!
Now it is my turn to "stand and stare"-not that I do a lot of that as since we have been in Devon I have rung in 34 different towers (no, I am not trying to compete with Bill Stote, congratulations all the same) - three quarters and four competitions to mark up. You will see that I am not exactly idle as far as ringing is concerned.

We often meet old ringing friends, including ringers from the Midlands, and look forward to meeting many more.

Wishing you all the very best for 1968.
"PLAIN BOB" EDDEN.
Brixham.

ANOTHER P.O. ENGINEERS' MEETING

Dear Sir,-Your news item concerning Post Office engineers and their ringing interests me, as over a long period I have managed to glean the names of several telephone managers' staff who are ringers in the Oxford area. I invited them to St. Mary's, Northleigh (6), for a ring on Saturday, December 2nd, for the first time; Seven turned up (out of eight) plus two friends and one non-ringing engineer, who was given his first lesson! The seven are all engineers, as $I$ am, and we rang Plain Bob Doubles, Grandsire Doubles and Grandsire Minor and a few tunes on handbells. We hope to meet again in the New Year, possibly in the Chipping Norton area, to ring a quarter peal with the hopes of a peal later.

I have been to the training school at Tanfield and whilst there rang at Swynnerton.Yours sincerely,

TED PATCHING.
Northleigh, Witney, Oxon.

MINIMUS ON HANDBELLS?

Dear Sir, - Some weeks ago, a handbell "peal" of Minimus was recorded in the columns of the "R.W."

Unfortunately I don't keep back numbers, so have no direct reference to exact details.
It was rung by an Association affiliated to the Central Council and automatically these Associations agree to abide by the Council's rulings (however stupid some of them seem to be, i.c., method extension, etc.).
To keep the books straight, can we have this performance withdrawn? - Yours faithfully,
R. KINGSLEY MASON.

THE CRAFT OF BELL FOUNDING

By H. M. HOWARD, M.A.Former director of Gillett and Johnston Ltd.

From a lecture given to the Institute of Musical Instrument Technology

HISTORY

THE craft of bell-founding is almost as old as civilised man bimself. The Chinese were making bells as long ago as 4000 B.C. and since that date all sorts and sizes of bells have been cast in many countries.
Perhaps, rather strangely, little mention is made of bells in the Bible, except for decorative purposes and, similarly, though bells were used in classical times for various purposes, they do not appear to have been of great size. Only with the growth of Christianity in Europe did church bells, such as we know them, begin to make their appearance, and since the Middle Ages many beautiful examples of the founders' art have been born.

In this country the history of bell-founding dates from about the 10th century, when St. Dunstan is mentioned as having made bells and later, in 1091, Fergus, a coppersmith of Boston, sometimes mentioned as the first English bell-founder. made bells for Croyland Abbey. As with many of the crafts, bellfounding in the Middle Ages was frequently practised by the Fratres Conversi, the brethren of the monasteries dealing with secular matters. Bells were, however, also made by copperand brass-founders-"brasyers" (hence the surname Brazier) who, after the introduction of gunpowder. frequently made cannon as well, as may be seen by their founders' marks.
Many of the pre-Reformation bells were destroyed and their metal sold at the Reformation and others recast at the beginning of the 17 th century, when change-ringing started: these latter because the shape was in many cases not suitable for this purpose. Fortunately, however, quite a few bells of the 17 th and earlier centuries remain and are often very good. PreReformation bells were seldom dated, but their age can normally be judged approximately by the founders' marks and word stops traditionally cast upon them.
The 17 th and 18 th centuries saw the widest extent of English bell-founding and many church towers contain bells dating from that period. To select but a few of the founders ${ }^{\circ}$ names, there were the Purdue and the Bilbie families of Somerset, the Penningtons of Devon and the Rudhalls of Gloucester, these latter from 1684 till about 1820 . This firm cast the bells at St. Martin's-in-the-Fields and many other rings. At Colchester, Miles Graye cast the famous tenor of Lavenham in 1625 , and Christopher Hodson, who had a foundry at S. . Mary Cray, in Kent, cast Great Tom of Oxford in 1680.

MOULDING

Various methods of moulding are known, but of these the clay model method and the impression method are the two mainly used. Though the clay model method, or modifications of it, was used quite a lot in the past in this country, the impression method is now the generally accepted practice here.
In both methods, the core or mould of the inside surface of the bell is built up with bricks and coated with loam-sand with a high clay content mixed with cow's hair to bind it the shape being controlled by a strickleboard or sweep-pivoted on an upright steel spindle.
In the clay model method, a model of the hell in clay is then strickled on to this core and to the surface of this is fixed wax casts of the inscription and decoration which it is desired to reproduce. The outer mould is then formed by pouring it over the model in a finely divided state and then building it up to the necessary thickness with coarser material. The whole is then stoved and in the process the wax casts melt lea,ing their negative impressions in the outer mould, which subsequently become positive when filled with the molten metal. After stoving, the mou.ds of the outer and inner surfaces are taken apart and the clay model between them removed. They are then reassembled with the addition of the mould of the canon, or crown or loops at the top, if there is one, and the mould is ready to be filled.

In the impression method, concurrently with the production of the corc, the mould of the outside of the bell is being built up in a similar way with a strickle-board, but on the inside surface of a cast-iron case or "cope." each layer of sand being stoved before the application of the next one. In the final stage before casting the moulds are given a coating of graphite to form a refractory surface (somewhat akin to greasing the pan in cooking) and at this stage the mould of the outside of the bell in the cope is damped sufficiently to take the impression of letter stamps to make the inscription and also of the stamps of any decoration required. The cope is now inverted over the core and with the addition of a mould of the top, either canon or flat, leaves a space the shape of the bell to be filled by the molten metal A pouring head with a vent for the escaping air is fitted to the top and the whole is half buried in the floor of the foundry and is ready for the cast.

THE METAL

Bell metal, which has had approximately the same composition throughout the centuries, is composed of pure copper and tin in the proportion approximately 13 parts copper 104 of tin. In character it is a hard, crystalline and very durable metal, subject only to intial corrosion of the surface which then forms a protective coating The addition of more tin or soft metal somewhat strangely increases its hardness, and while it tends to improve the musical qualities of the metal it also makes it very brittle. The idea that addition of precious metals would improve the sound is poetic but not true. Sterling silver bells are reasonably musical, but gold ones. were such things economically possible, would be like those made of lead!

CASTING

The metal, if in large quantities, is generally melted in a coal or oil-fired reverbatory furnace and tapped out into a ladle when ready for casting Smaller amounts are more easily melted in the crucible of a tilter furnace "jacketed" by a coke or oil fire. When ready the whole furnace swings over and pours its contents into the lade. The metal is tapped at a bright orange heat. about $1110^{\circ} \mathrm{C}$, but cools somewhat by the time it is poured from the ladle into the mould. The rate of flow into this is controlled by a conical plug and the hot air blows out through the riser or vent provided This riser becomes full to the brim when the operation is complete, showing the mould to be completely full. The runner is prevented from solidifying before the bell and feeder head by stirring with an iron rod

The object of this is to ensure that a flow of molten metal passes from the feeder head through the runner into the bell, so that the bell itself shall not be porous as the result of shrinkage on cooling Bells up to about a ton in weight can usually be taken out of the mould on the following day, but a five-ton bell takes the best part of a week before it $\mathrm{c} \rightarrow \mathrm{n}$ be handled for trimming. This involves the removal of the now solid runner and riser and the metal fin at the junction of the mould and base, after which the bell is ready for tuning.

TUNING

The ambition of many of the old founders was to make a "maiden" ring with all the bells perfect in tone and tune as cast. While the results are interesting and often musically beautiful, they are also frequently deplorable and what is bad for rings of bells certainly applies more forcibly to chimes and carillons. Here the effect is the same as if each string of a piano was entirely independent of the others, in which case recognition of tunes would become naturally very difficult. The art of bell tuning had been practised on the Continent for some time even before it was so nearly perfected by the famous Hemony family in Flanders in the 17th century. In this country attempts were made by chipping metal away from the inside of the bell to adjust the pitch of bells, but it was not until Canon Simpson, Rector of Fittleworth, Sussex, in the 19th century rediscovered the principle which Hemony had used and introduced it into England that the birth of modern tuning took place. The principle was taken up by Taylor and Gilkett & Johnston, these two firms developing it into the perfect art which it has now become.
Hemony maintained that every good bell should have the partials shown in the accompanying chord, which shows the tones of a tuned bell in C weighing about 2 tons. There are other tones also higher than those shown and they all, according to therr relative positions. affect the quality and timbre of the bells for good or ill The lowest five tones, however, give the essential harmony of the bell and it is therefore on these that the tuner mainly concentrates.
It will be noticed that. based on the Hum, the tones, with the exception of the Tierce. lie in the Harmonic Series. The Tierce, however. and others higher than shown, are inharmonic and the tones of a bell are in no sense harmonics of the Hum. They correspond to different modes of vibration and hence the tuner is able to vary them, relatively to one another, within certan limits.

IRREGULAR MAJOR METHODS

By CYRIL A. WRATTEN

$\mathbf{M}^{\mathbf{R}}$R. S. HUMPHREY'S recent article on this subject ("Ringing World," December 1 st, page 876 ), made an interesting introduction to a sadly neglected group of methods. The earlies known peal in seven methods of Minor, rung at St. Mary's, Whitechapel, on April 16th, 1737, contained three methods with what are now rather contemptuously called "irregular" lead-ends-Bristol Delight (142563), Morning Exercise (154263) and Worcester Delight (134625)-and indeed throughout the 18 th and 19 th centuries " regular " and "irregular" Minor methods were rung quite impartially. I have records of 46 methods with "regular "' leads rung in peals prior to 1907, compared with a total of 45 "irregular "
This situation was soon changed with the publication of the Central Council's Collection of Legitimate Methods in 1907. Although this slim book bore the imprimatur of the Methods Committee of the day, John Carter, Henry Dains, Armiger Trollope and the brothers H. Law and E. Bankes James, it was virtually the personal work of Law James; in fact. Carter objected so strongly that he all but resigned as a resule. But Law James aversion to any method having anything but Plain Bob leads was quite uncompromising. It was soon after this time that new eight-bell methods began to be rung to peals, a few just belore 1914. and then more as the Exercise recovered from the inactivity and serrible losses of the Great War. But Law James' influence on the Council's thinking and on the Exercise was still strong, and "illegitimate "Major methods do not appear to have been seriously considered, either then or since. (In fact, the very use of the word "illegitimate" would seem to provide a text book example of the truth of the saying about giving a dog a bad name.)

But enough of history. How many of these irregular methods are there? Mr. Humphrey touched on the question when he said that there must be many non-Plain Bob leads that are never used. The answer would seem to be 15 times the number of regular methods-and I leave the reader to do the arithmetic land let me know the answer!). This estimate is based on two premises: the first is that all the methods should be symmetrical, and the second that only 2 nds or 8 ths should be made when the treble leads its whole pull, 4ths and Gths being reserved for bobs.
How is this figure arrived at? Mr. Humphrey gives one irregular kead-end, 6387254 as an example in his article This is of course one of a set of seven, the whole set giving the lead-ends of a full course. Let us for the sake of simplicity take the one starting $8 \ldots . .$. rather than that starting $6 \ldots . . . a^{\circ}$ as the "key" for this set-8675342. There are altogether eight stich sets which meet our requirements, their "keys" being:

The first of these sets, containing the "s regular," Plain Bob, lead-ends, is unique in one importan: respect. Whether 2nds or 8ths is made after any lead-end the resulting leadheads all come from one family. In other words, there are only seven different leadheads, obtainable from Set 1 . No other set possesses this a turibute. Instead, in eacn of the other sels we can obtain from 8 to 10 lead-heads-seven 2 nds place ones (including rounds) and 1,2 or 3 ths place ones. We thus huve seven sets of irregular 2nds place lead-heads-one to match each of our "keys" -and 158 ths place sets, of which eight are unique. And there is our total of 15.

For the record, the 15 sets of lead-heads, expressed as before in terms of a "key." are as follows:

| 2nds place | 8ths place |
| 1. 8756324 | 8. 8462753 |
| 2. 8576423 | 9. 8756243 |
| 3. 8763524 | 10. 8526743 |
| 4. 8634725 | 11. 8462753 |
| 5. 8457326 | 12. 8764253 |
| 6. 8463725 | 13. 8472563 |
|  | 15. 8657423 |

There are of course many other sets of leadheads that will produce seven-lead courses ( 8723546 is the "key" tor one). But none of these sets can be obtained if the principle of symmetry within a lead is to be observed. (The reason for this is demonstrable, but rather outside the scope of the present article. 1 will gladly supply the details to anyone who is particularly interested.)

II

We have now defined the scope of the probkem. Let us next turn to the question of obtainung all these methods. In its second paragraph the original article stated that the lead-end of a method is uniquely determined by the conjugate pairs (at the half-lead)" (i.e. by "the pairs of bells whose paths intersect as the half-tead place is being made "); and it ended by asking: "Given a coursing order, what selection of conjugate places. if one exists at all, will produce that coursing order?" Given that the coursing order depends on the lead-heads, this can be rephrased to read. "What conjugate pairs," are required to produce a given lead-head?"

Fortunately, such a selection of conjugate pairs as is required does exist in each case and is moreover quite easily determined. All we need to know is the coursing order. Mr. Humphrey has clearly demonsirated that in the case of the 8675342 set of leads the coursing order is 8754236 . Arrange this sequence of numbers in a circle, thus:

2  43  78

(Of course, as the coursing order is cycifc, you can start the sircle at any point, or even write the numbers down in reverse order if you insist !)
Now, if the lines obtained by joining the conjugate parrs at the half-lead of a method are parallel, the method's first lead-end will be one of those in the 8675342 set . Thus to obtain the lead-end 6387254, the pivot bell must be 3 -since it has got back to its starting place at the end of the lead-and the conjugate pairs 2-6, 4-8 and 5-7; for 3268475, the pivot must be 7 and the conjugate pairs 2-3, 4-6 and $5-8$; and so on. In other words, the coursing order determines the arrangement of the circle, and this in its turn defines the required conjugate pairs.
The coursing orders, as defined by Mr. Humphrey, for our 15 sets of lead-heads are as follows:

| I, 8, | 8764235 |
| :---: | :---: |
| 2, 10 | 8763245 |
| 3, 11, 12, 13 | 8754236 |
| 4, 10, 12 | 8735264 |
| $5,13,14,15$ | 8746253 |
| 6, 9, 12 | 8745263 |
| 7, 10, 14 | 8736254 |

(The choice of coursing orders for the 8 ths place sets is due to the duplication which reduces the potential 15 to eight unique sets.)

111

Of course, knowing what sort of leadend/ head any given hali-lead-end can produce does not answer the problem of devising the methods themselves. It merely means that we need to work out a method only as far as its first half-lead in order to decide if it produces an acceptable set of leads. Mr. Humphrey mentions the case of having a particular bock of work above the treble, and asks how we can produce an acceptable half-lead from it. Again there is a quick and effective system of doing this
As an example let us assume that we want to have Double Norwich work above the treble, that is places $x \rightarrow 4 \times-6 x-8$ (where the "-" signifies a place made below the treble, bui not otherwise defined). Stating from rounds, write out as much of the halflead as you can:
4135678
316587
61578
5187

Note the order in which the bells pass below the treble, in this case 2436587. This we will call the " $A$ " (for "above ") Characteristic of this paruculas sequence of places. Each such seguence will have its own (not necessarily Irregular Major Methods-continued exclusive) Characteristic; a glance at the Ringers' Diary will show that of $x-8 \times-8$ $x-8$ (as in Plain Bob and St. Clement's) is 2468753, and that of $38 \times 38$.-4 $\times-=$ $x-8 \times$ (London Surprise Major) is 2573468 , for example.

To obtain the " B" (for " below") Characteristic for a given sequence of places below the treble, do the above process in reverse, i.e. let the bells pass the treble in the order 2345678 and make the required places; the " $B$ ". Characteristic is the final row so obtained:

"B " Characteristic: 2435768.
Having got our "A" and "B" Characteristics, in order to obtain the resulting balflead transpose A by B.

$2436587 \times 2435768=2346857$

Places: $\mathrm{x} 14 \times 36.14 .58 \times$
A check against the coursing order circle in II above shows that, with 7 as the pivot bell, the conjugate pairs $2-3$, 4-6 and 8-5 will give parallel lines. With 78 places made at the half-lead we have therefore got our required irregular method-or at least one possibility.

This may seem a long-winded way to check one method, and indeed it is. But to check through a great number, results can be obtained faster than they can from a computer (a computer works very fast, but a programmer needs a lor of time to tell the computer what work it has to do !). Once the " $A$ " and "B" Characteristics of a number of sequences of places have been extracted-a matter of a few minutes' work with pencil and paper-it is a very quick and simple job to transpose first one $A$ by all the B's and check the results against the appropriate circle, then to take the next A and repeat the process, and so on. Using this procedure, the author produced the first 850 -odd right-place Surprise Major methods in the H. & M. Collection in some seven or eight hours during 1959.

BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION

Danster Branch's Improved Position

The annual meeting of the Dunster Branch took place at Dulverton on December 16 th . Some 32 members from 11 towers assembled and rang from 3 until 4.30 p.m. At the service the Vicar (the Rev. H. L. Bevan) in his address, having warmly welcomed the ringers, said that he dlways regarded the ringing as the centre-piece of the jigsaw which formeq the body of church service. The company left the church, feeling very important, for the tea graciously provided by the parish.
At the business meating the hon. secretary was able to report that the membership had increased during the year from 130 to 167 and this was reflected in a satisfactory situation in the treasurer's report.
All the officers were re-elected thus: the Rev. H. F. Warren remains chairman: Comdr. E. Tyndale-Biscoe bon. secretary and treasurer; Mr. H. Nurcombe Ringing Master; and Mr. F. Arscott Assistant Ringing Master,

The company paid a silent tribute to the memory of Mr. J. Pugsley, and after the meeting ringing continued until 9 p.m.
The first quarterly meeting in 1968 was arranged for Minehead on March 2nd and, in addition to evening practices, subject to permission, are to be arranged at Brushford, Timberscombe, Minebead, Old Cleeve and Stogumber.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Northern District A.G.M.

Despite foggy conditions, over 60 members attended the annual meeting of the Nortbern Branch at Dereham on December 2nd.

The service was conducted by the Vicar, Canon C. H. Plummer, who also gave the address; the lesson was read by the chairman (Mr. G. Sayer), and the organ played by Miss Read.
All serving officers were re-elected for 1968.
Keith Gilbert (St. Giles', Norwich), Mr. P. V. A. Colombe (Holt) were elected ringing members, Pamela and Geoffrey Londzaulk, Philip Kelly, Brenda Long, Charles Thurston and Keith Tinsey (all Barnham Broom group of parishes) were transferred from probationary to ringing members, Stephen Smith (Aylsham) was elected a probationary member.
It was decided to hold meetings during 1968 at St. Giles', Norwich, Northrepps and Garveston, and the annual Branch meeting at Wymondham.
The bells were rung both before and after the service and meeting to various methods ranging from Plain to London Surprise under the able leadershig of the Branch Ringing Master, Mr. M. Cubitt.

The charman thanked the Vicar, Miss Read, Mr . and Mrs. Tovell, local ringers for providing and serving the lea, and Mr. G. and David Adams for arrangements made. C. B.

We were indebled to "The Western Times and Gazerte" for the attractive picture of Down St. Mary Church, which appeared on the cover of our issue of December 15th.
Mr. Peter H. Mackie, of Wellesbourne, calls attention in the misprint in "Stedman Calculator" (page 917). The figure 14 in line $C$ should be a 4, as would be seen by anyone going through the worked examples.
Mr. F. Pattenden, captain at Kilndown, Kent, rang the treble to a quarter of Cambridge and Kent T.B. Minor on November 23rd to celebrate his diamond wedding. Many more happy years together, Frank.
Lavenham Church is appealing for $£ 400$ to restore the clock chimes. When the bells were rehung in a steel frame after a complete overhaul by Messrs. Taylors in 1965 the chimes were removed to make the work easier. At present the clock, which has no face, strikes but does not chime.

Mr. C. J. Easton writes supporting Mr. Christopher Groome's request for facilities for non-resident members to purchase Association reports.
Kingston upon Thames gave another sign of progress recently, when eight of the band rang their first quarter of Royal, and it was B. J. Stone's first of Royal as conductor.

The peal at Oxford Cathedral on December 16 th was to have been an attempt for Bob Maximus, giving many of the band their first try for a 12 -berl peal. However, after meeting short, Peter J. Heritage kindly stood down and enabled three of the band to score their first of Royal.
A festival of handbell music by seven different teams called "Ring Out the Bells" is to be held at Alton, Hants, on January 13th. The organiser is Mr. W. R. Chapman, Harlan, Roedown Road, Medstead, Alton.

FAIRIES TO THEIR AID

Meeting one short at Barnby-in-the-Willows on December 16 th, a good fairy popped her head into the belfry with " Hello, need any help? Questioned, Sylvia Bremmer, a local ringer, admitted that the longest time she had rung for was about 15 minutes. All agreed to give her a try. She ran home to tell her parents, and then followed a well-struck peal. Only once did she get lost and then she had sufficient good sense to announce it and was soon in her right place.
There was another fairy at Barnes the same day. Angela Wells stood in at a moment's notice for a peal of Bob Major. It was her first peal attempt and the conductor reports that she gave a very creditable performance.

COLEGATE SOCIETY

The fourth annual dinner of the St. George's Colegate, Norwich, ringers held at The Abbey Hotel, Wymondham, on December 13th, was attended by 26 ringers and guests, amone the number being Canon Gilbert Thurlow, David Heighton (Master of the Mancroft Guild) and Harry Tooke and Tom Spight (Master and secretary respectively of the Wymondham company). The dinner was preceded by ringing at Wymondham Abbey and the evening was concluded in the nearby Green Dragon.

DOWN ST. MARY

In our article on the famous call-change tower of Down St. Mary in our issue of December 19th we stated that the population had drifted to Morchard Bishop. Lest this result in open hostilities between two delightful parishes, we hasten to correct it: the drift has been to Morchard Road.

MOVE TO RESTORE KENT TOWER
A fund has been started to restore the bells of SS. Peter and Paul, Newchurch, parish church. Kent. Because the frame is dangerous the bells have been silent for four years. The work will cost about $£ 1,600$. This is a 5 -bell tower, with a tenor of $5 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.

READING INTVERSITY SOCIETY

At an extraordinary meeting of R.U.S.C.R. the Master, Mr. M. G. Ingram, and treasurer G. J. N. Colborne both resigned their posts, owing to eressure of academic work. Consequent alterations in officials are as follows:-
Master, R. E. Stillwell: Deputy Master, B. E. Matthews: treasurer, Miss Laura M. Grindrod; recorder, Miss Anna K. Sadowska.

FISH AND CHIPS FOR TEA:

A large number of young people were among the 80 members attending the by-meeting of the Rochester District, which was held at Holy Trinty, Miton Regis, on December 2nd. After the usual ringers' service the company adjourned to the Parish Hall for a very unusual but extremely acceptable tea consisting of fish and chips, bread and butter. sausage rolls, cakes, etc. After this, those still able to returned to the tower for further ringing.

THE 1967 INDEX

Mr. H. L. Roper, who for many years has prepared "The Ringing World". index, has, to his great regret, been delayed in completing the index for 1967, through the illness of Mrs. Roper. He hopes to complete the task by the middle of this month. We feel certain that readers will accept this delay with good grace and at the same time express their thanks to Mr. Roper for such a loyal and painstaking service to the journal without any reward except that of knowing that he has given of his best with a total disregard of other more profitable ways of spending his time. We all hope that Mrs. Roper will soon be fully restored to health.

SHEBBEAR'S RED LETTER DAY

Shebbear College Society had a red letter day on December 16 th, when they rang the first peal on the recently rehung and retuned bells, the contract having been carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. The peal, one of Plain Bob Minor, was rung by past and present members of the Society, and the conductor, Mr John L. Queen, reports "the standard of ringing throughout was commendably high and needless to say. we were all very pleased to score a peal in our own tower on this the tenth year of the Society in its present form."

OUUR Branch meetungs are always held on the third Salurday of the month, except in December. Exeter Cathedral ringers practise on the third Saturday in every month.

Thus it was that in 1956 a small party from North Somerset with friends from the Bridgwa:er area, who wanted to have a ring on the mighty 12, journeyed to Exeter on the third Saturday afternoon in December. Our arrival was timed for mid-afternoon, so we arranged a ring at Newton St. Cyres on the way, connecting by local train from Exeter. On this occasion the solitary porter at Newton St. Cyres, overwhelmed by the sudden invasion of 12 "foreigners" demanding excess single tickets, solved the problem by saying "Give us ten bob and we will say no more about it! "
Each year since then, with one exception, a similar expedition has been arranged with the main party travelling by train, bus and walk to towers round and about Exeter. We remember 1958, when the train driver stopped at the far end of Exminster's very long platform "because nobody ever gets on this train here," and then in 1959, when a marathon sprint and a glib tongue on the part of one member of the party kept the bus waiting for us at Crediton. On a particularly memorable day in 1962 there were slates flying about in Topsham's main street during a gale.
In 1965 we decided to make it an all-day alfair, which would have had the big advantage of divorcing us from the strange interpretation of the timetable of a certain train from Manchester and also make it possible to fit in four or five towers, linked by British Rail and/or Devon General, who, to be fair, have always done us proud.
On each occasion a visit to Mr. Lyons' establishment has preceded the main business of the day, a very pleasant visit to the Cathedral belfry with a warm welcome from Fred

NEWSLETTER FOR HANDBELL RINGERS

Through the initiative of Mr. John P. Partington, of Rochdale, a newsletter for hand beli ringers in Great Britain, entitled "Reverberations," has made its appearance. It is available to all members of "Handbell Ringers of Great Britain," which was formed at Ash-ton-under-Lyne Crammar School last Octoher The subscription is 2 s 6 d . per annum for individual members and 10 s. for each team. The next issue is planned for Easter.

The chairman, Mr. William Hartley, of Stockport, in his letter, writes: "Our aim is to create an organisation which will help and encourage handbell ringers everywhere. It has been suggested that arrangements be made to have music printed and published for handbell ringers, but in view of the many different methods used I feel that the most benefit could be gamed by teams writing direct to other teams who use the same method of arranging the music, and I would like to appeal to all leaders to help and assist anyone who may write to them for music and ideas."

The ringer of the second in the peal at Twickenham on Noveriber 4th (page 901) was Lesley A. Hawes, and not as published. Lesley is a member of the "new" Kingston band. and to those who rang with the "old "Kingston band it gives pleasure to see progress being made by the new band.

ELEVEN CHRISTMAS TRIPS TO EXETER

Wreford and his merry men. "Usual Social Activities" afterwards have taken various forms over the years, but so far no one has missed the ten o'clock train home again.

THIS YEAR'S EXPEDITION

The 1967 expedition took a party of 18 to change at St. David's station oo December 16 th , and thence on to a special stop by the Salisbury and Waterloo train at Whimple. where station and church are admirably close together We enjoyed some good ringing on the nice six before walking out to the main road to catch the bus. Certain thirsty souls, seeing that the bus departed from Whimple (Hand and Pen) set a cracking and purposeful pace over this three-quarter mile lap, but were to find on arrival that no establishment of that name existed. However, we were able to attend to the inner man upon arrival at Clyst Honiton, after which we received a warm welcome from Mrs. Retter at the octave there.
A "fair old trek" took us some way down the A. 30 and then along a very narrow lane to the tiny belfry at Sowton, where we were just getting used to the splendid little bells when it was time to leave. Another half-mile walk and a bus ride (" You pay for the lot and collect it up as we go along ') brought us to Heavitree (the finest ring of the day). We had a good course of Double Norwich amongst some other quite respectable ringing here.

St. David's Church. Exeter, and our final call before the Cathedral, gave an oppottunity for some more Norwich and some Very Little Bob Triples before a quick cup of tea and the long climb to the Cathedral belfry. We joined the local band and some other visitors in a variety of 12 -bell ringing.
The party finally reassembled, appropriately enough at the Great Western Hotel, before catching the 22.11 train for home. M.J.H.

OBITUARY

MR. JOHN P. WRIGHT

The death occurred on December 11th of Mr. John Porter Wright, captain of the ringers at North Wheatley, Notts. He was 75 and had been in poor health for some little itme.

He had first rung at this tower in the early 1920's. In 1926 ringing was stopped as the tower became unsafe. Thirty years later it was resumed and, as captain, J. P. Wright steadily built up a reliable band of Sunday service ringers.
The lacal band rang the bells half-muffled for the funeral, and on the following Sunday a peal in four methods was rung by six ringers from nearby East Retford. His loss will be felt very greatly.

LATE NEWS

We regret to announce the death on December 30 th of Mr. Edwin G. Buck. of Baldock. who was president of the Herts County Association in 1957 and Narthern District Secretary for 13 years.

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

St. Mary Magdalene, Chewton Mendip

ONE of the finest and most famous Somerset church towers graces the front page of this issue. Chewton Mendip stands at the head of the Chew Valley and the top of its 126 ft . church tower may be seen for many miles around, announcing the presence of the small village which clusters beneath. The church contains work of all the main periods from Saxon to Jacobean times and the present Perpendicular tower dates from the 15 th century, being ascribed to the Carthusian monks who were renowned as builders.

It falls into the group of Somerset towers which have all the part above the nave roof treated alike, in this case as two similar stages with the bell openings (Somerset tracery) repeated blank in the stage below. Other examples are at Glastonbury, Leigh-on-Mendip, Ilminster, and the grandest of all at St. Mary Magdalene, Taunton (3 similar stages). Built of Doulting stone, the tower features set-back buttresses capped by pinnacles and is crowned with pierced battlements and four corner turrets.

However grand the tower, it is the bells therein which claim the admiration of ringers, and there can be few happier blends of sight and sound. The original six bells were by Pennington (1627), Bilbie (1725) and Mears (1825), with the tenor inscription defaced. All were recast into the present ring of 8 (tenor 24 cwt .1 qr. 1 lb . in D) by John Taylor in 1913. Arguments will never settle which is the finest octave in the country, but these bells will always be one of the contenders for that honour, as the many who have rung them will testify. A rise in peal here produces a truly glorious sound.

Such bells are, of course, popular with peal ringers and 51 peals have been rung before 1967 , with 34 of these since 1946. The first was Stedman Triples in 1914, then a break for the Great War, and Grandsire Triples followed in 1919. Another Stedman was in 1922 and the first of Major was Superlative in 1926, after which there was about one a year to 1938. Currently about three a year are rung (and one lost!).

The most popular method for peals is Double Norwich with 9; then Stedman (8), Cambridge (7) and Yorkshire (7), Grandsire (5), Plain Bob (4) and Bristol (4), Spliced Surprise in 4,8 and 25 methods and one each of London, Rutland, Superlative and Oxford Bob Triples. It is pleasing to note that the more musical methods are appreciated here.

The present incumbent, the Rev. Alan Clarkson, was taught to ring whilst curate at Wrington, and he and the tower captain, Mr. Herbert Baber, welcome many outing parties each year. It is hoped that those who enjoy these bells in this fine tower may be able to do so for many years to come.

The Bath and Wells Diocesan in 1967

THE year started as usual with the January batch of branch annual meetings and little change in officers, although Crewkerne branch had earlier elected a new secretary to replace Tom Locke after 21 years ${ }^{\circ}$ service. The same branch had an enjoyable dinner at Ilminster in February.

Peal ringers got off to a good start in the early months with 26 in two months and then activities were reduced for Lent as is customary (if not mandatory). On Easter Monday the Association met in and around Yeovil for its A.G.M.

At this meeting the retiring officers were re-elected with the exception of General Secretary Gwilym SaImon, who had to bow to pressure of bank business after 10 years' service as treasurer and later secretary. This post was taken over by John Gilbert of Long Ashton. The main decisions of the meeting were to alter the date of the A.G.M. from Easter Monday, due to difficulty in arranging for catering, and to alter the rule on peal booking fees payable to "The Ringing World." The amount is unchanged but the proportion paid to the paper will in future be decided annually. For 1968, therefore, the A.G.M. will be on June 29th at Taunton, and peal booking fees will be 1s. per rope as formerly.
In April the tragic death of John Hall at Uphill, whilst giving instruction, shocked the whole of our fraternity. Other deaths during the year included three life members-S. G. Coles in May, Walter Starr in September, and Jack Pugsley, the last surviving foundermember, in November. May they rest in peace.

3,000 FREEMASONS AT WELLS

During July the Freemasons of England celebrated their 250th anniversary with a service in Wells Cathedral at which 3,000 were present. Also in that month the tower of Batheaston Church graced "The Ringing World" front page and the account of the rededication of the bells there gave useful information on ways of raising money for such projects. Camerton Parish Church raised money for its bells by means of a traction engine rally on a June weekend, which drew about 15,000 people.

In August the parish of Moorlynch celebrated 650 years since the induction of its first vicar, and a peal was rung as the Lord Bishop of the Diocese (and Association President) entered the parish on horseback leading a procession in medieval costume. Next month the Taunton branch decided to emulate the Chew, Frome and Bath branches in arranging a striking competition for 1968. October was a busy month with the tower at Long Sutton featured in "The Ringing World" and the first instructional course held by the Association at Barrington. Also a very successful dinner was held at Taunton.

At the end of November the branch A.G.M.s started all over again and so the cycle will continue. All in all, an average year. No peal tours, but plenty of outing parties came over the Severn Bridge. The local peal and quarter peal ringers kept up a steady output to "The Ringing World" columns and I wish them every success in 1968 -if we'd got all the attempts the total would be double I'm sure!-J. H. G.

BELLRINGING VERSUS

HOMEWORK

Perhaps a better title is "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy". One of the major contributions to apathetic attitudes in this day and age is that of bad timekeeping. When practice begins at halfpast seven then it is not intended that people present themselves at $7.45,8$ or 8.15 . When ringing is supposed to begin at $5.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. on Sundays it seems a waste of time - and rightly so-when the odd one or two wait for the rest of the team to arrive at 6 or 6.15 .

Late working hours is something we all have to tolerate from time to time, but the problem of school homework is becoming more acute; this has been observed particularly by those who organise belfry activities. Understandably, young people plead innocence, pointing out that they are expected to work extra hours each day in order to gatn necessary qualifications. From the writer's point of view he cannot always recognise the advantages of evening homework and its ever-increasing demands upon young people, when young minds are tired and less receptive and yearn for a complete change for an hour or two.
Education authorities agree that cultural activities be encouraged. Bellringing is one of the finest physical exercises one could wish for: furthermore it is a real mindsharpener. It develops one's wits as well as an appreciation in a musical sense. But most school-teachers do not realise this, despite the fact that certain education authorities, in the introduction of campanological instruction at evening courses, are in fact recognising cultural assets of bellringing.
I cannot accept that it is difficult for young people to devote at least two-and-ahalf hours to bellringing out of the 168 in which time they sleep, eat, attend school, play and do their homework. It merely requires a system. We must be sticklers for good timekeeping, and the winter months lend themselves particularly well in this way. The art demands best efforts all round, and progress and enjoyment in its circles can only be truly experienced by strict adherence to the "rules". In other words, taking bellringing and homework on the whole-fair's fair.

RECORD PEAL ATTEMPTS

Dear Sir,-I am amazed that a letter from such a renowned ringer of record peals as Braan Woodruffe on the subject of the Central Council rulings for record peals (page 914) should contaln so many inaccuracies. It is no good, Brian, believing the rulings to be such and such when, for the reasonable price of 2 s . 6 d . (post free) you can know them for certainty by obtaining a copy of the Central Council Handbook (see the advertisement on the back page of this paper).
(1) Let me correct the statement that I was the conductor of the 11,872 Glasgow Surprise Major rung at Edgbaston on November 25th last. This distinction belongs to one of the most brilliant conductors of the day, Roderick W. Pipe.
(2) According to the Central Council rules it was not necessary even to give notice of the attempts, let alone give the compositions for the 6,048 Lincolnshire S.M. or the 11,872 Glasgow S.M., as the preamble to the rules reads *That in the case of a peal rung to surpass previous peals of 6,720 changes and upwards ...." The previous longest lengths in these methods were both under 6,720 changes.
(3) Even if it were necessary to give notice, the rule does not state specifically that the composition should not be published before the attempt. This is zeasonable for methods where virtually the only bar to an attempt on the record is the problem of obtaining a longer composition the London S.M. record has stood at 14.144 changes for 20 years for this very reason). In this case it would not be prudent to publish the figures for a longer length beforehand as an unscrupulous band might ring it before the official attempt. or if the official attempt failed a band could take the composition and ring it without seeking the permission of either the composer or the organser(s) of the first official attempt. This presumably is the reason why no figures have been published for Simon Humphrey's 19,936 Yorkshire S.M. Surely it is the prerogative of a composer to ring the first peal of his own composition or to choose the circumstances in which it is first rung.
(4) I assume that it is by some mischance that no composition was published with Brian's own notice of an, attempt for 24.120 Boh Royal "in hand," which appeared in the same issue as his letter complaining of the supposed non-observance of the record peal rules.
I applaud the arrangements for the Boh Royal whereby the church is to be open throughout the attempt. This is in full accord with the spirit of the rule for record peals "in hand," which says "every facility should be given to those interested to hear the ringing . I agree with Brian that it would have been desirable for similar arrangements to have been made for the $20,160 \mathrm{Bob}$ Minor * in hand " attempt arranged by Frank C. Price.
One other point comes to mind which you, sir, may care to consider. When damaging criticisms are levelled at specific persons it usually takes at least two to three weeks before a reply can be published, by which time the majority of your readers will have torgotten the detail of the criticism but will have remembered the general "smear" effect. Would you be willing to give opportunity for such a reply as this to be printed in the same issue and alongside the criticism? - Yours faithfully,

J. A. AINSWORTY.

Note.-Regarding Para (4), the composition was received at the same time as the Notice, but too late to be inserted in the same issue. If the Notice was delayed there would have been an infringement of Central Council rules. It is not possible for the Editor to copy critical letters and circulate them to interested parties. -Ed.

REGULATIONS

Dear Sir,-Concerning peals rung to surpass previous peals of 6,720 changes upwards, in the part of the Central Council's Handbook containing the Council's Decisions. Part D (Peal Ringing), section (i), sub-section (f), the relevant paragraphs are:
(i) That not less than seven days' notice shall be given in the columns of 'The Ringing World.' stating the tower, day and hour at which the attempt is to be made, and the number of changes proposed to be rung."
." (ii) That similar notice shall be sent 10 the secretary of the Guild or Association under whose title the peal (which it is proposed to surpass) was rung."
"(iii) That the composition of the proposed peal shall be submitted to at least one competent person, other than the composer for proof. and the figures shall be published in 'The Ringing World.'
There is not a ruling requiring the composition to be published at least seven days prior to the attempt. Isn't it amazing, Mr. Woodruffe, what can be read into the regulations if a person has a mind to? I should also like to point out that the regulations can only apply to peals which have actually been rung ! -Yours faithfully,
S. HUMPHREY. London, S.W.

MR. C. W. RIDGWAY

The ringers of St. Nicholas'. Worth. Sussex. were shocked to hear of the passing of one of their members, Mr. C. W. Ridgway, who died suddenly at his home on Christmas Eve. He had been a ringer for 53 years. starting at the age of 12 at Abbots Langley. Herts, where he was born. He came to Worth from the London area, where he was in the Metropolitan Police Force.
Mr. Ridgway was an invaluable member of the team and will be great'y missed. The sympathy of the other ringers goes to Mrs.

Ridgway.

MISS HILDA M. MILLS

We regret to record the death in Northfield Hospital, Aldershot, on Boxing Day, of Miss Hilda M. Mills, aged 74. She had been in hospital on and off for the past three and a half years.

Miss Mills will be remembered for the devoted service she gave to the Ladies' Guild as national secretary for many years. She and her sister, the late Miss Bertha Mills, started ringing at Aldershot during the first world war. Throughout her life she took a keen interest in the Exercise and in her younger days rang several peals with the late Mr. George Gibert. A teacher by profession. Miss Mills was for 46 years a member of the staft of The Bourne infants' School, Farnham.

The funeral service was at St. Michael's Church. Aldershot, on New Year's Day, the service being conducted by the Rev. T. H. Dart (Vicar). There was half-muffied ringing before and after the service. Cremation followed at Aldershot Crematorium,

THE CRAFT OF BELL FOUNDING

By H. M. HOWARD, M.A.
Former director of Gillett and Johnston Ltd.

The bell, when cast, is roughly about a tone sharp of its final pitch and, after testing it with tuning forks or electrical devices to find out its musical condition, the tuner decides how much metal is to be cut off and from where it is to be removed; the object, of course, being to bring all the five tones into proper relationship and down to the required relative pitch. In order to do this, the bell is clamped mouth upwards on a big revolving base-plate, and a tool which can follow the contour of the inside surface in a plane radial to the bell comes in contact with the bell which then cuts the metal off itself as it revolves. Between each cut the bell is unclamped and retested and new cuts decided on, at first heavy, but finally becoming mere shavings, till the work is done. Bells of all sizes from a few pounds in weight to over 20 tons can be tuned the only difference of course being the speed of the operation.

Experience in matching old bells from contemporary records of their condition has shown that once tuned, little or no measurable alteration of the tone or tune of a bell takes place. The quality of old bells does, however, suggest that bells become more mellow with time.

HANGING

The bell being now cast and tuned is ready to be hung for whatever purpose it is required. There are three main ways in which a bell may be used-to ring, to swing or to chime. The proper position for a bell in a sower depends upon the purpose for which it is to be used. It has been found by experience that when a stationary bell is struck the maximum sound travels outwards and downwards at an angle of approximately $45^{\circ}$ from the lip. Hence it will be seen that chiming bells should be hung high in the tower in order that the sound may have clear egress through the windows. Ringing bells, on the other hand, because they throw bells, on the other hand, because they throw their sound outwards and upwards, must be hung lower than chiming bells so that the sound may not beat down through the louvres on to the immediate neighbourhood but be deflected out to further distances. A roof lantern or openings in a spire are ideal for this purpose.

RINGING BELLS

By this is meant bells hung for changeringing, an art peculiar to the English-speaking world and so characteristic of England that it is known as "The Ringing Isle." The bell moves alternately backwards and forwards through the whole $360^{\circ}$ and is checked and pulled off by the ringer at whatever moment in the change he wishes to do so. The bell, which is hung well out, i.e., with the axis of suspension near the top of the bell, is hung from a timber, iron or steel headstock. Bells are sometimes still suspended from the headstock by the canon, but more usually by four suspension bolts through the headstock and the top of the bell, which in modern bells is flat. The fifth suspension bolt in the centre also holds the independent crown staple from which the clapper is suspended. To the headstock are fixed, on the one side, the whoel, and, on the other, the ash stay. The latter, when the bell is "up," engages with an ash "slider" pivoted at one side of the bell pit and given limited movement in a slot on the other side. This stay enables the bell to be "set" just over the point of balance in the mouth-upwards position, from which the ringers can immediately start off in full peal. Being also the easiest part of the action to replace it is purposely made the weakest so that in the event of too vigorous a pull it breaks and prevents damage to more important fittings. The rope which is attached to the centre upright of the wheel passes through a "garter" hole in the soling and so over the wheel and down to the ringing room over pulleys and guides. At "hand-stroke," when the ringer's hands are on the coloured woollen sally, the rope only goes a short way round the wheel, but at "back-stroke". practically right round, hence the sally is then high.

CHANGE RINGING

Space does not permit a long description of change-ringing. Suffice it to say here that these systems of mathematical combinations which began to be invented in the 17th century consist basically in the movement of any given bell from place to place in the ring by single steps according to a known pattern, and whatever course one bell follows all the others do the same but at a different time. This principle applies only to the "inside" bells of the ring because in some systems, referred to as "odd bell methods," the tenor, which is the largest bell of the ring, is rung "behind," i.c. last, throughout. In other systems known as "even bell methods" the tenor is "turned in," that is to say it follows the same course as the other "inside" bells. The treble at the other end may in some methods ring as the inside bells and in others follow its own characteristic course. Various devices such as two bells changing places are used to prevent the changes coming back into plain rounds, i.e., $1,2,3,4$, etc., so as to obtain the full extent of the changes possible or required in a given composition. A peal of 5.040 changes on 8 bells such as Grandsire Triples (the full extent of 7 bells with the tenor behind) takes approximately three hours to ring for an average weight of bells. The full extent on 12 bells known as Maximus amounts to $479,001,600$ changes and this would taken 37 years 355 days continuous ringing! The extent of Bob Major, 40,320 changes, has, however, been achieved and gives some idea of the skill and endurance of which bell ringers are capable.
Bell frames are made of timber, cast-iron or welded steel and considerable controversy exists as to which is best. Timber is now at a disadvantage because of the difficulty of procuring it, especially seasoned material, and contrary to what is often believed has no effect upon the tone since the bell is in any case insulated from its hangings by non-metallic material. Many people prefer cast-iron because of its better resistance to corrosion than steel, but with the improved means of steel protection now available the versatility of welded fabrication has attractions. The main supporting beams are now nearly always rolled steel joists.

SWINGING BELLS

It is hard to say which produces the finer bell music-a heavy tuned ring of bells or several perfectly tuned swinging bells striking in harmony with one another. This method is ideal, musically, for bells weighing several tons or more, quite apart from the mechanical aspects of the question. The "surge" and the slight variation in pitch due to the sweep of a beam of sound past the listener as the bell moves produces a magnificent effect; an effect, of course, also present with a change-ringing bell. The chief characteristic of this method of hanging is that the bell is "tucked" up a long way into a heavy counter-balancing headstock so that its axis of rotation is near its centre of gravity, the clapper being similarly treated. The result is a slow-motion effect with the clapper rising up and hitting the upper side of the bell (as it should always do) and falling away to let the bell vibrate freely. Change-ringing naturally is not possible with this type of hanging, and in fact the bell does not usually swing more than frame-high. Mechanically, of course, the lateral thrust is much less than with the ringing bell. Frequently with this type of hanging a chain passes over the wheel and round a sprocket attached to the shaft of an electric motor which provides the motive force and is in its turn controlled by an automatic switch. This form of bell music is sometimes combined with that of a chime or carillon; improvised melody on the stationary bells being fitted into the rhythm of the swinging ones hung lower in the same tower.

CHIMES AND CARILLONS

The third way of hanging a bell, which also largely applies to clock bells, is that of the Chime or Carillon. Generally speaking, a chime or carillon is the same thing, the only difference is in the number of bells, any number of two chromatic octaves or more being considered a carillon. The bells, in this case, are fixed statuonarily in a frame and chumed by an internal clapper or, often in the case of clock bells, by an external hammer, but the former is to be preferred because gravity here assists a quick return of the clapper. The wires from the clappers, by a system of cranks and rollers, are connected to the wooden keys of a clavier upon which a trained carillonneur may perform with great virtuosity, the wires from the bigger bells being also connected, in tandem, to pedals similar to those of an organ console.
On a chime where the musical scope is not so great, the speed of action on the clavier may be sacrificed in favour of a longer stroke giving a somewhat fuller tone.
An alternative to hand action is the use of the electro-pneumatic system working a second clapper striking on the opposite side of the bell. The wires are connected to pistons acted upon by compressed air and the inflow valves to the cylinders are controlled by electro-magnets. These in turn are controlled by electrical impulses from the contacts of an ivory keyboard or from contact between a "comb" and pegs on a metal drum similar to a large musical box. This may be set into motion automatically by a clock system and so play tunes at certain arranged hours of the day. The electropneumatic system has not the delicacy of touch of the hand action, but is, on the other hand, essential for playing in noisy cities and on very heavy bells.
All these installations, after erection for test in the shop, are stripped for delivery to the site by the various modern means of transport, usually road in this country. I mention this point to contrast the practice of some of the old founders who, because roads were so bad and bells so heavy, would build a furnace and cast the bells in the churchyard, using, of course, local timber for the frame.

BELL MUSIC

The music of ringing and slow-swinging bells has its own character and charm and the following remarks apply more especially to chimes and carillons. Tuned bells are normally minor in key and so melodies in a minor key, such as "God rest you merry, gentlemen," always sound more harmonious on bells than those in the major. In fact, the minor third is apt to give rise to the impression that the bells are out of tune when played in the major. Owing to the individual complexity of bells, simple tunes can sound almost as effective as complicated ones, and for the same reason a contrapuntal form is more suited to bell music than chords uniess the latter are very carefully chosen.

WHO'S WHO OF HANDBELL TEAMS

Prepared by "Reverberations", the Journal of Handbell Ringers of Great Britain

Ashover Handbell Ringers, - Fifty-six bells made by Taylor's, of Loughborough, purchased towards the end of the last century. During the last five years 33 bells have been reconditioned. No regular use from 1918 until 1962 when used for carols and musical events. Now rung from ordinary sheet music.
Ashton-under-Lyne and District Handbell Ringers.-Founded Christmas Eve, 1966; 7 ringers, 2 apprentices; bells $2 \frac{1}{2}$ octaves by Mears and Welch. Practice: after church bellringing practice on Thursdays and after ringing for Evensong on Sundays. Only three of the team had rung tunes on handbells before team was formed. All are tower bell ringers.

Ashton-mnder-Lyne Grammar School

 Handbell Ringers.-Formed in 1958 using ten handbells belonging to St. Luke's Church, Heywood. In 1960 a set of two diatonic octaves ( 17 bells) bought for use of team by the school's Parents' Association. Suitable music acquired especially from Mr. Tom Ogden. Played in public on some 50 occasions. Method of ringing: individual copies of music showing only the notes rung from each copy and picking up off a table when required. At least over 50 pupils have been taught, never more than ten being with the team at any one time.St. Paul's Handbell Ringers, Bury.-The bells ( 52 in the set) found in the church had not been used for about 40 years. In 1962 completely renovated by Mears and Stainbank at a cost of $£ 145$. Arrange all music; prefer to play modern pieces, i.e., current musical, pop and marches.
Charnwood Handbell Ringers. - About three years ago five members of a family availed themselves of an evening course at a Leicester further education centre. Sixteen bells acquired, now increased to 25 and able to ring in three different keys. Playing done from numbers adapted from music with four "in hand" except with larger bells. Music library 200 light and classical music, hymns and carols. All members live in the Charnwood Forest area of Leicestershire, hence the name.

The Crosthwaite Handbell Ringers.-Present set 37 bells-three chromatic octaves by Mears, the largest being 22 C . Up to 1934 the bells were only used at Christmas when the ringers toured the countryside playing carols. Since then were used for local concerts. After the Second World War the Crosthwaite Handbell Ringers were formed and have given over 50 wireless broadcasts and three on television. Have entertained weekly during the past three years during the season at a W.T.A. guest house, giving great pleasure to hundreds of people.

Most tunes take six ringers and a piano is used. All the music is transposed into numbers; the top note is called No. 1. Leader since 1934, J. W. Brownrigg.
Ecclesfield Handbell Ringers. - First formed at this village near Sheffield about 1905 with a second-hand set cast by Shaw, of Bradford. The group later had 53 bells and joined in handbell ringing contests then popular in the North of England.

In 1925 a set of five full octaves was purchased from Mears and Stainbank for just under $£ 200$. These bells had seen nearly 40 years of good service when they were returned to Mears and Stainbank for a complete overhaul. Present set 163 bells.
Present method of playing requires ten ringers standing round a table some 13 by $6 \frac{1}{2}$ feet with the bells laid out on mattresses. Music is scored in normal music notation but written in the treble clef. It is broken down into three parts - bass, tenor and treble. Usual arrangement, three ringers bass, three tenor and four treble.
Hope Baptist Church, Ebden BridgeAbout five years ago the Minister, Rev. D. Irome, bought 12 diatonic handbells and got a team together. Three years ago he left and G. H. Bungay took over and bought a set of 39 bells (J. Taylor's). Present team six ladies, two boys, two girls and can play hymns and simple pieces such as folk songs. Thought to be the only Baptist handbell ringers in the country.

Higher Walton Handbell Ringers-Handbell ringing had been practised in the village fur many years but from 1914 until December, 1961. the bells had been neglected and hung in a cupboard in the school cellar. All the leathers had perished and the bells could not be rung. The Mears set purchased in 1907 consisted of five octaves with three octaves as duplicates and two octaves as triplicates, 123 bells in all. The cost was $£ 6610 \mathrm{~s}$.

The present team started to repair bells in 1961 and received a lot of encouragement from meeting the Oldham Moorside team. Most of the company are tower bell ringers.
The Hunshelf Ringers.-This team comes from Ecclesfield Comprehensive School, but all are ex-Hunshelf Secondary Modern School pupils. The average age of team, $13 \frac{1}{2}$ years. Only ringing since February, 1967. Use about 40 of their 66 bells, most of which were cast by Shaw, of Bradford, some 80 -odd years ago. During the last two years three new bells have been cast by John Taylor and the whole set repaired and restored to a ringable state by the Loughborough Foundry in July-August, 1967.
The leam ring in a straight line with ringers of No. 1 and No. 12/13 standing at the two edges. The "music" is pinned on a board which stands about 3 to 4 feet from the table. The "music" is a letter, number and colour system.

Kingsbury Parish Church Handbell Ringers -First started in 1952 by Messrs. G. H., D. K. and W. G. Lane with 18 second-hand handbells reconditioned by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. That Christmas visits were made to various farms, where carols were sung by the church choir accompa.lied by handbells. The money raised was given towards the cost of a new treble tower bell. After the new treble was installed in 1959, handbell ringing continued and $£ 53$ of the bell fund was used in 1961 to purchase eight new handbells, thus completing two chromatic octaves in $F$ sharp. size 18, plus one bell at the higher end of the scale. The present group consists of four people.
The method of ringing is four in hand and, contrary to most four in hand teams, the top bells are struck down and the bottom bells struck across inwards. Music is written in the form of numbers, the basic tune being played on a diatonic 12 with the highest note of the 12 being No. 1 .

The activities of the group are mainly confined to money-raising ventures which help to augment the church bell fund, now standing at $£ 2,300$. This money is to be used to recast and rehang the church bells in a new frame lower down the tower and to add two more bells to complete the octave.
Launton Handbell Ringers.-Founded by Mr. Frederick Sharpe, who was taught handbell ringing by the late Mr. R. White, of Appleton. He bought his first bellsa set of 12 by Henry Bond I-in 1925 and formed a small team. By 1951 the collection of bells had increased to 54 and that year their first sound broadcast was given and first television in 1954. Since that time the team has travelled widely and given recitals in many English cathedrals, town halls and similar places. The bells are Mr. Sharpes property and now number 207. Bells are from the following founders: $\mathbf{W}$. Cor, R. Cor, R. and W. Cor, R. Wells I, R. Wells II, R. and J. Wells, J. Bridgman, H Bond (Westwell), H. Bond (Burford), H. Bond II, T. Bond, E. Hemins, N. B(londel), T. Lester, T. Mears I, G. Mears, Mears and Stainbank, J. Taylor and Co., Gillett and Johnston, F. White, R. White, W. Dunn, J. Platt. G. Welch, G. Stockham, H. Symondson, P. Symondson, J. Warner, J. Rudden, W. Blews, Blews and Sons. J. Barwell, J. K(ingston), J. Shaw, O. Cor. Mr. Sharpe tuned the bells to form the set and made the clappers and leatherwork. They always ring four in hand and at a normal recital use 72 bells.
The music is scored in bell notation in the medieval mode. Traditional and modern music is rung, classical composers' works rearranged, but recitals are chiefly English traditional folk songs and carols.

CHRISTMAS BELLS

Deal Sir,-Once again 1 take the opportunity of congratulating the Christmas morning ringers on what a thinught was a splendid combination of chang $\dot{-}$-ringing Trammission was perfect and the striking second ton none. I should always agree what a wonderful opening for Christmas Day. 1 always look forward to the next time.
Wishing you and the "Ringing World" all prosperity and good luck in the coming year.Yours truly.

Handsworth, Birmingham.  OLD HANDBELLS

Dear Sir,-Similar to Mr. J. Smith's and Mr. Frank R. Barnett's letters (page 932). I, too, have a set of ten handbells, size 17 in A. Two of these have the letters R.W. (probably Robert Wells) and one has W.R. inside, Is this a mistake in the mould or another founder?
They are not "turned up." i.e. rough cast "inside." so must be old. I shall be pleased if anyone can tell me their age.- Yours truly, Ipswich.

CITY'S UNRINGABLE BELLS

Dear Sir,-With reference to the recent interesting correspondence regarding the bells of St. Dunstan-in-the-West, it would be of great value to have information regarding the other unringable bells in the City of London. St. Magnus the Martyr's bells are not yet rehung, but does anyone know when they were last rung? How about the bells of St. Sepulchre's and SI. Katherine Cree's? - Yours faithfully,

East Dulwich.

"MINI RINGERS"

Dear Sir, - lt is ridiculous to suggest that meeting organisers should adjust the tail-ends to suit short ringers (i.e., 5 ft . people-". R .W.". p. 933). When Miss Sparshott and Mr. Ebsworth realised that their ropes were 100 short at the tail-end they should have asked the conductor to stand and then lengthened their own ropes (unless, of course, they were unable to perform this very difficult task). I would venture to suggest that instead of wasting time writing to the "R.W". they should have been making a portable box each, to prevent a recurrence of the incident.-Yours sincereiv.

MERSHAM BELL, RESTORATION

Dear Sir,-Recently you published an informative and well-written article about Mersham Church, by Nicholas Davies. It is highly unlikely 'hat the restoration would have been undertaken had it not been for the initiative of Mr. Henry Parkes, who, being a native of the village, desired to see the bells in ringing order.
He dismantled the bells in his own time and arranged their transport to Whitechapel. When the new frame and bells were ready for installation he, in his own time again, fitted the new frame and hung the bells. Mention should also be made of Mr. Arthur Lewry, who gave up his holiday to assist. as the promised local help did not materialise when the actual job started. I feel that efforts of this kind should be given full public recognition.Yours sincerely,
Tottenham, N.

FIRST WAR MEMORIES

Dear Sir,-With reference to the letter from Mr. T. E. Sone on page 932 of "The Ringing World.' I wonder if his records include a quarter peal of Bob Major rung on handbells in the tower of St. John's Church, Blackpool, on July 23rd, 1918, by: Pte. L. W. Jacques $1-2$, Pte. A. E. Austin 3-4, Pte. H. R. Pasmore (cond) 5-6, Ple T. E. Sone 7-8. First quarter peal by $1-2$ and $7-8$ and first "inside" by 3-4.
On July 25 th 1 was transferred to Chepstow, Monmouth, and here 1 met and used to ring with F. W. Dale, from Hessle, Yorks, and G. W. Peverell, from Bishop Auckland. On October 26th, 1918, there was a ringing meeting at Chepstow, and here I met J, W. Jones, secretary to the Monmouthshire Association, and Joe E. Sykes, from Yorkshire.
I should like to send my greetings to any of those ringers still surviving.-Yours faithfully, Newmarket.

"RINGING MADE A FARCE"

Dear Sir, - The issue of "The Ringing World " dated December 1st, 1967, boldly announces an article entitled :The Day's Pro-gramme-17 Towers in Leicestershire."
I wonder what is to be gained by "ringing " in such a ridiculous number of towers in one day? I estimate (and in some instances know) that taking into account the distance covered between each tower and the number visted (I won t say "rung" at)-not more than 15 minutes, on average, could have been spent in each.
The important point, and the one that has prompted me to put "pen to paper." is that fter being given permission to ring, these people do no more than criticise the bells in front of the Ringing Master or person who has taken the trouble to meet them and, not content with this, go one further and pass comment in "The Ringing World."
This is regarded generally as discourteous, but if we must criticise let us be right about it. Who in their right mind would call the bells at Syston a "superb oclave"? With all due respect to the Syston ringers (and I think they will agree), the bells at Syston are among the poorest eights in the county. Possibly these Rutland people thought that they were a superb octave because the only other eightbell tower that they visited was at King's Norton (men's bells) and made a poor exhibition on them. This could have been avoided if they had taken the rrouble to oil the bear-ings-after all, early 18 th century fittings do need some attention from time to time!

I could make a suggestion, Rutland ringerscome to Leicestershire again-but not for 17 towers-try six or eight, and towers such as Wigston South, Wigston Magna, Claybrooke Parva, Hinckley, Market Bosworth, Shepshed, Sileby, Bottesford and a host of other "superb" Taylor octaves. If a local ringer meets you, ask him to ring with you, ring well, thank him for allowing you to ring, leave a good impression. But don't criticise his village bells. - Yours faithfully,

REPURT A GUIDE TO OTHER RINGERS

Dear Sir,-In her letter about outing reports, Judy Cox shows that she is suffering from a very common fauls among ringersthat of regarding the bells in her own tower as being beyond reproach as regards tone and " go."
I am sure that most ringers who go on outings fairly regularly will agree with me that the majority of bells are of a rather poor tone. However, when one visits a tower, no matter how poisonous the bells may sound, invariably the local ringers will tell you that they are " one of the best rings in the area." Surely when reporting an outing the descriptions of the bells should be bath objective and impartial, to act as a guide to other ringers who may wish to tour in the same area. To do otherwise is rather like saying -I went to a performance of Beethoven's Choral Symphony last night and the conductor told me it was one of the best performances be had ever beard."

I suggest that all ringers try to be more objective and critical about bells, especially in their own towers, and not automatically regard them as being beyond reproach in all ways.-Yours faithfully,
A.C.B.

Kent Replies to the Critics

CORRECT PROCEDURE

Dear Sir,-I would like to partly support the letters by Anthea Sparshott and Paul Ebsworth ("Ringing Worid," page 933).
I know that all Canterbury Distric: members must feel very depressed. I had the misfor une of going to the ringing at their annual District meeting in our Mother Cathedral at Canterbury and I have never before in my life been so disgusted with the standard of ringing-it was appalling. The Ringing Master had no control whatsoever over the proceedings.

1 would like, however, to ask the North East Kent ringers and University ringers if they have any complaints about Kent ringing to come along to Rochester on Easter Monday, 1968, to the Association's annual genera! meeting and fire as many questions as they like to the Association's officers, and we will try to help and answer any queries they may have about Kent ringing. "The Ringing World " is not the place for such complaints. So please do not keep writing to "The Ringing World"with your complaints, Kent is not the only county with ringing difficulties, and the committee is fully aware of the problems and is making every effort to improve the standard of Sunday service ringing and of meetings throughout the county.

In my opinion the standard of ringing in Kent, with some exceptions I have already mentioned, is far higher and more advanced than any other territorial Association with which I have rung.
I would respectfully remind those visitors to Kent who know all there is to know about Kent ringing that the Kent County Association is not the name given to a public building, it is the name of well over a thousand ringers who have feelings and have worked very bard for our Association, and we do not like all this adverse publicity. which for the most part is totally unfounded and given by a handful of visitors to our county.-Yours sincerely,

TONY LEWIS.
Chislehurst. Kent.

FACTS
Dear Sir, -I have read with interest your correspondent's letter "Conditions in Kent" ("R.W.". page 931). His statement is quite correct; here has not been a meeting in the East Ken: area since October 21st. As the Ashford District has been specifically mentioned in the letter, I report on its activities, etc.
There has been a net increase in memberWhip of 23 during the year, and over the past ten years membership has increased from 180 to 304 . Of the 41 towers in the District with five or more bells, 36 of them are in union with the Association and 30 of these ring regularly for Sunday service.

Eighr meetings were held during the year and one ringing school (with the Canterbury District). The average attendance at service and tea was 52 , an increase of nine of the previous year Nine meetings have already been arranged for 1968 . Thirty-six combined practices were arranged in the District between April and October and in nearly all cases were well at!ended. At least six Surprise practices were also organised. Both types of practice will continue in 1968

Seven members rang their first peal and two members conducted their first peal. The bells of Ashford and Wittersham were pealed after rehanging by bands from within the District. A new hand of 14 ringers has been instructed for $M$ rsham where the bells were recently rehung. The District has contributed over $£ 34$ to tower restorations this year.

These critical correspondents are at college or university in Canterbury and are only in the county for about three-quarters of the year for thret or four years. It can hardly be expected that the Districts alter their organisation and the interests of members to suit these "birds of passage". If the content of their letters is indicative of their general behavjour then it is small wonder that they have difficulty in finding peal ringers in Kent.-Yours faithfully,

ALAN P. S. BERRY,
Hon. District Secretary, Ashford District, K.C.A.

RINGING IN THE WEST COUNTRY DURING 1967

ONCE again another year has gone by, and the West Country, parucualry Uevon, has had its fair share of ringing. One of the more important events during the past year has been the holding of the annual general meeting of the Devon Guild in entirely new territory, this being at Buckfast Abbey, and one could not have failed to be impressed by the service which was held in the Abbey Church, all the congregation of ringers being accommodated in the chancel instead of the nave. From a peal ringing point of view, all the bookings for peals here have been taken for the next three years, but it is perhaps a coincidence that none of the peal attempts for 1967 were successful.
Another of the main features of the year was the successful peal ringing tour which was held in the early autumn, when, out of twelve attempts, eight were successful. Aubrey Bennett was responsible for the arrangements, and the tourists were in the charge of Mr. Mr. Alan Ainsworth, of Birmingham, who was a very able substitute for Mr. George Fearn.

Outings have again been popular, and tours by visiting ringers from outside the county have included one organised by Mr. J. $\mathbf{R}$. Norris, of Crawley, and another by Mr. F W. Housden, of Shalford, the Devon Guild treasurer, Group Captain Read, of Galmpion, being responsible for the arrangements in the latter case. Five successful tours have also been arranged by Mr. Bennett, one of these including a visit to the neighbouring county of Somerset. These tours have been very beneficial to the younger members of the ringing fraternity.
Touching on a note of sadness, the Devon Guild suffered a severe loss last Easter by the death of Mr. Tom Myers, of Plymouth, one of the most outstanding ringers in the county and a very close friend of the writer. A.L.B.

cup of tea the first thing every morning. There was difficulty with sticks and paper 10 get a fire. If the wind was the wrong way it was right for the back to back house, where the rent was also three shillings a week. The electric kettle came later for the grandchildren. I remember when all the bells did all the work of one method and the arrival of Norman and his 23 methods was not forecast. I remember when attending my firs! practices, 60 years ago at the village church, not to be surprised if someone was earlier. He would be one of the few clerical ringers of the time who had walked 14 miles and the same distance to walk back. I remember a few weeks ago an education authority refused a petrol allowance for a girl to drive to school in her own car.
I remember the first time ten men rang the clock round. It was at Loughborough, not at the foundry but at the church. The peal was 18,027 of Stedman Caters. Two Pyes and a Cheeseman in the band did not help to provide nourishment. I remember when men rang men's bells and ladies and children were not seen in the belfries. Every Saturday one man "put the fat down." and it ran out of mlain and badly-worn bearings on Sunday morning. Evening ringing was navvies' work.

who took part in these was not at all pleased when Arthur Morris tapped a peal in this method.

ringers now living rang with him and fewer still will ever see his like again. Dress and dignity have deteriorated and we can see on television every day that Cabinet Ministers no

mlain and badly-worn bearings on Sunday morning. Evening ringing was navvies' work.

I remember secing the first aeroplane on its on its way from London to Manchester. The object of the flight was to win $£ 10,000$, not to kill 10,000 people. That was to come later for the grandchildren
I remember the only ringer to win the Victoria Cross was a fellow member of my belfry. I remember my Vicar refused permission for lady recruits. He objected in principle when I tried to keep names out of my request. He objected to two sisters when I was compelled to divulge names. So we waited for a change of Vicar. The curate did not share the Vicar's objection, he married one of them.
1 remember when the five-day week was Unheard of and travelling to distant towers was impossible. The song of the workers was "eight hours' work, eight hours" play, eight hours' sleep and eight bob a day." There were no shorter hours, they all had 60 minutes.
1 shall be a little late reporting on this week's peal outing. It still takes a little longer to get back from the moon.

THE OLD MAN REMEMBERS.

TECHNICAL

DOUBLES SPLICING

Dear Sir.-In reply to Mr. C. A. Lewis's letters. I have produced the following notes for publication in "The Ringing World." Whilst not attempting to be a comprehensive study on Doubles splicing, it covers enough to enable a band to ring a peal in a large number of methods/variations, and it covers all the methods of splicing used by our band as we progressed from 42 to 180 methods/varia-tions.-Yours faithfully,

GEORGE A. DAWSON.
West Norwood, S.E.

Singles :

Works in 4-5 are as at equivalent bob, but 2nds and four blows in thirds are made.
Each single is a "lead-splicer" with the other three singles, i.e from a given coursing order, the same rows occur between half-leads. This gives rise to the simplest form of splicing in Grandsire type methods, i.e. using two different singles in the standard extent, 60 changes apart. In the SBSP x three extents, it is possible to use all four singles-obtaining a "four spliced" extent. This particular type of extent is of dubious value as four singles are used with three plain leads.

Variations of each plain course method may be obtained by using a different bob in a standard extent. These are all true provided that only one type of bob is used per extent. Any single may be used in each extent. Thus 16 different variations are possible for each plain lead type - each of the four bobs with each of the singles in turn.
"Three-spliced " extents of a simple type may be obtained by using three different plain courses in one extent. This idea is based on the well-known spliced Triples extent by John Segar, where the method rung depends upon the bell in the hunt. However, where bobs are called every lead in the Triples, a normal (i.e. standard) extent is used in the Doubles. For example, using the third bell as observation bell with Grandsire bobs and singles:
12345 -ring Grandsire ( 2 in hunt). A bob is called at the first lead, bringing the 4ths imo the hunt-so change the method to "Wollaton" for the next plain lead. A bob at the next tead brings 5 into the hunt, so for the next plain lead ring Antelope. A single at the next lead puts four into the hunt, so "Wollaton " is called again. A bob at the next lead then puts 2 into the hunt, so ring Grandsire at the plain lead... and so on. This will give a true 120 whatever bob is used, provided again thes oaly one bob type is used per extent.
(2) METHODS WITH CNE HUNT
(a) Individual plain course methods.

For every four-lead plain course method in the Central Council Doubles Collection of the A and B grouping there are two closely related three-lead plain course methods. These have either $1: 2$ places or $3: 4$ places at the half-lead. Each of these methods is a "two-lead "splicer with the four-lead method, i.e. with two fixed bells, unaffected by the change of the method substitution of the threc-lead plain course method gives a true extent. A typical easy extent using both slow-course methods is given below :

(b) Variations.

The use of Grandsire singles as a bob for Plain Bob is well known, the variation being called April Day. As we have seen earlier, Grandsire, Antelope. etc., singles are leadsplicers, so the use of three different singles gives a three variations in one extent. This system works for all A and B group methods.

This peal is suitable for handbells, as treble and 2 nd are coursing throughout except when the latter is in the Slow.
The three Oxfords are called when the treble is in 3-4 down; at the first 8 th and loth, at the second tenor and 11th, at the third 9 th and 7 th, make 3 rds place and up.

SOLUTION TO "URANGWOT"

The time in minutes 192 has the factors $3 \times 2^{6}$. The only numbers not exceeding 8 to be made up from these factors are 2, 3, 4, 6 and 8 . There is also one available with any of thes: numbers to give a product equal to that from two other numbers of this set. Thus the combinations possible are:-

> (i) $1 \times 6$ and $2 \times 3$.
> (iii) $2 \times 6$ and $3=4$. (iv) $3 \times 8$ and $2 \times 4$.

Joe and Charlic did not ring the treble as that was rung by a lady each ime and $2 \times 6$ and $3 \times 8$ have more than one ringer between them so the accoptable pairs for Joe and Charlit are those in heavier type. Only three peals were involved and there are four passible combinations of three from four. However, the stipulation that the conductor rang the same bell throughout and on one occasion rang between Joe and Charlie necessitates the inclusion of (iv) for the conductor to ring 5. Joe's deafness would put him on 4 rather than 6. Since Joe and Charlie did not ring the same bell twice it is found that there are two acceptable combinations out of the four possible.

lution II Most entrants submitted one of the solutions and only three gave both. The prize is awarded to J. F. Roebuck, 12, Rothwell Close, Ormskirk, Lancs, who did this and also mentioned the assumption that had to be made that all rings were hung clockwise.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Bedfordshire teenagers rang a peal at Caxton, Cambs, on December 26th, conducted by Christopher A. Hardy (aged 15).
"Change ringing is far more English than cricket," from a Smethwick ringer who enjoys our journal

When Miss Sue Rance rang her first quarter at Easthampstead on December 10th her father conducted and her mother rang with her.

The ringer of the third in the peal at Woolavington, Somerset (page 899). should read Alan G. Kent, and not as prinied.

Announced this week is the first quarter of Triples by Urchfont, Wilts, ringers. They express their thanks to the conductor, Mr. R. J. Purnell., who came to their tower to conduct the performance.

Two ladies received our congratulations on ringing their 100 th peal-Miss Beryl E. Caw. ser, of Lichfield, and Mrs. T. Felicity Ashford, who has helped forward our art at Keele University and that part of the country.
Two Cambridge youths-Stuart Brown and Paul Bergdahl-have gone to Bristol. Their departure is a great loss to Great St. Mary's.

Four young ladies from St. Mary's, Whittlesey, who appeared on television in the latter part of 1966 , have left for college.

The handbell peal at Audlem, Cheshire, on December 21 st was rung on part of a set of 20 bells which were presented to Audlem ringers in November, 1867. It is believed that this was the first peal on the bells.
Radıo Leicester had its own "Christmas Bells" programme on Christmas evening. Bells were heard from St. John the Divine's. Leicester, Humberstone, Melton Mowbray, Earl Shilton, Thumby and Leicester Cathedral.

Past and present ringers of Wollaton, Nots, held their annual dinner at the Commodore. Nottingham, on December 23rd. An excellent meal was followed by lively tunes played on handbells, a source of pleasure both to participants and onlookers.

To the Lancashire Association goes another record-the greatest number of Royal methods yet rung to an "4 all the work" peal. This was 5.040 Spliced Surprise Royal in ten methods rung at Worsley on December 17 hh , with Mr . Neil Bennett as conductor. Congratulations !
Owing to a leg injury Mr. Cyril Griffiths was unable to take part in the peal to celebrate Mrs. Eyre's 80th birthday at Appleby Magna, Leicestershire, on December 16 th. The Branch wish him a speedy recovery and thank Mrs. E. M. Key for standing in at short notice.

DALTON-IN-FURNESS MARK 40th

ANNIVERSARY

Members of the Furness and Lake District Branch met at Dalton-in-Furness on December 16th to ring a peal of Bob Royal to mark the 40th anniversary of the opening of the ring of ten, which were cast by Taylor's, of Loughborough. Two well-known members of the Branch-Messrs. J. E. Burles and Nicholas M. Newby-took part in both the peal and the dedication ceremony in 1927

Following the peal the band adjourned to the Cavendish Arms for tea, where they were joined by Canon H. W. Mycroft, Vicar, and Canon M. D Grieve, of Urswick, who was curate at Dalton at the time the bells were installed. The peal was the 43 rd on the bells.

PRE-REFORMATION BELL CRACKED AT DRAYTON

Less than a year after being augmented to a ring of six, Drayton's 6 cwt . 3 gr, tenor cracked through the sound bow white the local band were plain hunting for midnight service on Christmas Eve. This bell is a pre-Reformation casting by Brasyer, of Norwich, and was the only bell from the original ring of three, the others having been recast.
This is a great tragedy to the parish, as $£ 370$ is still needed to pay for the original scheme. The Bell Committee are now faced with an additional charge of around $£ 250$ for recasting this bell. Until such time as this money can be raised Drayton will have to be a five-bell tower.

RINGING IN DURBAN

It is $12 \frac{1}{2}$ years since a quarter was rung at Durban, South Africa, and that at Sc. Paul's Church on December 26 th was the first on the bells. With the exception of G. D. Armitage, the band comprised local ringers. St. Paul's has an enthusiastic band, who practise on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 5.30 p.m. and Sunday ringing at 10.30 a.m. and 6.30 p.m. Visitors should contact Mr. Cyril Chambers at 1, Lucas House, 30, Commercial Road, Durban, very near St. Paul's Church (Tel. 62722) during office hours, or afterwards at 71, Garmouth Avenue Bluff. There is also ringing at St. Mary's, Durban, which is mostly Grandsire Doubles and call changes.

A GUOD FIRST YEAR

The peal at Easthampstead (a lovely little light eight) enabled David Brown. of Langley, Slough, to conduct his first peal. A week previous he reached his 15 th birthday and he rang his first peal just over a year ago. Already he has scored 20 peals and these include a number of Surprise Major methods and one of Surprise Royal. David learned his change ringing at Slough, and his instructor. Mr. William Birmingham, is very proud of David's achievements.

RAISED E4,486 FOR THE BLIND

An example of public appreciation of handbell music is provided by Mr. Arthur H. Coombs, leader of the Dulwich handbeli ringers. This was the 21st Christmas they had toured Dulwich streets collecting for the Greater London Fund for the Blind. This year they made their greatest ever collection of $£ 380$, bringing their total over the years to £4,486.

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE T. R. DENNIS
The latest development in regard to a memorial to the late T. A. Dennis is the establishment of an Ely Diocesan Association Centre, states "The Sentinel."
On September 30th a committee of eight was formed to consider the nature of the memorial. Mr. Dennis' ashes are interred in Longstanton Churchyard, and it was agreed that Messrs. W. Ridgman and H. S. Peacock should approach the Rector of Longstanton regarding a plaque being placed in this church. At a later meeting it was reported that both the diocesan chancellors and the incumbent were not in favour of allowing a plaque. A stone, however, is to be erected in Longstanton Churchyard, and it is hoped later to explore the passibility of placing a plaque in the ringing chamber of St. Andrew's Church, Cambridge.
With regard to establishing a Diocesan Centre, two or three possibilities were explored. One was that of using a disused church at Cambridge, said to be without seating accommodation, light and heat, which was regarded as quite unsuitable for the purpose. Mr. T. A Bevis said he had approached the Dean of Ely and explained the difficulties to him. He inquired whether a suitable room might be available attached to the Cathedral or in the precincts. The Dean replied that requests of this nature from a Diocesan Association would "obviously receive very "favourable consideration from the Chapter."
One or two members were doubtful as to what use the Centre would be to the Association and even commented that it might be a liability. Others said that a Centre could be used for centralised committee meetings. It would accommodate the Association's records, documents, literature, etc., and would be open at certain times to those wishing to inspect the same.

A favourable reply has since been received from the Dean and it was hoped to inspect the premises on January 6th.

DEWSBURY'S YOUNG RINGERS

When 12 -year-old Ruth Richardson conducted her first quarter at Dewsbury on December 23 rd two of her friends-Avis Thompson (aged 11 vears) and John Ineson (aged 10)-rang their first quarters. This young band at Dewsbury has been nurtured by Mrs. Jeanne Bottomley, and the president of the Yorkshire Association and Mrs. Bottomley rang with Ruth in the "major" triumph of her ringing career.

"THE SENTINEL"

Mr. Trevor A. Bevis has produced another good number of "The Sentinel," the journal of the Ely Diocesan Association. The coloured picture on the cover is of a three-bell tower, at Grafham, in a 13 th century steeple of unusual design.
The bells are all old. The treble carries a Watts shield, the second is believed to be the work of Dawe (1381-1418) or his successor, and the tenor (39 ins. diameter) is by Newcombe, inscribed "St. Katerina."
"The Sentinel" announces that Houghton (Hunts) bells are to be augmented to six and retuned and rehung. The original treble is thought to have been cast by Newcombe, of Leicester. The other bells are dated 1626 . Mr. H. S. Peacock is training a team in readiness.

A 50th ANNIVERSARY

On Boxing Day, 1917, Mr. Frederick J. Cullum, senior, and his son walked through the snow from Erith to Crayford for "young Fred's" first peal, one of Grandsire Triples, to which he rang the fifth. The 50th anniversary was appropriately celebrated this Boxing Day by a peal of Cambridge at Crayford, to which "young Fred" again rang the fifth, and at his request the peal was called by the grandson of the conductor of the 1917 peal. One of the other two survivors. Percy Spice, of Bromley, also took part in the anniversary peal, along with a number of other friends of many years' standing and one young man to bring the average age down from 60 to 55 !
Fred has now rung 855 peals, 379 on his own bells at St. John's, Erith (a record for one tower) and 121 at Crayford. We congratulate him on 50 years of peal-ringing and look, forward to another celebration in ten years' time.
E. A. B.

NOWELL FROM FAWLEY

Fawley's (Hants) selection for the midnight service on December 24th was "A Nowell Doubles," which they discovered in the DoddJones collection, and though very irregular they were determined to attempt it. Extents were rung at the four Thursday practice nights preceding Christmas. On December 24th the band assembled at 10.30 p.m. and after 43 minutes of well-struck ringing were successful "We believe this may be the first quarter in the method since it appeared in "The Ringing World,'" writes Mr. Derek C. Jackson, "and we are now looking forward to April 1 st and May 1st as other occasions for a little variety.'

SOUTHAMPTON UNIVERSITY GUILD DINNER

The highlight of the Southampton University dinner on December 3rd was the announcement by the Master of the engagement of Heather Walters and Chris Kippin. Heather, who is a past secretary of the Guild, graduated last summer.
The day commenced with ringing at Twyford in the morning and continuing after lunch at North Stoneham, Bitterne Park, and finally at St. Mary's, Southampton. The ringing catered for all tastes from rounds to London.
The venue this year was the Drummond Arms at Hythe. The president, Canon K. W. H. Felstead, was in the chair and he kept the proceedings going at a lively pace in a very entertaining manner. After the loyal toast. the vice-Master Roger Price, proposed the toass of "The Church" and the Rev. Colin Rudd, assistant curate at North Stoneham, replied. The secretary, Miss Susan Davis, then proposed the toast to the visitors, and the brother of the vice-Master, Mr. John Price, replied on behalf of the visitors.
The Master started his report for the past vear by announcing Heather and Chris's engagement, and the company rose and drank a toast to the happy couple. A report of the activities of the Guild in the last 12 months followed, including a report of the summer tour in Devon. Finally the Master thanked everyone for coming, and especially Canon Felsead. Rev. C. Rudd and John Price for such entertaining speeches. The rest of the evening was spent in the usual manner.
S. U. G. and Son.

THERE'S FASCINATION IN RESEARCH

By P. AMOS

THERE'S fascination in research, whether it be of bells, of dead or dying villages, disappeared churches, castles and fortified manor houses, monasteries, old wells, or even modes of living by past generations. I suppose I shall "tread on someone's corns" when I state that it makes myself and many more sick to hear some of the present day youth say they are bored at having nothing to do, when the world is full of opportunities for those who take the trouble to look around.
I am just on the last lap of writing a book (if I can get a publisher!) upon a village of Northants which has now disappeared (except for three derelict, much-vandalised cottages) with a history which has fascinated hundreds dating from before William the Conqueror.

COMPLETELY DISAPPEARED

Norman invaders landed at Faxton, which in 1068 was given the name Fexton, changed by the early 13 th century. Portions of a late 11th century church were incorporated in the one which completely disappeared in 1959 and was built in 1208, dedicated to St. Denys. It was closed to worship in 1940, remained intact (though vandalised) up to 1953, when the roof, with the 15 th century double-bell gable and bells, was taken down.

Its ancient font was preserved and given to a church in Kettering. Its two bells, said to be some of the very first cast by Henry Penn, of Peterborough, in 1703, were actually recasts of two earlier bells of the 15 th century (the same period as their gable) by Henry Jordon, as is one of the five neighbouring bells at Old (or Wold as it used to be and is still called by some who don't like the official Ordnance map name).
And $\frac{3}{3}$-mile distant, belonging to the disappeared Faxton, is a fortified house (Shortwood Lodge), built at the time of the Lancastrian-Yorkist battles; its central octagonal tower used by Charles I to direct Royalists quartered in Faxton ready for the battle of Naseby in 1645, where Charles was taken prisoner to nearby Holdenby House, the seat of Col. Lowther, still standing. The two bells (of $24^{\prime \prime}$ and $21^{\prime \prime}$ respectively, the latter cracked for many years) were by 1956 melted into one for Stanwick, although an erroneous story has gone around "that they went to South Africa".

During 1951 and 1953 I managed to take a number of photos of the old church from both outside and inside which, together with others of old cottages, a priest house and loaned photos I had copy-negativedamong them old wells, parts of an old manor which disappeared by 1785 , almshouses which were standing intact in World War I but had gone by 1933, village personnel and other pictures-in all a collection of 32, none of which can now ever be replaced.

DEAD VILLAGES

Faxton is today a vanished village, like Wythmail which once stood some $3 \frac{1}{2}$ miles to the east of it, near Orlingbury, and which was wiped out by the Black Death of Edward III's reign-only one cottage tells where Wythmail stood! Other dead villages are Wigsthorpe, Elkington and Thorpe Underwood, to name a few. Soon, Claycoton will be going the way of Faxton: its Church of St. Andrew (with three bells) still stands, but closed-a pitiful sight! Newton near Kettering is similar.

At Furtho, near Stony Stratford (just inside Northants) the last time I visited it it had pigs roaming about its churchyard, among the graves of former vicars as recent as 1913. This almost vanished village is on the doorstep of what is being planned to become a new city after the name of Milton Keynes.

Not far from rapidly developing Daventry is another, Wolfhamcote, whose church the "Friends of Friendless Churches" are trying to save and may one day again be needed if Daventry keeps expanding for Birmingham's overspill. It has a tower with one bell of 12 cwt., dated 1641, by James Keene. There was another of 1780 by Pack and Chapman which a few years ago was stolen.

STOLEN BELLS

There is much I could write about stolen bells if space here permitted. However, one story I will tell, and that is of a fifth bell stolen from Church Brampton in 1856. This church (on a bank) had its tenor bell loaded on to a horse-drawn dray in the night, leaving the present minor four. The bells had become unsafe and by 1867 had to be rehung in a new frame for five; but the empty pit will certainly never take a new tenor the dimensions of the stolen one - a new treble to make a minor five is about as much as space in this frame will permit if and whenever the will and enthusiasm of some rector sees fit, instead of excuses as at present.
In Bedfordshire (at Chellington) is another almost dead village I am making researches into, and in South Leicestershire are several.
Not far from Chellington (at Harrold) was once a monastery of considerable fame. And in the centre of Northampton (near the round Church of the Holy Sepulchre) a site is being cleared of old houses where a famous monastery of the Grey Friars once stood - two old wells believed to be 800 years old were uncovered during clearance.
Roman underground passageways-from which it is said that Thomas-à-Becket escaped in 1164 from Henry II-are under the centre of Northampton, which had a castle from 1084 till 1878, to which Becket was brought. Six years later (1170) he was murdered on the altar steps of Canterbury Cathedral.
It is sometimes said that ringers are only interested in pulling bells, but works by the late Ernest Morris and many others associated with the art prove this not to be altogether true.
The late J. Armiger Trollope did much by way of research; the art is much the richer for their investigations and time spent.

A IRINGER'S STDRY - BUBB BLABS

I'M a skivvy for a bell ringer.
He's a nice chap really - rings at St. Martin's in the Bull Ring, Birmingham. And me-well-I'm a sucker for anything, and when he pops his head round the office door and says: "Geoff, the clapper broke on the tenth last night. Want to come down to see if we can do anything about it?", I'm there like a shot, knowing full well that three-quarters of my lunch hour will be spent clambering up stone staircases constructed with pygmies in mind, mauling my body through inches of dirt and dust on to framework, and that when I've finished, my shirt will not be quite as white as it was when I left the office.
It isn't always like that though. As I said, he's a nice chap, really, although he is a bell ringer, and the other night he invited me to St. Martin's to see the "business end" of bell ringing, just for a change. It was a pleasant experience, but knowing nothing about the technicalities of the art I felt more out of place than an Arab in Israel. I was scared to death, too. I sat at a table in the middle of the ringing room and it seemed to move. "It's the tower moving, that's all." That's all! I sat waiting for the damn thing to fall downon ME!

To be serious though, I was received royally. I was allowed to sit, watch and listen to several touches (I'm told that that is what they are called) before being taken into the tower proper to see the bells turning. I now know how the Hunchback of Notre Dame must have felt-well, partly. A little later I was shown peal record books dating back to 1755, when the St. Martin's Youths rang Bob Major at St. Philip's. I was fascinated by the several entries, one actually recording mistakes! Bell ringers making mistakes and admitting them! It read: "26th June, 1803, Bob Major at St. Peter's, Aston. The sixth was at Home 9 times Wrong and 9 times Right without a bob being called or explained." Sounded like very dirty work indeed at St. Peter's in 1803.
I also saw the personal diary of the egocentric Mr. James George-bell ringer to end all bell ringers I would think. In it there was a letter dated 1947 (when he was about 85 years old) from him to a Mr. Shepherd at Exeter Cathedral, refusing assistance to ring the 72 cwt . tenor when Mr. Shepherd had apparently demanded that this bell should not be rung without at least three people being on the rope. Mick McManus would have had to look to his laurels had Mr. George decided to take up wrestling.

Even skivvies get a mention sometimesthough perhaps a little "obscurely". When Alan Ainsworth (incidentally, he's the bell ringing friend) wrote up the record peal at Edgbaston Old Church, published in "The Ringing World" on December 1st, he said, amongst other things, that in an attempt to reduce the sound level additional shuttering was placed on the louvres. I suppose that can be classed as a theoretical mention, because it was me who stood for about three-quarters of an hour on the framework in the draughty tower at Edgbaston Old Church on a damp November day measuring up.

Mere mortals must be thankful for small mentions.

THE RINGING WORLD

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF THE CENTRAL COUNCTL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

St. Margaret's Church, King's Lynn

OUR COVER PICTURE

St. Margaret's, King's Lynn

By ROLAND NEWSON

Rich in history, historical buildings and associations, now fast becoming a "Newcomers" town, King's Lynn stands in a largely isolated corner of Norfolk, a county scarcely surpassed anywhere for its wealth of beautiful churches.
The Tudor Guildhall, where King John's Cup can be viewed, looks across the "Saturday Market Place" to the stately and dignified church of St. Margaret.
Part of an ancient Benedictine Priory, and founded in 1119 by Bishop Losinga, it houses two of the finest examples of 14th century brasses.
Some records show that there was a ring of 5 bells-date uncertain-of $10,14,18$, 22 and 28 cwt ., and tradition has it that these were housed in the smaller of the twin towers. In "Church Bells of Norfolk," by John L'Estrange, we find the name "Margaret" given to the "great" bell, "which could be heard full 10 miles distant." Also the news that "the biggest and least of these was purposely broken," but from the churchwardens' account for 1673 is the item:
"The said Churchwardens are Drs. to ye p'ticular amount of the Two Great Bells, vigt. the Bell Margaret £7-12-0, and Bell Thomas £2-17-6," although the year 1663 was the year of the recasting into a "ring of eight." Other items from St. Margaret's account books:
"By expenses of Ringers upon opening
St. Margaret's Bells-£9-6-8.
"By Insurance of Bells £7-8-6."
These items appear when these bells were recast into a new ring of eight by Lester and Pack in 1766, with a tenor of just on 30 cwt . and with a diameter of $55 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{ins}$. in the key of $C$ (is this still "the Margaret"?).

The beautiful tone of this bell makes it a worthy tenor for the present ring, which was made into ten by the addition of two "Jubilee" trebles in 1887, which hang in the north-west tower today. Inscriptions and weights as follows:
Treble-Albert. This bell was given by me, Emma Rodwell Burkitt, in honour of Queen Victoria's Jubilee, June 20th, 1887. B. Dale, Vicar; William Burkitt, Charles Ayre, Churchwardens; Mears and Stainbank, Founders, London. (Weight, 6 cwt . 1 qtr. 19 lbs.)

Second-Victoria. This bell was given by me, William Burkitt, Mayor, in honour of Queen Victoria's Jubilee. (Names of Vicar, Churchwardens and Founders as on the treble.) (Weight, 7, 2, 23.)
Third-Peace and good neighbourhood. Lester and Pack, of London, Fecit, 1766. (Weight, 8, 2, 3.)
Fourth-Musick is medicine to the mind. Lester and Pack, of London, Fecit, 1766. (Weight, 8, 2, 14.)
Fifth-Our voices shall with joyful sound, make hills and valleys eccho round. Lester and Pack, of London, Fecit, 1766. (Weight, 9, 2, 0.)
Sixth-Lester and Pack, of London, Fecit, 1766. (Weight. 12, 2, 2.)

Seventh-Honour both to God and king. Our voices shall in consort ring.
Lester and Pack, of London. Fecit, 1766. (Weight, 14, 3, 1.)
Eight-Ye ringers all that prize your health and happiness,
Be sober, merry, wise, and you'll the same possess.
Recast. E. G. A. Winter, Vicar; W. Burkitt, C. M. Ayre, Churchwardens. Mears and Stainbank, Founders, London, 1893. (Weight, 17, 0, 10.)

Ninth-Richard Marshall and Charles Crusoe, Churchwardens. Thos. Osborn, Founder, Downham, Norfolk, 1800 , (Weight, 20, 3, 10.)
Tenor-John Mather Leet. Ch:warden. Lester and Pack, of London, Fecit, 1766 (Weight, 29. 2, 9.)
The three oldest peal boards in the belfry record peals in 1740, 1770 and 1796. Records show that there was a very active "state of affairs" up to around 1926, after which a period of comparative inactivity appears to have prevailed till 1952, when the bells were rehung, with the back eight on self-aligning ball-bearings-but unfortunately still retaining the old " 1766 " headstocks.
The last 15 years have been once again "quite lively" and have seen St. Margaret's contributing to the peal columns with quite regular frequency, and the tower peal book. started when the bells were rehung, records some 39 peals to date.

Norwich Diocesan Association's 90 Years of Ringing

By CANON GILBERT THURLOW

Norwicb Diocesan Association of Ringers has just completed 90 years of active life. It was founded on April 4th, 1877. Its inaugural meeting was held at Norwich on September 24 th that year, when ringing took place in eight of the city churches. Alas! ringing is possible in only five of these today.

Ringing had been expertly carried on here many years before this.
The "Norwich Scholars" were traditionally founded in the early years of the 17 th century, and there are many references to ringing in the city court books.
In 1716 the Scholars anticipated the Welfare State by organising a benefit society among themselves.

On May 2nd, 1715, they rang at Mancroft the first peal of 5,040 changes ever achieved and on November 17th, 1835, they achieved at St. Andrew's a far greater feat-the first peal of London Surprise, quite the most difficult method in general use even today.

But this activity was largely in the secular sphere. For 200 years the puritanical dislike of associating "fun" with faith had driven ringers to find their fellowship in the pub, rather than in church.

Then in the 19th century the Oxford Movement led the Church to recover herself. Ringing recovered its vocation as the proclamation of the Gospel and in each diocese a diocesan ringers' association was founded with this in mind.

Guildford Handbell Record Unbeaten

NORBURY ATTEMPT ONE COURSE SHORT

24,120 Plain Bob Royal on Handbeils at Norbury, Cheshire, on December 23rd, 1967. The tradition of attempting a long peal at or around Christmas time in the Manchester area was maintained in 1967. This was the sixth time a peal has been attempted, the successes of past years being:-

1961: 16,920 Yorkshire Surprise Royal, Worsley.
1962: 15,904 Plain Bob Major on handbells, Marple.
1963: 13,320 Plain Bob Royal on handbells, Marple, and 21,600 Spliced Treble Bob Major, Loughborough.
1965: 17,248 Yorkshire Surprise Major, Accrington.
1966: 10,032 Plain Bob Maximus on handbells, Marple
This year it was decided to try and ring 4,120 Plain Bob Royal on handbells with a view to capturing the following records:
(i) The longest handbell peal ( 19,738 Stedman Caters at Guildford in 9 hours and 32 minutes on August 31st, 1912);
(ii) The longest peal on ten bells $(21,363$ Stedman Caters at Appleton in 12 hours and 25 minutes on April 22nd, 1922);
(iii) The longest peal of Royal ( 16,920 Yorkshire Surprise Royal at Worsley in 11 hours and 14 minutes on December 23rd, 1961).

The composition was chosen so as to beat in time as well as changes the 12 hours and 25 minutes of the Appleton peal. Assuming a normal peal time of 2 hours and 36 minutes, a 24,120 would have taken 12 hours and 29 minutes to ring. However, this was not to be, as will be explained below.

The ringers met at $8.20 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. outside Norbury Church logether with the two umpires. Two of the ringers had brought their own chairs and several cushions, hoping thereby to ease the aching backs that were to come.

Once installed in the belfry and the size of handbells decided upon ( 15 in C), a few rounds were rung before the attempt got under way at $8.42 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. The first course was a little unsteady but the ringing soon settled down and a good standard of striking was achieved and maintained. The first part, 42 courses in the backstroke home, was rung in four hours, and the second part, 42 courses in the tittums plus a turning course, was completed in a little over eight hours. 15,300 had now been rung and the 15,840 Plain Bob Royal record of 1953 was in sight. This was passed after 8 hours and 23 minutes, 213 minutes longer than the Bournemouth ringers took though their handbells were smaller in size ( 11 in G).

The third part of the composition, 24 courses in the backstroke home, was almost half rung when one of the band stated that he was mentally tired and asked for the peal to be called round. The ringing in the past hour had been faster than previously and so it was slowed down in an effort to help. In the circumstances the conductor decided to carry on until the last course of the part, when a decision would be made whether to continue or bring the bells round.
All went well until the 108 th course, when a slight hesitation caused a mistake at the Middle position. The bells were quickly righted but he mistake was the one blemish in what had been until then a peal of a high standard. Accordingly it was felt that the Stedman Caters handbell record should not be passed, and the Before in the last course of the part was omitted and a single Home called, thus bringing the bells round at 19,260 changes, one course short of the record. It was an unfortunate end to the attemot, but it was an attempt which brought home to the band just how formidable is the handbell record set by Alfred Pulling in 1912 .

No plans have been made as yet for another attempt and it is expected that should another attempt on the handbell record be made. a change of method will also be made, either to Stedman Caters or Treble Bob Royal.

The band would like to express their thanks to the umpires-Alan Scholfield and Christine Andrew-for checking all the calls. coursing orders and course ends, and to the Vicar and tower captain at Norbury for making the church and belfry available for the attempt.
What next? is the inevitable question. Various suggestions were made afterwards, including a raising of the Surprise record of 21,600 Bristol. 20.000 London Surprise Royal or 10,000 -odd Triples.

WINTRY CONDITIONS AT GORLESTON A.G.M.

Despite very wintry conditions, 35 members attended the annual meeting of the Eastern Branch held at Gorleston-on-Sea on December 9 th .

Officers elected for 1968 were: Chairman, Rev. P. N. Bond: secretary, Mr. N. P. J. Cossey: Ringing Master, Mr. J. B. Pickup; standing committee, Mr. T. J. Brock and Mr. A. E. Crowe: Branch committee. Miss M Kindred Messrs. A. H. Roberts, J. W. Forder, J. B. Gorrod and S. F. High.

The president of the Association (Mr. F. N. Golden) thanked the Branch officers for serving the Branch well and paid tribute to its work during the year

Meetung dates for 1968 were arranged for February 17 th (Haddiscoe), May 18th. October 5 th and December 7th (Branch annual).
The following new ringing members were elected: Mrs. R. F. Deal (Acle) Mr J. Webb (Rollesby). Mr. M. Davies and Mr. P Gorrod (Carlon Colville), Mr. B. Barber (Norton Subcourse) was elected to life membership.
The chairman thanked the Rector of Gorleston, the Rev. A. S. Clemens, for the use of the hells and for conducting the service, the organist and the ladies for the excellent tea served.

BEAMINSTER REACH  £4,000 TARGET

The Lord Bishop of Salisbury (the Rt. Rev. J. E. Fison) performed the ceremony of rehallowing the Thomas Bilbie bells of St. Mary's, Beaminster, Dorset, in the presence of a congregation of almost 500 on December 17th. The bells had been tuned and turned by John Taylor and Co. and provided with a steel frame to replace the old oak frame. Bilbie cast the eight in a weaving shed adjoining the church in 1764.
It was an inspiring service with good sing. ing led by the parish choir, under the leadership of Mr. Pannell. The service was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. D. V. Galloway) and the lesson read by the captain of the ringers (Mr. J. T. Barrett). The bell anthem was sung by the choir and the dedication of the bells took place beneath the tower.
At the conclusion of the hallowing the Bishop handed the rope to the Vicar, saying: "Receive these bells that have been solemnly set apart from all profane and unhallowed uses as a sacred trust committed unto thee as the minister of Christ in this church, and take care that they be ever and only used in God's service and to His glory."

Rounds were then rung by J. P. Fidler (representative of Loughborough Foundry) 1, Mrs. Edna Pannell 2, Janet Atbey 3, Gerald Pidgeon 4, A. T. Meech 5. A. Winters 6, W C. Poole 7. W. Glyde (Bridport) 8.

The Bishop based his address on the inscription on the 23 cwt . tenor: "I to the church the living call and to the grave do summon all." He said the bell would do its stuft but would the living not only hear it but also come? "You can transform Beaminster and the sur rounding ccuntry if you hear the bells and do what they are trying to tell you to do.
God grant that we may live up to the call of the bells in Beaminster. This evening is a time for rejoicing at what has been achieved by combined effort. Now the bells are back they will ring.
After the service the Bishop joined the Beaminster ringers, members of the P.C.C. and of the rehanging fund committee for light refreshments at The Greenwood Tree. The bells were rung until 8.45 p.m. by visitors from the Salisbury and Bath and Wells Guilds.
The band desire to congratulate Arthur Fidler and Eric Fowler on a job well done. The "go" of the bells is excellent and all that's needed now are two new trebles to fill the gaps in the frame! The target of $£ 4,000$ was tea hed on December 30 th, so all are very well satisfied.

THE LADIES' GUILD

The Central District of the Ladies' Guild held their last meeting of the Old Year at St. Michacl's, Wood Green, on December 30th. Ringing during the afternoon and evening, ar ranged to suit all tastes, included an allladies course of Cambridge.
A happy gathering of old friends and new enjoyed a sumptuous spread provided by some members of the committee, supplemented by Peter's tea. The Supporters' Club members very kindly washed up while the ladies held heir business meeting, during which Miss Lesley Hawes, of Kingston upon Thames, and Miss Monica Coningsby, of Melburn, were welcomed to membership. The annual District meeting will be held on March 30th.
Rumour has it that three members of long standing, who all bear the same name, have made a New Year resolution to grow a bit, since one of them almost became airborne.

ELGII LIMTLE BEAUTIES

By STANLEY G. SCOTT

ITwas 9 p.m. and the last practice before Christmas had ended. The band stood in groups around the ringing chamber, chatting as they donned their coats.
A raised voice carried to me as I hitched up the five-minute bell . . "If you're willing then I'll finish it !" . . . Interested, I joined the group by the seventh and learned that the last $£ 10$ of the Easthampstead Bell Fund was being paid. Ken and John were writing their cheques.
I crossed to the notice board and wrote "Bell Fund Closed," heavily underlining the last word across our progress chart
This, to me, was the hour of success, the final reckoning of a long, arduous but worth while job.
With an hour to celebrate, the band dispersed, briefly to meet again in the Green Man, where, reminiscing over the past two years, the memories came back in chronological disorder, each remembering his or her own particular highlight of the affair, and which 1 shall attempt to assemble in the order of events.
John's final payment was ironically apt as it was he who started it all by ringing the tenor and unwittingly shearing the gudgeon, puting an end to an era of good progress on the old unmelodious six.

NEW SCHEME

In this bar the scheme was born after that eventful practice and our ideas were later put to the entire band and it was duly voted to attempt to obtain permission to recast the six instead of a repair to the tenor-a recast plus two trebles, as it eventually turned out.
Eight spanking, bright little beauties i
At the start, high-pressure enthusiasm was frustrated by a slow pace in gelting things moving. Estimates, letters to and fro, P.C.C. meetings, Frank "putting it over," Branch meetings, Guild meetings, more estimates, visits by foundry heads, sketches, measurements, faculties, permissions . . . and a policy.

A committee was formed within the band to follow the agreed undertaking by the Easthampstead ringers to take down the old six bells and deliver them to London. To collect frame parts and make up the frame (oak) for two additional bells, to alter the stairway to the roof, necessary to accommodate the octave, to collect the new ring and provide labour, assisting the hanging and fitting of same.
For the sum of nearly $£ 1,100$ the six bells were to be recast into eight and the necessary fittings, bearings, etc., to be supplied.

SCEPTTCAL P.C.C

Of this sum the P.C.C. agreed to pay $£ 125$ (estimated cost to have the damaged tenor repaired) and the remainder to be found by the Easthampstead ringers outside the parish so as not to compete with funds to be raised for a new church hall.

So with an enthusiastic Rector, full co-operation from the foundry and agreement from, at first, a sceptical P.C.C.. we started work.

The unimportant little things as well as the milestones in those busy months stand out in retrospect.
The cold and the sweat, hot coffee late at night on a scaffold board in a belfry strewn with ear, tackle, beams, spanners and pigeon feathers. Shifting steel gantries and heavy deals, danglins bells and dropping nuts, moving over a frame half empxy of its bells, four hours of suspended labour getting the old tenor from its pit where it had crashed awkwardly.

Sleeping well at nights, three or four times a week and Saturdays. Grimy and cired, snatching a quick one before closing.
Joan's unusual make-up of bell smudge collected in her hauling up, fetching, carrying, paising and holding role, an often colder part of the work, while the rest of the team, Frank (without whom I am sure we would never have got through), John and myself, hoisted and swung the bells, stripping them naked before lowering to the whirling harshness of the chain tackle as each pit was emptied
Via digger-shovel and builder's lorry the bells were delivered to Whitechapel and then the wait for casting.

Ringing practice during this period continued through the hospitauty of Bintield, Warfield and other neighbouring towers, to whose bands we were indebted.

MINIMUS CONTEST

In our spare time away from the tower we wrote letters to ringers, towers, industrial companies, corporations-any organisation that could help our financial problem. Jumble sales, whist drives, collections at meetings (as at the "Great Minimus Contest," Pamber Priory)-the process of obtaining nearly $£ 900$ was working. Everyone was puling togetker, the less able-bodied members of the band making every effort to bring in the "lolly "even to making and selling rhubarb and fig jam (Medical Guild please note!). And all the time a steady response came from Frank's appeal.
It was this outside response from ringers which kept us looking forward and renewed our enthusiasm for the work ahead.
Action again. The frame parts arrived and we were aloft in the night as the alterations to the frame and roof stairs were made. A huge clean-up and then another clean-up-a contract secured to clean, scrape and repaint the steel bell frame at Warfield and another £50 in the fund.

THE CASTING

Guild and Branch grants helped to lessen the deficit. The Barron Trust was unfortunately barren, but the steady sympathetic flow of donations from ringers everywhere proved to be the backbone of the fund.
The casting of the new octave (tenor 6 cwt . 9 lb . in C) proved a delight to witness, and later that day a ring with the foundrymen and a night on the town. A memorable day also not entirely deficient of bell smudge!
A lapse in our labouring passed all too quickly as the effect of working long hours was beginning to be felt.
The arrival of Harry Parkes, however, got us back into trim. More evenings in the tower, days on end for Frank, an occasional quick call to the Green Man and tales of Other towers from "you know who" of Washington repute.
Visions of Harry in the pits with his huge tightening-up spanner, grunting and sweating with effort between utterances of "That'll hold it !" The precise way the bells slipped on to their bearings and the belfry populated again -a good sight.
The final adjustments and a hurried goodbye to Harry, off to Tonbridge, and another deadline.

The dedication service followed and the meeting together of many old friends and new, of famous names and personalities in the Exercise and the day shadowed only by the absence of Canon Thurlow, who was attending another similar function.
The first peal was scored and then back to the grind of finding funds, and this the hardest struggle. Back also to the business of ringing in a tower of our own, to teaching and progress.
The ship's bell in the Green Man rang for "time" and I realised then that it was all over, the moment we had all longed for had arrived, and I remember with pleasure the team work it was my privilege to be conneceed with, and this, together with enthusiasm, spelled "eight little beaulies" at Easthampstead.

LATE NOTICES  CHANGE OF ADDRESS

The Fine Example of Edwin G. Buck

" The good that men do . . ." that saying will surely be proved false now that Eddie is with us no more. Edwin G. Buck, Baldock born and bred, 50 years of age, passed away on Saturday, December 30th. He was a model and example to all on how a life should be lived.

A true Christian, who regularly worshipped

 at St. Mary's, Baldock, from boyhood until the last time on Christmas Day morning, he served his church as bellringer, as P.C.C. member, and at decanal conferences, at bazaars, fetes and jumble sales and whenever help was needed to clear the cobwebs in church or belfry. He enjoyed life to the full but never to excess. He could tell and take a joke. His interests ranged from matchbox-top collecting to football and cricket, but none gave him more pleasure than his interest in bell ringing and the whole of the ringing world.He rang at Baldock for 34 years and was captain of the band for 19 years until he had to give up ringing owing to ill-health nearly two years ago. He raised a band after the war from four to eighteen, whose capabilities were always catered for twice each Sunday and on practice nights. In the tower he held the reins firmly on the eager up-and-coming youngsters and influenced the older members diplomatically. He was hard with the sloppy handler and tender towards the lady member with blistered hands. He made all visitors welcome when they came, the call change ringer from Suffolk, the past master of the College Youths, who was surprised to find some "fair old Bristol" being rung. He was as happy with the jarring handstroke leads of the treble ringer who was ringing a first peal of Minor to the (as he remembered it) spinetingling sensation of Stedman Caters in the Tittums with an expert band.
He will be remembered most, perhaps, for the outings he loved to arrange to the "beauties " of Kent or the Herts County Association annual meeting, or one of his early ones one Christmas, when he took his youngsters on a cycle trip in pouring rain to the surrounding villages to make sure the bells were rung that

MR. T. H. RADFORD

It came as a great shock to his many friends in the East Derbyshire and West Nottingham Association area to hear of the sudden death in hospital of Mr. Thomas H. Radford on December 10 th at the age of 58 .

A pative of Tibshelf, he had given many years of service as a ringer to this tower and was captain of the ringers for at least 12 years. He was a prominent member of the East Derbyshire and West Nottingham Association and served for several years as hon. secretary and Central Council representative. He was also a vice-president of the Association. He will be greatly missed, especially by those whom he bad recently taught to ring.

Several ringers from the area bade him farewell by ringing half-muffled touches on the bells at Tibshelf at the funeral service on December 15 th and also before Evensong on the following Sunday.

On December 31st a half-muffled peal was rung to his memory on the bells he knew so well by members of the Association. We thank God for his life's work and remember with gratitude the friendship we had the good fortune to share with him. May he rest in peace.

Christmas-even a ring rung dead he rang that day. He was given immense pleasure in the last months of his illness at home by having some of the Sunday morning gisirier peals, rung when his band was at its height, played back oft tape by one of his vist ing friends. He was honoured by his Association for all his work and being Northern District secretary by being made president in 1957, and also again on January 5th at a service at St. Mary's before his cremation, by so many of his friends and associates coming to pay their last respects to a fine man. A course of Bob Major was rung in church with his own handbells. It was so very easy to travel along with him, but some are already finding it so hard to follow after him. Our sympathy goes out to his widow and two sons, whose loss is greater even than that of the ringing world. He carried his cross so well, which was made that much heavier by the active life he led. Well rung, Eddie!

MR. J. H. BEALE

From the age of 12 , when he was taught to ring by the late Arthur Aldham, of Barwell, Mr. Joseph Harry Beale had been a member of the Wolvey (near Hinckley) band-a period of 54 years.

He emulated his father both as a ringer and as churchwarden, an office which he held until his death.

At the funeral service four members of the Coven'ry Guild, to which he belonged, rang a course of Grandsire Triples, and those taking part were Mr and Mrs. Arthur Beamish, Frank Perrins and Hubert Summers.

The loyalty which Joe had towards his church was of the quality which is becoming very rare and a lot of people will mourn the loss of a good man.
T.C.B.

MR. S. WALTER

The death has occurred recently in a Canterbury hospital of Mr. Sidney Walter, of Wickhambreaux. Mr. Walter, who was 84, had been a ringer since the turn of the century, having learnt at his parish church, and was in the inaugural peal when the bells were rehung in 1906 He had been a churchwarden for many years and was the first person in the village to hold a driving licencel

He had been a member of the Kent County Associaticn since 1907, and became a member of the Canterbury Cathedral band in 1945, and was elected its president in 1962, being still in office at his death.

He saw service in Africa and France during the 1914-18 war and used to amuse the cathedral ringers when, with the late Jack Unwin, they used to greet each other in Swahili! Until recent years he was a regular attender at meeting and rarely missed a ring at the Cathedral and would, even when in his seventies, cycle the six miles each way to be preent when his car was out of action. He was held in high esteem by all his fellow ringers and many of his old friends will miss him greatly.
Mr. Walter was cremated privately, but a memorial service is to be arranged at a later date at Wickhambreaux. of which due notice will be given, when it is hoped that many of his friends will be present to pay their respects to a most lovable fellow ringer. B.J.L.

MISS M. M. RAVEN - DAUGHTER OF BELL HISTORIAN

On December 30th Miss Margaret Milville Raven died at a Bungay, Suffolk, nursing home at the age of 91 . The funeral was at Fressingfield, Suffolk, on January 4th.
She was the younger daughter of the late Dr. J. J. Raven, D.D., master of Bungay Grammar School and of Great Yarmouth, and Vicar of Fressingfield from 1885.
About 1870, while at Yarmouth, Dr. Raven published his "Church Bells of Cambridgeshire," and while at "Fressingfield his "Church Bells of Suffolk" was published in 1890. He began collecting information for this latter work while his father was curate at Mildenhall, Suffolk. He made his first notes on August 28th, 1848, and the last ones on August 28th, 1890 -exactly 42 years later.

Margaret Raven lived in Fressingfield until about 12 years ago, at first going to St . Barnabas', Southwold. Suffolk, then on to Bungay. She was a typical Victorian lady-most pleasant in conversation and manner generally.
She once told me of an experience which would have alarmed anyone, to say nothing of a lady living on her own. It was at her Fressingfield house and the middle of the night. She was awakened by much noise down-stairs-flaps, bangs, bumps and rattles. Many would have stayed in bed with but one eye above the sheet, hoping for the best, but Miss Raven went down to investigate and found that an owl had come down the chimney and was fluttering about the room knocking ornaments from the mantelpiece and rattling pictures against the walls. She let the bird out of the window and set about clearing up the wreckage and soot,

I was living at Eye, Suffolk, when 1 last spoke to her. She asked me where my house was and I told her that it was at the foot of the Castle Mound. This mound rises steeply on all sides to about 50 feet. She said that the previous year (when she must have been in her late 70's) she had a mind to see the view from the top of the mound and was shown the way to go. She went on: "My word! What a path! But after much slipping and sliding, holding on to bushes and twigs, I pulled myself to the top. But then I had to get down, which was much worse. So turned up my skirts and slid down on my bottom."
It is significant that two days after she died the present Vicar of Fressingfield died in a Scole, Norfolk, nursing home, aged 79 . He was the Rev. Bernard Thursby Pitts, and had been in charge of Fressingfield for 32 years. He was huried in Fressingfield Churchyard an hour before Miss Raven. And so the old world rolls on !

Letters to the Editor

MORE STRAIGIA WURUS 10 LEICESTER
Dear Sir, - With reference to the letter "Straight Words to Leicester Guild " signed "Ringing Master" and published in the issue of December 8 th, a number of people have asked me if I was the writer. I have informed all such inquirers I was not. If I am sufficiently moved to write to a journal I do not propose to lurk behind a nom-de-plume. 1 have a name and am not afraid to use it.

May I say, however, that I strongly endorse the major portion of the contents of the said letter, possibly excepting the point about learners needing to learn to ring on all numbers of bells. This is grandly idealistic, but for the most part highly impracticable.

I would like to underline two points made in the letter. Firstly, that concerning the basic object-" To promote ringing for divine service," and secondly, letting petty arguments and disagreements be forgotten. Regarding the latter. I would think that among professing Christians (which we are-aren't we?) such malign circumstances should not be allowed to arise. Perhaps this is being grandly idealistic, too. humans being as they are.

A genuine spirit of Christian fellowship must prevail among ringers if we are to do our job properly Fortunately, a great deal of this does exist, but more is needed still.

As we all know, there are a few ringers who ring purely for pleasure and self-aggrandisement. These may indeed be good ringers and give much thought to accuracy of striking, etc., but little or none to the real purpose for which church bells are rung. This, of course, is quite undesirable but, as I wrote in a previous letter on this subject, I believe these ringers to be (happily) in the minority.-Yours sincerely,

> RONALD D. HIGUES

Secretary, Leicester District.
Mr. J. J. Pawley also writes that the comments are addressed to a small minority. "1 have been a member of the Leicester Guild for 20 years and I ring for most services and practice nights and I am sure the majority of members do the same."

CONTROVERSY

Dear Sir,-Having followed with considerable interest the series of letters on bellringing in Kent. I feel bound to reply to Mr. J. Hedgcock's letter ("Ringing World", page 931).

Although I am very interested in ringing. I have never held a bell rope in my life nor, for that matter, been inside a tower, but I was under the impression that bellringing was in some way connected with churches, and churches with Christianity. On reading Mr. 3. Hedgcock's letter I find no trace of Christian thinking whatsoever.

The discussion concerning who rang what is purely academic. What is disturbing is the arrogance of the writer whose letter shows a parochial prejudice which on a broader scale is known as nationalism.

Mr Hedgcock writes from Christ Church College, which is a teachers' training college. I hope he does not impart such personal bias to his future teaching.

From his remarks on peal ringing one can only assume that he prefers to ning peals and has very little time for anything else. Perhaps his pique is a result of his not being able to form a band, and one does not have to look far for the reason.-Yours faithfully

CALL-CHANGE RINGERS

Dear Sir,-An apology and an observation on Mr G. Beavis' letter in the December 29th issue. May I, a "method" ringer deep in "call-change" country, apologise on behalf of all my call-change friends for his treatment in Plymouth? This is a very isolated case I can assure you, Mr. Beavis. May I recommend your chairman to come to N . Devon next year, where in any call-change tower he will receive a cordial and most friendly welcome. It has been my privilege many times to ring with tws of the top teams in the competition world, namely West Down and Swimbridge. At each tower the welcome and invitation to ring have been spontancous; this would apply to all ringers whatever the standard of their ringing.

Which brings me to my observation. Having rung peals for 23 years does not qualify a ringer as being a good striker in call-change ringing. Peal ringing is not the yardstick for good striking. To these men the quality of any ringer's striking is judged by his performance on the end of a rope during the 60 on thirds, not by the number of peals he has rung and conducted.
Do not run away with the idea that callchange ringing to the vastly experienced method ringer is a simple exercise requiring little concentration; it is not. repeat not. To adapt oneself to the "cartwheel" rhythm takes a great deal of practice. To achieve the exceptionally high standard of such teams as West Down, Swimbridge and Down St. Mary takes mon:hs, perhaps years, of dedicated practice by six fanatically keen ringers who live for good striking. Also, each ringer sticks to one bell. This is essential in competition ringing, except for two notable exceptions, that is, Both Mervyn Phillips, of West Down. and Jack Toose, of Swimbridge. started on the back-end; now they both ring treble to an outstanding degree of accuracy, yet each man has his individual style in pitch, rise and lower.

Do send your chairman to N. Devon this year, Mr. Beavis-he will be made mast welcome I can assure you.-Yours, etc.,

EASTHAMPSTEAD'S "TEN IITTLE BEAUTIES"

Dear Sir,-In connection with my article on the Easthampstead Bell Fund I would like to add that should any band have similar aims I would advise that some experience and absolute stringent safely precautions are essential to such a project.

Safety coupled with insurance was my most urgent demand while working in the tower and I cannot stress the importance of this 100 much.

I have mentioned the names of those concerned manually with Easthampstead's effort but those who are nameless are nevertheless appreciated as contributing an essential Dart of the whole.

On behalf of the band I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude and thanks to Messirs Mears and Stainhank and every donor to our fund, whether their contribution was in cash or kind. large or small. and withou whose support and trust we could never have achieved our target.-Yours etc.,

STANLEY G. SCOTT,
Tower Captain.
Easthampstead. Berks.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

Dear Sir, - I am delighted to see that at last someone has questioned the principles behind Westminster Abbey ringing Perhaps it is understandable that louring ringers are not allowed to ring there, but it is unforgivable not to permit Sunday service ringing.

There has been a Guild of ringers at the Abbey since its foundation. They were granted a charter to ring the "great bells" by Henry III in 1254, for one hundred shillings per annum This is probably the first example of professional ringing!
If the Dean has any doubts as to the function of ringing a letter from an officer of the Central Council might dispel them. If this is not sufficient a letter to the highest Abbey authority, the Queen, might help. As to the closed shop principle, restriction of ringing to the two senior ringing Societies would ensure ringing of a high standard at this national showpiece.
The rather sad history of professional ringing in a closed shop on special occasions must be changed in the interest of the Exercise's aims, and I feel the Central Council holds the remedy.-Yours faithfully,
D. BARTON.

Pulborough, Sussex.

Dear Sir,-Mr. Frank Tonge, of Longparish, questions the arrangements for ring.ng at Westminster Abbey and suggests that these are different from any other part of the country. I venture to suggest they are not entirely; it is simply another case of the ringing fraternity being badly represented.
I, personally, do not mind if I never ring at the Abbey and am content if the bells are rung on all proper occasions and a high standard of striking is maintained. There are, however, weaknesses in the present system. I understand from a reliable source that on the occasion of a memorial service to three murdered policemen the Dean invited police ringers to officiate in the belfry. This invitation was later withdrawn and, at the time, I wondered why. The police ringers were relegated to St. Margaret's to pay their tribute on behalf of their colleagues but the newspapers reported that the bells of the Abbey were rung by policemen!
What zan we do about this situation generally? No ringer can deny there are advantages because it is good public relations for what ringing takes place to be faultless. The "firing" which is often part of visiting bands' activity should not be tolerated at the Abbey. One answer would be regular open times under proper supervision, not the "catch hold free for all" type. But, regretfully, I feel this would never be a success. So let us tolerate the injustice except when we are really let down. If the Dean receives enough ' 1 ers on the subject perhaps he may feel there is sufficient justification to make arrangements for more flexible representation at the Abbey. - Yours faithfully,
K. TABER.

ROPE LENGTHS AT MEETINGS

Dear Sir.-The letter on page 933 of the December 22nd issue reminded me of an incldent in the early 1930's when attendine. ng practice at Lyme Regis. A travelling circus was visiting the town, and one of its very small people armed himself with an orange box from the greengrocer's. We assisted him on to the top and he turned the tenor in to Bob Minor!
I think boxes are the only answer to rope lengths to suit tall and short.-Yours sincerely, JOSEPH T. BARRETT

SHORT RUPES AT KENT MEETING
Dear Sir,-With regard to the letter from Anthea Sparshott and Paul Ebsworth concerning rope lengths at meetings, 1 would like to state that the tower referred to in the tetter was not Milton Regis, although the name was not mentioned. The ringers at Milton are all young, and with only myself over 5 ft . 2 in . (the height mentioned in the letter). Although our ringing is by no means first-class, it is not grotty."
1 would have assumed that any ringer capable of ringing Cambridge Minor should be capable of lengthening the tail-end of the rope.

Knowing the experienced ringers present, I am sure they would have altered any rope had they been asked. To my knowledge the ropes were altered to help other ringers during the meeting

Surcly the criterion is "If in doubt, ask." - Yours sincerely,
G. WOOD.

NEWBURY BELLS

Dear Sir,-I read with interest Mr. A. Whittle's letter recalling the time when he was head gardener here in the Newbury district during the 1930's.

I must correct him in saying that Newbury's bells are a fine eight by "Rudhall." The back eight are a complete ring cast by James Wells of Aldbourne, Wilts Two trebles cast by Mears and Stainbank were added in 1936 and now make a very modest ring of ten-Yours sincerely,

REG W REX.

CLOSING HOUR OF MEETINGS

Dear Sir,-As secretary and captain of the Wonersh tower, I feel that I owe Mr. Uphill and his companions an apology if they felt that they had been rebuffed and left in the cold churchyard. It certainly was a cold and foggy $n$ :ght. which was the reason for the meeting closing down so early.

I had to leave at $6.45 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. to pick up my wife and go into Guildford to visit a friend in hospital Before leaving I left the key with one of our members to lock up as soon as everyoody had gone. It seems that the tower was empty at about $7 \mathrm{pm} . \mathrm{m}$. so that it was locked and the meeting closed.
Might I suggest that in future Mr. Uphill notifies the secretary in charge of meetings if he intends to visit a tower, so that he may not again be disappointed? I shall be pleased to make arrangements for him to ring at Wonersh at some future date. - Yours sincerely, Wonersh.

PEAL RECORDS FOR 1967

We are panning to puolish, as in previous years, individual peal totals tor 1967. Tuis list is being prepared by Mr. David A. Burt, assisted by his wife, of 49, Ambleside Koad, Mingsway, Hath. For the purpose of checking, ringers are asked to submit their totals (tower and hand), and also the number conducted, to him.

No 1967 peals received after the end of this month can be included in this record or that of the Peals Analysis Committee.

While Mr. and Mrs. Hunt have enjoyed the work they feel they have not the time available to continue the recordings for 1968. They will be pleased to give particulars to anyone interested.

DOWN UNDER

Melbourne Cathedral ringers were ringing on New Year's Eve from 6 p.m. until 1 p.m. with a few breaks during service.
The Grandsire Cinques rung half-muffled while the people were arriving for the memorial service for Australia's Prime Minister in Melbourne Cathedral made an effective background to the broadcast. In Great Britain the tenor note from tolling was heard only.
The marriage took place on January 6th of Mary Cowling and David Heyes, two Melhourne Cathedral ringers, at Caulfield, where Mary's father is Vicar. She rang in a handbelli peal conducted by the Rev. Malcolm Melville during Great Adventure II.

Spending the New Year in Perth are Jack and Gwen Roper. On January 6th they were joined by Helen Henderson.

Jenny Lees and Helen Henderson plan to come to England, probably at the end of July. Some Sydney ringers are also hoping to make the journey

From Bendigo we hear that Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Martin had John's parents from Woking with them for Christmas. Pam Warren, formerly of Guildford, also joined them.

DIED IN BELFRY ON CHRISTMAS EVE

The suaucir passing of Mr. Jonn Lindsey, of Foikingham, Lincolnshire, at the age of 74 , on December 24 th , came as a great shock to the local band. Although he had been in somewhat failing health for some time, he still maintained his interest and rang regularly for Sunday services. The customary Christmas Eve ringing at St. Andrew's Church, Folkingham, was in progress, in which Mr. Lindsey was taking part, when he coilapsed and died.
Jack, as he was best known, first learned to ring at Folkingham (where he was born and lived all his life) in 1912. He served through the 1914-18 war and saw service in France, where he was badly wounded by shrapnel. After being in hospital for many months he eventually returned home and, resumeng nis previous employment. returned to the belfry. He rang his first and only peal when he was in his 7uth year to mark his 50 years' service as a Sunday service ringer, two other members of the local band sharing the same honour.

The funeral service on December 30th was largely attended and was conducted by the Rector, Canon F. R. Money, M.A., assis!ed by the Rev. R. Worsdall (curate, and a ringer). The Rector, in a tribute, mentioned Mr. Lindsey's long and faithful service as a service ringer to St. Andrew's Church. After the service the six bells were rung half-muffled as a last token of respect by the local band assisted by other ringers and concluded with a 720 of Plain Bob. Sympathy is extended to the widow and daughter, Miss Ivy Lindsey, who is a member of the local band.

BATH BRANCH'S RECORD MEMBERSHIP

The annual meeting of the Bath Branch was held at St. Michael with St. Paul's on January 6 th . Ringing took place on the octave prior to the fully cnoral service, at which the Rector (the Rev. C. Holden) officiated. A record number of 92 ringers sat down to the always enjoyable tea ai the Church Hall.
The meeting was under the chairmanship of Mr. George Hawkins. Members stood to the memory of two staunch members who had passed away during 1967-Mr. Walter Starr (Swainswick) and Mr. Sidncy King (Corston), hoth of whom had been tower captains for a number of years.

The secretary and treasurer (Alan Lee) reported with pleasure that the membership of the Branch had now reached a record height of 196, a rise of 26 on the previous year. Another encouraging feature was the increase in the number of towers now ringing regularly on a Sunday. Marksbury had now rejoined the Association with an enthusiastic band. The meetings held had all been successful with an average attendance of nearly 50 . Batheaston bells have been restored and augmented to eight, also major repairs to the towers at Upper Weston and Dunkerton-all this work has been completed.
Instruction classes have been held at Bathampton. Wellow. Freshford and Upper Weston. All these towers are now ringing reguarly both on a Sunday and practice nughts. Methods rung are increasing in variety and quarter peals have been scored up to Beverley Surprise. Peals rung in the Branch have increased by five to 17 and have been spread evenly throughout the Branch.

Owing to the illness of the chairman, the Rev. Francis Pollard, he was not sceking reelection, so the following were elected to serve during 1968: Chairman, George Hawkins (St. Michael with St. Paul's); vice-chairmen, Leslie Taylor (Corston) and the Rev. C. Holden (St. Michael with St. Paul's); secretary and treasurer, Alan Lee (Twerton): Ringing Masters, John Owen (Abbey) and Harold Parfree (Corston). Eighteen new members were elected-six from Keynsham, three each from Bathwick and Marksbury and two each from Corston. Bathford and Dunkerton.
It is hoped to hold meetings at Marksbury, Bathwick, Batheaston, with the annual at St. Michael with St. Paul's and the Corporate Communion at Keynsham.

Among the visitors were the Frome Branch secretary (Ted Chivers) and the Axbridge secretary (Miss Marjorie Legg) and ringers from Chilcompton, Bristol (St. Philip's). Clifton, Cam, Worle, Compton Bishop and Newport (Mon.).

HANDBELL RINGERS OF GREAT BRITAIN

St. Cuthbert's, Kirkby-in-Furness, Handbell Ringers. Started as a family team by N. M. Newby. In 1954 the team took part in a television top town contest for Ulverston against Stockton-on-Tees. In 1962 the Newbys moved to St. Cuthbert's, Kirkby-in-Furness and all the family became ringers.

Mr. Newby has also trained a team of the "Over 60 Club" who entertain at other clubs and ring carols at their own annual carol service, and this was done for the third time last month.

Liss Handbell Ringers started in 1966 by carolling around the village at Christmas to collect money for the old folks. The band consists of seven people-Mr. Tom Boules (captain), Mr. B. S. Gambrill and five young members. The repertoire consists of tunes and carols and a start has been made with musical notation (previously untimed numeric notation). The 25 bells (two octaves) by Mears (c. 1900) are the property of Mr. Bowles.
Norbury Handbell Ringers, - The team was in existence before the 1914-18 war, the set of bells (about 60) being privately owned by James Fernley, and practices were held at his home. Public performances continued until the early 1930s, when James Ferniey, jun., took over the team. In 1937 the present set ( 166 bells) was purchased from a church at Elland, Yorks, for $£ 25$. Practically all the bells were green with mould but were soon restored to a reasonable condition.
The team disbanded at the outbreak of war in 1939 and did not resume until 1946. In 1949 the bells were sent to Messrs. Mears and Stainbank for overhaul at a cost of $£ 110$. Another overhaul at the Whitechapel Foundry took place in April, 1967. when 140 bells were retuned and polished at a cost of just over $£ 350$. Messrs. Mears and Stainbank have put the replacement value of the bells at $£ 1,587$ 10s.
On October 8th. 1966, the first handbell ringers' rally was held at the team's headquarters. In the past, similar gatherings had taken place, but these were competitive, whereas the one held at Hazel Grove was to endeavour to create more interest in the ancient art of tune ringing on handbells.

St. Thomas' Church, Moorside, Oldham,

 Handbell Ringers. - The founder of the church and provider of the bells was Mr. Thomas Mellowdue, and Mrs. Mellowdue bought a set of handbells for the sole use of the Moorside Handbell Ringers. The handbells eventually went to the Bull Head Inn. It became known that some men rang for morning service at the church and then would go straight up to the Bull for handbells (and drinks). Quite often they would stay there until it "ras time to ring for evening service again. The vicar's warden then was Mr. J. H. Dunkerley, and his wife, the daughter of the founder of the church, did not like this. Eventually she and her husband paid over a sum of money for the bells and a deed was drawn up that the handbells belonged to Moorside Church thereafter.There are $4 \frac{1}{2}$ octaves and 18 duplicates, mainly by Mears with a few by Shaw ( 73 altogether). They have given good service and pleasure to various bands for about 90 years and been used to entertain on many occasions. Most of the music is by the late

THE CHAIRMAN

Mr. William Hartley, of Stockport.

"It was a proud moment for me when I was asked to become the chairman of Handbell Ringers of Great Britain," said Mr. William Hartley, of 29, Hurdsfield Road, Great Moor, Stockport. The occasion was the second rally of handbell ringers-over 200 of them, with friends, attended at Ashton-under-Lyne on October 7th, 1967, when it was unanimously agreed to form an organisation to help to stimulate interest in tune ringing on handbells.
Born in Stockport on May 11th, 1919, Mr. Hartley had always been attached to Norbury Parish Church, Hazel Grove, where his parents were active members of the P.C.C. For 54 years his father was a tower ringer, but "Bill"

Hartley, to his father's disgust and disappointment, never followed in his footsteps.

HIS MAIN HOBBY

In 1938 the Norbury Handbell Ringers purchased a large set of handbells, and as more ringers were needed he was invited to join the team. Although he had had no musical training, except five years as a choirboy, he decided to "have a go", and eventually got the bug. This has been his main hobby ever since.

Calied up in 1939. Mr. Hartley served in the Royal Artulery until 1942, when he was sent to East Africa to help form the 1st East African Field Regiment, R.E. He travelled far-Madagascar, India and Burma-with the East African Army, and remained with them until December, 1945. He was demobilised in 1946 and the same year was married at Calne, Wilts, his wife being a staff sergeant in the A.T.S. A peal for the wedding was rung at Hazel Grove, composed by his cousin, Ernest Bennett. Their only son was born in 1948 and he is now at Sheffield University studying metallurgy.

LONG SERVICE AS CHAIRMAN

The Norbury Handbell Ringers were reformed in 1946 and at the general meeting in 1948 Mr . Hartley was elected chairman, an office he has held, apart for one year, ever since. A close liaison has been formed with the American Guild of English Handbeli Ringers, and Dr. Robert Hieber, a past president of the Guild, is a personal friend. He also corresponded frequently with the late Mrs. Alice Shurcliff.
The idea of a national organisation of handbell ringers was the outcome of a rally in October, 1966. Mr. Tom Ogden, of the Moorside Handbell Ringers, asked him to organise this rally. Commented Mr. Hartley: "I said that I would try, thinking that I would only get a mild ripple of enthusiasm, and whes most surprised when 13 teams applied to attend the first rally which I had arranged to be held at Norbury School, Hazel Grove, on October 8th. 1966."

William Gordon, of Stockport, and is suitable for five to eight ringers. Practices are held in the school on Friday nights from September until about Whitsun. Visitors and cld friends are always welcome, writes Ivan Kay.

Ordsall Handbell Ringers.-The Ordsall set of 29 bells was cast by Taylor's, probably in 1896. A quite enthusiastic team was formed and invested in many of the music sheets published by William Gordon. In 1914 most of the band went into the Forces. The bells and music were given to the verger, who put them in a box under his bed. Only one of the original band is alive today and he is still an active tower ringer despite the fact that he is in his 89th year. Between the wars the only ringing done on the bells was a little changeringing on the middle octave.
A few years after the Second World War the old verger died and the bells and music were discovered in their box by the captain and vice-captain of the present team. They set about restoring the valuable music and renovating the bells. After much work and even more patience, the team learned to ring most of the tunes on the music. Their first engagement was at an Ordsall garden party in 1950, and since then they have travelled all around Retford and district.

St. Mary's Ringers, Sileby.-Some years ago some handbells in poor condition were given to St. Mary's Church. They were used for tune ringing until enough money was raised to have them completely overhauled. Later there was an amalgamation with the ringers in the next church, who had bells in tune for Sileby's. Concert arrangements were frequent and it was decided to name the team St. Mary's Ringers.
There are 12 regular ringers with 48 bells. Ringing is "four in hand" from a system of numbers. Money is being raised to purchase more bells to improve the range and repertoire. One rule is that all ringers in the handbell team must be able to ring church bells. This year there has been a recording and interviews with the newly-formed Leicester B.B.C.
Silverdale Handbell Ringers. - Founded in 1906 by Dr. Colyer, the first conductor, with ten members and only eight bells. Now the team has 52 bells by J. Taylor, with 12 members. The conductor is Mr. Tom Bolton who has been with the team over 40 years. Under him the team has given four broadcasts on sound radio. In 1949 the team purchased an old pavilion and converted it into their headquarters. Practices are held every Monday during winter months.

In June 1966, the team was invited to ring for H.R.H. Princess Alexandra at a Lancaster University garden party. (Silverdale is on the shores of Morecambe Bay.)

LANCASHIRE ASSOCIATION

Blackburn Branch
There was much variety on the agenda for the annual meeting of the Blackburn Branch at Clitheroe on January 6th. The business meeting was preceded by ringing at Downham and Clitheroe and a pie and peas tea.

Mr F Reynolds, the general secretary of the Association, took the chair for the election of officers Mr. Pilkington was elected Ringing Master for a further two years and Mr. $\mathbb{R}$. Leigh as bell adviser.

A proposal that the voting age should be over 18 was regarded as impracticable as the majority of those present were under that age. The Branch trip to North Wales, now being organised, was discussed at length and also an amendment to the Branch Rule 3, that grants be allowed from Branch funds for augmentations and sound control.

There were hearty congratulations to the band who had been ringing in the record length of Glasgow at Accrington, with one ex-ception-a Branch member who participated when he should have been attending a Branch meeting that dayl

Ringing continued until 8.30 p.m. and varied from rounds to Spliced Major and Surprise. A. J. H.

Guildford Guild 40th Anniversary

The Guildford Diocesan Guild was founded on December 31st, 1927, and Guildford itself was not forgotten during the anniversary weekend.

On the eve of the anniversary, December 30th, a good peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal Was rung at St. Nicolas" containing several cember 31st, was at Holy Trinity, Stedman Triples being the method. The peal commenced at 8.45 p.m. and was unfortunately lost after 35 minutes; it was then too late to make a second attempt.

It is hoped that as many quarter peals and peals as possible will be attempted within the next few weeks to celebrate the 40th anniver. next few weeks to sary of the Guild.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Northern District

The A.G.M. was held on January 6th at Hitchin. Ringing commenced at 3 p.m. and Yorkshire and Stedman were achieved before the service at 4.30 , conducted by the Vicar. A buffet tea followed in the Church House.

The Vicar took the chair at the meeting, and at his suggestion members stood in silence in memory of Mr. E. G. Buck, who passed away the week before. The District report and the 'R.W." representative's report followed. In his report, Mr. C. M. Orme, the retiring secretary, said that he was sad to leave the District and wished he could have left it in a stronger position.

Recommendations for Association officers were approved and Mr. A. R. Agg explained the reason for proposing Dr . $\mathbf{D}$. L. Gullick as Association president. Mr. J. S. Dear, seconding. reminded the younger members thas although no longer so active with peal ringing, Dr. Gullick had given much to the Association in former years.
Mrs. Agg was elected as the new District secretary, resigning as Association peal secretary to be able to do so. Mr. M. D. Trigg was elected to the general committee and Mr. J. S. Dear was elected to the District committe. Other District officers were elected en hloc. The election of new members followed. Those elected were: Miss M. Barker, Miss R. Roden and R. Weedon (Sandon), Miss P. Brown (Baldock), R. Kirkpatrick (Stevenage), Miss C. Forgan, M. Marsden and W. Gentle (Hitchin).
Under "any other business" Mr. C. M. Orme reminded us that the county A.G.M. was in our District and asked for added support. A collection was taken for a wreath at Mr. Buck's funeral. The Ringing Master, Mr. M. D. Trigg, then challenged every tower in the District to ring at least one quarter this year, and offered assistance to weaker towers. Mr. Agg proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Orme for their admirable job done as District officers for two years.

Ringing resumed at 6.30 with Double Norwich. Bristol, London, Yorkshire, Cambridge and Stedman achieved.
M. R. W.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Addington, Surrey, rang 50 quarters on their bells during 1967.
Mr. Walter Ayre has now completed 60 years as a ringer.

Barry Arnold is the first local ringer at Peckleton. Leics, to ring a quarter for many years.
Dr. C. A. Lewis, who arranged the annual quarter peal to open the Wexford Music Festival, was unable to ring and his place was taken by Jim Reynolds, of John's Lane, Dublin. At the first attempt a rope broke during the sixth 120.
Mr. Richard Speed. of 88. High Street. Hillmorton. Rugby, asks for the composition of C. Middleton's used in the peal of Apsley Surprise Major on page 86. He states that if it was the well-known composition of Cambridge then the peal is faise.

Due to entertaining the blind folk of the Beccles District with handbell finging the same evening. none of the local company was able to stand in the traditional anniversary peal at Norton Subcourse. Norfolk, on December 12th. but they are grateful to the band who celebrated that memorable day with a peal in seven methods ("R.W.". December 29rh. Dage 954).

With regard to the complaint of unfriendli. ness towards visitors in a belfry (see Belfry Gossip. page 897). Mr. John W. Owen, tower Master of Bath Abbey and 50 years a member of the Bath and Wells Diocesan Association, asks us to state that a complaint respecting unfriendliness was unjustified if applied to Bath Abbey ringers.

We regret that the peal of Yorkshire Surprise Royal at Macclesfield in our last issue was a duplicate.
At the annual meeting of All Saints', West Bromwich, ringers the company was enter: tained by Mr. T. A. Cotterill (the churchwarden) and his wife. The former is a brother of Mr. J. R. Coteril.
Capel, Surrey, commemorated the 40 th anniversary of the first peal for the Guildford Diocesan Guild by a quarter on New Year's Day. The peal was rung in this tower, conducted by the father of the ringer of the chird (R. G. Tullett).

The band who rang the peal at Mildenhall (Wilts) on December 30th is believed to be the youngest to ring a peal for the Marlborough Branch of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild. Congratulations to the two "first pealers." in particular 13 -year-old Ann Toomer. of Chisledon, who had not previously rang a touch of more than 500 changes.
The Lincoln Cathedral company visited York Minster for a peal of Stedman Cinques on December 30th. The band had late change when Mr. A. Leslic Pask had to withdraw owing to illness, and Mr. Richard Inglis, who worked at Lincoln Cathedral until he went to University, stood in his place. The company thank Miss M. Wilkinson for welcome cups of tea brought into the belfry at the end of the peal.
The Great Glenn handbell ringers collected £154 at Christmas, which will be sent to various charities.

OUR THANKS TO BERNARD GROVES

If seven-year cycles are significant, then the Maidstone District of the Kent County Association has reached a significant point in losing Bernard Groves to his native Cheshire. Appreciations are seldom given other than posthumously. As posthumous thanks are no good to the recipient, we at least would like to record our appreciation of Bernard.

When he arrived in Maidstone, about seven years ago, we needed a conductor able to ring peals other than those we were lucky enough to be invited to take part in. He filled this breach and helped us to achieve undreamed heights. At the same time he displayed an outstanding example of enthusiasm, which gave him the same obvious pleasure to ring with beginners as to ring with experts. Durine his stay with us he has gone from strength to strength and carried others with him. The last few months have seen some notable achievements, but considering the full seven years we feel very few individuals have made such a wide impact on ringing as Bernard has done in this District.

He is unassuming about his prowess but is sufficiently aware of it to instil complete confidence, which we have never had demonstrated to be misplaced. A Kentish wife will maintain his connections with the county, but we will miss the continued presence of an ideal ringer. However, there is young blood in the District; Bernard has encouraged us to independence and would be delighted to see new heights gained. Thank you, Bernard, from both of us particularly, and also from the Maidstone District.

MONTY W. GILBERT.

A SUGGESTION TO COPY

For some years now it has been the practice of Hathern Parish Church, Loughborough, to bring the ringers into the services of the Church whenever possible. Such an occasion was the Service of Nine Lessons and Carols at Christmas.
A normal peal was rung before the service and in the middle of the service the tower door was opened, the choir sang "The Manger Throne ${ }^{-9}$ ("Like silver bells," etc.), but before the first verse the ringers pealed the octave six times. Also between each verse (1367, 2468 or variations) and completed the carol with the octave six times. We have used the bell carol "Ding Dong Merrily" on other occasions. This service draws a very large congregation and I know the practice is greatly appreciated by ringers and worshippers. Have other churches done this or would they like to copy our custom?-C. R. Bull, Rector.

NEW BAND TRAINING AT SALTBURN

With the assistance of the curate, the Rev. David Moore, Mr. Peter Sothern is training about half a dozen young people at Saltburn Parish Church. In eight weeks they have progressed as far as simple call changes and hope to venture on to Bob Minor shortly. This would be facilitated if old friends of this pleasant ring of eight (tenor 23 cwt .) would help at the Monday practices from 7.30 to 9 p.m.

On April 1st the new county borough of Teesside comes into being and on the night of March 31st/April 1st it is hoped to ring out the old and ring in the new. Anyone interested is asked to contact Mr. Sothern at 2, Kirkleatham Lane, Redcar.

MR. HERBERT W. KNIGHT HONOURED
A very pleasant ceremony took place at Wrington on January 6th, when a peal board was dedicated to mark 60 years ringing in the Branch by Mr. Herbert W. Knight, who recently retired as Branch Ringing Master.

The peal board, attractively designed and painted by local craftsmen, was on display in church. and the dedication was performed during a shortened Association service by the Rector, the Rev. J.Vine. The previous incumbent, Rev. B. Leigh, spoke in tribute to Mr. Knight's help and unfailing courtesy during his time in the parish; he always felt that the tower was in good hands whilst Mr. Knight was in charge. The harmony between the ringers in the tower was due to the example he set, and his insistence on ringing being first for service and second for pleasure.

Tea was served to the company at the nearby church hall by Mrs. H. Kingcott and her helpers, and Mr. Knight made a short speech of thanks to all who had contributed to the c-ccasion, which had given him such pleasure.

FABIAN STEDMAN COMPETITION

The Fabian Stedman competition is now closed. Some 27 entries have been received and these are being studied by the assessors. It is hoped to hold a meeting of the assessors in February and then a statement on the competition will be made. Until that meeting none of the entries will be published.

ELLAND'S ACHIEVEMENT

The Boxing Day peal at Elland, Yorkshire, for the Archdeaconry of Halifax Guild was the first by the local band since Boxing Day, 1929, when a peal of Kent Minor was rung on the front six. The conductor was Vivian Nutton, who has figured in many. Cambridge University peals. A word of praise is given to the three ladies making their first attempt for a peal.

FOURTH EDITION OF "DOVE'S"

Mr. R. H. Dove intended in his article (on page 930) to write Lahore and not Madras. He had recently been doing some research on Madras bells and this probably inadvertently caused this slip of the pen.
Regarding the preparation of his fourth edition. Mr. Dove hopes to be in a position to send the MSS to Mr. Biggers in a fortnight's time.

BREAK IN TRADITION

Because of complaints from people living on a new estate. March. Cambs, ringers decided not to ring, at midnight on New Year's Eve. The "silent" bells made a front page story for "The Cambridgeshire Times".
Every year since 1803, when the bells were installed, excepting war years, the Old Year has been rung out and the New Year heralded in. Mr. Don Gipson, landlord of the Seven Stars public house, which stands within the shadow of the thurch, said: "I was bitterly disappointed and my customers shocked that they did not hear the bells."
A former captain for 40 years and a ringer at March for 60 years. Mr. John Moore, of the Almshouses, commented: "Practically everybody looks forward to it and I am disgusted. If I had known I would bave gone up and had a go." And he's 831
Summing up the situation. Mr. Trevor A. Bevis, secretary of the March ringers, stated that several enquiries had been made as to why the bells were not rung and it would appear that more want to hear them than not.

A HAMPSHIRE AUGMENTATION

Hampshire has another six. The four 18th century bells from the Aldbourne, Wilts, foundry at the Church of All Saints, Upper Clatford; Hants, have been augmented with two of the bells from the derelict 17th century ring of five in Si. Laurence's Church, Winchester. The work was carried out by Messrs. John Taylor.

Mr. Derek C. Jackson, of Totton, received permission 10 attempt a quarter peal on the bells on December 23 rd . He found a groundfloor ring of six in the vestry, partly curtained off from the rest of the church. On raising the bells it became obvious that there was only a wooden floor between the bells and the ringing chamber. The bells filled the church with an excessive volume of noise.
A quarter of 1,320 Doubles in 22 methods was successfully brought round by J. S. Hopwood 1. Elizabeth A. Banks 2, T. Matcham 3, L. D Smith 4, D. C. Jackson (cond.) 5, J. Hartless 6.

According to the Rector, that was the second quarter to be rung on the bells and that a band was under instruction from nearby Andover.
Messrs. John Taylor and Co., who hung the bells on October 20th, 1967, provide the following details:-

Treble. -3 cwt. 2 qr. 6 lb . in F sharp. New bell.
2. -3 cwt. 3 qr. 4 lb . in F. From St. Laurence's. Winchester.
3. -4 cwt. 3 qr .8 lb . in D. From St. Laurence's. Winchester.
4.-4 cwt. 3 qr. 23 lb , in C sharp. From Upper Clatford.
5. -6 cwt. 3 qr. 13 lb . in B. From Upper Clatford.
Tenor. -9 cwt. 16 lb . in A. From St. Laurence's, Winchester.
All Saints'. Tooting Graveney.-A light six is to be dedicated here, probably in March. They were cast out of some of the metal of the former bells of St. Michael's, Star Street. Paddington. A band is being trained by the Rev. Tony Clayton.

GRANTLEY HALL COURSE

The continuity in organisation, lecturers and, to a certain extent, in students has enabled progressive experiments to be made in developing an ideal week-end ringing course at the above Centre.

Two important features of this year's course have been an increase in the time devoted to practical sessions on tower bells and handbells and the introduction of a tutorial session parallel with each lecture period. Students thus had a choice of an advanced topic. elementary topic or tutorial during each lecture period. The tutorials enabled instruction to he given individually or in small groups in topies not covered in the formal lectures and to enable students to obtain further instruction or practice in a topic already dealt with or to preserve continuity in view of the alternative lectures.
The three lecturers-Mr. J. H. Ficlden, Mr. W. F. Moreton and Mr. N. Chaddock-were thus kept fully occupied. but the enthusiasm and progress of the students made the effort really worthwhile. Once again the course was fully booked and it is hoped to hold another in about a year's time.

St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle

By KENNETH BUCKINGHAM

HER Majesty's Free Chapel of St. George rises within the walls of Windsor Castle, residence of kings and queens of England, a magnificent example of the Perpendicular style of architecture; but its bells are hung in the Curfew Tower, which is very plain by comparison and was completed in 1230 as part of the outer defences.

It is interesting to note that neither the present chapel nor its predecessor, built by Henry III, included a tower suitable for bells within its structure, and the bells have hung throughout their 700 years' history in detached towers. The first was built to the King's order, dated 20th August, 1243, which concluded ". . . and a stone turret at the front of the same chapel in which may be hung three or four bells." This was followed on 11th February, 1249-1250, by a writ issued to Edward Fitz Odo of Westminster "That he cause to be made by Master John de Seynt, of the metal which remained from the great bell of Westminster, four bells to be put in the chapel of the Castle of Windsor, namely two like those which are in the King's chapel of St. Stephen, Westminster, and another two according as the subprior of Westminster shall tell him for the King."

The tower was in need of repair by the end of the century, and eventually the foundation of the Order of the Garter by Edward III in 1348 led to improvements to the chapel, including the building of a new bell tower in 1359-60. This was a fine square tower surmounted by a spire which served its purpose well for over a century until the bells were transferred to the Clewer Tower in 1478/9. The old bell tower became the residence of the Governor of the Military Knights and may still be seen in the middle of a line of military knights' residences facing the south side of the chapel.

DOMED CUPOLA

The bells had become a ring of five named Aston, George, John, Mary and Jesu by the time of their transfer, and they were hung in a bell cage surmounted by a domed cupola rising above the level of the ramparts. The tenor was recast by Richard Eldridge in 1598 but in 1612 John Wallis, a well-known bellfounder of Salisbury, recast all the bells, together with a large clock bell, to make a ring of six. Three still remain, the present 4th, 6th and 7th, but he had trouble with the tenor which was recast five times before being sold to defray College debts. Nine years later, in 1623, they bought another tenor which was evidently second-hand for it is dated 1614. Although cast by John Wallis, this is clearly not the original tenor for the plain lettering and English inscription are quite different from the special ornate letters and Latin inscriptions used in 1612.
In 1650, during the occupation of the Castle by Cromwell's army, the bells were augmented to eight by recasting the treble and the addition of two smaller bells. The work was carried out by William Whitmore, an itinerant bellfounder. who was in the district casting bells at Langley Marish in 1649. and two of his bells, the 2nd and 3 rd, remain to this day. Thomas Lester, of the Whitechapel Foundry, recast Whitmore's treble in 1741 and also the fifth by Wallis in 1745; but the fifth was recast again in 1898 by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, when they rehung all the bells with new headstocks, bearings, clappers, wheels and pulleys. This was the last major work on the bells, although the tenor was rehung in roller bearings in 1922 and the rest of the bells in 1948.

THE INSCRIPTIONS

The bells, with their inscriptions, are as follows:-

Treble. - Thomas Lester of London made me February the 201741.

Second.-1650 W. Whitmore made me. Incipe Dvlce Ceqvar.
Third. -1650 W W.
Fourth.-Venite Exvltemvs IW 1612.
Fifth. - Mears et Stainbank Londini Fecerunt. On waist: In Hdnore S: Georgit Martiris et S: Edvardi Regis ac Confessaris A.D. 1898.
Sixth.-Vox Dei Gloriosa Est IW 1615.
Seventh. - Nos Avribvs Nobis Vos Cordibvs Deo Sonate IW 1612.

Tenor. - Searae the Lord with fere IW 1614.

The only bell of known weight is the 5 th which is 12 cwt .22 lb ., while the tenor, with a diameter of 52 inches, tuned to D, is approximately 26 cwt .

The bells are chimed by means of an Ellacombe apparatus for the daily services by a steeplekeeper who until recently lived within the tower. They are also rung on certain special occasions throughout the year, mainly royal birthdays, by eight ringers appointed by the Dean and Chapter of St. George's.

On the first floor there is a clock by John Davis, of Windsor, dated 1689, which chimes the quarters and hours on the bells, together with the tune " St . David's" every three hours at 3, 6, 9 and 12 night and day.

NINE PEALS
Only nine peals have been rung on these bells. the first being on 21st February, 1748, 5.040 Union Trebles, and the next on 10th April. 1787, a 5,040 Grandsire Triples by the College Youths, with two men on the 7th and two on the tenor! The Cumberland Youths rang Holt's "Original" on 24th October, 1891, and the last six peals have been rung for the Oxford Diocesan Guild, namely:-

6th May, 1935.-5,056 Plain Bob Major: Conducted by E. S. T. Farr-for the Silver Jubilee of King George V.

8th June, 1956.-5,040 Grandsire Triples: Conducted by N. V. Harding-for Victory Day.

9th May, 1951.-5,040 Grandsire Triples: Conducted by L. Stilwell-for the Installation of King Frederick of Denmark as a Knight of the Garter and for the Festival of Britain.
19th February, 1960. - 5,040 Grandsire Triples: Conducted by F. T. Blagrove-for the birth of Prince Andrew.
3rd November, 1961. - 5,040 Grandsire Triples: Conducted by E. S. T. Farr-for the birth of Viscount Linley.

11th March, 1964. - 5,040 Grandsire Triples: Conducted by F. T. Blagrove-for the birth of Prince Edward.

The Curfew Tower itself is a massive stone structure shaped like the letter D with the flat side towards the chapel and walls 13 feet thick at the base. It had been used as a storehouse and prison until 1478-9, when the bells were transferred thereto. but since then the interior has altered little. There is a stone-vaulted basement and on the ground floor a ringing chamber surrounded by rooms previously occupied by the steeplekeeper but which are now the offices of the Friends of St. George's. The first floor contains the clock mechanism. also an old cannon aimed at Windsor Bridge, and the bells hang in their frame in the storey above that.
The exterior received an extensive facelift in the late 19th century, when the houses backing on to it from the town were removed. The walls were then completely refaced and a new roof added, styled on the Tour de la Peyre at Carcassonne in Southern France. Thus it remains to this day, an impressive home for the bells of St. George's Chapel, looking out across the town and the River Thames.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY RINGING

Dear Sir,-We were delighted to see Mr. Tonge reopen the debate on the disgraceful and scandalous "closed shop" attitude at Westminster Abbey. This issue needs to be fought with vigour until victory is won. If the Exercise is prepared to sit back and accept the status quo, or passively to adopt a defeatist attitude to this situation, this anachronism will never be swept away. The frequency with which the Westminster Abbey attitude towards ringing crops up everywhere in conversations between bellringers proves that it is a running sore needing urgent treatment.

It has always seemed to us a cowardly way out for the Abbey ringers to lay the blame completely upon the Abbey authorities. We are sure that no church bellringer worthy of the name would tolerate such a narrowminded and selfish attitude in his own belfry, but would make a ceaseless agitation for its removal and would call in the support of all ringing organisations whose weight could be added to the fight.
We wonder how much effort the f.bbey ringers themselves have put into making the authorities aware of how out-of-step with present-day ringing they are, and with what disdan and disgust they and their ringers are held for perpetuating this belfry "closed shop." There must be very many able diplomats on the Central Council who could have resolved this problem had their counsel or intervention been invited-that is, of course, if the Abbey ringers had really desired it!

The Abbey is not only a national shrine to which ringers as well as other people are drawn, but also a church, where services of worship are regularly-held, and one would think that here of all places the bells should be rung frequently and regularly, and that if the "resident" band is incapable of ringing twice on Sundays and for all the major Church festivals, then competent bands from elsewhere should be not only allowed but invited to assist with the maintenance of a regular (not a casual) ringing programme.

The reply given to Mr . Tonge that if the hells were rung at other than the prescribed times the "people near the Abbey would wonder why," is the most ludicrous statement we have read for a long time. If a regular ringing programme were arranged then people would no longer "wonder why" any more than they would wonder why St. Margaret's bells were being rung. The author of the reply sent to Mr. Tonge must surely be the laughing stock of ringers everywhere.
Even the Roman Catholic Curia, as reactionary a body as one can find anywhere, is changing with the times. The Anglican authorities at Westminster Abbey are a hundred years behind the times-if it is they who are responsible for this antiquated, obstinate and selfish attitude '!-Yours faithfully,

17s. 6d. A ROPE

Dear Sir,-I was interested to read the letter by Mr. Frank Tonge re the ridiculous, pathetic and childish closed shop that operates at Westminster Abbey.

The late Bill Hewitt once told me that he and others did their utmost to get the Abbey bells rung alternately with St. Margaret's. This was at the time of the restoration in 1919, but two people made it their business to veto this and the present "tradition" grew up.

The crux of the matter, of course, is the paying of ringing fees; no one is going to climb the endless steps and ring these very indifferent bells unless it is for 17 s . 6 d . a rope, and. Mr. Editor, I submit that 17 s . 6d. a rope is the sole reason for the closed shop.-Yours sincerely,
W. FRANK HANSARD.

London, N. 18.

SHERWOOD YOUTHS  NEW SECRETARY

The annual general meeting of the Society of Sherwood Youths was held at St. Mary's, Nottingham, on December 30th. There was a good attendance and methods rung ranged from rounds to Surprise Royal. Tea was kindly arranged by Mrs. Foskett and helpers. At the commencement of the business meeting members stood in silence to the memory of Mr. F. A. Salter, a past Master.

The secretary (Mrs. Foskett) reported a good year. the membership passing the 100 mark. She expressed the meeting's thanks to Mr. G. A. Dawson for renovating the Society's set of handbells. The secretary regretted that due to ill-health she would be unable to continue in office.

Officers elected were: Master, Mr. J. A. Dawson; Master-elect, Mr. D. Whetton; secretary, Mr. D. Stainsby; treasurer, Mr. W. Nichols: steward, Mr. R. Inglis.

The dates for meetings for 1968 are March 30th, June 29th. August 31st, November 30th and December 28th (A.G.M.).
The following were elected honorary life members: Miss I. Thompson, Mr. W. Nichols, Mr. E. C. Shepherd and Mr. C. W. Towers.

The secretary and treasurer were asked to investigate the ownership of the Doubleday Crofts Manuscripts which were thought to he the property of the Society. Mr. E. Hutchby reported that W. Doubleday Crofts grave was falling into disrepair and it was agreed that this matter should also be investigated.

Mr. S. Fossey pronosed a comprehensive vote of thanks to all those involved in making the meeting a success.

LONGER, BUT NOT PROGRESSIVE LENGTH

The record length of 11,872 Glasgow Surprise Major rung at Edgbaston on November 25 th has been surpassed by 12,096 rung at Accrington on January 6th.

In view of the conditions of the Central Council governing progressive lengths not having been complied with, no claim is made for this to be so recorded. The organisers have asked for it to be recorded as a "long length." The ringers are content with the knowledge that what Birmingham has achieved in regard to Glasgow Surprise Major has been "unoficially" surpassed by Lancashire.

RECORD PEAL ATTEMPTS

Dear Sir, With reference to the letter printed in "The Ringing World", of December 15th, 1967, written by Brian J. Woodrulfe, it appears that several points have been raised requiring some elucidation.
(i) B. J. W. quotes from my notification letter (re 20,160 of Plain Bob Minor) that if "specifically request that no attempt be made to enquire about the progress of the peal". It is a pity that he has not quoted me accurately and completely, for bad he done so the reasons would have become obvious why this request was made.
(ii) B. J. W. states:-
(a) "Why such hide-away measures?" -here 1 make it perfectly clear that intended.
(b) "The attempt should have taken place in a building where ringers could come and go at will .. Whilst there seems some merit in this statement it was considered that such a record attempt justified the most suitable and comfortable environment-there is no such building (or belfry) locally avail-able-and further that compliance with the quote would not be conducive to our best ringing. However, having come to the decision of "where" and "why", I invited an observer from both the University of London and Winchester and Portsmouth Guilds to be present. (Those Guilds claim the two current handbell peal records that we were striving to exceed.)
(c) "What would A. H. Pulling have said to such secrecy. "- I consider it untimely to B. J W to have been so discourteously presumptuous as to have made this remark of that much-respected ringer.
It appears that a further and more deeprooted suggestion has been inferred by B. J. W. -that of the credibility of all handbell peal ringing in private places. If this be so then I consider he ought to be more trusting in his iellow ringers (1 personally invite Brian to come and ring a handbell peal with us in Berkshire.)
In conclusion I would state that I had, previous to my giving notice in conformity with the rules. discussed the issue of this attempt (1.e.. not fication and composition) with both Wilfrid G Wilson and Frank T. Blagrove. It would seem that these rules need some reform in both clarity and modernisation; if so. let us hope that consideration be given to this end ai the next session of the Central Council.Yours sincerely,

PLAIV BOB MINOR WITHOUT SINGLES
Dear Sir, I am sure the whole Exercise are looking for the answer to Mr. F. Hector Bennett's request in "Belfry Gossip " (" Ringing World," page 935) for the composition of Mr. Frank Blagrove's peal of Plain Bob Minor at Dorney. Bucks ("Ringing World," page 882 ). This was of seven different extents, each obtained without singles.
Has Mr. Blagrove found a way to reverse the coursing order of a pair of bells in Plain Bob Minor to obtain the extent, by some new means?

Come on. Frank, don't keep me in suspense! - Yours sincerely.

OBITUARY

MR. ARTHUR CATTELL

Many will regret to hear of the passing of Mr. Arthur Cattell, of Leicester, at the age of 65 , after a long lllness. Over 50 years ago he joined the choir of All Saints". Leicester. and not long afterwards took up ringing. His whole life was spent in the furtherance of Christian activities. During the years that ringing was not possible at All Saints' he rang at the neighbouring Church of St. Margaret, but always nipped out smartly to attend service at his own church. His personal drive in 1946 enabled the tower of All Saints' to be repaired and the bells rehung. About this time he was made Vicar's warden.

A bulder all his life, his last five years were spent as foreman on the new "do-it-yourself" church at Stocking Farm, Leicester, organusing voluntary labour. This is one of the few modern rhurch buildings having a tower ready to receive a small ring of six bells. The church was consecrated in the presence of H.R.H Princess Margaret a year ago. Mr. Cattell's ashes have now been placed in the church's Garden of Remembrance.

MR. E. WLLCOX

One of the oldest members of the Midland Counties Guild which he joined in 1905, has died at Nuthall, Notts. He was Mr. E. Wilcox, aged 84, who died on January Sth. For many years he was a member of the Nuthall band.

MR. J. E. FIFLDING
A former bellringer at Christ Church, Friezland, Mr. John E. Fielding, died on January 2nd, aged 64 years. He was taught to ring at Friezland and spent many years with their contest team. He had also been very active in the church life at St. John the Baptist's, Roughtown, where he had scrved as churchwarden for 15 years.
More recently Mr. Fielding had to cease his ringing activities due to ill-health, although he was still clasely connected with his own team at Roughtown.

A quarter peal of 1,320 Oxford Treble Bob Minor was rung at the Sunday evening memorial service at Roughtown on January 7th by A. Wheeler 1, W. H. Nield 2, B. D. Holt 3, G. Rigby 4, A. Farrand 5, G. Nield (cond.) 6.

MR. LESLIE WARNER

A ringer at Cranleigh Parish Church since the age of $15, \mathrm{Mr}$. Leslie Warner suffered a heart attack on Tuesday, January 10th, and died the next morning at St. Luke's Hospital, Guildford.

He was a chorister at the parish church for several years and a ringer for just over 50 years. He had not rung many peals but was a conscientious service ringer, always punctual for practices and service ringing. He had taught many young boys and girls to ring, from handling a bell to ringing the simpler methods.

Being a skilled carpenter, after the bells had been recast in 1951 he fixed an extra ceiling in the zinging room and filled the space between with soundproofing material. He also made a new stairway up to the bell chamber and designed and made many peal boards. This be did at no cost to the church: to him it was a labour of love.
It may interest some ringers to know that Cranleigh was famous for its oak and, before iron frames were used, Messrs. Holden and Sons, the predecessors of his employers, made bell frames of this material and sent them all over the country.
The funeral service took place at Cranleigh Parish Church on Monday, January isth, at 2.30 p.m.
E. R. W.

MR. W. THORNLEY, SEN.

We have received news of the death on November 25 th, 1967 , of Mr. W. Thornley, sen., at his home, 159, Brookhill Street, Stapleford, Notts. He was elected to the Midland Counties Guild in 1924 and later joined the Southwell Guild. Little is known of his ringing career. He was always at Stapleford Church on Sundays and as far back as 1944 he had rung over 100 peals. S. A.

DEVIZES BRANCH RECEIVE TROPHY

The official acceptance ol a trophy presented to the Branch by the Ringing Masters for an annual striking competition took place at the annual general meeting of the Devizes Branch held at Westbury on June 6th.

Features of the service conducted by the Rev. G. W. Lighton were a reading by Mr. E. C. Shepherd and handbell ringing by a combined Warminster and North Bradley band. The lesson was read by Hugh Lawrence, of Dauntsey's School. Sixty-five ringers were present representing 21 towers. An excellent tea followed, provided by the All Saints' ringers and their ladies.

Mr. C F. Andrews (Branch chairman) presided at the meeting, with Mr. Graham Davies as secretary. The company stood in silent tribute to the late Mr. D. Hughes, of Bromham.
The accounts show a healthy credit balance, due to the bard-working efforts of Mr. G. Davis, who in his secretary's report was hard on those of the advanced ringers who did not, in his opinion, help the learners enough at meetings.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Chairman, Mr. C. F. Andrews; secretary and treasurer, Mr. G. Davis; hon. auditor, Mr. B. Carter; vice-chairman. Mr. A. T. Weeks; Ringing Masters, Mr. R. Purnell (Melksham), Mr. E. Norris and Mr. N. G. Knee (Warminster). Power was given to coopt. Messrs. E J. Hitchins, L. E. Hitchins and $F$. S. Slatford to the Branch Committee. Nineteen new members were elected.

Methods of getting instruction to the learners more easily were discussed, and it was agreed to let the Branch Committee discuss this and report to the next quarterly meeting. A standard charge for teas at meetings was fixed at 2 s . 6 d .. with half-price for juniors under nine years old.
Ringing followed under the guidance of Mr. R. Purnell. The large number of young ringers present augurs well for the future.

EAST GRINSTEAD & DISTRICI

While 1967 was not a good year for the East Grinstead and District Guild, as no peals had been rung, a happy spirit pervaded at the Guild's annual dinner at Royal Mount Ephraim Hotel, Tunbridge Wells, on January 9th.
Mr. B. E. Jeffery, the chairman, presided, and the toast of "The Church" was submitted by Mr. P. R. Everest, to which the president, the Rev. J. R. Missin, replied. Mr. R. W. H. Hayes, who was recently elected secretary of the Tonbridge District, Kent County Association, proposed "The Guild "and the chairman replied. Mr. Jeffery pointed out that 1967 had been a bad year for the Guild, with attendances falling of at meetings. This year's annual general meeting, would be at Edenbridge. "The Visitors" was a toast on the call of Mr. A. R. Large, and Mr. P. A. Corby replied.
The entertainment opened brightly with dancing routines by the local Amateur Musical Society. Mr. C. A. Osbon did a Hertfordshire monologue, which was much enjoyed, and Mr. G. Fry did a slapstick Kentish monologue. Songs from Gilbert and Sullivan's operas were sung by Mr. R. A. Large, and C. A. Osbon joined him for the "Gendarme's Song." The entertainment finished with the "can-can." performed by the "L.A.M.P.S." R.J.E.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCLATION

The Northern Division had a very successful Christmas party at Balcombe on January 6th instead of the usual meeting. About 60 members enjoyed games and entertainment organised by the Ringing Master, Mr. George Francis. Bufiet refreshments were served and our thanks go to Mr. Fred Roberts and his helpers at Balcombe for all the work they put in on our behalf. The lucky programmes and raffies were drawn for at 9.45 p.m., after which we sang "Auld Lang Syne" and departed our various ways for home in the soow. J.O.

THE SOCIETY OF RAVING RINGERS

Friday, January 5th, saw car-loads of ringers heading towards Worcester for the annual reunion ot the above Society Ringing had been arranged at Powick for those who managed to arrive early enough before going on to the Talbot Hotel in Worcester.
Claines was the first rower on Saturday. Stedman Caters and Cambridge Royal were enjoyed on the light ten before moving on to Pershore Abbey, where the frightening ringing chamber cage was a little unnerving, resulting in unsettled ringing. The six at Kempsey were rung to a variety of methods before travelling back to wurcester for lunch. The afternoon was spent in the city, ringing at St. Swithun's, St. John's and All, Saints'. A touch of 8Soliced Surprise Major was rung at St. John's. while the tricky bells of All Saints' sounded out to Yorkshire Royal and Stedman Caters.
The organiser had asked the hotel to provide a dinner in the evening, and this they did. A large room was provided, complete with Christmas decorations, well away from the other gusts. The social evening which followed included a film show of the last tour and the latest Ravers' song, sung by Ron Russ and accumpanied by Roger Smith on the guitar.
The Society splıt up for service ringing on Sunday morning. Some went to Malvern Link and afterwards climbed the snow-covered Malvern Hills, whilst the rest went to Dodderhill and Droitwich. Originally only the latter tower had been inciuded in the programme, but Paul Cattermole had extended an invitation to ring on the very good eight at Dodderhill. Lunch over, and the hotel was left behind as the Ravers headed for home via the two 6 -belı towers of Welland and Ripple, and the octave at Upton-on-Severn, where the bells were put to good use for an hour befor Evensong.
The thanks of the Society go to all the incumbents and tower captains of the churches visited, as well as to the organiser, Peter Heriage, who arranged things so well.

SELBY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

The 22nd annual general meeting of the Selby and District Society was held at Selby Abbey on January 6th. The president, the Rev. J. A. P. Kent, Vicar at the Abbey, officiated at the service
At the business meeting, which followed tea, the secretary, Mr. L. M. Woodhead, produced his annual report, which showed a paid-up membership of 104, and a healthy balance in the bank for this "non-profit-making learners" Society."

The Vicar of Selby Abbey was re-elected president, Mr. H. Walker (York Minster) chairman, and Mr. L. M. Woodhead (Goole) secretary-treasurer.
The retiring Ringing Master, Mr. R. Warford, having married and moved out of the district, did not seek re-election; Mr. A. Sheppard (Sherburn-in-Elmet) was clected to that office.
The committee for 1968 is Miss M. E. Wilkinson (York Minster), Mr. T. H. Foster (Selby Abbey) and Mr. G. F. Terry (Hemingbrough).

Mr. W. F. Moreton (Wakefield Cathedral), general secretary of the Yorkshire Association and a regular visitor to the Society's meetings. proposed the composite vote of thanks, which included everyone who had contributed in any way to " make the day."

DAVID C. BROWN (Oxford Diocesan Guild)

A quict, unassuming young ringer, who has just passed his 15th birthday, has been earning the respect of the members of the East Berks and South Bucks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild. He is David Christopher Brown, of Langley, in the Borough of Slough, who has recently conducted his tirst peal.

His entry into our art was somewhat unusual. With his father, he was looking round St. Mary's Church, Langley, and stopped to read the notices in the porch. The clockwinder arrived and invited them into the belfry to witness the clock being wound. He saw the ropes, but nothing of the bells. An invitation was given him to return that evening and see the ringers at practice. He was fascinated by what he saw and accepted a further invitation to try his hand the next week He was then about 11 years of age, but as he had joined an isolated call change band he knew nothing of the existence of such an art as change ringing Having safely negotiated the "11-plus" obstacle he found himself at Slough Boys' Grammar School in the same Form as a young ringer from Slough Parish Church. This boy's elder brother was also in the same school and wearing his Oxford Guild badge. David asked what was the significance of this and the younger brother explained, at the same time remarking that he also rang at Slough Parish Church. David then put in an appearance at Slough belfry and asked if he, too, could be taught change ringing.

From that moment he never looked back. He "saw the light" very quickly and in a matter of weeks had overtaken his two school friends. He began change ringing at the beginning of 1966, and by September 4th had rung his first quarter, Plain Bob Major "inside." October 8th found him ringing his first peal at Burnham, also Plain Bob Major " inside." He demonstrated at once what a good striker and safe ringer he is. He rang one other peal in 1966, the treble to a peal of Plain Bob on the heavy eight at Bray. In 1967 he really ""went to town," scoring 20 peals, including his first as conductor. His list includes six peals only on the treble, viz: Quornden Surprise Major, nine Major methods, Plain Bob Major (2), St. Clement's Triples and Wexham Surprise Royal. He has rung "inside" to the following peals:-

Minor: Cambridge (the eight extents), seven methods, Plain Bob (no singles).

Triples: Grandsire.
Major: Plain Bob 2 (conducted 1), New Cambridge Surprise, Cambridge Surprise 2, Yorkshire Surprise, Fordcombe Surprise, Stand Surprise, Jedburgh Surprise, Purbeck Surprise, Kent Treble Bob.

Royal: Yorkshire Surprise.
David has rung in 165 towers. Of these, his favourite is the lovely little light eight at Easthampstead, Berks, where he calted his first peal. He says he has so far no favourite method, but he greatly enjoyed a course of Treble Twelve at Buckfast Abbey. The per formance which gave him most satisfaction was piloting a band of "rabbits" through a quarter peal of Plain Bob Doubles at Langley for the Flower Festival opening service. His only ringing ambition at the moment is to ring a peal in his own tower. This may be difficult to achieve. Although told that it would cake three hours, the Vicar stopped the last attempt, after having given his consent to a peal for the wedding of one of his ringers-because he had had a telephone and a personal complaint! No attempts have been allowed since. We hope young David can break the spell. With al, the spade-work he has done at langley he deserves to be granted this wish.

David says he would like to acknowledge the debt he owes to Mr. William Birmingham. of Slough, for, as he says, "putting me on the road to being a ringer, and for getting me into all my early peals." He wishes also to thank Messrs. ALan Pink and Frank Blagrove for including him in their peal bands.

Outside the tower David's interests are music, reading, and writing out the blue line of new methods published in "The Ringing World." He has been playing the piano for four years and is now about to sit his Grade 5 examination.

David has an older sister, Rosamund, who is larning ringing. She took up the art with a view to getting her Girl Guides ringers' badge, but had to push this ambition aside uritil she had won the distinction of becaming a Queen's Guide. She has now resumed serious ringing and is mastering the basic methods on six and eight bells.

The writer would like to add his personal tribute to David Brown for the many hours each week he devotes to helping with the teaching of young ringers at Slough and Dorney, and to David's modest and most unassuming character.

BELL RINGING AT MARKET WEIGHTON
The newly-formed School Handbell Tune Ringing Team made their debut by playing Christmas carols at two functions at the County Seconday School recently.
A team of ringers from the County Secondary School rang Market Weighton Parish Church bells prior to the school's carol service there on Friday, December 22nd. Ringers taking part were Mrs. L. Gaukroger, Mr. N. Thwaites, Mr. N. Chaddock, Janet Martin, John Jobley and Roy Gibson.

MR. JOHN WILLIS

Dear Sir-As Mr. Willis liked records to be correct as far as possible, I would like to put right one small error in paragraph 3 of "P.A.C.'s" excellent contribution on page 912.

John Willis did, in fact, take part in at least two peals after his return to Kent. Both were rung in my old tower, St. Martin's. Cheriton, Folkestone. I also took part, and the second one, I believe, was rung for my benefit.

On May 10th, 1947, he trebled to a peal of 5,040 Grandsire Triples conducted by Charles Turner. On January 3rd, 1948, he rang the fifth to a peal of 5,184 Kent Treble Bob Major (my "first" in this method), conducted by Reginald A. Reed.
I do recall that he had some physical disability, which made it inadvisable for him to stand for long periods, but he agreed to take part in these peals as they were being rung on the very light eight at Cheriton. I have a feeling that there was a second peal of Kent around this time but I cannot now trace it.
One of his last acts, as far as I personally am concerned, was when he gave a small farewell party to my wife and myself before we left Folkestone to come to Cambridge in April, 1966. We shall always treasure this memory of him, together with the beautifully written card in his writing which accompanied our wedding gift from the Folkestone ringers in 1949. gift from the Yours sincerely,

WALTER C. CHANDLER.

KENT-THE CRITIC CONCLUDES

Dear Sir,-In making my firal reply to the letters about Kent, io comply with Mr. Lewis request, I wish to make the following points.

I believe that for any improvement to take place in East Kent the Districts must be partitioned into easily worked units. This suggestion was rejected by a committee of Association members, and my letter was intended to make them take a much closer look at an apparently healthy state of affairs.
I do not expect Districts to change to suit me. I do expect them to change to beiter themselves, and not remain complacent. I have not been asked for any advice or to give any help, the latter being a facility offered at College practices before and since my arrival with method ringing up to London. I have, however, met with abuse from some Ashford District ringers. The difficulty in finding peal ringers is, as I have said before. lack of capable people, and not as one of the aforementioned people would have others believe.

Mr. Lewis classes me as a visitor. As a resident member of the Kent County Association, spending more than three-quarters of my year here that is a matter of opinion. The Ashford District secretary is presumptuous in concluding that I am a "bird of passing."

Unfoitunately I am unable to accept Mr. Lewis' invitation to go to Rochester as 1 have prior engagements. I do look forward to meeting him to discuss the matter further, as I am sure he can act sensibly about the prob-lem.-Yours sincerely, Canterbury.

TAPERING STEEL WASHERS

Dear Sir,-Reading that most excellent article by "Ty Tennit" in the recent editions of "R.W.' I was most interested in "Tackling odd-struck bells". not knowing until now that this was possible. However, as an engineer. I feel, althcugh I may be wrong, that a leather washer would not be a very long-lasting article. May 1 therefore offer a few bints on tapering a steel washer, for the benefit of those not "in the know" but wishing to tackle this problem?

Having cbtained the required size of washers first of all file two flats as in Fig. $1:$ this allows the washer to be held in a vice without it tending to turn over. Then, holding the washer in a vice as in Fig. 2, it may be filed down to the required taper.

Hoping this may be a useful addition to "Ty Tennit's" steeplekeeping. - Yours faithfully.

PAUL EBSWORTH.

INSTRUCTIONAL PAMPHLET

Dear Sir , When I received the proof indicating that you were preparing to publish a report of my talk to the Joint Council of Yorkshire Ringing Societies at Normanton last April it seemed to me that it might be worthwhile to obtain some reprints in pamphlet form.
A year or two ago the Durham and Newcastle Jiocesan Association, as part of its educational programme, started an Education Fund which might finance modest publications, and the Ringing Master and I thought that this opportunity might be taken to make a trial. I ordered a hundred copies which were supplied for $£ 4$ and several of these have already been sold at sixpence to our own members. If anyone else is interested in acquiring these reprints I shall be pleased to supply at this same price of sixpence per copy plus threepence for postage (this would cover postage up to about six copies).

The subject matter appeared in two instal ments in "The Ringing World". December 1st and 8th, pp. 887 and 907 . I hope this trial may be of interest and perhaps encourage other people to make reprints available, thereby increasing the literature of the Exercise. Yours sincerely,

DENIS A. BAYLES.

GRANDISON AND A STORY

Dear Sir,-Geoff Bubb in his "Ringer's Story" is somewhat confusing regarding dates. Grandison at Exeter Cathedral was recast by Taylor in :ron and 1 rang it single-handed on dedication day that same year. My Dad and Rev. G. F. Coleridge rang it to a peal of Grandsire Caters also in 1902. My Uncle Edwin was the last of the ringing Shepherds in Exeter: he died in 1946, so he would not have received a 1947 letter from James George. Mr. Bubb is very much out of his reckoning when he says Mr. George was about 85 in 1947, but I make it 94, sceing he was born in 1853 and died in 1951-much too late in life 10 tackle a bell of $12 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$. for a peal.-Yours sincerely,

WILLIAM SHEPHERD.

RUTLAND RINGERS' TOUR

Dear Sir,-When I wrote my previous letter regarding the Rutland Ringers' tour of Leicestershure, I endeavoured to voice my protests in a reasonably mild form, and I think I succeeded. Although I expected Mr. A. C. B. to reply to my letter, I had hoped that I would not teel obligen to write a further one myself. However, I do. Incidentally, although Mr. A. C. B apparently knows me well enough to refer to me as plain "Judy Cox", I have no idea at all who he is and would be pleased if ne could enlighten me.
On reading Mr. A. C. B.'s latest letter, I now find that he has progressed from writung disparaging remarks about our bells to disparaging remarks about mel Let me hasten to assure Mr A. C. B. that to the best of my knowlerge I suffer from no "common faults", including that of regarding the bells at my home rower irreproachable. Does the gentleman really think that 1 can have rung at Humberstone four times a week for 12 years without being fully aware of the shortcomings of the bells. I, too, Mr. A. C. B., go on ringing outings, and have certainly visited enough churches to know that our heavy six could hardly be rated as the pride and joy of the county. This was not my point in writing originally. I wrote to bring attention to what I still consider to be a lapse in good manners and not to necessarily disagree with the comments contained in the article.
Did my letter really give the impression that it was merely a fit of feminine pique because someone had dared to criticise "my" bells? Surely not! Giving Mr. A. C. B. the benefit of the doubt it is possible that he really did misunderstand the meaning of my letter, but I cannot help but wonder if he did not really choose to in order to excuse himself from my criticism.-Yours faithfully.

CPRISTMAS DAY BROADCAST

Dear Sir-Having had some small part in the arrangement of the Christmas Day broadrast, I was pleased to read that it had given pleasure to Mr. R. H. Mansell ("R.W", Jan. 12th, p. 22).

However, I am sure that there will be many who will disagree with the opening sentence of his second paragraph: "Transmission was perfect and the striking second to none " the emphasis is mine. These are the very highest standards and are not descriptions to be applied lightly. I doubt whether such terms have ever been merited by a whole Christmas Day broadcast. - Yours sincerely,

HANDBELL RINGERS OF GREAT BRITAIN

Skipton Parish Church Handbell Ringers. -The handbells were purchased in 1890 by the Skipton Church Institute, and Mr. Lockwood, of Leeds, was engaged as tutor. The bells. a second-hand set, were cast by Shaw, of Bradford. Nine more bells were purchased in 1893 to make up the present full medium ring of 53 bells. All the members of the first team were still living 59 years later! A second team was started early in 1900 and it continued until the setback of the 1914-18 war. Every member was called into H.M. Service and every man gave his life.

The third team was started in 1924, the music used being that of Walham Gordon, of Stockport. It continued until the Second World War. In 1946 Mr. J. Wiseman started a team of boys but had to discontinue after 12 months. Six girls from the Girl Guides who could read music made a new team and wonderful prugress. In 1949 they broadcast carols on the children's Northern programme from Manchester. This was very popular and resulted in enquiries from all over the British Isles. The bells were later reconditioned and another broadcast, with photograph in the "Radio Times", took place in 1962. The team was stretched to the limit witn demands for their services and many concerts were given on behalf of the National Children's Homes. At this time they were ringing their best with such music as the "Hallelujah Chorus" and "The Blue Danube Stokesay Handbell Ringers.-Formed in little over a year, are a mixed team unable to read music, and thus the music is set to numbers. The original 12 handbells (size 15 in C) were purchased from Mears in 1829 by eight parishioners. After a successful jumble sale the bells were sent to Taylor's for overhaul and an additional seven bells purchased.
Thurlstone Handbell Ringers were formed in 1885, the bells being bought by public subscription. There have been five conductors-Messrs. Bellcliffe, F. Taylor. A. Jenkinson (guest conductor), T. Sykes and the present musical director, R. Proud.

Owing to National Service, etc., the ringers disbanded in 1950 and re-formed in 1962 and have never looked back. The junior team is progressing steadily under the watchful eye and patience of Mr. R. Proud. Perhaps the current team is not the best in the Society's long history but the team spirit is 100 per cent.
Warburton W.I. Handbell Ringers came into being in March, 1964, when the County Federation asked all institutes to present musical items at the group meeting. The eight church handbells were borrowed. Five volunteers met together, four as ringers and one as leader, and by trial and error managed to regulate tone and volume and performed at the meeting. Having only eight bells, music was limited.
Later, by kindness of the rector and captain of the belfry, 17 handbells were bor-

MR. JUHN P. PARTINGTON
Secretary, Handbell Ringers of Great Britain) THE first secretary of the Handbell Ringers of Great Britain, Mr. John P. Partington, comes of a ringing family. He started at St. Luke's. Heywood, Lancs, in 1952. His greatgrandfather rang from the time the bells were installed in 1863 until he retired, after ringing 100 blows for the dying of the 19 th century. Grandfather and father were ringers here for most of their lives, as also were numerous other relatives. The family has had continuous ringing at St. Luke's since 1963, and Mr. John P. Partington has been Ringing Master here since 1961.

From Rochdale Grammar School he went to the University of Leicester, where he not only obtained his degree in mathematics but founded the University of Leicester Guild in 1956, being its first secretary-treasurer. He teaches mathematics at Ashton-under-Lyne Grammar School, having joined the staff of the school in 1958. The same year he founded the school handbell team. Over 50 pupils have been taught to ring and they have played in public on some 50 occasions. Since 1960 he has rung with the St. Thomas', Moorside, Oldham, handbell team.
With a flair for organisation, Mr. Partington has held various offices with the Lancashire Association. He was secretary of the Rochdale Branch from 1961 to 1964 ; ringing secretary of the Association since 1963 ; and a representative of the Association on the Central Council since 1964.
His peal total to the end of 1947 was 235 (conducted 3). Of these, 94 were Surprise Major ( 36 different plus splice to twelve methods) His peals have been rung in 62 different towers with 239 different ringers and 43 different conductors. He claims to have rung in every county in England and all ringable towers in Scotland and Ireland.

PURBECK YDUTHS INVADE DORSET

A NOTHER anniversary of the Ancient Society of Purbeck Youths was celebrated in Wareham on New Year's Eve. The week-end sot off to a good start with all at Wareham Ior the complex briefing session.
Friday morning we struck. Lyme Regis succumbed in a ${ }^{\frac{3}{4}}$-hour encounter, even though our tenors got separated for a while, and Maiden Newton was taken by the other battalion in 2 hours and 38 minutes. Full of optimism and Cornish pasties, we advanced to Thorncombe where, although we outnumbered the bells by one, the latter won handsomely inside half-an-hour. The other platoon, being one shert as a result. were not able to make an aftempt at Piddlehinton.
The campaign continued on Saturday at Puddletown and Lytchett Matravers. A bump upstairs at the former caused confusion in the ranks. while at the latter a lack of generalship caused a retreat after $1 \%$ hours. "Matchbox" was promoted to the rank of conductor that afternoon but tried to defeat methods as well as bells and lost, but in a Minor skirmish scored a quarter of Kent. The main platoon rowed from Lymm Parish Church. with their music. Regular practices have been held since November, 1965, and the band have performed at various functions and have worked to raise money for a full set; but the waiting list is long. Perhaps some second-hand bells will be found before October 1968, when their own will be ready. "We are greatly indebted to Lymm for their generosity."

Full details in "Reverberations" from J. P. Partington, 56. Clay Lane, Rochdale, Lancs. Price 1s.; annual subscription 2s. 6d.
meanwhile were finding their level at Wimborne St Giles, "Operation Lincolnshire" proving a comfortable success. Recreation for the troops was provided at the bowling alley in Bournemouth.
Sunday saw a 24 -hour truce, with a visit to Poole in the morning, enabling George to chalk up his 200th tower of the year, and then a hasty chase to Kingston for a very rewarding afternoon.
We did find an old bell, about 3 cwt., and thus with a bii of luck Kingston bells will be in perfect order before long. Although the fifth has no clapper at present. ropes were put on the rest so that a quarter could be rung for Evensong: Cold was starting to penctrate, so a quick trip to a tea house in Corfe Castle was called for. Here by chance we san into Mike Austin, of Waltham Abbey, and he ionned us for a most enjoyable quarter on what must surely be the finest bells in Dorset.
The dinner followed. Lewis Cobb, that wellknown plunger, who had come last the previous year turned up first, to universal sur prise, and the traditionally excellent meal was very much appreciated. The short speeches included a toast to the new A.S.P.Y. president, the Rev. H. Lloyd. Rector of Kingston.

Mick Shelton welcomed us at the New Inn where, with Lewis and Malcolm at the piano. we were in fine voice both before and after the New Year had been rung in.
Monday was a beautiful day, but the troops were in poor shape. At Wareham an excellent peal of Bob Major was rung, while Private Bellamy was recovering in the back of the mini-ambulance. Coffee and crumpets, and then homewards through the snow, leaving peace in the wake of a very enjoyable if only moderately successful invasion. The regiment would like to thank Mary for a masterly piece of organisation.

BELFRY GOSSIP

All Saints', Tooting Graveney, is to have eight bells, not six, as was inadvertently mentioned last week.

What is the most Doubles methods rung to a peal in Wales? At St. Florence, Pembs, 50 methods were rung on January 6th. Is a claim to most methods correct?

The back six of Christ Church, Ebbw Vale, will be heard at the beginning of the programme "Songs of Praise". to be televised at 6.50 p.m. on January 28 th on B.B.C.-1.

Mr Walter F. Judge became a proud grandfather on January 9th. At St. Ebbe's, Oxford, he conducted a peal of Grandsire Triples in which two of his grandsons took part. Christopher $P$. Turner (12) rang his first peal, and his brother Martin (15) his first in the method. Llandaff Cathedral Guild at its annual general meeting on January 2nd elected the following officers: Nevil James, captain: Stephen Fenwick, vice-captain; Miss Felicity Cooke, secretary (13. Rookwood Avenue, Llandaft): Nicholas Simon, trustee.

Dagenham, Essex, has a very keen body of youngsters. There were seven firsts in a quarter of Double Norwich rung in December, and five firsts in a quarter of Cambridge Surprise Minor this month. Only Mr. J. Armstrong, the conductor, had had previous experience of these methods to quarters and peals.

All Saints' Church, Hertford, is at the moment unsafe for ringing.
The Gloucester and Bristol Association is holding a dinner this year (September 28th), the first time in its 90 years' existence.

Mr. Aubrey L. Bennett wishes 10 make a correction to his article regarding "Ringing in Devon, 1967." One peal attempt was suc-cessful-Stedman Cinques at Bucklast Aobey, conducted by Mr. Frank Harris.
Correction.-The peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Basingstoke (page 28) was rung at All Saints' Church, and not St. Michael's, as published. The name of the ringer of the sixth was Anthony $\mathbf{R}$ Carter. These errors are much regretted.
The Society of Raving Ringers decided to exclude Worcester Cathedral from their programme of ringing during their reunion at Worcester because of their lack of experience of 12 -bell ringing. They hope the Cathedral ringers will not be disappointed.
Mr. J. R Worrall's three visits to England in the last eight or nine years have been in and out quick! Appropriately a quarter of Stedman was arranged for him at Romsey Abbey on January 14th. Those assembling at Bristol for the U.B.S.C.R. dinner will easily recognise him. The same bearded Jack still rings well and still speaks English If

WASHINGTON BAND ATTEMPT

GRANDSIRE CATERS PEAL

There was a reunion at Washington Cathedral on December 27th and 28th. Geoffrey Davies, Derek Sawyer, John Owen and Eric Roberts joined Richard S. Dirksen and some of the girls :o attempt a quarter peal on open bells and a full peal (on closed bells) of Grandsire Caters. Both unfortunately were unsuccessful-the quarter at about the balf-way point and the peal in the last half of the second part.

However, a very enjoyable time was spent with several touches of Major, Stedman and Grandsire Triples on handbells and some excellent 10 -bell ringing, All are looking forward to the next "get together" in the early summer and a tour in Eastern America (Kent, Groton and the new bells at Smith College).
Mr Dirksen concludes with his apologies to the unnamed ringer mentioned in the issue of December 1st. The slip-up arose through the Sunday practice being cancelled at the last minute.

LONG LENGTH OF MINOR CALLED OFF
The attempt by Mr. Frank C. Price's band to ring 20,160 Plain Bob Minor "in hand" at Crowthorne on December 16th was not successful.

Mr . Price writes: "The ringing was very good until the 14th extent, which was most unsettled. However, we continued well until the 22nd extent, when the striking began to deteriorate due to tiredness of one of the band, and I stopped the ringing after 5 hours and 8 minutes, with only six extents to go."
Mr. Price states that all being well a further attempt will be made in March/April.

IN AMERICA IN MAY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Price are going to U.S.A. on May 7th until May 28th, during which time they hope to ring with the Grotonians and also with the Whitechapel Guild, Washington. Perhaps the bells ordered for Smith's College. Northampton, will be installed and dedicated by then and they may be able to visit them.

HOST WAS NOT THE LORD MAYOR OF LONDON

The Lord Mayor of London did not entertain to dinner the ringers of Leighton Buzzard who rang a peal for his election as Lord Mayor. This excellent meal was paid for by two Leighton ringers-Bert Whitney and Bill Insley. Edgar Conquest was not ringing his first peal, as was stated in the report. His first peal was Grandsire Caters on November 24th, 1945, conducted by J. F. Arnold.

PROGRESS AT HANNINGTON

A few years ago the unringable five bells at Hannington, Wiltshire, were rehung and a local band formed to ring them. Two years ago. under the instruction of Brian Bladon, assisted under the instruction of Brian Bladon, made on by Arite D. method ringing A gift from Mr. HusseyFreke, of Hannington, enabled the five bells to be augmented to six. and with heip the band soon progressed to Plain Bob Minor. The peal at Stratton St. Margaret, Wiltshire, on Friday, January 12th. was the last of four to enable the most advanced of the band to ring their first peal. Congratulations to the Hannington band and especially to the last of the first-pealers, 60 -year-old Harold Hedges, the first-pealers, Hannington tower captain.
"IT'S FUN FINDING OUT"
Barry tngland is a little boy, just 11 years of age, who has been learning to ring at Chepstow for nearly a year.

He started at Chepstow Grammar School in Sepcember and tor his tirst term's project could choose any environmental study. Harry chose "bells" and has produced during the term an excellent $4 u$-page special study with an attractive cover. Included are chapters on bell founding, bell tuning, the "Evans" bell foundry at Chepstow, learning to ring a bell, method ringing (using Bob Minor to illustrate), descriptions of local churches and their bells, weights and inscriptions, also an interesting chapter called "Church Bells Peal for Many Things." He has described a bellringers meeting, has included his membership card and a drawing of his badge, also the collect for ringers and a ringers hymn. Throughout his illustrations are good and interesting, including even g carillon, a Hindu temple bell and a cluster of bells used by Shinto priests in Japan !

He has also put in a copy of "The Ringing World," and his comment to go with this says: "The magazine on the opposite page is one which you can order each week; it tells you all about quarter peals" !

Barry was awarded 91 per cent. for his work, the highest mark in three forms. His teacher comments: "An excellent project; you have put a great deal of work, time and effort into this and your enthusiasm is obvious."
Barry borrowed many books from the public library, including Arthur Wright's "Church Bells of Monmouthshire." Time alone will tell if bellringing remains one of Barry's chief interests, but it has provided an impetus to hard work and he has discovered that it really is "fun finding out."

KINGSTON'S SPUNSORFD WALK

A sponsored waik from Kingston upon Thames to Cambridge in aid of the 99,000 shillings appeal for Kingston bells will be held on four days at Easter. Ringers participating will only have to cover approximately 15 miles per day. Entrants have to find someone who will sponsor them at 3 d . or 6 d . a mile. For details write to Miss Bryony Moorby, 133, Barnfield Avenue, Kingston upon Thames, Surrey. There will be opportunities for ringing en route.

A NEW YEAR SOCIAL AT SOPLEY

The ringers of Sopley, Hants, were "at home" to about 20 members of the neighbouring towers of Christchurch Priory, Fordingbridge. Hordle and Ringwood, who were able to accept their invitation to a New Year Social Hour on January 2nd.
First of all there was ringing on the Sopley six, which ranged from call-changes to London Minor: the company then repaired to a cosy room at the Woolpack. Here Mr. and Mrs. Harold Young had prepared a delicious buffet supper, which was enjoyed by everyone in a warm atmosphere of good fellowship. Mr. F. E. Collins had thoughtfully brought along his handbells-perhaps the Grandsire Triples rung on them would not have impressed the experts but they added to the jollity of the occasion.
When the local captain, Mr. Bill Freeman, was invired by Mrs Young to cut a large Christmas cake, he took the opportunity to thank her and her husband and also churchthank her and her husband and also churchwardens Harrison and Blandon (both of them ringers) for all their hard work and generosity which had made the evening possible. Mr. L. F. Cobo endorsed his remarks on behalf of the visitors.

PORTSMOUTH CATHEDRAL GUILD

The resignation was received as Guild chair man of Mr. Albert York-Bramble "to make way for a younger member" at the 11th general meeting of Portsmouth Cathedral Guild on January 8th. His successor is Mr Alan Hicks, a lecturer in mathematics at the local College of Education. Mr. York-Bramble remains a life vice-president of the Guild.
The president, the Very Rev. E. N. PorterGoff, Provost of Portsmouth, in a tribute said that as founder chairman and founder of the Cathedral School of Ringing Mr YorkBramble had succeeded in resuscitating ringing at the Cathectral and in 1957 in bringing about the augmentation from eight to ten bells with rehanging. Neither of these achievements at the time appeared possible
The tower captain. Mr. A. A. J. Buswell, and the secretary/treasurer, Mrs. E. H. Jones, were warmly thanked for their services. mention being made of the decorating and equipping of the ringing chamber to make it one of the best in existence.
A supper, generously provided by Mrs. E. H. Jones. brought another successful gathering to a happy close.

AUSTRALIAN PEN-FRIEND WANTED
Afte: reading Mr. Philip Gray's article on ringing in Sydney and Melbourne, a 17-yearold ringer 5 ft . $7 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{in}$. tall, blonde hair and blue eyes asks for an Australian bellringer as a pen-friend , male or female, between the ages of 18 and 23 .
She writes: "I have been ringing for only two years and know only six-bell methods. Other interests include handbell ringing, horse riding and a little sailing."

OUR "RINGING WORLD" 1968

YES, everyone's, yours, mine, the editor's, the editorial staff, "The Ringing World" Committee and everyone concerned (and a few that are not) with producing and trying to perfect it.
What then, 1968, and still 17 per cent of dissatisfied and disgruntled dissenters, after all that has been done for them to improve our "Ringing World"; what the devil do they want? One gets heartily sick and tired of their moanings.
Read the accusations on a recent front page, the writers want consigning to the waste paper baskets along with their accusations. Talk about "Fleet Street," and that is nothing to be proud of, there is hardly one decent national newspaper-including Sunday's-and if your Fleet Street ringer's opinion is unprint-able-that proves this paragraph-let him keep it in "F.S.," we don't want it in our "Ringing World.'
I am neither a peal-grabber nor great ringer, just a modest 24 or so, but that does not pre vent me from loving and appreciating peal ringers, ordinary ringers, bellfounders, churches with bells and those without and our lovely cathedrals. (Have you seen and read "The Cathedrals of Eneland." by Alec Clifton-Taylor (Thames and Hudson)?)

How the devil the Editor tolerates these dissatisfied disgruntled dictators I do not know: I consider he deserves both the " V.C." and "Order of Merit" annually.
One neither has to be a know-all nor a nitwit to appreciate all that has and is still being done to improve our "Ringing World," so if you are one of the above, stop your grumbling and grousing and let other Deoni-rightly concerned-get on with their nronst inh.

OAD BAT-ER.

TO THE DISAPPOINTED

We regret that those who sent in late Notices for this issue were disappointed. An unforseen development necessitated "The Ringing World" going to press on Friday, and the Editor was not warned of the change until the previous day. A courtesy notification to readers was, therefore, not possible.
We are assured that next week it will be possible to revert to the usual times and Notices received by first post on Monday will be accepted for publication.

PEAL RECORDS FOR 1967

We are planning to publish, as in previous years, individual peal totals for 1967. This list is being prepared by Mr. David A. Burt, assisted by bis wife, of 49 , Ambleside Road, Kingsway, Bath. For the purpose of checking, ringers are asked to submit their totals (tower and hand), and also the number conducted. to him.
No 1967 peals received after the end of this month can be included in this record or that of the Peals Analysis Committe.
While Mr. and Mrs. Hunt have enjoyed the work they feel they have not the time available to continue the recordings for 1968. They will be pleased to give particulars to anyone interested.

COMPETITION URANGWOT-II

WELL, Tom," I said to a ringer friend of mine when I bumped into him the other day at the bus stop, "have you been on any of your tower snatches recently? guessed that he would rise to this bait and, sure enough, I received my lecture about the bad features of "snatching", and the merits of Tom's plan. Tom has quite strong opinions on this subject and his ideas are a little bit out of the ordinary to say the least. He is happiest with six-bell ringing and he likes to go to a six-bell tower and ring a 720 to "give the bells a fair trial." He insists on ringing the treble throughout, including the leading-up and the leading-down at the finish. Since he does the arranging and provides the transport in his Jaguar the others have to fit in with his ideas.
"Well, whatever you call it, have you been anywhere interesting lately?" "Yes, we've just visited St., Peter's, Gowell, and St. Paul's, Notsowell." It did not surprise me that he mentioned two towers for this was his usual arrangement-two towers on the Saturday afternoon when there was no District meeting. As I have said, Tom always rang the treble on these outings, but he insisted that no other ringer rang the same bell in both towers. Usual arrangement? Just six of you in the party and you made the other five all swop, round for the second tower?" "Correct," said Tom, "but this time I went a bit further and told them that they had to have two different neighbours in each case in the second tower." "Who did you have with you this time and which bells did they ring in each tower?" said I, fishing for my pen so that I could check whether he had managed it. "I'll name the ringers and you can puzzle it out for yourself," he replied with a twinkle in his eye.
" All right then. Name the "inner six. or, rather, the five bells besides yourself." * Alan, Bob, Chris, Denis and Ernie. There you are, in alphabetical order just to make it easy," smued 「om. "Thank you very much indeed," I said, quoting the president of the Central Council, and went on to remark that he had one or two untidy handlers in his party on this occasion. Tom wholeheartedly agreed with this observation and explained that this had made things a little bit complicated. Alan is a particulary bad handler and I knew that Tom would not want to be next to him, so I was not surprised to learn that Atan had been kept off 2 and 6 in both towers and that he had landed beside Ernie in the second tower. I had visions of trouble if Bob and Chris were ringing beside each other, but Tom had seen that this situation did not arise in either tower. Tom happened to let slip that Denis, the one really good handier in the party, had been ringing on Bob's right in the first tower, but, try as I might, I could not extract any more details from him before his bus came. He left me with "Try it out at your next ringers' social-it might make a change!" He was grinning from the safety of the bus by then or I would have crowned him.

Still, I enjoyed working it out and you might like to try it yourself. After all, to solve it you don't need to have been to Cambridge :
Sorry, it must be infectious !

All Saints' Church, Gresford, Denbighs

By G. H. Randles

$\mathbf{G}^{1}$RESFORD CHURCH has always been a place of great interest for visitors who find in it many unusual and striking features which give to it a dignity and splendour seldom found in a village church. The living is a vicarage, the gift of the Bishop of St. Asaph. It formerly belonged to St. Stephen's College, Westminster, who granted the "Rectory in Gresford in Denbighshire" to Queen Elizabeth, February 1st, 1581.

The six sons of Ithel ap Eunedd, Lord of Gresford, jointly gave the land on which to build a church. Eunedd is supposed to have lived about 1050 and the wooden church built would be the one mentioned in Doomsday Book-"A Church and a Priest are there." Gresford was then in the County of Chester, and when William the Conqueror obtained possession of Chester in 1070 the Normans - Hugo, Rainaldus and Osbernus-came to settle in Gresford.

PLACE OF PILGRIMAGE

At the beginning of the 13 th century the wooden church gave place to one of stone. On the west wall there is still an outline of the Early English roof and buttress. During the 14 th century extensive additions were made, including a tower. This was at the time when the church was a popular place of pilgrimage to which people resorted "from Dyvers parts of the Realme," and that by means of the wealth thus accruing the present church was "Strongely, and beautyfully made erect and builded." In a letter to Thomas Cromwell, dated 1535, we read that "at a sermon last Sunday near a thousand people were present."
The church is a spacious and elegant structure, consisting of a nave, north and south aisles, while the roofs are of oak, panelled and profusely decorated with fruit and flowers exquisitely carved. With the exception of the pillars of the nave, the arcading of the lower portion and the decorated window of the south aisle, the general character of the architecture is late Perpendicular. The glass in several windows, images and frescoes were taken down about 1547 during the reign of Edward VI, and the church was probably whitewashed at this time. Some remnants of colour are still to be found.

Towards the end of the 15 th century the rood loft and screen were erected, the windows filled with rich stained glass and the tower completed to its present height. It is of fine proportion, richly ornamented on the summit with figures of the twelve apostles, alternated with crocketed pinnacles. The tower is also decorated with traceried bands, quaint gargoyles and cornices continued round the church representing cats, mice, dogs and other grotesque creatures. The stained glass window in the Chapel representing the Virgin Mary's birth is dated 1498 and was restored in 1872. The beautiful east window was given by Lord Derby in the year 1500. It is of seven lights with a tree of Jesse filling the tracery. It was restored in 1867. The earliest registers commence in 1660 and are written in Latin.

Treble-Cast by John Warner and Sons, London, 1875.
Prayer Bell-God Save this Church.
As the first part of the tower was built in the 14th century and completed towards the end of the 15 th century, it seems likely that there were bells here before these dated 1623. It has been suggested that the minute bell was one of them.

In 1875 Messrs. Warner recast the 2nd, 4th and Tenor of the six bells and added two smaller ones to complete the octave. At the same time they rehung the bells completely with new fittings and an oak frame.

MAGAZINE EXTRACTS

Extracts from the Parish Magazines of 1875 and 1876 show that "the cost of recasting the bells was quickly subscribed for by local residents and sufficient left over for the repair of clock, repair and glaze the belfry windows, pay for an instructor to give three weeks' tuition ( $£ 716 \mathrm{~s}$. Od.) and supper to the ringers ( $£ 23 \mathrm{~s} .6 \mathrm{~d}$.), the total cost being $£ 3714$ s. Od."
The Magazine notes continue, "On Saturday, Feb. Sth, a company of Ringers from Manchester came over to inaugerate the new peal of bells by some beautiful changeringing. This was a great pleasure to all within hearing."
From the Parish Magazine, Sept., 1911: "The rehanging of our beautiful bells, which is urgently needed, is to be taken in hand at once by Messrs. John Warner and Sons, Ltd., of London, and the well-known bellfounders. The cost will be $£ 40$. Our church bells are the pride of the Parish, and indeed of North Wales, and we feel sure that they are to be put in thorough working order."
In 1937 Messrs. Mears and Stainbank replaced the frictional parts and rerimmed the wheels.
From the churchwardens' book, December, 1954: "On the advice of the bellringers we decided to get in touch with Messrs. Mears and Stainbank who, as far back as 1937, had advised rehanging. They examined the bells and reported. The bells were not rung during 1954 until Christmas Day, when the firm had completed the work of rehanging. In 1960 the same firm put in cast iron headstocks, using the ball bearings they had provided in 1937. In 1960 the bells were again silent, as many of the figures on the tower were found to be loose on their pedestals. The cost of restoration of the tower was $£ 3,000$." Unfortunately, three pinnacles have been blown off during the recent gales.

60 YEARS A RINGER

The present head ringer is Mr. Arthur Tilston, who has been a ringer at Gresford for over sixty years.
David Williams, the 14 year old son of Mr. E. M. Ray Williams, rang his first quarter peal this year. He is the seventh generation of his family to be a ringer and chorister at Gresford Church.

The generations of the Williams family are as follows: Edward Roberts; John Roberts, Matthew Roberts, Mary Roberts, daughter of John Roberts, married Robert Williams and their son was George Williams sen.; George Williams, jun.; E. M. Ray Williams; David R. Williams.

All this family have lived at the "Sextons," which was a thatched cottage situated at the church gate. The present "Sextons" was built on the same site by George Williams, sen., in 1886. From Edward Roberts to George Williams they were all shoemakers.

FIRST PEAL

The first peal recorded on the bells was rung by the Wrexham Society of Ringers on 27.10.1883. A total of 60 peals has now been rung.

HAROLD PITSTOW ANSWERS

Dear Sir,-The letter which you published under the caption " Westminster Abbey Bells -a Closed Shop" in your issue of January 5th asks some questions which 1 know exist in the minds of many ringers, and theretore 1 will endeavour to answer them. I am not qualified to deal with the first regarding the ringing procedure in London and why it differs from other parts of the country as I am not sufficiently acquainted with the many ringing towers in the Metropolis. However, it is the procedure at Westminster Abbey which is the target of the letter.

In the first place it must be understood that the Abbey is not a cathedral or a parish church, but a "Royal Peculiar." At its head is the Dean, who is answerable only to the Sovereign-known as "The Visitor." As it is difterent from other places of worship in this fundamental respect it is not surprising that it should differ in others.
To the question "Why should not the bells be rung on Sundays to call the faithful to worship?" the answer is that not only on Sundays but on every weekday the bells perform this service. True they are not rung, but are clocked by the vergers in the manner or custom which has come down through the ages from a period unknown. This custom, called by some the "ting-tang," has a set pattern, which I could give in detail, and has definite meaning for the Abbey worshippers. It may sound odd, or even absurd to some ringers, as it did apparently to the ringers of the neighbouring Church of St. Stephen, Rochester Row, very soon after the present ring of eight bells was opened. They decided, with permission, to go to the Abbey to ring for Evensong on Sundays. This, however, was very short-lived, Dean Ryle saying that he did not approve and would not have the "tingtang " set aside

It was after this that the Dean and Chapter decided to form the Abbey band of ringers, to be drawn from the Ancient Society of College Youths, and named the special occasions throughout the year on which the bells should be rung. It includes the festivals of the Church, some Royal anniversaries and dates historically important to the Abbey. This, too, is traditional, tor there exists a document giving the ringing dates of the 17 th century. In addition to these regular occastons the bells are requested for special services and memorial services which are held in the Abbey. Always the ringing follows the service unless it is being attended by the Visitor, whe He (or She) is rung in.

Reference was made in the letter to the celebrations during the 900 th year, when oands from three London Societies were invited to attempt a quarter peal on dates of particular interest in the history of the Abbey. This accorded with invitations to choirs to sing in the Abbey (Washington Cathedral was one). I would have thought that it was within the prerogative of the Dean and Chapter to decide how many such invitations should be 1ssued and to whom.

The writer evidently is disgruntled because his request to take a band to ring on a Saturday afternoon was not granted. The Abbey bells are not rung at any time except for one of the occasions approved by the Dean and Chapter, and perhaps here it might be pointed out that the Abbey ringers do not practise there. The ringers have never had the use of the bells for a purpose of their own choosing, and I doubt whether it has ever occurred to any of them to suggest it.

Finally, the ringers have not a code of their own "backed by the Dean," but they accept and respect a procedure which they found was in operation when they joined the band. Tradition lives on at the Abbey, and one is not within the life of the Abbey long before becoming well aware of it.-Yours faithfully.

QUESTIONS

A CLERGYMAN'S EXPERIENCE

Dear Sir,-I can give an experience of courtesy and kindness at Westminster Abbey. About 16 years ago or so 1 happened to be in London for an afternoon meeting and wandered into the Abbey at about noon It was the Feast of the Puritication. Finuing a Consccration of Bishops in progress 1 stayed until the end of the service, when the De.ls began to ring. I asked a verger if 1 might go to the ringing chamber and he at once assented and took me to the staircase entrance. I assured him 1 could lind my way there. A touch of Stedman Triples was in progress when 1 entered. I saw surprise on the taces of some of the band, and when the touch had ended I was informed of the rules, with the addition that visitors could not ring. However, after a little consultation, I was invited to take part in the next touch of Stedman Triples. Naturally I graciously accepted and was very grateful for this opportunity to ring at the Abbey.

Having rung at the Abbey, I would like many more to be able to do so also. There is no doubt that with ringing as it is today ringers can prevail upon deans and incumbents to relax long standing rules and regulations. There must be occasions when the Abbey bells could be available for meetings, and one would add to this St. Paul's Cathedral also. As the great Cathedral of the Diocese of London and with so many good ringers in the Diocese I am sure full justice would be done to the bells, which are no more difficult to ring than others. With a little thought of how the bells in the provinces are made available for the asking, surely London's bell, should be available also. It is from London that we welcome so many of our visitors.-Yours faithfully.

PRIVILEGE ABUSED

Dear Sir--Concerning recent correspondence about Westminster Abbey bells and the attitude of the authorities towards visitors. my recollections are there were no restrictions until after Whit Monday, 1936, when visitors, with no respect for other people's property. abused the privilege and broke a stay, after which (not surprisingly) the privilege was with-drawn.-Yours sincerely,
E. BARNETT.

GRESFORD CHURCH

A peal board in the belfry records a muffled peal rung in October, 1934, in memory of the 262 men who lost their lives in the Gresford Colliery disaster, on Oct. 4th. 1934.

The present Vicar is Canon W. V. Lort, who became interested in ringing when, as a boy, he attended St. David's Church, Bangor, where the Vicar was the Rev. T. Lewis Jones, the first President of the North Wales Association.

Gresford Churchyard has many beautiful old yew trees, one of which is known to be more than 800 years old (and some have calculated it to be 1,400 years old) with a circumference of 30 ft . 5ins.

We are fortunate to have a copy of "All Saints' Church," written by the Rev. E. A. Fishbourne, M.A., and Vicar of Gresford from 1897 to 1916 , which contains greater detail of its history and architecture than we have space for.

A Challenge to the Ladies' Guild

Dear Sir,-I recently attended the annual meeting of the Sussex District of the Ladies' Guld. which was attended by only five members. Surely this shows a marked decline in support for the Guild. Only a few years ago this meeting always resulted in a tower packed with ringers, mainly ladies.
Without meaning any disrespect to the ladies, any practising ringer will see that the Ladies Guild has outlived its purpose. Fifty years ago the Guild was obviously worthwhile as, at that time, ladies were only occasionally and very reluctantly allowed on to the end of a rope, and in the majority of cases were barred from the belfry completely. Had it not been for the Ladies' Guild the Exercise would certainly have been deprived of some very fine talent. However, as the result of two wars, ladies became generally accepted in the belfry as, in many cases, sufficient men could not be found to man the towers. Indeed, in the last two secades, ladies have become equally as important as gentlemen in the maintenance of regular ringing at churches throughout the country. Moreover, in several churches the majority of the ringers are ladies, some even holding the post of tower captain. All territorial Associations are glad of their lady members, and although one of the more select Societies of the Exercise, namely the College Youths, does not accept ladies, the Cumberland Youths provides an excellent alternative.
Why, oh why then, does a selcet minority of our lady ringers persist in trying to keep up such an out-of-date institution as the Ladies'

Guild? It is like fiddling with the cat's whisker of a crystal set to try and pick up 2 LO when the obvious thing to do is to switch on the wireless and listen to the 1 o'clock news.
In view of the increasing lack of support I would suggest that the Guild should seriously consider its position. Would it not be better for the Guild to be disbanded after a final Soursh, say a peal of Cambridge Maximus, rather than die a slow and dismal death as it seems to be doing in many areas at the present time? (Incidentally, we now have the ideal 12 for this performance at St. Peter's, Nottingham, tenor only $19 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$. I am sure Mr. Stainsby, the tower captain, would be pleased to obtain permission for such a peal.)

Come now ladies, let us have your obvious talents put to much wider use than this. Trying to maintain a lost cause can only suppress your ability as ringers. Let us all, ladies and gentlemen alike, put all our ability into the support of our local territorial Associations, all of which have the chief object of improving the standard of Sunday service ringing. This would surely be a much more worthwhile activity than preserving dead wood just for the sake of preservation.
May this letter provoke serious thought rather than heated argument.-Yours respectfully,

IAN V. J. SMITH.
P.S. - My views are held by several lady ringers resident in East Sussex.-I.S.

AMID THE SNOW AT ABERGAVENNY

The Monmouth Branch annual District meeting was arranged for January 13th at Abergavenny. Our worst fears were confirmed and heavy snow fell during Friday night! Fortunately this turned to rain on Saturday morning and a large number of ringers converged upon Abergavenny from a wide area of England and Wales

Early arrivals found Mr. Ward and Mr. Lewis shovelling away snow and Mr. Roberts attending to the heating. The lovely ring of ten bells was well used during the afternoon until 4 o'clock. The service was then taken by Canon Sproule-Jones, Mr. George Ward read the lesson, and his son, Mr. Ronald Ward, was organist.
The Abergavenny ringers and their wives had prepared a fine tea in the Priory Room, and Mr. Reuben Clench voiced the thanks of the company for "reviving refreshment" on such a miserable day.
Although an annual District meeting, the business did not prove too lengthy. Canon

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION Maidstone District

Despite the wintry weather some 40 ringers attended the Maidstone District meeting held on January 13 th at West Malling. A prompt start was made at 3 o'clock and ringing during the day varied from rounds to Bristol Surprise Major.
The service was conducted by the Rev. G. M. Young, and tea was held in the Masonic Hall. During the business meeting several new members were elected and a welcome was given to the many visitors present. General thanks were given by the District Secretary (Mr. M. L. Howe) and ringing continued after the business meeting until 9 p.m.
Next meeting: Linton, March 9 th.

Sproule-Jones spoke eloquently of the work done by the 300 inhabitants at the parish of Grosmont in rehanging their bells at great cost He asked all to give, no matter how litlle, to encourage them in their tremendous efforts Minutes, reports, elections and other usual business proceeded smoothly. New members elected were Miss Gillian Richardson (Usk), Mr Iestyn William (Ebbw Vale) and Mr. Eric Bundy and his son, Michael (Machen).

It was decided to try to hold meetings at Penhow, Llanfrechfa and Mathern during the year, with Monmouth for the annual District meeting in 1969. Other practice meetings were to be arranged as opportunities arose. The 75 th Anniversary Dinner was to be held at the Grand Hotel, Cardift, on Octoher 19th (not October 12th, as stated in the diary).

The Branch Master, Mr. Richard Stewart, formally thanked Canon Sproule-Jones for his interest in the Branch and for his most pertinent sermon.

MISS M. REAY  NEW MASTER OF  ST. MARTIN'S GUILD

The annual meeting of the St. Martin's Guild for the Diocese of Birmingham was held in St. Martin's Hall on January 6th, over 80 ringers being present.
The Master, Mr. Richard C. Ingram, who had held olfice for four years, felt that the time had arrived for a change. He nominated Miss Muriel Reay as his successor, and, there being no other nominations, Miss Reay was duly elected. A vote of thanks to Mr. Ingram for his services to the Guild was passed and a record made in the minutes.

The vice-presidents having been re-elected en bloc, the remainder of the officers were reelected as follows: Ringing Master, J. Alan Ainsworth: trustees, S. O'C. Holloway and B. D. A. Woolley: auditors, H. H. Fearn and S. O'C. Holloway; librarian, W. G. Chaplin ; hon. secretary and treasurer, G. E. Fearn.
The hon. secretary informed the meeting that this would be his last year in office, as he will then have completed 20 years and the Guild would benefit by a change of secre:ary.
A donation of $£ 5$ was voted towards the appeal for the restoration of the bells of St. Leonard's Church, Shoreditch.

In presenting the balance sheet the hon. secretary and treasurer drew the attention of the members to the increased expenditure which will have to be met in the near future. It was decided to increase the membership subscriptions to 10 s. annually for resident members and fl for life members.
New resident members elected were: Miss Susan Smith and Messrs C. Chester (Harborne), G. O. Rushton (Shirley) and K. P. L. Park and A. E. Honeybill (Yardley). The tower elections as life members of the following ringers were duly ratified: Miss $A$. Sadowska (Che'tenham) and Messrs. P G. Brown (Chelmsford) and C. J. Hughes (Chesterfield).
It was decided to invite the Rev. Canon Harry Hartley (Rector of Solihull) to take the chair at the Henry Johnson Dinner to be held on March 2nd. Mr. T. J. Warner. Ringing Master at Solihull, informed the meeting that the choice was very appropriate. as Solihull Church will shortly have two new trebles, which wil! make the hells the fourth ring of 12 in the Diocese of Birmingham.

ELLOE DEANERIES PREFER CONVENTIONAL MEETINGS

The annual meeting of the Elioe Deaneries Branch of the Lincoln Diocesan Guild was held at Spalding on January 13th and although the weather might have been responsible for the rather disappointing attendance there was no lack of discussion at the business meeung.

Following ringing and a service conducted by the Vicar. the Rev. D. G. Jakeman, and the curate, a tea prepared by ringers' wives was enjoyed at St Nicholas' Hall. Mr. B. B. Tyrrell took the chair at the meeting, deputising for the Vicar. It was decided that although the bi-monthly meetings had proved useful, because towers where tea might have been difficult to arrange were visited, members thought conventional meetings with tea and service were of greater value to the Branch and tower. In addition it was agreed to arrange a monthly evening meeting at a particular tower on the practice night.

Finally the members decided to send a gift of fruit with their good wishes to Mr . Hallifax, a founder member of the Guild, at present in Holbeach Hospital.

SALISBURY GUILD ACTIVITIES No Peals-but not for want of Trying —Wimborne

The annual meeting of the Wimborne Branch took place at Poole on January 6th and was attended by 34 ringers and friends, together with three visitors. Ringing on the ten bells at St. James' Church ranged from sounds to Stedman Caters.
The Guild service was conducted by the Rector (the Rey. B. Bell), and the Epiphany hymn "As with gladness" was rung on handbells by the Fuller family during the service.
After a delicious tea a tediously drawn out meeting was held. Officers elected for 1968 were: Chairman, Mr. L. J. Lockyer (Wimborne); vice-chairman, Mr. D. R. Fuller (Swanage); hon. secretary and treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Robertson (Wareham); Ringing Masters, Mr. G. W. Elmes (Wareham) and Mr. H. I. Pitman (Canford); committee members, Mr. C. M. Heawood (Poole) and Mr. L. H. Pink (Wareham).
The meeting stood in silence to the memory of Mr. W. Hiscock, a captain at Wareham tower for is years, who died in October.
In her report the secretary stated that the Branch membership was now 95. Meetings had not been well attended and the joint meeting held with the North Dorset Branch had been disappointedly so. The Branch hoped to hold another joint meeting in 1968 to rectify this. Another enjoyable barbecue had been held in July and also a repeat performance on the cricket field. The Branch had seen the Poole band firmly on its feet, with regular ringing on Mondays and Sundays. Then the Branch had turned its attention to East Morden, where a keen band of recruits was being raught, using a rota system. No "local" peals had been rung-but not for want of trying!-and only 12 quarter peals. The Branch welcomed the Guild's Master, the Rev. R. N. Longridge, into its area, as he now has the living of Spetisbury. The Branch were looking forward to the visit of the Guild in May and it is hoped to have all the ringable towers in the Branch open on that day.
The Branch is hoping to hold an outing on March 30th to the Newbury, Berks, area, and the secretary appealed to members for their support of this new venture.
Quarterly meetings for 1968 : March 2nd, Witchampton and Wimborne Si. Giles; July 20th, Wareham and Lytchett Minster; October 19th, Swanage.

Dorchester- 150 Members

Despite very wet weather, nearly 50 ringers and friends gathered at Cattistock on January 13th for the annual meeting of the Dorchester Branch. Ringing took place on the fine ring of eight under the direction of the Branch Ringing Master, Mr. E. H. Amey.

The Guild service was conducted by the Branch chairman, the Rev. C. E. C. Brinkworth (Rector), and Miss Heath-Caldwell played the organ. The Rev. Richard Marsh read the lesson, and the preacher was Canon E. B. Brooks. An excellent tea was provided in the School by Mrs. George Goringe (wife of the captain at Cattistock tower) and othes helpers.
The report for 1967 showed Branch membership at 150. Quarter peals had heen rung at nine towers, methods including Stedman Triples and Bob Major. Milborne St. Andrew bells had been rehung and augmented to six. The statement of accounts for the year showed a satisfactory balance in hand.
The Branch officers were all re-elected for 1968. Eight new ringing members and four Associate members were elected.
Subject to permission, evening practices will be held at Wyke Regis (February 10th), Milhorne St. Andrew (February 24th). Litton Cheney (March 9th), Wool (March 23rd). Charminster (April 6th) and Sc. Peter's, Dorchester (May 4th).

40th Anmiversary Cake for Andover District

WHITCHURCH acted as host on January 13th to the Andover District for their 40th annual meeting. The warmth of their welcome was in extreme contrast to the wintry weather conditions which prevailed. After ringing at St. Mary Bourne, Longparish and Whitchurch during the afternoon and concluding with a touch of Stedman Triples, members took their seats for Evensong conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. Hamilton Lloyd.
At an excellent tea in the Church Hall, the centre attraction was a beautifully iced cake made and donated by Mrs, Biggs, bearing the inscription "Happy 40th Anniversary-Andover District Belliningers." During the business meeting which followed, the minutes of a mecting held at Whitchurch on February 4th, 1928, were read. It was this meeting, chaired by the then Vicar of Whitchurch (the Rev. M. S. Douglas) that the formation of the Andover District was first approved. Messages were then read from church bellringers of those days, including Mr. Reg Rex (the first District Ringing Master), Mr. Archie Mitchell (past captain at Andover), Mr. Oscar Smart and Mr. Balaam.
A message from the Master of the Guild, Canon K. W. H. Felstead, was conveyed to the meeting by the Rev. Hamilton Lloyd, who declared that he accepted full responsibility for advising the Master not to risk the journey from Southampton. The Vicar had a few encouraging words to say on his own behalf, including a reference to the Rev. Mellis S. Douglas, whom he had visited on a number of occasions before his death. He summed up with words familiar to bellingers-" Good hunting."
Mr. Geoffrey K. Dodd, the chairman, told of the peal programme that had been organised to enable a lasting record to be made of this 40th Anniversary Year. To date, three peals have been scored and seven lost or postponed for varying reasons, including illness and broken ropes. In all. 25 peals are being attempted bv District members in the 25 towers in the District during the period January 1st to March 31st. giving opportunities for a good number of "firsts."
The chairman wound up the meeting by proposing votes of thanks to all who had done so much to make the day such a memorable occasion, including the Vicar (the Rev. Hamilton Lloyd), the organist (Mi. Reynolds), the ladies who had prepared the wonderful tea and in particular Mrs. Biges for the cake and finally Mr. E. Dance, who had coordinated all the arrangements. Thank you, Whitchurch !

BIGGLESWADE DISTRICT OUTWARD LOOKING

Biggleswade, on January 13th, saw the end of yet another year in the history of the District, and this one will surely be remembered by many as one of the most successful and outward looking.
During the afternoon and evening the District Ringing Master, Mr. A. H. Smith, and Mr. C. D. Mann coped admirably with the full beifry. The Rev. J. H. Dominey held a short service at $4.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. and then 41 very hungry and cold ringers sat down to a superb tea served by Mrs. Smith and her helpers.

At the business meeting the Vicar, as chairman, briskly ushered the company through the long business agenda. The members approved unanimously the proposed list of towers and practice methods for the coming year submitted by the committee and Ringing Masters.
Mr. P. Mehew was re-elected chairman and Mr. K. H. Fleming as secretary and treasurer. The following were elected to the committee: Messrs. S. Ashton, R. Sharp, P. Rogers and C. Hardy. The Ringing Mastors (Mr. C. Mann and Mr. A. H. Smith) were elected as ex-officio members.
The District unanimously re-elected Mr. G. Mayes as Belfry Repair Fund treasurer and were pleased to hear that the District had over £141 in the joint Association account. Miss L. Ellison was re-elected Press secretary

Messrs. H. J. Lockey and P. Rogers were elected as District organists for the ensuing 12 months Mr. P. Rogers was asked to arrange the District outing again this year. The District felt that it could leave the task of the striking contest in Miss Ellison's hands.
Under any other business the company agreed to donate two guineas towards the cost of redecorating Biggleswade belfry, which must now be one of the most colourful in the country 11
The president of the Association, Mr. A. E. Rushton. in closing the meeting. thanked the ladies who prepared the tea, the Vicar for the way he conducted the meeting, the use of the bells and the short service, and finally he thanked the officers of 1967 for their hard work and wished everybody of the District a very happy 1968.

BELLRINGAVG v. HUMEWORK

Dear Sir,-May I please be allowed to pass some personal remarks about T.A.B.'s comment? I am one of the young people who often tind that the demands of homework conflict with my desires to join in with others at beraringing.

The plea that he makes for punctuality is one that deserves the wholehearted support of any reasonable person, and if homework is used as a lame excuse for lateness this should not be tolerated. Furthermore, many of us are aware of the arguments which are put forward against homework, but this is a situation which we, as pupils, are not in a position to remedy.

I cannot, however, agree with his refusal to accept the difficulty which we experience in devoting " at least $2 \frac{1}{2}$ hours to bellringing out of the 168." This, like so many statistics. does not bear close examination, for our problem is in fact one of devoting $2 \frac{1}{2}$ consecutive hours between 5 o'clock and 9 o'clock. It must be realised that schools would find it impossible to cater for the individual demands of every pupil whose outside interests would be found to conflict with homework on every night of every week. In consequence we must accept the sifuation that no provision is made for this and homework takes priority. Is it not to our credit that we strive to follow our pursuits in spite of such difficulties?-Yours sincerely,

Stowmarket.

Dear Sir,-With reference to your article about "Bearinging v. homework," in the last paragraph T. A. B. states that he cannot accept that young people cannot devote at least two and a half hours per week, which & presume means one hour on Sundays and one and a half hours on practice nights.
Surely he must realise it is not unusual for students to receive, for instance, two hours' work (in pre-exam years considerably more) on one day, to be handed in on the next. so it has to be done on the same night.

Now it is far better to do this work early in the evening. when the mind is fairly tresh with the day's work than to attempt it later, when the mind is tured.

This means that the student, after doing his homework. cannot possibly arrive at the ringing practice before 8 oclock. and has therefore got the choice of either arriving late at praclice after doing his homework properly and being nagged at by the tower captain, or being punished for handing in incomplete or shoddy homework. The student will soon tire of this and will decide to do his homework and forget the ringing. So I ask all clock-watching tower captains to remember the phrase "Better late than never."-Yours faithfully,
J. J. BAILEY.

NEWBURY BELLS

Dear Sir, - I must apologise to my old friend, Mr. A. J. Whittle, regarding Newbury bells.

In the course of conversation 1 made the mistake of thinking that he said in his letter that the back eight were by Rudhall. He was quite right when he said they were by Wells, of Aldbourne. Wilts. I have since read his letter a second time.-Yours sincerely,
R. W. REX.

Thatcham.

Dear Sir,-I read with much interest my old friend's letter re Newbury bells. He is quite right and I stand corrected and apologise for my mistake. I must have been carried away on having heard some of Rudhall's beautiful whole peals in the Midands, viz.: Pershore, Beckford, Eckington, in Worcestershire.
Of course, Newbury's old eight were from Wells, of Aldbourne. When the two trebles were added, in 1933, we used to say "What a grand ring the ten would be if they were all like the trebles" The ten did not do much good in Newbury tower. We were a much better band on the old eight when we could ring Stedman and Grandsire Triples for service-and we could ring Bob Major. We would have got much further if Reg could have had his fling. When Reg was head gardener at the famous Donnington Castle we used to cycle to Ilsley, Bucklebury, Highclere and other places. Happy days, Reg old pal. -Yours faithfully.

ALFRED JAMES WHITTLE.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT

Dear Sir,-I would like to congratulate Brian Woodruffe and his band not only on ringing 19,620 Plain Bob Royal "in hand" but also on their decision, atter a slight mistake which spoilt the otherwise good ringing, not to try to pass the Stedman Caters handbell record. How tempting it must have been to push on regardiess. This is the sort of spirit we want. Congratulations, Brian. Let us have more of it from conductors everywhere. -Yours sincerely,
E. F. FOSBERRY.

NOT AGAINST CALL CHANGE RINGERS

Dear Sir.-May I please be granted a little space to direct Mr. Jewell (page 42) back to the path upon which my previous remarks have travelled?
I think I have not made any disparaging remarks about "call change ringers" as such. What I have said-and repeat-is that at the "call change tower ' in Plymouth the band were unkind to the extent of rudeness; that has been my complaint-nothing more! I do not dispute with Mr. Jewell about call change ringing for a moment but merely ask him not to confuse the issue.
When I am next in Combe Martin I shall try and find Mr. Jewell for a chat, and if he and his lady are this way I shall afford him a welcome.-Yours sincerely, Andover, Hants.

GEORGE E. BEAVIS.

PEAL WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir-It is with regret that I withdraw the peal of 5,152 Apsley Surprise Major rung at Anstey, Leicestershire, on November 11th, 1967, for the Leicester Diocesan Guild. as it is false.
The composition was given in Mr. Wratten's collection of compositions as being true to Apsley and it was on that authority that I called it.
My sincere apologies to all members of the hand and also to those who keep records of peals rung.-Yours faithfully,
R. KINGSLEY MASON.

THE PROGRAMME WAS 14, NOT 17
Dear Sir,-I am sorry that Kingsley Mason has seen fit to confound the controversy about the outing which I organised in Leicestershire on November 4th last (" Ringing Wor,d," January 12,1968 ), which 1 had noped to leave to Judy Cox and A. C. B. to sort out on the original issue of criticism of bells in outing reports.

Firstly, I should say that the report on the outing was entirely a personal contribution from your correspondent, who is, I know, well capable of defending his views.

The more serious issue for me, as organiser of the outing, is Kingsley Mason's 111 -informed criticism of the outing itself. This is due partly to the misieading headline "The Day's Programme- 17 Towers in Leicestershire." In fact we rang at 14 towers; 17 was the number of towers I had to contact to obtain permission to ring at 14 .

The principle I use in planning an outing of this kind is a minimum of 20 minutes for five- and six-bell towers, 30 minutes for eight-bell and 40 minutes for ten-bell. The actual time allowed will depend on the number of ringers, to make sure everyone has a good ring and to allow time for raising and lowering in peal. The time between the towers is roughly calculated at 30 miles per hour plus five minutes. Occasionally there is an unavoidable delay which upsets the timetable, but experience shows it a good basis for planning an outing
This particular outing went very well apart from the weather and King's Norton! We were able to develop the ringing as we went along and several ringers made considerable progress during the day.-Yours faithfully,
C. J. GROOME.

THEORY OF COMPOSITION

Dear Sir,-Upon looking at the list of Central Council publications 1 find it surprising that there is nothing dealing with the theory of composition; the only booklet which ap proaches usefulness is Maurice Hodgson's treatment of false course heads, which is excellent as far as it goes but which leaves the would-be composer wondering how on earth he is expected to compose a peal when every time he produces any particular course he renders parts of perhaps another five courses unusable.
What is really needed is something setting out the basic ideas behind composition, summaries of relevant Central Council Decisions (e.g. about extension) and some indication of what is considered desirable music and what is not-it is, for example, a trifle disconcerting after spending hours perfecting a method, whose main claim to fame is an abundance of roll-ups at handstroke, to be informed that this is "totally unacceptable"!

It may be argued that if a composer is to be able to produce original work then he will be capable of working out everything that he needs from first principles, but even if this is the case there is no need to subject him to such a test. A guide book to composition would save the learner a great deal of time and unnecessary hard work and might enable him to produce useful compositions earlier than would otherwise have been possible.

Perhaps someone could produce such a guide book, or at least give a reason why its publication would be unnecessary.-Yours faithfully,

COLIN C. MONSON.

EAST DEVON REMEMBERS DANBURY
Dear Sir,-Your front page photograph of Danbury brought back a llood of memories. Twenty-six years ago five other ringers and I from East Budieign were stationed, with the 8th Battalion The Devonshire Regiment, at Danbury. We used to route march for 30 miles around the village and never lost sight of the tower. There it was, always on our right, never any further away, never any nearer.

Ringing was off at that time so we were unable to sample the bells, but at least we did meet a great Christian gentleman in the Vicar, the Rev. Mr. Hopkirk. It was through "The Ringing World" I was able to note his retirement a few years ago and, more recently, his death. We have never forgotten the keen interest he took in us and the great lengths he went to (as did the whole village) to welcome us and make us feel at home. No annual reunion at Exeter ever passes without Danbury being mentioned.

It was from there that we moved to Wentworth Road School in Southend to meet yet another great pillar of the Church in Canon Gowing. Again through is The Ringing World I noted the passing of this old friend. Yes, friends they were, these two clergymen. We also had short stays at Rayleigh, Bradwell and Burnham.
Later in the war we returned to Essex again. this time to Southminster. The ban on ringing was now lifted so we "had a go" with the locals, but, alas, only three of us were left by this time. I have only once since been in Essex and was able to get a brief ring at Rayleigh one Sundey evening about ten years ago. One of these days I've promised myself a real visit to some of these old haunts.Yours sincerely,

East Budleigh.

P.S.-Dnes anyone in Danbury know what happened to the schoolmistress. Mrs. Cook? She used to play the piano for our sing-songs at the Griffin.-C.S.

HUNSHELF HANDBELL RINGERS

Dear Sir,-My article for "Reverberations " dealing with the Hunshelf ringers dealt only with the team that appeared at the Ashton-under-Lyne Rally. However, ringing at Hunshelf Secondary School began in earnest in September, 1965. Survivors of the first team now, who either are in the Fifth Form or who have left the school, now meet every Thursday evening during term-time in the school under the auspices of the local Evening Institute, at which I get paid as their instructor and leader. There is also a team of 13 girls and boys who are in their second year. So the Hunshelf ringers are of three teams with a total of some 36 ringers. We all use the same bells and also our own cover illustrated with embroidered velvet bells. Yours faithfully, Wentworth, Rotherham.

TUNE RINGING

ALTON HANDBELL FESTIVAL

M
IISERABLE weather on January 13th probably accounted tor the poor attendance at this fine entertainment. However, the Assemby Rooms main hall, Alton, was three-quarters full, about 200 people apart from the numbers of the bands, and $£ 26$ was raised for the church's Rebuilding Fund.
The first band was that of the long-formed Selborne ringers under their jovial, contident leader, Brian Matthews. Their signature tune, "The Serenade of the Beils," was controlled with difficulty in the slow passages. "Giorious Apollo," an organ voluntary specially arranged for the bells, with pretry, well-executed runs, followed. The "Alpine Waltz," which has a pleasing melody, was spoilt by the overbearing bass accompaniment, the band's immaculate striking and obvious prowess was offset by their turnout, which was lacking in mage consciousness.

The Shinfield team then gave a very spirited performance. Four men with fourteen Taylor's bells, led by Mr. F. J. Higgs, rang first "The Bells of St. Mary's" with energy and cleverly arranged harmonv and then tunes from the British Isles and finished with carols and Brahms' "Cradle Song," rung with masterly control of timing and interpretation.
Liss made two appearances, once before the interval with a full band of four girls and two young men with the leader, Mr. T. S. Bowles, conducting off stage! The team played folk tunes and, despite their nervous enthusiasm, gave a good performance for in band only a year old. Their second ring required Mr. Bowles, his daughter and the two young men with four-in-hand. They played "Galway Bay" and "O No. John" among others.
Team No 4 was The Three Saints Group from Fleet. A young family team led by Lt.Col. Scott at an easel. Tunes were skilfully played by ten ringers, mostly children. The timing was erratic, especially in "Waltzing Matida,' but a Malayan dance, . Rosa Sayang," was well rung, only surpassed oy a -Sanıa Lucia "admıraoly suited to the bells as ther innale.

The Alion Boys' Brigade team in untorm were conducted by their teacher, Mr. R. Betsworth, of the Selborne team, whose style and expression was caretuliy marrored. Ihey performed "D'ye Ken, John Peel" and ihe Lincolnshire Poacher" notably. It was to this band's credit that the Festival was organised. Their enthusiasm was obvious and ever the youngest ringer, aged 11, gave of his best.

After the interval the Mortimer Wesr End Women's Institute band entertained first with rounds and Queens finally rung in close harmony. Timid choreography was attempted with limited success, but doubt remained as to whether this was to be taken seriouslv or not. Ihis team's bells were poorly maintained and little cared for. The playing with numbers was carefully controlled and with suitable harmony. The execution of "I ittle Brown Jug " and Brahms' "Lullaby" was particu'arly creditable.

The last team was the Hartley Wintney Toc $H$ band, who were in the unfortunate position of duplicating some previously rung music. They justified themselves amply by surpassing the previous performances with a far better arrangement of "Edelweiss" a precise and vigorous rendering of "Holsworthy Chimes," which was well received. but their final offering was best of all. "The Rakes of Mallow." Under the leadership of Mr. Vic Stenning this band certainly showed up very well. but there is nothing so disconcerting as ringers chewing on stage!
Lt.-Col Scott thanked Mr. W. Chapman for organising the event so well and led. with his band, the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," which concluded an enjoyable evening's entertainment. The first of many Southern handbell concerts, I hope.
B. S. GAMBRILL.

ANNUAL BRANCH MEETING AT BUCKFASTLEIGH

The Mid-Devon Branch held its annual meeting at Buckfastleigh on January 13th, when despite the inclement weather there was a fair attendance The ringing was under the supervision of Mr. W Simmonds, and a short service was conducted by the Rev. J. W. Timms (Vicar).

After a sumptuous tea in the Town Hall the usual business meeting followed, Mr. Simmonds being voted to the chair. Hearty votes of thanks were passed to the Vicar, the organist. and the ladies for the excellent tea arrangements.
The financial statement and a comprehensive secretary's report showed a satisfactory balance in hanci and a membership of 72.

At the election of officers the reliring chairman Miss M. Russell, did not seek re-election and the Rev. D. P. Angold was unanimously elected. Also elected were Mr. R. F. Shepperd. Branch secretary: Mr. K. E. Fursdon, Ringing Master: Messrs. B. E. Bartlett, J. Kelly and the Rev. W. P. Dowling to the general committee. One new member was elected
Next meeting: Paignton, April 20th.

REVIVAL IN GUILDFORD DISTRICT

A stimulating annual meeting of the Guildford District was held at Guildford Cathedral on January 20th. with Mr. Peter Smart, Guild Master, in the chair. Three new companies had been formed-at the Cathedral, St. Nicolas', Guildford, and Bramley, and 17 new members were elected at the meeting.
The meeting stood in remembrance of $\mathbf{M r}$ Leslie Warner, captain at Cranleigh, and Mr Fred Oldroyd, of St. Nicolas' and Holy Trinity, Guildford.
The Ringing Master (Mr. David Tubbs) in his report spoke of good attendances at meet-ings-a 47 per cent. increase and 43 per cent. increase in towers represented. The standard of ringing was presentable. He welcomed the new band at Bramley and said the Cathedral had 11 ringers of their own. Mr. F. Housden was holding monthly special method practices on Thursdays, and three more ten-bell practices would be held this year at the Cathedral.
The rise in membership was reflected in the improved balance sheet, and Miss J. Eloie (hon. secretary and treasurer) gave the District's membership as 97 full, plus 14 juniors. The District had a balance in hand of $£ 59$ 13s. 10d. against $£ 48$ 12s. 6 d .
Officers elected for next year were: Ringing Master, Mr. David Tubbs; Assistant Ringing Master, Mr. Martin Kirk; hon. secretary and treasurer, Miss Eloie; committee, Mr. W. Savile.
Mr. Martin Kirk proposed the vote of thanks to the Dean (Bishop George Clarkson) for the use of the bells and the service, and to Mrs. C. Tubbs and Mrs. A. White for the excellent tea provided.

Rung at Isleworth on January 6th, 1968.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Congratulations to the sistets, Ann and Enid Lawson, on their first peal of four-spliced Surprise Major (all the work) at Staindrop, Co. Durham.
In the peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal at Evercreech the footnoie respecting Mr. John Brain should read "First peal of Cambridge Royal," He has rung peals of Royal in other methods.

For the first time since 1954, Mr. Derek P. Jones, of Burton-on-Trent, has failed to qualify for the list of individual peal totals. His total of 17 (conducted 17) includes very few few failures.
Mr. Joseph W. Cotton, secretary of the Midland Counties Guild since its inception, took part in a peal on December 19th to mark his 65th birthday and retirement from business. A fund has been opened for the rehanging of the eight bells at St. Thomas the Martyr's, Bristol. These were cast by Llewellyn and James, of Bristol. Mr. G. Tudor, 17, Lawfords Gate, Bristol 2, is receiving donations.

There were seven "firsts" of Superlative Surprise Major in a peal at Culcheth. Lancs, conducted by Geofirey Fothergill, on January 20th.

Mr. Fred Housden has presented to the Guildford Guild library a photographic book of the dedication of Guildford Cathedral bells. It is a treasured collection of pictures, beautifully bound by Mr. C. W. Denyer.

Mr. C. W. Kippin is not seeking re-election as treasurer of the Guildford Diocesan Guild. A nomination in favour of Mr. Malcolni Powell, of St. Nicolas', Guildford, was made at the annual meeting of the Guildford District.
On Sunday, January 7th, the ringers of Spalding Parish Church accompanied the choir to Lincoln Cathedral. It was the second year in succession that the choir had been invited to lead the service of the Nine Lessons and Carols, and the ringers are grateful to the Cathedral company for the opportunity of ringing prior to the service.

A BRANCH'S TRIBUTE TO ITS LONGEST SERVING OFFICER

Retirements are no: usually happy occasions, but no one could say that this note was absent when members of the Marlborough Branch of the Salisbury Guild met at Chilton Foliat on January 20th to pay tribute to its secretary for 30 years, Mr. T. Arthur Palmer.
Members of the Branch had contributed to a presentation fund which amounted to just over £13, and this gift was handed to Mr Palmer by the Guild president, Mr. W. C. West, who had made the long journey with Mrs. West especially for the purpose. In welcoming the president, the chairman of the Branch drew attention to the devotion and co-operation of Mrs. Palmer, and said how pleased Arthur must be that, in a recent quarter peal in his home tower at Aldbourne. six of the band had been taught to ring by him.
Before the presentation Mr. West outlined the history of the Branch. He remembered coming to the Branch's formation on July 22 nd, 1911 in a two-horse brake when he was a "probationer" ringer at Melksham. In the first 25 years the Branch had eight different secretaries and when Arthur took over the job there were only 57 menthers. The health of the Branch today was very largely Arthur's work
Perhaps Arthur gave us the secret of his service and success when, in thanking the Branch. he said that he had thoroughly enjoyed his work and you could not expect to do well without this priority. It was evident that the meeting thoroughly approved his sentiment. Ringing in scattered rural areas and others 100 is often dependent on the faithfulness of its Branch secretaries. Thank you, Arthur, for setting us such a fine example. Arthur, for setting us such a feane ex ringing yet to come
R.K.

ST, PETER'S, SUDBURY, SUFFOLK

Work is about to begin on the tower of this church, where the weight of the spire has caused the upper stage to become badly cracked, and of late much masonry has fallen. The tower is then to be completely restored and, including the removal of the spire, the approximate cost is $£ 10,000$.
It is to be hoped that the bells, a merry ring of eight (tenor 23 cwt .), will then receive attention so that the silence of almost 17 years will be ended.
The nearby Mother Church of St. Gregory 18 bells, 16 cwt.) will, of financial necessity, have to await the accumulation of more funds. Here the bells are in good order but the tower was closed some nine years ago after an estimated cost of $£ 6,000$ for its restoration.

MAIDSTONE DISTRICTS PROGRESS

On January 15th a band of ringers from Maidstone rang a quarter peal of five-Spliced Surprise Major (London, Cambridge, Bristol, Superlative and Yorksbire) at Leeds, Kent.
This particular quarter peal is the direct result of the monthly Surprise practices which have been held at various towers in the Maidstone District. These practices have been of great benefit, as they have given ringers the opportunity to ring Spliced Surprise Major as well as the standard Surprise methods.
Full credit must be given to the District secretary (Mr. M. L. Howe) and the District Ringing Master (Mr. C. Tester) for arranging the practices and making them such a great success.

THE CHRONICLES OF KENT

And it came to pass that in a certain Holy City there arose two great buildings, one close to the walls of the city, and the other farther from the walls. And lo, when the buildings were partly completed, many young people from other parts of the land appeared, to sojourn awhile for part of the year to increase their learning. And among these young people there were those who followed the peculiar art of change ringing, and they did help the local people in their craft, and the local people welcomed them into their midst, into their towers, and into their homes, and there was much rejoicing in the land.
And 10 , after a certain time, some of these young people who lived in the two great buildings did write to the chief scribe of their paper, and one did complain bitterly that the people who lived in that part of the land did not enjoy ringing peals, neither did they have many meetings. And did the people of that land rise up in wrath against the writer of that epistle? They did not, because they followed the writings of their Apostle Paul, who had told them, "If it is possible, as much as lieth within you, live peaceably with all men."
And it came to pass that after a passage of time the people of that land did hold a meeting at a certain small village about two leagues from the walls of the city. And at that time there was much snow and ice on the land and on the roads and paths thereof that led to the village. And there were some that travelled upward of seven leagues to be present with their brethren, and their journey was difficult. But the people of the village did welcome them with warmth in their hearts, in their church and in the hut wherein they had their meal. But the man who complained bitterly appeared not, and they that were there did wonder greatly at his absence.
B. J. LUCK.

SURPRISE, SURPRISE !!

The long-awaited first Surprise practice at Dereham, Norfolk, on January 12th, was expected to be a failure. During the day snow showers were frequent and many roads were almost impassable. In the evening freezing fog increased the driving hazards. Normal individuals, with no need to venture out of doors, would watch TV One wife, at least. commented on the madness of doing otherwise!
Three Dereham locals sat over the heater in the belfry knowing that the ringers necessary to make the practice lived 15 miles of Norfolk road away in Norwich.
7.50 p.m., and footsteps sound on the stairs ! The clockwinder? No! Ringers share with mad fogs the ability to disregard extremes of climate. Four members of the Colegate Society were determined to make the practice succeed

A touch of London Surprise on the back six served to empty snow on to the ringers and rouse two more locals. Ringing continued with Yorkshire, London, Cambridge and Bristol.
I think all would agree that the first Surprise practice was a success; the next will be held on February 9th. On behalf of the Dereham company I would like to thank Geofirey for braving the weather.
K.S. H.

RECORD LENGTHS OF DOUBLES

In reply to a reader, we give the record lengths of Doubles:-
On tower bells: 12,600 at Old Marston, Oxford, on April 7th, 1958.
On handbells: 15,000 at London on November 14th, 1962.

A CAMBRIDGESHIRE AUGMENTATION

The bells of Holy Trinity, Meldreth, are to be increased to a ring of eight. The two new trebles were cast on January 17th at the Whitechapel Foundry and the proceedings were watched with great interest by local ringers. Mr. J. Gipson, who is a churchwarden, has offered to hang the new bells.
The inscriptions are:-
Treble: "Blessed the Most Holy Trinity." Patrick McNeice, Vicar. Herbert Hilton, John Gipson, churchwardens..
Second: "All Thy works shall praise Thee."

HOUNSLOW WEST BELLS RINGABLE

For a number of years the bells of Hounslow West, Middlesex, have been silent owing to damaged wheels. Towards the end of last year Mr. R. J. Collis repaired the wheels, and a quarter of Yorkshire was rung on the bells. There is little prospect of a resident company here, but Mr. Colilis hopes that quarter peals will be rung, and any band wishing to do so is asked to contact him at 144, Percy Road, Whitton, Twickenham.

FAWLEY SURPRISE

Members of the Fawley, Hants, band, led by Mr. Derek C. Jackson, have decided to turn their attention to unnamed Minor methods. Mr. Cyril A. Wratten has been very helpful in forwarding a list of Minor methods as yet unnamed. They are all based on the Treble Bob principle and subsequently the following was chosen for Fawley:-

Mr. Wratten offered to peal the method. An attempt was made locally to score a peal of Minor containing a 720 Fawley Surprise, but the attempt on January 6 th proved unsuccessful. The real occasion, the second anniversary of the rededication of Fawley bells, was honoured by a successful quarter of 721 Fawley Surprise and 540 Plain Bob Minor, on January 9th. This method has still to be pealed either by Mr. Wratten or by the Fawley band on April 20th.

DULWICH HANDBELL RINGERS

Hope Baptist Church, Ebdon Bridge, are not the only Baptist handbell ringers. The whole of the present Dulwich Handbell Ringers are Baptists belonging to the Lordship Lane Baptist Church, East Dulwich. Mr. Arthur H. Coombs, the conductor of the handbell ringers, is also the organist at the Baptist Church.

SILVER WEDDING-HIS 250th PEAL

It was a happy coincidence for Mr. John Ashcroft, of Spring View, Wigan, that his 250 th peal should also be in honour of his silver wedding. He thanks the rest of the band for helping him to score this particular peal and all the many friends who have helped and tolerated him since bis first peal of almost 30 years ago.

Recruitment and Training

By N. CHADDOCK,

Convener, C.C. Sunday Service Ringing and Education Committee

THE suggestion made by N. F. M. in his feature "The Difficulties of Bellringing" (page 936, "R.W." December 22nd), that experiences of various towers be made known, is a good one. I agree with him that constant recruitment and training are essential if continuity of efficient ringing is to be maintained. The only exceptions to this are a few cities where ringing flourishes and there is a steady influx of ready-made ringers. Their gain, however, is some other :ower's loss.
There must, however, be interest, enthusiasm and opportunities to progress. Some towers have literally droves of recruits who reach a certain stage and finding no oppostunity for further progress lose interest and drop off.
In these days of extreme "mobility of labour" and the high proportion of lady ringers (God bless them!) whose ringing careers are necessarily interrupted or restricted, most towers have a steady wastage which calls for a considerable degree of training most of the time.

The Survey done by the Service Ringing and Education Committee, almost 10 years ago, threw some light on this problem, as did the consequent publication "Ringing for Service," available from the C.C. librarian.
Whilst many factors for success are well known, they are not always the same in different towers because the composition of the bands, conditions, traditions and outlooks differ. The band. old and young, experienced and inexperienced, must be able to get on extremely well together. Mental and physical qualities are only two of many important ones to be looked for in new recruits.

Some common factors for success are undaunted enthusiasm of one or several able members of the existing band, and ability of someone to teach. to organise and to create interest and enthusiasm. The belfry must be organised on businesslike lines. Half-heartedness never brings success in ringing affairs.

Those who work with youngsters have not only to teach them to ring but take a part in moulding their impressionable characters and sense of true values in ringing matters.

Though most young people often tend to appear less thoughtful than adults, this is not always so and there is a reward in seeing one's own teenage recruits develop their ringing ability and personality.

Not only is it necessary to train replacement ringers, but those with qualities of leadership and ability to impart their enthusiasm and skills to others must be encouraged to take responsibility in the tower and in established ringing organisations.
Of over 60 post-war trainees of mine who have rung 720's, the majority have been teenagers, and I would put 14 years as an ideal age at which to learn to ring. One of my most rewarding pupils, however, has been a mature man in his $40^{\circ}$ ', his contribution being not only that of a capable service ringer but of understanding and friendly encouragement to all who entered the ringing chamber including myself. He learnt happily amongst a group of 14 year olds, three of whom have for years been outstanding in their reliability, ringing ability and enthusiasm and have progressively become the backbone of the band.
Whilst exceptionally bright Grammar school recruits can produce rapid results, for steady continuity boys slightly below that academic standard take some beating. The former often develop too many other commitments and the latter are more likely to remain in the locality and develop ringing as their major interest.
Time spent on training those who later give up their ringing is not always time wasted. In some cases worthwhile service is obtained from them and they often bridge the gap between earlier and later recruits who retain their interest.

As regards method ringing, the majority of my teenage recruits at Rotherham have progressed to Surprise Major and Stedman Caters. The various ringing done each time a band meets should include a short "piece" which stretches it to its limit, bearing in mind the need to preserve a good standard of striking. On one occasion this might be Stedman Triples and on another Spliced Surprise. This keeps a band interested and on its toes and in a frame of mind to bear up with the more humble part essential to ensure the band's future.
It is advantageous to have a small group of pupils learning together, if this can be arranged. Training must be thorough and standards high in all aspects. The value of the extensive use of handbells in training cannot be over-emphasised.

Much valuable information about methods of teaching has been disseminated at the day and weekend courses in bell ringing. The Exercise can benefit from the pooling of ideas and experience which has proved effective.

TUNE RINGING

TODDLERS' FIRST STEPS WITH BELL MUSIC

From Yorkshire Mrs. M. Chant tells of the introduction ot tune ringing by five-year-olds at South Hiendley J.M. and I. School. They arc pictured ringing "St. Paul's Steeple."

They have a growing repertoire of nursery rhymes, such as "Baa Baa Black Sheep," hymn tunes, including "Thank you for the world so sweet." They also ring a number of songs from "The Sound of Music," including "Edelweiss" and "Climb Ev'ry Mountain." At Christmas time carols of course are rung, "O come all ye faithful"" O Little Town of Bethlehem" and "Away in a Manger" being among the favourites.
The "conductor" points at a poster-size sheet of "music"-the pointing making inc rhythm of the piece, because as a note is touched, then the ringer of that particular note "rings."

Each note at this stage is rung by recognttion of colour (tunes in tuli harmony being rung at a later stage to numoers-each chilu having its own individual music).

When we exhausted the easity recognised colours, and more notes were required, then we repeated the colours but put a black stripe on top. This gave us the following key of recognition:-

| A | 15 | White and black stripe. |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| B | 14 | Blue and black stripe. |
| C | 13 | Yellow and black stripe. |
| D | 12 | Red. |
| E | 11 | Yellow. |
| F | 10 | Pink and black stripe. |
| F sharp | 10 | Pink. |
| G | 9 | Green. |
| G sharp | 9 | Brown and black stripe. |
| A | 8 | Orange. |
| B | 7 | Mauve. |
| C | 6 | Brown. |
| C sharp | 6 | Black. |

| D | 5 | Blue. |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| E | 4 | White, |
| F | 3 | Orange and black stripe. |
| F | sharp | 3 |
| Green and black stripe. |  |  |
| G | 2 | Red and black stripe. |
| A | 1 | Mauve and black stripe. |

A $\quad 1$ Mauve and black stripe. $\frac{1}{\prime \prime}^{\prime \prime} \times \frac{1^{\prime \prime}}{}$, cellotaped upon it. Even the five-year-olds are able to ring a faultless tune, which they can recognise and enjoy. The powers of concentration are developed to a remarkable degree-as I think the picture very clearly demonstrates. The children were not posed, but were actually ringing when the photographer called.

Church of St. James, Talaton, Devon

ALATON lies a little to the north of the London-Exeter road near the notorious Rockbeare Straight which holiday motorists know so well; perhaps it is because it is so near to such a busy road that so few people take the time to visit it, but they miss seeing a fine church with an outstanding Devon screen as well as the unusually decorative tower shown in the photograph.

The bells are a good ring of six with a tenor of $12 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt., and they are all of different dates. The oldest is the 4th, a beautiful casting from the Exeter foundry dating from the latter part of the 15th century. Her inscription is one of the Exeter "stock" inscriptions, "Protege virgo pia quos convoco Sancta Maria"-"Saintly virgin, Holy Mary, protect those whom I call.". The tenor is one of the finest of the surviving bells by the Somerset founder Roger Semson, who worked during the reign of Queen Mary I at Aish Priors, near Taunton. On this bell he inscribed in large curly capital letters: "Confessores saincti omnes orate pro nobis"-"All ye holy confessors pray for us." The inscription is decorated with crowns, a rose and a fleur-de-lys, but the biggest and best ornament is an impression of the seal, about 4 in . across, of a 15 th-century Countess of Warwick, Joanna de Beauchamp. The same inscription and ornament appears on the tenor at Bradford-on-Tone; there seems to be no clear connection between either parish and the owner of the seal, so perhaps Semson may have got the seal by way of scrap, and kept it for decoration.
The ring must have become a five comparatively early, for the 2nd was formerly a bell by John Pennington of Exeter, cast in 1661. In 1751 the 5 th was recast by Thomas Bilbie of Cullompton, decorated with roses; and in 1792 the younger Thomas Bilbie recast the 3rd, which is decorated with Bilbie's little bell-stamps.

The treble of the six came from Warners' in 1891, when the ring was rehung. A further rehanging came in 1932, when Gillett and Johnston recast the 2 nd and the whole ring was hung in a new iron and steel frame with iron headstocks and new gear.
In late years the Talaton ringers have been increasingly successful in competitionringing; their village being just south of the dividing-line, they count as a South Devon tower, and generally get into the Devon six-bell competition among the first six bands of their half of the county. ## ANATOMY OF A TOWER

A correspondent recently noted, rather sadiy I thougnt, the number of ringers who had been in-and out-ot his tower since 1943 . He suggested that ringing there would today be oelter and more reguiar it they had not had such a high turnover.

I wousu luke to put an opposite point of view-a steady suppiy of new recruits is the way to keep the belis ringing.
1 have veen looking up vur records. Since 1946, when the band restarted from scraten, there have been 73 members of our tower. During the whole of this time there have not been more than half a dozen Sundays (ail, I think, in summer nollday tume) wnen the bels have not been rung. Mostly the six bells are rung to Grandsire, Stedman and Mlan Bob, well aced with rounds and call changes. Cambridge and London have at times been within our capabilities but not so often. Mostly the standard of our ringing on Sunday has been quite reasonable. I think our church has had the sort of service from its ringers that it has a right to expect. To be sure a lot of people have heiped to perform that service -but I can see nothing wrong in that. The bells have been rung and rung quite well.

No tower is typical, and ours is no more than anybody else's. We are fortunate in being in a suburb that supports its church well and whose population are mostly professional people or the children of professional people. But how these people move about! Somcone who has lived in this area for ten years is a rarity. When they are not moving house they are doing homework or travelling in foreign parts. This constant coming and going is not, however, something to be regretted; it is merely something to be taken into account in doing our job.

Here are a few more figures from our records. These refer only to the time since 1956, because this is the period of which I have personal experience and can interpret. Since 1956 there have been 41 members of the tower. The length of service has been made up as follows (the figures in brackets denote those who are members at present):

Years of Service No. of Members

A member is one who rings at least once a week. It does not inciude those who stili live in the area but are now at college and only ring in the vacations.
The average length of service is just over four years (It is currentiy only 3.6 years.)

Of the 41 , all but 10 learned to ring in the tower.
Of the ten who did not, five could do little more than handle a beil when they joined us, and five were up to peal standard, though only two had rung more than two or three peals.
Of the 29 who are no longer regular members, all but five left because they moved away from the area.
Of those who have left the district, I think 10 or 11 are still ringing, but of this I cannot be sure.

Of the 41, almost all have attained quarter peal standards, and the majority peal standard.
Allowing for those who were members before 1956, the average rate of recruitment is about one ready-made ringer per year and slightly over two raw recruits.
To my mind, the most important factor by far that has enabled us to keep our bells going over this period has been the recruitment, come hell or high water, of three ringers a year. We are geared up always to teaching people and try to bring them along as fast as they will come to maintain their interest and everybody else's. I must admit that there a times when the belfry is a little overcrowded. but at least it is never understaffed. Our recruits usually attain their first quarter in six to 18 months, and even if they are members for only two years they can be really useful ringers for most of that time.
I do not foresee that there will ever be a time when we do not need to recruit three new people a year. I do foresee that if we do not stick firmly to that policy our tower could soon become undermanned like too many others.

A SELWYN COLLEGE CENTENARY PEAL

ACCRINGTON PEAL OF GLASGOW UNDER FIRE

Dear Sir,-It is the custom for the conductor of a record peal to congratulate the band that subsequently breaks this record. However, in the case of the 12,096 Glasgow Surprise Major rung at Accrington on January 6 th, exceeding the 11,872 which we rang at Edgbaston in November last year, 1 cannot do so with any sincerity.
First, I understand that the peal is not being claimed as a record. This is regrettable, sunce the majority of ringers will regard it as the new record (I do), even though it cannot be recognised officially. The result is that it debases the status of our official record and generally throws the keeping of records into disrepute.
Secondly, it is clear that the aim must have been to surpass our record, else why was Glasgow chosen when the field is wide open for hundreds of other records? This being so, why was not seven days' notice given, as required by the rules for record attempts? This last point is perhaps the most unfortunate of all, since the rule was designed to give ringers land particularly those who rang in the existing record) the opportunity to listen to the attempt. I know that most of our band would have been keen to go to Accringon. We gave the required notice for our attempt and rang a very good peal, as many can testify. We are disappointed that no similar opportunity was given to us.
Thirdly, the ethics associaled with the composition for this peal must be considered dubious, but I shall not go into this in any detail since it is being dealt with in a separate letter by Mr. Peter Border.
1 would point out that this is not the first time that such an incident has occurred. A record length of Pudsey Surprise Major was rung at Loughborough last November, but this was not publicised in advance nor claimed as a record. This practice should be deprecated most strongly, both by the Guild for whom the peal is rung, and by the Exercise as a whole. The field of record lengths is generally one of endeavour and achievement : these performances only belitale it-Yours faithfully.

Birmingham,

RODERICK W. PIPE.

Brian Woodruffe on Record Peal Regulations (see page 103).

Dear Sir,-There are a number of ethical points which should be made in connection with the recent "long peal" of Glasgow Surprise Major lung at Accrington. I am not primarily concerned with the ethics of the performance itself; my own first interest is in the composition, published in your issue dated January 26th.
It is immediately apparent from the published figures that in order to join all of my 54 courses of Glasgow together, Richard Parker has had to resort to the use of an unusual call, to put it mildly. Rather less obviously, this "single" is made in 4-5 at the half-lead. I can see no reason for this call to be made at the half-lead at all (a single in 4-5 at the lead-end serves the same purpose). unless it could oe that Richard Parker believed that this might be easier to get away with.
Surely he cannot be so naive as to suppose that it cannot recognise for myself the possibility of joining up otherwise unjoinable courses by the introduction of special calls. Special calls were commonplace in the early days of composition, particularly of Triples. but even then they were regarded with disfavour, and only used because they appeared to be unavoidable. I for one heartily approve of the traditional abhorrence of special calls, with the result that my composition ran to 53 . courses only. This is not to say that I did not examine the possibilities of the normal singleit had none?

I would point out that I am perfectly well aware that the special call in question does not contravene the existing regulations governing the compositions of record peals. I suggest that these regulations may well not have been drafted so as to cover every eventuality, and now that this issue has arisen perhaps they should be re-examined.

One last point. If the use of special calls in record peals is regarded as acceptable, the field is wide open for attacks on all sorts of existing records. For instance, I know for a fact that the existing record of 14,144 London Surprise Major can be exceeded by a fairly handsome margin. I have worked out a suitable composition. which I do not intend shall see the light of day. - Yours faithfully.

Barford, Warwicks.

George Augustus Selwyn, in whose memory Selwyn College, Cambridge, was founded, was consecrated Bishop of Lichfield on January 9 th, 1868 , and to commemorate this centenary it was decided that a band of ringers drawn from matriculated members of the College should attempt a peal at Lichfield Cathedral on Saturday, January 13th.
The band were entertained to a magnificent tea by the Bishop, the Rt. Rev. A. S. Reeve, an Honorary Fellow of the College, and met several members of the Cathedral Chapter, one of whom acted as host to the travelling reserve, R. A. Harrison.

A peal of 5,040 Plain Bob Royal was rung in 3 hours and 15 minutes, conducted by Dr. C. M. P. Johnson, the Bursar of the College, who thus became the sixth person to reach a century of peals for the Cambridge University Guild. In 1954 members of Selwyn rang two peals of Major, but this is believed to be the first time a peal of Royal has been rung on tower bells by members of a single Cambridge or Oxford College.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

Miss Ruth Blackshaw, the hon. secretary, reported a very good year at the annual meeting of the Bingham District at Bingham on January 13th. The Bell Repair Fund reached $£ 43$ for 1967, a grand effort. Lowdham had made a very good upstairs ringing room after weeks of hard work. Meetings had been reasonably well attended and steady progress was being maintained. Membership had been almost doubled since formation in 1962.

Officers elected were: Mr. D. Clark, chairman: Miss R. Blackshaw, secretary; Messrs. H. Hanson. D. Stainsby and Miss 1. Anthony joint Ringing Masters; Mr. M. W. Harrison, committee nember Eight new members were elected: $\mathbf{M r}$. and Mrs. R. Spray (Cotgrave), Pamela Clifton, Joan Carter (Bingham), Susan O'Neill, P. Wild, R. Anthony, J. R. Rigby (Gedling).

The Rev. $F$. Stephena conducted Evensong, and tea in the Women's Institute Hut was very welcome on a cold, wet day.

The Eighth Grantley Hall Course

By Christopher Groome and Marcia and David Gomersall

$S^{N}$NOW and the closeness of Christmas provided a fresh background to the 1967 Granutey Hall Course, enhancing the fine setung of the hall and mighlightung the hospitulity und friendship which rulgers have always found at Grantley.
It was the eighth course at Grantley under the wadership of Norman Chaddock, and lasted from the evening of Friday, December 8 th, until teatıme on Sunday, December 10 h . Among regular attenders it was rated the best yet. There is no doubt that the course has gained an ethos and momentum of its own with a good balance between theory, practical and recreational time.

「he course was welcomed by Vernon Bottomiey in his capacity as president of the Yorksture Association. Together he and Jeanne ensured that everyone was welcomed and the only regret was that they could not stay the week-end. The tutors, Messrs. Wilfrid Moreton, Henry Fielden and Norman Chaddock, then each gave a short synopsis of the lectures they were to give, to help students make their choice of lectures. The Washington film followed and then began the round of conversation and handbell ringing which shows that ringers enjoy being together and, at Grantley. has a strange effect on the other course (drama this time) sharing the week-end.
Saturday ofiered a full programme of lectures in the morning and practical sessons in the afternoon.

CONDUCTING-PRIORITY

For the more advanced ringers, Henry Fielden, a "new boy" at Grantley, offered a series of lectures on conducting from Plain Bob to Surprise Major. It was a very personal and colourful interpretation of the theory rather than a neat package, to leave the students admiring but gasping As a result the practical side of conducting came over much better. Well worth repeating is Henry's order of priority for the conductor:
"Keep his own bell right, put the calls in the right places, and only then is he able to put other bells right. An ability to call 'Stand' rather than to indulge too much in the last activity seemed to fit in somewhere."
One group under Mr. Moreton learned how to construct Double Court ; then tried ringing the method that had been constructed following the "blue line." In the afternoon we had a practical session at Kirby Wiske, where we praitised the two methods we had been studying in earlier sessions.,

At our next session we learned how to construct Oxford, Double Oxford, Cumberland and St. Clement's ; then, after Mr. Moreton had explained 10 us the best way of constructing these various methods, we rang St. Clement's on handbells. The way in which we were shown a method and had it explained to us, followed up by trying to ring it on handbells, was indeed an excellent way of learning a method.
Others joined the group under the suition of Mr. Chaddock for elementary change ringing. It was amazing what we did not know, particularly where the theory side of ringing was concerned. Our session commenced with the principles of plain hunting and how the course was made up. This was developed until we could write out a course of Plain Bob Minor, paying attention to how the aoages were formed. When we had written that out we had a short practice on the handoelis, ringing what we had learned. At the next session we went into greater detau of Plain Bob Minor and learned the basis of bob work. We were given various duplicated notes on striking and rhythm.
On the Saturaay morning a practical session on elementary conducting was held at Kirby Malzeard under Normans supervision. Here some halt a dozen budding conductors each simultaneously called three or four touches of Bob Minor.

ORGANISED AS A MEETING

Ringing on the ten at Ripon Cathedral was organised as for a district society meeting As the course had ringers at all stages of development, including non-ringers, who had their first "ting," this was a fair test for Norman as Ringing Master. As an experiment all members of the course handed in to the Ringing Master, before ringing started, a slip of paper on which their ringing "requests" were written. This proved quite successful. Everyone had a chance to develop their ringing in a wide variety from rounds to Surprise Royal.

After dinner Ied Hudson treated everyone to an hour on "The Other Side of Ringing." It was surely one of the most fluent and best assembled set of facts and observations on the place of ringing and ringers in the community and on their relations with each other.
The evening closed with handbell ringing for all tastes-tunes with Norman, single-handed method ringing with Wilf Moreton and doublehanded with Henry.
Another welcome innovation of which the students took good advantage was the "tutorial." During each session one of the tutors was available to help students for whom neither of the set activities was suitable. Much use was made of this facility.
After breakfast on Sunday morning the usual short service was ably taken by Mr. Hudson. Most of the Drama Group joined the ringers. Would that all services at ringing meetings were so appropriate, simple and effective. It was preceded by a course of Grandsire Triples on handbells.
On Sunday afternoon further instruction in bell control and easy method ringing was given by Mr. Moreton in the tower. Sunday also included two sessions of carol ringing in four-part harmony using about 30 bells, organised by Mr Chaddock. These proved an enjoyable relaxation for those taking part.

At the final "get together" the tune ringers played a carol and there was a universal ieeling that the week-end had been very successful from alf points of view-ringing. social and gastronomical.

SUSSEX LADIES TO TRY AGAIN

At the annual general meeting of the Ladies' Guild, held at St. Mary's, Eastbourme, on January 9th, there were only five ladies present at the business meeting. A proposal was submitted that the Sussex District of the Guild should be discontinued. It was, however, decided to continue the District for another year in the hope of better support.

There was ringing in the afternoon and evening until 8 o'clock. The Vicar conducted a short service and local ringers were thanked for the excellent tea provided.

Next meeting: Hailsham. June 29th.

ST. ALBANS GIVES EVIDENCE OF A LIVE DISTRICT

THE annual meeung of the st. Albans Disurict was held on January 20th at Hatfield. During the afternoon the ten were ruay to methods up to Surprise, and a course of the special method, London, was achieved, al though quite a few tound all their ettort spent in handing the longish draught. A service was held, followed by tea, at which a vote of chanks was given to the Rector, the Rev. J. Stow.
The Associacion president (Mr. E. T. Newnham) took the chayr for the business meeting. Although the District had lost none of its own members during 1967, all present stood in silence in memory of Eddie Buck, ot the Northern District.

The minutes of the last annual District meeting were read and accepted, and also the secretary's report and the accounts. Mr. Robert Hardy was elected secretary and he was thanked for stepping in as acting secretary during the year. Mr. Gerald Penney was reelected as Ringing Master; he was thanked for all the time he had put in on the organisation side as well as the meetings, and he replied that he felt he'd done the job for enough years now and would like thoughts on a replacement for 1969. Miss J. Fellows was re-elected "Ringing World" representative. The committee was elected as follows: Mrs. Coburn Miss Fellows, Messrs. G. Dodds, J. Ewer, R. Brown, E. Edmondson and G. Penney. Messrs G. Dodds and G. Penney were elected to the General Committee. Miss J. Fellows was elected to write up the District peal book

The proposed list of towers and special methods for 1968 were discussed. Mr. Penney said it was proposed to carry on with the special methods and expressed the wish that all members would look them up before and not during the meeting. The next meeting will be held at North and South Mymms on February 17th, when York Surprise Major will be the special method.
On the social side, the District agreed to hold a dinner (after a break of one year), a social, barbecue and a coach trip to TV studios. Special practices at individual towers would be arranged on request, and invitations were immediately received for Wheathampstead in February and St. Paul's, Waldon, for March These are always on the first practice night of the month.
Mr. Fred Ellis, of Wheathampstead, announced that the Wheathampstead ringers were hoping to raise money to add two trebles to the six. They have already raised $£ 250$, and although they are aware of the fund in progress for the Central Council visit they hope o organise some money-raising efforts in the near future, which they trust everyone will support. There are still no plans to raise the floor or add rope guides !!
On a more serious note, Mr. Jack Dear, of the Northern District, conveyed Mrs. Eddie Buck's appreciation of the representation of the St. Albans District at her late husband's funeral. The secretary added that he had written expressing sympathy on behalf of tho District.

Votes of thanks concluded tho meeting and ringing followed.

SILENT TOWERS IN THE CITY OF LONDON

In response to the recent request for information as to the silent towers in the City of London. 1 append the following information:-
St. Andrew's, Undershatt (6). -This ancient and melodious ring is now nung dead in the old frame, and rung by a clavier; the old ringing fitungs are in a heap in the bell chamber. The tower is reported to be too weak to carry a ring of bells.
All Hallows', Berkyngechurche (18). -The old eight were totally destroyed in the blitz, and a magnuficent chime was erected by John Taylor and Co. in 1948, with a bass bell of $41 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. in C, but all hung " dead."
St. Botolph's, Aldgate (8),-Now rehung with the sixtb recast. This superb Whitecnapel ring ( $25 \frac{\mathrm{cwt}}{\mathrm{cw}}$.) is in regular use again.
St. Dunstan's-in-the-East (8).-The magnificent new ring, cast in 1951 by John Taylor and Co from the metal of the old and heavier eight damaged in 1941, has been thoroughly put in order, but there can be no regular organised ringing until the tower is buttressed. Occasional ringing is permitted. Tenor $21 \%$ cwt. in E flat.
St. Dunstan's-in-the-West (8),-A complete eight by T. Mears & Co., 1830, tenor repuredly 19 cwt . in F The bells are hopelessly derelict, several are cracked, and all are dilapidated and filthy beyond descripuon. 1 understand that they are to be sold for scrap. Ihe tamous clock "Jacks" are tntact; the other clock, in the tower, has gone to St. James', Bermondsey.

St. Katherme's, Creechurch (6). - [his church was narrowly saved from demolition and restored a few years ago. In the small tower is a derelict ring of s1x, from which the wheels, stays and sluders have been removed; both headstocks and frame are dilapidated, the former being renewed when the tenor ( $10 \frac{1}{2}$ cwi.) was recast in 1842. The bells are not even chumed.
St. Magnus the Martyr's (10).-The bells were removed in 1939 for safety, and still lie at Whitechapel. They were last pealed in 1938, and many peal boards adorn the filthy ringing room. The old oak frame remains, with the tenor headstock still suspended from its bearings. Several of the bells are cracked, and overtures by many people regarding their restoration have been treated with contumely by the authorties until recently.
St. Mary's, Woolnoth (3).-The only ringable three in London; in weight they go $2 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$., 5 cwt . and 11 cwt.; they are wildly out of tune and run badly. There are also ringable single, bells at St. Margaret's, Pattens, and St. Bride's, Fleet Street ( $15 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$. in F), the latter replacing the blitzed ring of 12 .
St. sepucarse's (1u)-LAst rung in 1938. the tamous bells of Uld Baney appear intact, thougn the pigeons nave taken over the velif chamber and ringing room, leaving the tower like one of the Guano Isiands. An excentent arucle by the churchwarden appeared in "The Kingug World several years ago, and it appears that efforts have been made to rehang them with ittle success. [he tenor (31t cwt . in D) is the famous passing-bell of the tormer Newgate gaol. The bells were rehung in the old trame in 1905, and many peal boards adorn the ground-floor ringing chamber, having been brought from above. The eighth was rehung in 1932 and the Sanctus more recently, but owing to the precarious state of both tower and frame (the latter wedged to the walls), the beils remain unringable.
St. Stephen's, Coleman Street (8).-The bells were totally destroyed in 1940, and the site of the church has now been cleared and built over.

There are chimes of bells hung "dead " at the Royal Exchange ( $13,33 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$., by Gillett and Johnston) and Houndsditch Warenouse Stores ( $10,4 \frac{\mathrm{cwt} \text {., not used). }}{}$

SHINGLING - Author's family followed the craft for 200 years

The tall, slender spire of Wadhurst Church, in Sussex, has now a coat of brown cedar shingles instead of the grey oak shingles. To me, this is a very sad sight, for the craft of shingling church spires was in our family for over 200 years, ending when my father died. five years ago. To repair a spire in the winter months was unheard of. and the workers used to leave home in April, go from job to job and return home in September. During the winter all the spare time away from the wheelwright's shop was spent in cleaving out shingles and stocking up for the following summer.
Unlike the steeplejacks of today, only one ladder was used, one of 18 rungs, with the one next to the bottom taken out. In the four corners of this aperture short ropes were !ied. One man then climbed up inside the spire, on the timbers and took out the trap door. some 15 feet from the top. A thin rope was let down and the ladder pulled up and manceuvred so that it lay up the spire with the opening in the ladder over the opening in the spire. The four short ropes were then pulled in the four corners and fixed to the spire timbers. man then crawled out through the hole, went up the ladder and fixed it to the top.
A rope collar was placed round the top of the spire, in which was hooked one or two sets of pulley blocks, 3 and 2, with a 90ft. rope A man then fixed a swing seat. as used today, got in it and took it down to the ground, where it was taken off and replaced with a big wooden cradle, in which a man could sit with plenty of room for his tools and a supply of nails and shingles. One could then easily pull oneself aloft and stop anywhere with a quick twist of the rope over the hook.
Some spires have a second trap door at the bottom and one could get in and out of the cradle without having to go to the top. The timber and the shingles being oak, one had to drill a hole for each nail, which was made of copper and would not corrode. One wonders today of the scrap value of the nails recovered from our spire
I helped my father carry out repairs to the spire at Wadhurst in 1935, but the last major job was in 1897. when two sides were completely renewed, so most of the other shingles were 100 years old Today's work in cedar is only guaranteed for 30 to 40 years In 1897 the spire was 16 feet out of upright. Over the years our family repaired most of the shingled spires in Sussex, Kent and Surrey, and one can write at length of the stories handed down: my grandfather, with his leg in an iron, having his after-dinner nap in the cradle. of the time he accidentally chopped the rope in half. and of the day father went into the bottom trap to shelter from a thunderstorm and the rain shrank the ropes. taking the cradle out of reach

RECENT EXPERIENCES
The shingling of the spire at Wadhurst was not without incident to the ringers. On December 9th we met to ring for an area Toc H service and were just about to raise the bells in peal when the Vicar rushed in with a message from the steeplejack: "You cannot ring the bells." A quick inspection upstairs revealed a ladder lashed to the bell frame and fouling the fourth and tenor. What Toc $\mathbf{H}$ members and our own people (the next day) thought of Doubles and Minor on 123567 we do not know but to us it was horrible. Fortunately all the bells were available the next week-end for a ringers' outing and a big dedication service.
December 20th brought another message from the Vicar-the belfry was flooded out, the bells were covered up and could not be used. So for the first time in living memory (except tor the ban) the bells were not rung for Christmas and the New Year. No doubt those living near the church appreciated not being wakened at 6.15 on Christmas morning, or roused at midnight on New Year's Eve. It did seem strange to walk to church in daylight on Christmas morning. and a lot of people said how they enjoyed hearing the handbells before Matins. Some of the ringers went to Burwash on Cnristmas morning and we were invited to join :hem to ring out the Old Year. We were able to ring again on January 28 th .

SYSTON DISTRICT REPORTS STEADY IMPROVEMENT

The annual general meeting of the Syston District was held at Syston on January 13th, attendance being 72 . Ringing on the eight bells preceded the service, which was taken from the Guild's proposed service booklet. The Vicar, the Rev. C. Wall. officiated. Tea was taken in the new Church Hall.
Opening the business meeting. the chairman (Mr. J. M. Morley) welcomed the Guild president (Mrs. J. Staniforth) and visitors from Burbage. St. Margaret's. Leicester. Blaby and Bransion. Lincs. Mr. A. Mansfield. an honorary life and founder member of the Guild, was especially mentioned. Thanks were also given to the Rev. C. Wail. the organist (Mr. M. White) and the Syston ringers who arranged the tea.
The chairman reported that a great effort Was being made to get the silent towers in the area going again. The main organiser of this is Mr. B. S. Payne, and anyone wishing to give a hand is asked to get in touch with him. Mr. Morley also announced that he was retiring from office through business reasons.
The secretary (Mr F. W. Faulkner) reported that in 196731 new members had been elected ( 10 adults. 21 juniors). Paid-up members totalled 107 ( 77 adults. 30 juniors). nine honorary life members and two over 65 years of age : total 149 members. The average attendance at monthly meetings was 49, evening practice meetings 25 . An improvement was hoped for this year

The Ringing Master reported a year of slow but steady improvement in the ringing at meetings. A pleasing feature was the many District members who rang their first peal. A District peal week was organised by Mr. B. S. Payne, with five successes out of seven attempts. "I think the first-pealers will agree that they learned more in three hours than in 23 in their own 'ower." The report contained thanks to the Barrow ringers. especially Messrs B. S Payne, R I. Kendrick and M. D. Barsby for their help given at the Quorn meeting Linford and Humberstone had better attendances at their meetings but he would like to see all towers represented at meetings and not just a few. Methods rung during the year in addition to Doubles and Minor included: Rev. Canterbury, Rev. St. Bartholomew. Winchendon. April Day: Triples: Grandsire. Plain Boh. Stedman: Major: Plain Bob. Keni T.B., Double Norwich Bristol. Cambridge. Superlative. Rutland. Yorkshire.

Officers elected for 1968 were: Chairman, Miss J. H Cox: secretary. Mr. F. W. Faulkner: committee. Mr. J M. Morley, Mr. C. Mobbs: Ringing Master. Mr. M. D. Barsby. Thanks to Mr J M Morlev for his work as chairman were voiced by Mr. H. L. Wykes, seconded by Mr. B. S. Payne.

CATERING FUR LATECUMERS

Dear Sir, - The members of the Peals Analysis Committee wish to dissociate themselves from the statement pubtished in the issue of "The Ringing World" on January 19th (page 43), under the heading *Peal Records tor 1967," paragraph 2, lines 3 and 4. We did no authorise this statement, which is contrary to the decision of the Central Council, recorded on page 22 of the Handbook.
In accordance with this, we shall contunue to accept peals which appear in print up to the tinal ussue of February. i.e. dated March 1st, 1968.-Yours fathfully

DOUBLES METHODS/VARIATIONS

Dear Sir,-1 was very interested in the artucle by Mr. Dawson on Doubles Splucing (* Ringing World, 1968, page 24), partucularly because I have been puzzled as to how one can arrange four variations of a Grandsire type method in one extent called S-SPx2. As 1 understand it. a variation consists of a plain lead, or leads, of one method used with the calls usual to another method. An example of this is Newborough, where one uses Grandsire plain leads with Granusire bobs and plain leads of All Saints' as singles. To ring Newborough one must, therefore, ring at least one plain lead of Grandsire, with at keast one Grandsire bob and one plain lead of All Saints'.
Recently a peal of Doubles methods/variations was rung in which it was claimed that four varlations had been rung in an extent based on Grandsire. The calling used was S-SPx2, using the same type of bob throughout, but four different singles. As far as I can see this does not give four variations. for the following reasons:-
(1) Only three olain leads have been rung; a variation demands at least one plain lead. Unless a plain lead is rung one would not know, for example. whether one is ringing a variation of Grandsire or Wollaton.
(2) Grandsire and similar methods require two types of call to produce an extent, singles or bobs on their own being insufficient. Similarly. variations of such methods require two calls to produce an extent. This means that. to say that four variations have been rung in a 120 one must use four bobs. Only three exist in a S-SPx 2 calling.

Mr. Dawson admits that these "particular typer(s) of extent are of dubious value, as four singles are used with three plain leads" (page 24). I would go even further and say that it is impossible to ring more than three variations in any extent arranged on this plan. I should therefore suggest that, where it has been claimed that more than three variations have been rung. conductors should consider whether it would not be more honest to amend their peal reports, especially where such peals are claimed as records of some sort or another.

1 hope, in the next few weeks, to publish details of a proposed addition to Central Council rules to cater for Doubles variations. Unfortunately it is obvious that even the simplest of variations must be guided by some rules, otherwise this branch of ringing will become a complete and utter farce. - Yours sincerely,

University College Dublin

CALL CHANGE RINGERS

Dear Sir,-Mr. Jewell's letter (January 19th) prompts me to join Mr. Beavis in his tight to bring to the surface the unfriendly atutude shown by some bands to visitors.
In my 25 years' experience as a ringer 1 have only once met with a refusal to be allowed to ring and this was at the only tower in Plymouth 1 had not rung at-St. Budeaux, tower altiliated to the Devon Association.
In all fairness, 1 had been warned that they did not encourage visitors, but as 1 was passing on their Tuesday practice night 1 thought a few rounds would suffice, and with my tamily entered the ground-floor tower.
The changes were obviously no going to plan, as they made two fresh starts. My family were getting impatient after 30 minutes, but 1 made the observation in a loud voice "They are coming round now "' on two occasions when changes 21345 and 12354 came up. After the third crunch they lowered.
i was told by a friend with over 2,060 towers that what I should have done was to charge in and taken the rope away from one of them, pushing him aside in the process. Instead we walked out of the church with them in silence.
Fortunately this is an isolated case. I have rung with several call change bands in Devon and Cornwall, mainly on eight, and can emphasise all Mr. Jewell has said At St. Mary s, Torquay, they have better striking than the majority of change ringing eight-bell bands, and you have to concentrate as much. 1 rang with this band several times, also at Plympton St. Andrew's, Tavistock, etc.-Yours sincerely, Highclere, Hants.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY RINGING

Dear Sir,-I fully agree with the sentiments made by the six members of the ringing fraternity in "The Kinging World" of January 26th.
I would be interested to know if the Abbey ringers ring in other towers; if they do, why not publish their names in "The Ringing World "and bar them from ringing in other towers--Yours faithfully, R. H. ADDIS.
Cardiff.
THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION
THE 87 members at the Association's Goole meating on January 20th will remember for a long time the excellence of Mrs. J. J. Taylor's tea and the welcome to the town by the Mayor, Mr. T. E. Addy, who, with his wife, joined members at both their service (with handbells during the 150 th Psalm) and rea. Canon Hudson, Vicar of Goole since last April, and his wife were also welcome guests.
At the business meeting ten new members were elected: lan Danby (Sutton-on-Hull), Jane Lawrence and Dr. and Mrs. Baker (Chapel Allerton), Michael Nunn (Rothwell), Margaret Hunt (Wakefield), Timothy Samuelson (Pudsey), Maxine Johnson (Cottingham), Bryan Seymour and Christopher Milner (Huntingion). The meeting voled unanimously in favour of the new rule about officers, and the following nominations were received: Peal secretary, Dr. T. D. Spencer; report editor, Mr. R. Ducker; composition secretary Mr. W. E. Critchley; general secretary, Mr. W. F. More ton.

In addition to the octave at Goole, those at Thorne and Howden were much enjoyed, as well as the fine sixes at Carlton and North Cave

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

Dear Sir-Having read the recent correspondence about ringing at Wesiminster Abbey, I would like to make one or two comments.
Several of the writers express their objections to a closed shop attitude. While not passing ludgment on this, I would ask what right these people feel they have to be allowed to ring there. The organ is not played for all services. but we do not hear about anguished organists offering their services to the Abbey, or about visiting choirs wanting to sing there on Saturdays.
Another recent correspondent questioned the function of service ringing in general. People going to worship at the Abbey know about the services and do not need to be "called," naving travelled some distance to be there. Under the present system, even if it has its faults, one knows at least that if the bells are ringing there is a jolly good reason for their doing so, and not just once again for ringers' pleasure.
The six people from the Oxford Diocesan Guild suggest that if the resident band is incapable of sunday ringing, then other bands should be allowed to ring. As one who has rung there (as a visitor, not a member of the band 1) I can say that the bells are not at all easy to ring, nor very rewarding, and I am sure that if Sunday ringing were "open," there would be very few ringers who would make the eftor to climb the long staircase for such average bells, once the initial novelty wore off. If these people are genuinely feeling philanthropic towards London ringing. their services would be more than welcome on another heavy eight, a: St Botolph's, Aldgate, on Sundays.

Iocidentally. my own opinion is that it should be easier for visitors to have a ring, without general "open" ringing, but do not question the right for the Abbey ringers and authorities to make their own rules and run the tower in the way they see fit. - Yours faithfully,
R. DENNIS.

Harlow, Essex.

FORMER VERGER'S VIEWS

Dear Sir,-I have read with interest the letters re Westminster Abbey ringing, and as I was a verger there for five years, taking parties round. 1 clam to know just a little of what goes on.

Westminster Abbey is a Royal Peculiar and all the time I worked there it seemed very pculiar to me. The behaviour of people was simply appalling. Smoking took place if the vergers were not very careful, and it has even been known for visitors to use monuments as toilets. Now one does not do this sort of thing in a church so it will give you ringers some idea of what the visitor really classes Westminster Abbey as (a museum). All the time I was there I was trying to make people realise it was a church, and one way to do this is to have the belis rung for services. At the present moment the vergers use hammers downstairs outside the belfry door; only if a special service is being held or a special ringing day crops up are the bells rung, and then after the service So let us Ret the bells rung for services if at all possible: that will also give the visitor outside some idea of what Westminster Abbey was built for. And in-side-well. let us get the thurible swinging so they can smell it is a church.-Yours faithfully.

Record Peal Kegulations Some Interpretation Wanted

By Brian J. Woodruffe

Dear Sir,-I write in reply to Alan Ainsworth's tettor in The Ringing World" (page 19).
(1) A apologise to Roddy Pipe for presuming that, as no conductor was stated in the notice Alan would be the conductor of the 11,872 Glasgow Surprise Major.
(2) Now, Alan, 1 am not sure that the Central Council regulations on record lengths are as straghttorward as you like to make out. Let me explan: Firstly, consider sub-section (f), (Centra! Councıl Handbook, page 19), which states: "That in the case of a peal rung to surpass previous peals of 6,720 cbanges and upwards compliance with these further conditions is necessary:
This statement can be interpreted two ways, one of which is: " That in the case of a peal, rung to surpass previous peals, of 6,720 changes and upwards
(my commas for emphasis). This means that any attempt at a record peal in which over 6,720 changes are to be rung, must comply with the rules.
The other interpretation is: "That in the case of a peal, rung to surpass previous peals of 6,720 changes and upwards, compliance . ." This means that the rules only apply to attempts at records. which already stand at or in excess of 6,720 changes. This is your interpretation. Alan, but think what it implies-a conductor would have to give notice of an attempt for 6,728 Little Bob Major (present record 6,720) but not for 40,680 London Surprise Royal ( 5,400 is the present record). Extreme examples, yes, but surely this is not what the Central Councal had in mind when the rules were drawn up and worded as they are now?
Since this is Alan's interpretation of the rules, he is perfectly correct in what he says in para. (2), but it does seem to suggest that. as notice was given for the 11,872 Glasgow, there is an element of doubt in his mind or that he feels the rules need altering to include alt record attempts. The idea of giving notice for record attempts is obviously that other ringers may visit the place of the attempt to listen and to check that the peal is rung correctly. And, of course, publicity, not only to ringers but to the general public as well, is an important point to take account of, as Alan rightly states.
(3) Whether the composition is to be published before or after the record attempt is another debatable point. Certainly the rules do not say that the composition must be pubfished with the notice but they do hint or suggest that this is so. May 1 quote the whole of sub-section (f) part (iii), not just part of it as in Simon Humphrey's letter:
"That the composition of the proposed peal shall be submitted to at least one competent person, other than the composer, for proof. and the figures shall be published in 'The Ringing World.' These figures shall be strictly adhered to unless it becomes necessary for the conductor to call the bells round before the full length is completed, owing to an unforeseen contingency. Any alteration made in the published figures for this purpose shall be published with the repori and also submitted before publication to those who proved the composition. The last sentence of this paragraph implies one thing-that the figures have been published before the attempt takes place. and that if the figures are altered they are then putlished again with the peal report. No time period is stipulated as to when the figures should be published but, of course. the most rational time is with the notice of the attempt, i.e. at least seven davs before.
fished sefore, that if the composition is pubYished before, another band could ring it previous to the notified attempt, or afterwards
tor that matter, if the notified attempt failed But if the record peal were rung by an unscrupulous band before the official attempt, it would not be recognused by the Central Councal and therefore would not be recorded and should not get in "The Ringing World" peal columns if the Editor is on the watch for this sor: of behaviour. The refusal to publish such peals is the only way to discard them and to uphold the rules of the Central Council However, 1 cannot agree with Alan over the point that znother band can use the composituon if the official attempt fated. This introduces a spirit of competition into record peal ringing and surely this is not a bad thing for the Exercise? Furthermore, how can the composer be sure that the conposition is the longest possible"- there is the chance that a different plan will produce a longer peal 1 believe that the Central Council is right in suggesting that the compostion be published belore the attempt, and this leads $m=$ on to the next point.
(4). Part (iv), sub-section (f) states:

That all ringing shall be heard by a competent, unbiased person who may give, if he thinks bt, and the performers so desire. a written ceruticate that the peal has been rung. Any objections to the performance must be made in writing to the conductor and Association and umpire immediately the ringing has finished, and any controversy arising shall be referred to the Central Council whose decision on the matter shall be final.'
Two queries arise out of this paragraph: : (i) Is the "competent, unbiased person" also the "umpire," and who appoints thesethe band or the Central Council? If the band appoints the umpire. he is therefore not unbiased but is associated with the attempt and, very often, with the spirit of it. If the Central Council were to appoint the umpire, they can then also judge his competence to umpire the attempt. Too often, the appointing of an umpire is a case of finding someone who is prepared to give up his time and not necessarily someone who is competent to judge the peal.
(ii) My second query is over the "objectons." Objections can arise from the standard of strikıng and by the composition. If the composition has not been published then the conductor is safeguarding himself against incorrect calls, and if the umpire is not competent, who is to know if a miscall is made? An acute listener outside the tower, if he has the composition. can make an independent check, and then he is in the position to object "immediately the ringing has finished " if he believes the peal has not been rung according to the published composition.
(5) I submit the above observations and comments as " food for thought" and. I hope, discussion. As with my earlier letter, there is no intention of "attacking" or "smearing" any conductor or band-l am iust asking for points to be clarified.
It seems there are three points to be discussed:
(i) Whether the composition is to be published before the attempt or not.
(ii) Whether notice has to be given for all record peals of 6,720 changes and over.
(iii) Who should appoint the competent, unbiased person/umpire, and who is to assess his ability to check the ringing.
May I add two more for good measure:
(iv) What is the significance of 6,720 (iv) What is the signiticance changes; why not 5,376 or 10.000 ?
(v) Should similar rules apply to normal length record peals, such as Spliced Surprise or multi-me:hods peals in which a record number of methods is to be rung?

URGE FOR NEW DISTRICT IN ESSEX

The annual general meetung of the South West District was held at Barking on January 13 hh. The Master, Mr. D. E. Cobb, presided and about 75 members attended.
The mexting was opened with a vote of thanks to the Rev. J. W. Roxburgh, also to the Barking ringers and the ladies, who had provided the tea, for their hospitality. Ihis was given by Dr. J. Armstrong.
The Master welcomed the visitors, who included Mr. Frank Lufkin and Mr. P. Saltmarsh.
The deaths were announced of Mr. B. Hines, ringing member of Brentwood, and Canon Stanley, honorary member of Prittlewell. Members stood in silent tribute.
After the secretary and ireasurer's annual reports had been adopted, Mr. F. B. Lufkin took the chair with the consent of the meeting and a discussion took place on the proposition by Mr. D. E. Cobb, seconded by Mr M. Hallett, to split the South West District. The following amendment to the Association's Rule VII was approved unanimously:
The Districts of the Association shall be six: Northern, North Eastern, North Western, Southern, South Eastern and South Western."
The proposa, now goes forward to the annual meeting of the Association to be held at Chelmsford
Mr. Frank Lufkin remained in the char for the election of District Master, and Mr. D E. cobb was re-elected unanimously.
Mr. M. Hallett announced his intention not to stand for re-election as secretary. Two candidates were proposed and G. Eve was elected by a show of hands. Six members were proposed as committee representatives, a ballot was taken. and Mr. M. Hallett and Mr. P. Bedford were elected. Seven new members were elected to join the Association.

UNIVERSITY OF WALES SOCIETY'S FIRST DINNER

The first formal dinner of the University of Wales Society ot Change Ringers was held at the Queen's Hotel. Cardiff, on January 20th. Five towers were open during the course of the day and ringing reached a moderately high standard. Those who joined us for ringing came from such diverse places as Bristol and Birmingham, which could be used as evidence in support of the view that many people would like more opportunities to visit the many good rings of bells in South Wales.
Thirty people attended the dinner. including the guest speaker, Canon K. W. H. Felstead. and his wife Unfortunately I have to say that co-operation from within the Society was very poor, making organisation more arduous than it need have been. Members who actually attended the dinner comprised four trom each of University College. Swansea. and University College, Cardiff (a two-thirds attendance for each). two ex-members of University College, Swansea, and one ex-member from St. David's College. Lampeter. It is regrettable that of the 24 members from University College. Aberystwyth. not one was prepared to support our new venture. This unfortunately meant that we made a financial loss. which we hope will be offset by donations from those members of the Society who did not support the dinner
Despite the poor representation of Society members the dinner was a great success socially and this in itself is. I feel, sufficient to inspire the Sociefy to continue to hold the event annually. After an excellent meal Canon Felstead made a very interesting and informative speech. concluding with a toast to the Society. The Master. Mr. John $F$ I Turney. responded with brevity and subtle wit and concluded his speech with a toast to the visitors Sincere thanks are due to all incumbents who allowed us the use of their bel's during the day and to the manager and staff of the Queen's Hotel who provided us with an excellent meal and superb facilities. S. H.

OBITUARY

MR. G. H. HUMPHRIES

It was with great regret that the ringers of Croydon Parish Church learned of the death of George Herbert Humphries ("Bert ") on January 17 th, at the age of 64 . Bert had suffered a very short illness and nobody in the tower realised how ill be was.
He joined the Ancient Society of Croydon Parsh Church Bellringers as a probationary member on February 2nd, 1922, although he had oeen ringing tor some time at the Parish Church sefore that. Just over one year later, on February 6th, 1923, he became a Stated Ringer of the Society. He bad. therefore, served Croydon Parish Church as a ringer for nearly 50 years. a record of which he could well be proud. Bert was a very capable 12. bell ringer and was a great asset to the Sunday service band. Athough be did not aspire to some of the more complex Surprise methods, his part in the Cinques band at Croydon was very valuable and he will be greatly missed

The last occasion be rang was on Sunday. December 3rd. When be rang the fifth to a quarter peal of Stedman Cinques. As a tribute to his memory, ten of his fellow ringers, including his son and daughter-in-law. rang a half-muffled quarter peal of Grandsire Caters on January 23rd. Those taking jart were: R. Davies 1, E. W. Razzell 2, Mrs. P. Humphries 3, I. M. Parry 4, N. G. T. Steere 5, F. E. Mitchell 6, N. S. Brown 7, K. Taber 8, R. C. Stevens 9, P. Humphries 10.

Croydon Parish Church has not only lost a ringer but a friend. Bert was ever a cheerlu xerson who could always find room for a soule when things did not quite go as they should.
R.C.S.

MR. W. THORNLEY, SEN.

I only recently learned of the passing of a very old ringing friend in the person of Mr. William Thornley, of Stapleford, Notts, at the age of 76 years. Bill Thornley had been a ringer for over 60 years and gave me much help and encouragement in ringing in my young days. He called my first peal- 5,040 Minor in three methods on the then newly augmented bells of Stapleford Parish Church in October, 1932. This peal was Bill's first as conductor and 1 am saddened to think I was unable to attend his funeral to pay my respects to a man I had known all my life.
Bill rang at Sandiacre for many years and was a member of the fine Surprise Minor company at that time, ringing a new method most Sunday evenings with almost perfect striking. He was a splendid treble man at raising and lowering in peal, and to hear Sandiacre bells being lowered in peal with Bill on the treble and taking 10 to 12 minutes was something I shall never forget.
A disagrement with the then Vicar of Sandiacre caused the break-up of that band and Bill joined the Stapleford Parish Church company, where he eventually became captain, remaining there until the end.

Bill served in the Army in the 1914-18 war and was gassed and wounded badly, but he kept up his ringing despite poor health at times but, as he cold me, "I did come back." He rang a good many peals with the late Mr. E. C. Gobey, of IIkeston, with whom he was very friendly, but I do not know exactly how many-I should think about 200 . A very quiet and likeable man, he was never aggressive when things went wrong in the belfry. May he rest in peace.
G. H. CLIFT.

KEITH WILLIAM SCUDAMORE

(Gloucester and Bristol Dlocesan Association)
It is a great pleasure to include in this series a son who is following his father's hobby and art with such enthusiasm.

Keith William Scudamore, who was born on October 5th, 1955, is the son of Police-Sergeant William F. Scudamore, Ringing Master of the Gloucester and Bristol Association and steeplekeeper of Cirencester Parish Church. When his father was stationed at Lydney, in the Forest of Dean, Keith first learned to bandle a dell at the Parish Church. At the time he was only six.

When his parents moved to Cirencester, in 1965, Keith immediately joined the Cirencester company, ninging at both the Parish Church (12) and Watermoor (8). He rapidly took to change ringing on all numbers of bells and can be found on any Sunday joining the more experienced ringers in methods up to Stedman Caters (his favourite). More recently he has ventured into the field of Surprise.
Keith's first peal (Grandsire Doubles) was rung at North Cerney when he was only ten years of age. It was a happy family occasion, as his grandfather (Ralph E Scudamore) and father both took part. And now we have reported the conducting of his first pealGrandsire Doubles-at North Cerney on December 28th last year, some two months after his 12 th birthday. To avoid any nervousness or excuses be was only told of the peal 24 hours before it took place In his four peals there is one of seven Doubles methods, the others being Grandsire.

At present he attends the Cirencester School, one of the latest to join Gloucestershire's Comprehensive Education System, rrevious to which be was a pupil at the Rebecca Powell C. of E. School at Cirencester, which had strong associations with the Parish Church.
A regular member of the Cirencester Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association he often accompanies his father on Association business in order to be able to make additions to his list of towers (which now total about 300). His most pleasing experience was neing able to ring Stedman Caters at Lincoln Cathedral in September, 1967.

Apart from ringing, his hobbies include the Scout movement and electronics.

MR. L. S. HALLETT

The death took place recently of Mr. Leslie Samuel Hallett, a ringer at Worle and Weston-super-Mare, aged 66, Educated at the College and Brymelyn School, he joined the R.A.F. as a photo grapher in 1920. During the war he was twice mentioned in dispatches and five vears ago he retired as the Chief Training Officer of the R.A.F. School of Photography, Cosford. He did a great service 10 ringing while stationed at Stratford-upon-Avon and also founded a section of the Army Cadet Force. His widow and two daughters are bereaved.

The funeral service, conducted by the Vicar of Worle, the Rev. W C. Foster, was heid at Weston Crematorium. On January 27th a quarter peal of Doubles was rung balf-muffled at Worle to his memory, conducted by Mr. George Prescott.

MR. LESLIE WARNER

Mr. H. C. Arthur writes that the ringers of St. Nicholas', Cranleigh, were shocked to hear of the passing of their captain and secrelary, suddenly, on January 10 th. He had been a ringer at Cranleigh for 53 years.
"Mr. Warner's great dedication to the service ringing of his church enabled him to carry on in difficult times, and so set an example for us to follow. His good worl' was well done us to follow to the end

BELFRY

Congratulations to Mr. George Skinner, secretary of the Exeter Branch, on being awarded the Imperial Service Medal.
Mr. J. E. Jeater has had to so into hospital for an X-ray. He is now back at work but there might be a few days' delay in the dispatch of receipts and answering letters.
The third annual rally of the Handbell Ringers of Great Britain will be held at Ecclesfield Comprehensive School on October 5th. The school lies about five miles north of Sheffield.
A peal of distinction we record this week is Bristol Surprise Maximus at High Wycombe on January 27th conducted by David $P$. Hilling. We are given to understand that the previous peals of Bristol Maximus were last rung at Leicester in the days of the late Harold Poole.

GOSSIP

Never too old? Ernie Andrews, of Lavenham, rang the third to a quarter of Bob Major on the famous bells for his 90th birthday on January 21st. Congrafulations.
The peal at Knowle (page 51) was rung as a 2lst birthday compliment to Graham J. Lightfoot (January 2nd), and a 20th birthday complimen. to Norma A. Riley (December 30th). The correct dedication of this church is SS. John the Baptist, Lawrence and Anne.
The footnote to the peal rung at Bramford on December 31st. 1967 (page 68), should have read: Rung in the 150 th anniversary year of this same peal rung in this tower on January 1st. 1817, and as birthday compliments to Rev. Brian Redgers and Edmund Christian, and as an engagement compliment to Neville F. Whittell and Jennifer M. Andrews.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY RINGING

A useful book explaining ringing procedure at Westminster Abbey and also a valuable historical background has been writzen by Harold N. Pitstow, entitled "A Short History of the Bells and Belfries of Westminster Abbey (price 2 s ., plus 3d. postage). Is is obtainable from the Abbey Bookshop, Westminster Abbey, S.W.1.
"The Foundation known as the Brethren of the Guild of Westminster disappeared down the ages. It was reborn, however, in modernised form by Dean Ryle, and the work of the belfry to-day is carried on by a superintendent. a company of eight ringers (the principals) and nine supernumeraries. The official origin of the band was May 14th, 1921, when the first eight members were admitted to their office by the Dean at a ceremony in St. Faith's Chapel. As changes occur, each newly-elected principal is so admitted. The ringers are drawn from the Ancient Society of College Youths, which was founded in the year 1637."

"UNION SCHOLARS"

The leading article in "Irish Bell News" of January 20th issue is headed "Union Scholars. This is Editor F E. Dukes' conclusion:
" What are bellringers trying to prove? We believe it is that there is no barrier between North and South, Roman Catholic and Re-, formers, as far as bellringing is concerned. We are sure that their love of bells and bellringing no matter who is in the band, no matter what church-is for the good of the Exercise and, above all, for the greater Glory of God.
"May we pray therefore- that whensoever the bells shall sound, they may kindle holy thoughts and give an increase of Christian faith and devotion in whosoever shall hear them." "
This is a good issue of "1rish Bell News." Minimum annual subscripton 3 s ., from the Editor, Meadow Cottage, Whitecress, Drogheda, Co. Louth.

A FAREWELL TO LEN STILWELL

The farewell peal for Mr. Len Stilwell preparatory to his move from Sussex to Windsor was rung at Pulborough on January 27th in the tower where he rang his first peal in 1904. This was Grandsire Triples. to which Len rang the treble. Later he was in charge of the ringing here for some time.

Len will be pleased to know that young Dale Barton, of Pulborough, rang very well in his first peal. It was unfortunate that Mr. R. first peal. It was unfortunate that Mr. R.
Wake, the Western Divisional secretary, who arranged the peal and intended to call it, was prevented from doing so by indisposition. The peal was conducted by Mr. Raymond P. Wood. with whom Mr. Stilwell had been associated for many years as a member of St. Botolph's, Heene, Worthing.

ST. STEPHENS, CANTERBURY

The band of ringers at St. Stephen's Church, Canterbury, are struggling to raise funds to rehang their famous ring of eight and recast the sixth. Piles of newspapers have been disposed of for salvage. (Leave piles in the phurch porch, marked "For Bell Fund.") Recently some of the local band put the notoriously difficult tenor bell on ball bearings. making it by far the easiest bell in the tower making it More power to their elbows !

SILENT PEAL AT BRISTOL

A magnificent achievement. I understand that not a word was spoken throughout the performance." Int these words Mr. F. Sharpe described the University of Bristol Soclety's silent and non-conducted peal of Grandsire Caters. He was speaking at the Society's 25 th anniverary dinner later on the same day, January 27 th .
The band had met at St. Stephen's at noon. Albert Tyler, the umpire, told the band what was expected of them and that the peal would be stopped in the event of bad striking or any signalled or spoken command. After the bells had been pulled off in rounds, Albert called "Go" to send the bells into the changes of one of his own compositions. Three hours and six minutes later the bells ran perfectly into rounds again and he was able to call "Stand." The standard of striking was rated highly by all who heard the peal and the very few trips were very minor faults.

The venue, composition and umpire could not have been more appropriate for the occasion. The entire band had gained their early Grandsire Caters ringing and conducting experience under Albert at St. Stephen's. and he could justifiably share their pride at the achievement They would like to thank him for all his help and advice, and especially for sitting in the tower for three hours watching them!

TRANSFORMATION AT WINCHCOMBE

Winchcombe (Gloucestershire) bells have been notoriously difficult and unrewarding musically.
In conjunction with extensive repairs to the lofty tower Messrs Taylor, of Loughborough, have tuned and installed them in a steel frame, effecting a transformation in both tone and "go." There is still a long draught but the rope guides are now a little lower, with beneficial results.

As no official opening had been planned, the Cheltenham Branch of the Gloucester and Bristol Association obtained permission for a meeting on January 24th. Branch and Association officers rang the first touch, an excellen! 360 Plain Bob: Mrs. M. Wratten (As? sociation peal secretary) 1, Miss M. Bliss (Association chairman) 2, W. A. Farmer (Branch chairman) 3, M. Maggs (Branch secretary) 4, W. F. Scudamore (Association Ringing Master) (cond.) 5, C. A. Wratten (Assocration treasurer) 6.

More than 50 other ringers from neighbouring towers were present to try their hand. there being especial interest as the Association had contributed $£ 75$ towards the cost of rehanging. Sound conditions are ideal in the tower. but outside are such as to preclude very much ringing until the sound control is completed.
Winchcombe is a small Cotswold town attractively set in a valley east of Cheltenham. It is of great antiquity, having been a Royal borough in Saxon times. Its prosperity continued into the Middle Ages, as Winchcombe Abbey was immensely wealthy, and Hales Abbey is only a mile or so away.

The church has had bells from the earliest times, as the Abbot complained to the Pope in the early 16th century that they were rung to the disturbance of the monks at their devotions. One wonders if Christian forbearance precluded the monks from retaliation, as the Abbey had ten bells, which were sold at the Dissolution.
W. A. F.

TINTAGEL REUNION

The reunion for the Bishop's West Country tour "flock" was held in London on January 6th and was organised by the writer. We were pleased that Gillian Sims was once again able to make the journey from Hereford, and also pleased to welcome the Rev. Michael Hart, Messrs. Jeremy Pratt and Michael Burn and Miss Rosamund Rawlings to the " sompany." (Apologies to Messrs. Rogers and Meyer!
The day started with ringing of Stedman and Yorkshire on the pleasant bells at St . Mary's. Lambeth. Four of our band being absent. ill with flu, we were unable to complete much at Southwark Cathedral; however. reasonable touches of Stedman Caters and London Major on the back eight were successful.

After lunch the 16 cwt . six at Harmondsworth sounded very well but unfortunately were spoilt by being odd-struck and difficult to keep up. However, the delightful light octave at Harlington tapped round very well and good touches of Cambridge and Stedman were rung. The six in Cranford Park went equally well and touches of London and Durham were enjoyed.

A course of Bristol Major at St. Paul's, Hounslow, was probably the first for several years, and Mr. Robin Collis is to be congratulated on the restoration work he has carried out on these bells. which had suffered about five years silence. Pleasant to listen to outside, they are unfortunately very difficult to hear inside. Ringing around the font on the pleasant bells at Chiswick preceded the final tower of the day. All Saints'. Fulham, where the very pleasant Rudhall ten were much enjoyed. A verv enjoyable evening was spent at 14. Worple Avenue. and we were all very grateful to Tom and Deborah for inviting us home once again and arranging the very welhome once again and arranging the very w.U.

EASTRY, KENT

The heavy ring of five bells (tenor 18 cwl .) at the Church of St. Mary the Virgin. Eastry. near Sandwich. Kent, has been refitted and quarter-turned by Messrs. John Taylor and Co. of Loughborough. This church is also the possessor of a rare inscribed mediaval Sanctus bell, recently retrieved from the local village school and weighing about one cwt. Inscribed - * Ave Maria Gracia "," it is kept as a mounted demonstration model in the ringing room.

DEVON RINGERS TOUR

A number of members of the Devon Guild of Ringers held their first tour of the year on January 27th, when the South Hams and Dartmouth area was the venue. Mr. A. L. Bennett was again in charge and those accompanying him were Messrs. D. R. Bould, N. Mallett. G E Mudge, J. C. Mitchelmore, E. J. Cann, P. Perkins, J. Steer, S. Pearse. D. Pierce and A. Frost.

The towers were all six-bell ones, these being South Pool. where a rope snapped during the rise; Chivelstone: East Portlemouth, the best of the day, and where the Rector put in an appearance; Stokenham. with its long draught: St. Petrox. Dartmouth, a sweet six: St Clement's, Dartmouth: and Dittisham, a very nice six. The ringing was very good throughout the day. The lunch interval was spent at Stokenham, with tea at Dartmouth.

SUSSEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The Appeal of Bosham
One of the latgest gatherings of recent years Felpham on January mecting assembled at Felpham on January 13th. This meeting was due to be held on December 9th but had to be cancelled at short notice because of bad weather: it was made possible to rearrange so quickly because the bells at Washington, where the January meeting should have been held, were out of action.
Ringing took place on the recently rehung five at Pagham and a number of ringers made full use of the first opportunity to ring on this pleasant ring. The bells have been bung dead for as long as anyone can remember, and it is good to know that there is now a local band ringing regularly for Sunday services and practice. The four bells at Aldwick were also made available by the Vicar and full use was made of them for an hour's ringing. There is a keen local band here and it is hoped that these bells will be augmented in the near future.
Over 50 ringers and friends sat down to tea at Felpham Church Hall, served by Felpham lady ringers and friends. The Rev. D. Manners (Vicar) joined the company at tea.

The Divisional secretary took the opportunity to give the best wishes of all the members to Mr. L. StilweH on bis removal to Windsor after his many years of outstanding service to ringing in Sussex. Len Stilwell is respected and esteemed by all who know him, not only in Sussex but wherever ringing takes place. His ch eerfulness and good nature will be missed in this area, as many ringers in the district have Leonard to thank for arranging and conducting their first peal. We hope he will find the opportunity to visit this area quite often, where he will always be welcome among friends.

After tea the members attended Evensong at Felpham Parish Church conducted by the Vicar. Ringing took place at Felpham in the evening, catering for all from rounds to London Surprise Minor, R. W.

IONDON UNIVERSITY OUTING

London University Society had a very enjoyable day outung to Bedfordshire on January 20th. The towers visited in the morning were Si. Mary's, Luton, and Dunstable Priory, when the ringing included Grandsire Caters. Plain Bob Royal and Yorkshire Surprise Major. After lunch the party moved on to ring at Woburn Maulden and Henlow. The ringing at these three towers ranged from rounds and Grandsire Voubles to London and Lincolnshire Surprise Major.

Dusk had fallen when the party left Henlow, and after an excellent tea, thoughtfully provided by one of the members, the band felt sufficiently refreshed to ring Stedman Doubles, Norwich and Kent Treble Bob Minor at Stotfold. The last tower of the day was St. Nicholas' Norton, where rounds, Stedman Triples, Plain Bob and Rutland Surprise Major were rung on the light eight.

The band would like to thank all those incumbents, ringers and others who helped to make the day ihe success it was. I.C.H.

THE LADIES' GUILD

For the annual general meeting of the Ladies' Guild (South Wales District) at Brecon on January 27th. Mr. and Mrs. P. Rogers travelled 80 miles from Pembroke to be present and there were friends from Lydney in the cast.
Ringing during the afternoon was on the sweet-sounding six at St. David's, Llanfaes. The Dean conducted the service in St. Mary's, Brecon and the Misses Imogen Hollingdale and Higgins prepared tea.
In the absence of Mrs. Coles, Miss Hollingdale acted as vice-president. Mrs. Stella Clench is the new vice-president and other elections were: Mrs. Jacqueline King. sec-retary-treasurer: Mesdames $\mathbf{E}$. Hughes. A. Bruten. C. Lucas and P. LJeweliyn and Misses H. Way and D. Atwell, committee. New members elected were the Misses Vesta Rasen (Pembroke). Mary Davies and Rosemary Trew (Swansea).

A favourable report was given for 1967 with an increase in membership. On December 27th the "Western Mail" had published an article about the Guild and its activities in "Feminine Focus."

It was decided to try to support the joint meeting with the Western District in Bristol on June 8th and to hold a further meeting at Mitcheldean on September 28th if possible.

The band who rang the peal at All Saints': Whitstable. as a comnliment to the 20 years ${ }^{\circ}$ ministry of Canon Waynforth are most grateful for the hosoitality he expended to them after the peal. During his incumbency the hells have been rung every Sunday. excepting for two in 1962. when tho clappers were at Loughborough being renovated.

ST. HILARY, CORNWALL

The bells of St. Hilary, near Marazion, Cornwall, are ringing again. as will be noted from the quarter peal columns. Recently Mr. J. M. Tunstall-Behrens, churchwarden, was contacted as it was known that the provision of several ropes and a little general attention was all that was needed. With the help of Mr. F M. Bowers, of Lelant, and the gift of ropes from Paul, the bells were soon ringing. This at once created local interest and there is now a band again at St. Hilary made up of several old ringers and some learners. Both before and after the recent quarter peal the visitors helped the local band and a very pleasant evening was spent.

This ring is unique in that the bells are hung in three ticrs of two. This was done in 1898 by Mr. Harry Stokes, when the three old bells were recast and three new ones added. The tenor weighs 5 cwt. and 18 lbs ., note B . At present there is no Vicar at St. Hilary. There is ringing on Sunday mornings and a practice on Thursday. but as most ringers are occupied in agriculture the practice will probably be discontinued in the summer. Visiting hands wishing to ring here should write to Mr. J. M. TunstallBehrens. Trenalls, Rosudgeon. Penzance, Cornwall. Telephone: Germoe 3265.

SUFFOLK GUILD

Some 35 ringers attended the quarterly meeting of the Central District at Stradbroke on January 27 th. The service was taken by Canon Florance, who welcomed everyone and hoped they would enjoy the very good ten bells.
An excellent tea at the White Hart attracted 30. The meeting was presided over by the chairman. Mr. L. E. Last, while Muriel Page carried out her first duties as secretary.

The hells were kept going under the capable supervision of R.E. Lester and G. W. Pipe to rounds, Grandsire, Stedman and Cambridge Royal.

A quarter was rung at Broadhembury, Devon, on January 22nd to mark the birthdar of the fifth generation to Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Stamp.

NEWARK DISTRICT SECRETARY RETIRES

Usually the District has bad weather for its annual meeting but January 20th was a fair day and encouraged one or twe visitors to venture to Newark to join in the ringing on the 32 cwt . ten in St. Mary Magdalene's Church.

Evensong was quite well attended and unwards of 35 people were present for the tea and business meeting. Mr. F. W. Midwinter, the District chairman, in his cus!omary genial manner, opened the proceedings with a welcome to everyone present, including Mr. Exton, the Guild general secretary, and the visitors from Leicester.

In presenting her report for the year. the secretary said that many of the promising signs at the beginning of 1967 had not borne fruit. membership was down on 1966. and the income. too. was down-peal fees were considerably less.

Three of the retiring officers were re-elected -Mr. F. W. Midwinter as chairman. Mr. P. Wakefield Ringing Master, and Miss M. Chilton committee member. However. Mrs. B. N. Reed had given notice that she wished in resign as hon. searetary, and Mr. Derek Tysoe. of Coddington, was elected in her place. In thanking Mrs. Reed, Mr. Midwinter said that they would not allow her to retire, only to rest and reminisced over some of the meetings they had shared during their seven years together in office, mentioning particularly one where the ringing had been done in a church on the Nottinghamshire border, and the tea and business meeting held in a field across the River Witham, in lincolnshire. On hehalf of the District. Mr. Midwinter presented a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Reed, who, for once, was rendered speechless!

One niw member was elected. Mrs. Esther Vernon, of Balderton.

Subjert to permission, the following towers were selected for meetings: March 16th, North Muskham: May 18th, cup contest meeting, Barnby; July $13!\mathrm{h}$, joint with Bingham District, Staunton, Orston and Sibthorpe; September 21st. North and South Collingham and South Scarle: November 16th. Sutton-onTrent.

Under any other business, the retiring secretary reminded members that this was the 21st

The massive tenor of East Retford Parish Church is at the foot of the tower prior to removal to Loughborough for recasting. It is 51 inches in diameter and is reputed to weigh 24 cwt .

The ten bells, which have hung in the belfry since 1835, are to be recast at a cost of $£ 3,350$. This is part of a $£ 10,000$ restoration appeal, and it is gratifying to learn that the money has been raised.

According to the Vicar (the Rev. L. Shortland Ball) it is hoped to ring the new bells on Easter Day.

annual District meeting and suggested a coming-of-age" social to be held in the spring, with any proceeds to go to the Rell Repair Fund. April 5th was decided on, and two volunteers to help was considered a good beginning.

Ringing followed at St. Mary's, including a course of Yorkshire Major, Stedman and Grandsire Caters and Little Rob Royal.

OUR PICTURE

St. Martin-in-the-Fields, London

THE church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields presides, as it were, at the north-east corner of Trafalgar Square, one of the greatest and most famous squares in the world, and there can be little doubt that it is world-famous both from its situation and from the many broadcast services to all parts of the globe.
There is no record of when the first church was built, but it was certainly in existence by 1222 as a church and burial ground in the parish of St. Margaret, Westminster. At that time it was literally in the fields by the village of Charing; it may have been a chapel for the monks from the Abbey of Westminster, travelling to Covent Garden, or the chapel to one of the great religious houses nearby, or possibly a chapel to the castle which traditionally stood nearby.

There are no drawings in existence of the first church and one can only speculate on its design from items listed in the churchwardens ${ }^{\prime}$ accounts which start in 1525 . There was a rood loft decorated with carved figures of "Christ, Our Lady and the twelve Prophets," for which the carver was paid $£ 36 \mathrm{~s} .8 \mathrm{~d}$. The windows were of stained glass with figures of the Trinity and saints. There must have been a tower of some sort for there are listed in the inventory four bells, including a sanctus bell which the sexton had to ring at 5 a.m. every day. The other three bells cost less than $£ 20$ according to the accounts for 1539.

The first church must have been very small indeed, even though enlarged by three chapels dedicated to Our Lady of Pity, St. John and St. Cuthbert, for when it was pulled down in 1544 a new and larger one was built measuring 95 ft . by 25 ft .-about one-third the size of the present church. There is no record of celebrations at the consecration of the new church, but this is probably related to a bad outbreak of plague that year. St. Martin's had become a parish of its own during the reign of Henry VIII, but when this church was built there were still fields all around. Just behind the churchyard was the wall of Covent Garden which stretched from St. Martin's Lane to Drury Lane; there was little between the church and the River Thames, at that time the main highway of London, just a row of houses on the north side of the Sirand; and on the south the great houses of the bishops and noblemen with gardens stretching down to the river's edge.

RANG FOR ARMADA
The second church is shown in Vertue's prints to have had a low square tower which contained a ring of six bells hung in 1584, of which no details are known. These were the bells rung to announce the victory over the Armada, and traditionally the bells of St. Martin's are the first to ring for a naval victory, as it is the parish church of the Lords of the Admiralty. The fact that the church was near the river led the churchwardens into trouble on one occasion when Queen Elizabeth I travelled up the river, as she often did, but the bells failed to ring out as she expected them to every time she passed and the Queen's harbinger posted a notice on the door forbidding it to open until a fine of one noble ( 6 s .8 d .) had been paid.

By the end of the seventeenth century the population of the parish had so increased that the size of the church was again becoming inadequate in spite of several enlargements during the preceding years. An Act of Parliament was passed to permit rebuilding and the architect chosen was James Gibbs. The foundation stone was laid by the Bishop of Salisbury on March 19th, 1722, and various problems ensued during the rebuilding, not the least of which was with the foundations of the portico, as a stream ran down St. Martin's Lane. This was eventually solved by setting several hundred tombstones in mortar to form the foundations under the portico and part of the tower. It is interesting to note that similar problems with this stream were encountered with the recent building of the General Post Office next to the Vicarage. The cost of building this church was $£ 33,61116 \mathrm{~s}$. $7 \frac{3}{4} \mathrm{~d}$., most of which was raised by a levy included in the Act authorising rebuilding.

GEORGE I-CHURCHWARDEN

There have been strong connections between St. Martin's and the Royal Family ever since the assumption of Whitehall Palace as the official royal residence, and there are a number of records of church ornaments and hangings being given by various Sovereigns. George I contributed to the building of the present edifice, and became its first churchwarden, the only time a reigning Sovereign has held such a position in a British church. His arms are over the portico and incorporated in the ceiling, and when he resigned he presented an organ to the church. Buckingham Palace is itself within the parish of St. Martin and in more recent times Queen Mary often worshipped in the royal box, and Viscount Linley was baptised there. using the font which is the only relic of the second church in the present building.
The present magnificent tower and spire contain a ring of twelve bells by Rudhalls of Gloucester, although it was originally intended to have only eight. On November 3 rd, 1724, a ring of eight was ordered from Abraham Rudhall. On December 8th, two further bells were ordered and before the work was begun the following year two more were ordered to make a ring of twelve. Subsequently, the trebles had to be recast but the work remained with Rudhall. The tenor weighs $31 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. and is in the note of D. In 1923 the bells were rehung in a new frame by Mears and Stainbank

Record Gathering Hear Good Report for Year

NINE Presidents or Masters of Ringing Guilds or Associations came to the annual dinner of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths at Church House Restaurant, Westminster, on February 3rd to bring their goud wishes to the Master (Mr. D. leresford) and the Society. They were the Presudens of the Central Council, the Leicester Diocesan Guild and the Bedfordshire Association, the Masters of the College Youths, Suffolk Guild, London County Association, Middlesex County Association, Sussex County Association and Surrey Association. And what they heard was of good report-number and quality of peals, membership and financial status of the Society. There was no sign of slipping from the pinnacle of last year; indeed there were more ringers at the dinner than ever before.

In the forefront of endeavour was the Society's efforts to support the $\mathbf{£ 2 0 , 0 0 0}$ restoration scheme for St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, which includes the recasting of the 12 bells. The Master re-echoed his nationwide appeal for support to mugment the good response already received. He had spent a week of his holiday leading a party who scraped and painted St. Leonard's bell frame.

Two valuable suggestions were made by Mr. Beresford-a conference of London Ringing Societies with the Church authorities on the question of derelict or unringable bells or those badly in need of attention in London, and the establishment of a national trust for restorations. Between 50 and 100 restorations were needed each year. This was not being dones a disastrous situation w ould arise in 20 to 30 years' time, he warned.

The Master, in his welcome to the company, said their guests included nine Masters or Presidents of Guilds. Associations or the Central Council. He apologised for the absence of the Vicar of Shoreditch and Mr. W. R. Winterton, who was in Beirut.

The toast of "The Church" was submitted by Mr. E A. Barnett, who prefaced his remarks with a quotation from a meeting notice in an old "Ringing World" which read: "Mr. E. A Barnet! will gıve a talk on place notation and ringing will-continue in the beltry for those not interested in the talk." He was sorry the Master had not made such an arrangement that evening for those not interested in his speech, as there was a fairly heavy elght nearby with plenty of hard work.

This crack at the recent Westminster Abbey controversy was not lost on the company. When the laughter subsided Mr. Barnet drily observed: "I was referring to St . Stephen's, Rochester Row."
Mr. Barnett based his speech on two questions: What does the rest of the Church think of ringers? and What do ringers think of the Church? The former was presented in an editorial in "The Ringing World" before the day of Mr. White as editor: "The clergy, and We must include churchwardens and the P.C.C.-the clergy do not evince that interest in the ringers that the latter think is their right to expect Of course, there are notable exceptions." The article went on: "We do not suggest that ringers' habits of churchgoing are beyond reproach but how often do the clergy visit the belfry to encourage regular attendance?

BUTTRESSES OF THE CHURCH

Commented Mr. Barnett: "In a ringing career now in its 41 st year 1 have known some five incumbents of my own church and with one exception-and his father happened to be a noted ringer-I am sorry to say that none of them has shown any particular interest in our doings It is not as if their ringers had been divorced from the whole Church. If we have not been pillars of the Church it could be said we have been buttresses and supported the Church from the outside."
ro the question of what ringers thought of the Church he said the answer was "Not much." If any of them went into another belfry he was sure they would receive a heariy welcome, but of how many church congregations could that be said? The Church had survived many attacks from the outside, hut would it survive those attacks like those of the Troian heroes, from within?

Coupled with the loast was the name of the Rev. Austen Williams. Vicar of St. Mar-tin's-in-the-Fields. Last year the people of St. Martin's presented a set of handbells to the Society, and as a compliment to the Vicar the well-known Welsh hymn "Cym Rhondda" was played before he spoke. Previously Mr. Williams had described the hymn as his philosophy of life.

The Vicar recalled the scene some 12 years ago when he stood in the porch of St. Mar-tin's-in-the-Fields and listened to the Archdeacorı saying that he would ring a bell to signify that he had taken corporate possession of all the rights, dignities and appurtenances of the Royal Parish Church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, and after that " the trumpets shall sound."

The sound of the bell announced his coming and that sound had been with him for 12 years of battling with the rights, dignities and appurtenances and they had been far more baffling than he reckoned. But the sound ot the one bell he rang seemed so inadequate compared with the other bells. To him the sound of the bells at St. Martin's was a compantonship. It was a companionship not just of sound but it was a companionship which meant people and despite what had been said by the proposer of the toast the bells meant a companionship with the ringers. He realised that in some senses their bellringing was a hobby and a pleasure, but it was very much more: it was their faithfulness to the Church expressed with a devoted skill which he envied. If only he could make his words sound with such precision as their bells when they rang. He thanked them for what thev had done with such skill and such devotion. It was a real companionship as he lived with the bells at St. Martin's and they had marked out his life for 12 years.

The speech was followed by a selection played on handbells by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hudson and other Essex ringers, which included "Can-Can" from "Orpheus in the Underworld," "Grandfather's Clock" and "Jesu. joy of man's desiring."

EARLY EDUCATION

The toast of "The Society of Royal Cumberland Youths" was proposed ty Canon Gilhert Thurlow. who claimed to be the first nonCumberland to prodose it. For the occasion he delved into his almost Inexhaustible stock of stories. ". The Cumberlands." he declared. "is a great Society. Ernest Morris says vour name book begins in 1747 and each member signs his name showing that he is a man of education. What is education? In 1747 it was largely the four R's-the 3 R's plus the rod to drive them. This was the method Dr. Busby. the previous head of Westminster school. adopted except that his rod drove in the Classics rather than the three R's.
Obviously those educated in ringing have advantages over others. Edward Osborne, who became a Cumberland in 1824. recorded how seven men met at an inn, liked it and offered the hos $£ 30$ if they could stay to dinner every day provided they sat in different positions. Thinking that so few could not sit in many different positions mine hast took them or and made himself the eighth. How long did they stay? Answer: 110 years 142 days and they could sit in 40,320 different positions.

It is grand in these difficult days to know that the Cumberlands are flourishing as never before. There are 215 here tonight-a record. You average today about 25 new members a year, far more than you lose each year. Your bank balance has more than doubled in the last five years. It is obvious from the quality of your peals and the zuantity that the standard is going up."

PAINTING SHOREDITCH FRAME

Commending the efforts of the Society towards the restoration of St. Leonard's, Shoreditch, bells, Canon Thurlow said their Master with others spen: a week of his holiday in scraping the frame of Shoreditch bells and then painting it The Master had a number of things on his mind. Perhaps the most prominent was the silent bells in that great city, and they had a rota by which they rang bells in towers hitherto silent on Sundays. Some were silent through lack of ringers, others because the congregation had not the guts to raise the money for their repair or give the bells to another church to provide an activity for others.

Concluding, the president of the Central Council sard: "You have a great past. You have, we all hcpe, a great future. As a firm believer in your future, in that of the Exercise and in the power of our faith our bells proclaim, to survive the absurdities of today and to rebuild men and civilisation in the future, i give you the toast of "The Royal Cumberland Youths

The Master, who was warmly received on rising to reply, said the health and strength of the Society was indicated by the attendance at the dinner and meetings of the Society. That day they had another record of 215 people present They would have had a full capacity attendance but snow prevented Leslie Weller making the journey from Scotland, and Ted Martin and Ralph Edwards also could not be with them.

The innovation of their country meeting was proving a great success. This year, at Northampton, George Roome and his ringers arranged a splendid day for the Society. This year they were visiting Cambridge on April fith and were hoping for another successful day. Pealwise they recorded exactly the same number as in 1966, a total of 26 . They scored a number of notable firsts for the Society-Claybrook. Leatherhead and Londonderry, the first peal of 15 spliced with all the work and 16 and 18 methods: also the first peal of Hertford. They were very pleased to note the peals rung for the Society by non-London bands-in Kent, Sussex and Lincolnshire.

SOCIETY OF HIGH STANDING

By a coincidence the number of new members in 1967 was exactly the same as in 1966 and by a further coincidence the same as the number of peals They were very pleased at the standard of oeople asking to join the Society and they hoped that the new rule of membership adopted at the annual general meeting after full discussion at meetings would make it clear that theirs was a Society of high standing and give them a sense of pride in belonging to it. He wanted to say how encouraged the older members were to have with them that evening Arthur Mason. who joined the Society 50 vears ago, and also a pre-war secretary. Mr. Norman Summerhayes.

Thev were happy indeed that the Vicar of Shoreditch had. with great enthusiasm, łaunched his restoration scheme for the church, costing ultmately $£ 20.000$, including the restoration of the tine ring of 12 . There would be a more appropriate time at the dedication to express their very sincere thanks to the many people who had given donations. Bearing in mind the very large sum required, they would be extremely grateful for any further donations.

LONDON BELLS

In a reference to London bells, the Master said he felt this subject should be considered in depth by the London Societies with the authorities involved. There were a score of towers where the bells were either derelict, unringable or badly in need of attention by the bellfounders. Surely with some imagination and co-operation some of these bells could be restored. There were, of course, problems in the transfer of property from one church to another, but surely, where bells had been silent for decades, the sale of bells to help another church, to be repard over a long period, some scheme could be worked out.
This same problem existed also on a national scale. With 5,000 rings of bells in the country, it would be anticipated that with a life of $50-100$ years for each installation some $50-100$ major restorations would take place each year. But this was patently not so, and they were therefore heading for a disastrous situation in $25-30$ years' time. Again this required imaginative thought, and one suggestion would be the establishment of a charitable trust which could guarantee a donation of about $£ 500$ to 30 or so churches a year from investment income. This would require handling nationally and require a great deal of preparatory work, but was worth a great deal of consideration.

The speech was followed by a well-struck touch of Stedman Cinques by E. A. Barnelt 1-2, Joan Beresford 3-4. D. Beresford 5-6, D. E. Sibson 7-8, P. Beresford 9-10, J. A. D. Wooltord 11-12.

The junior steward, Mr. J. A. D. Woolford, proposed the toast of "The Visitors." He had a special word of welcome for Mr. Arthur Mason, the oldest ringer present, who is now 76, and Mr. Harry Stracey, of Stratton, Cornwall.

Mr. P. A. Corby, the Master of the Ancient Society, replied.

Proceedings concluded with the Master expressing his thanks to Mr. D. E. Sibson for organising the function.

HIS SOLUTION

Dear Sir-Your recent correspondence regarding ringing at Westminstor Abbey has prompted me to put forward my own opinion, and offer what I think a reasonably fair solu' tion to the problem.
As an appreciator of good ringing, 1 feel that it would be utterly wrong if the bigh standard of striking maintained when the Abbey bells are rung was relaxed too much, but at the same time I think it wrong that the "closed shop" attitude should prevail. would suggest, therefore, that a compromise would be the answer, i.e. to have a prescribed band to ring on Sundays and on State occasions, and to have open days during the year with a competent Ringing Master in charge arranging various touches and selecting ringers to take part therein, with the best possible striking in mind.-Yours faithfully,

CHRISTOPHER H. JONES.

OBITUARY

MR. T. VAUGHAN

The death, earlier this month, of Thomas Vaughan has severed one of the last links with the early days of change ringing in Breconshire.

Mr. Vaughan learned to handle a bell at the four-bell tower at Llandefalle, where, unfortunately, the bells have been silent for many years. On moving to the parish of St. Peter's, Glasbury, he was invited to join the local band At that time they were engaged in the mastery of Grandsire, which they later succeeded $m$ ringing to a number of peals in their own tower. Like so many of his colleagues, Tommy Vaughan's ringing was interrupted by the first world war, although he resumed the art on his return. Although he rang a number of quarter peals of Grandsire on an "inside" bell, his peal ringing was limited to the treble or tenor, his total being eight.

In the bleak years which followed the last war, Mr. Vaughan was elected captain of the local band and quickly built up a band of young ringers. Unfortunately, as in many rural areas, most of the younger folk had to leave the area to find work, and Mr. Vaughan's band melted away. In the last few years a new band has been formed and, although illhealth prevented Tommy from ringing with them, he was always delighted to hear of their progress and, even more so, to hear the music of the bells he loved. May his soul rest in peace.

MR. ALERED C. WRIGET An Apprecistion.

Mr. Alfred C. Wright, who was hon. secretary of the Midland Counties Association from 1919 to 1925 , died at Darley Dale, Derbyshire. on November 11th, aged 82. It was only in his last year that he had any illness. H. E. T. sends us the following appreciation:
Although not a regular member of the Darley Dale band since 1922, Alfred never failed to give a hand when requested and was always happy $t 0$ attend a local ringing meeting.

He started to ring at St. Helen's, Darley Dale, in the year 1902; the same year the bells were rehung in a metal frame and a new treble and tenor added to the old six. After spending a few years in the South of England he returned to joun a strong local band about 1911. He rang his first peal, Grandsire Triples, in 1912.

The years 1913-14 saw Darley Dale among the leading towers in the Association, due in no small measure to the endeavours of Alfred C. Wright. Although he preferred to ring even-bell methods he conducted several firsts in the Triples methods for the Midland Counties Association, including St. Clement's, St. Simon and Double Grandsire, all rung at Darley Dale. He rang exactly 100 peals for the Midland Counties Association: many of these were with the Bolsover and Chesterfield companies with such ringers as Arthur Knights, John Flint and Sam Thomas, and with Harold Poole and Fred Dexter in the Leicester districts. At Chesterfield Parish Church on January 12th, 1921, he rang the 7th to the first ever peal of Yorkshire Surprise Royal-composed and conducted by Sam Thomas.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

CANNOT FORESEE CHANGE OF POLICY - The Dean

FOLLOW ST. PAUL'S LEAD

Dear Sir,-I have read with some interest the correspondence on Westminster Abbey. Mr. Pitstow's tetter was well worth waiting for; he had obviously been to some trouble to answer the critics and his letter was well written and contained a wealth of information to ringers ignorant of the customs at Westminster Abbey.
I can back him up in what be says, as on January 19th I wrote to the Dean and received his reply, which endorses all that Mr. Pitstow bas said.
My own feelings on the matter are that it is a great pity that the Dean and the Abbey ringers cannol follow the lead of the other London Cathedral, St. Paul's, where ringing on a Sunday and at the monthly Tuesday night practice is again of the highest order, and under the leadership of the Master of the College Youths relax their rules so that the bells may be available once every six weeks for a two-hour practice.-Yours, etc.,
G. K. DODD.

Woolton Hill, Newbury.

From the Dean of Westminster Abbey.

Dear Mr. Dodd, -Thank you for your letter and tor the newspaper cutting, which 1 return. The secretary of our Abbey ringers, Mr . Pitstow, is dealing with the objections which have been raised to what some ringers regard as the Abbey's "closed shop." Meanwhile, though I regret the necessity of disappointing you, I must say that Ido not foresee any change in the policy of the Dean and Chapter with regard to the ringing of the bells.

It is the uniqueness of the Abbey and the fact that at the very large number of special services on week-days the beils are constantly ringing and the necessity in this part of London that the ringing of the Abbey bells should betoken a special event which are some of the guiding principles in the Dean and Chapter's traditional policy.-Yours sincerely,

> ERIC ABBOTT.

> Dean of Westminster.

WHINE OF A PAMPERED CHILD

Dear Sir,-Having resisted the temptation to comment on the original letter regarding Westminster Abbey bells-it brought to mind the whine of a pampered child, having been refused what it wanted-I write now in support of the Abbey authority and ringers.

Being a self-confessed lover of many of the quickly-disappearing traditions connected with this country, together with certain of their privileges, I heartily endorse the decisions of the Dean and Chapter concerning this particular ring of bells and would also include St. Paul's Cathedral.

In this day and age when so many people seem to consider that everything they want is their due, this lype of controversy is to be expected. Surely there are enough available towers, inside and outside the Metropolis, with bells varying in tone, weight and number, to satisfy tower grabbers and tour organisers without them hankering after the churches known to be steeped in custom and. as in the case of the Abbey, inseparable with Royalty.
Tradition is dying. and I have little doubt that within a year or two "Percy"s Pealers" or "Bertie's Bats" will triumphantly have added the Abbey to their conquests.

Thank you tor your logical and anticipated explanation, Mr. Pistow, and be ready now for the jibes regarding the "Royal Peculiar." -Yours fattafully, Greasley, Nottingham.
D. J. BEACH.

RINGING WOULD BE BAD WITH VISITURS

Dear Sir,-Our major churches are naturally great attractions for touring bands and casual ringers, and the bells are in much greater demand than those of lesser churches. In any tower where a bigh standard of ringing is maintaned an open to all policy brings a great deal of heartache, particularly when the bells are difficult to ring and the Vicar or Dean is sensluve to bad ringing. I know nothing of the ringing standard at Westminster Abbey but it is certan that without restrictions the Abbey would never be free from visiting ringers and the ringing would be bad.
None the less a rigid and unwavering closed shop principle is unfair and wrong, irrespective of the ability of the resident band, but if it is to be changed a well reasoned letter on behalf of the Central Council would be the best procedure, is has been suggested.

Since the ringing arrangements at the Abbey are a matter for the Abbey authorities and ringers themselves to decide, and there is no requirement for them to give any explanation or excuse, the only response likely to recent excited and extravagant letters in "The Ringing World "would be that the writers shourd mind their owr business. One wonders why six signatures have to appear under one of these objectionable letters? Are they a selfappointed commitee with the abhorrent idea that everyone must be made to conform to their narrow-minded views, or are they too timid to take the full responsibility for their transparent nonsense?
There is one reason only for immature outbursts, and that is the desire to add just one more tower and abbey to their tower lists. If the writers' concern that bells are not being rung for service is so great I am quite sure they could find a tower much closer to their own homes where their consciences could be salved, where they might be able to belp and where they might even be welcome.-Yours faithfully,

GEORGE EVENDEN.

SUNDAY RINGING PLEA

Dear Sir,-Working within earshot of Westminster Abbey, I should like to make some observations on the present situation concerning the ringing there.
The bells are rung on average about once a week, but one hears, not infrequently, only seven bells being rung, and the standard of ringing is not always of the highest quality. There must surely be enough ringers working within reach of the Abbey who, if invited. would be pleased and proud to ring for services, thereby ensuring a full band.

One appreciates that the present system of chiming the bells for Sunday services is an historic one, and must be preserved. But would it be too much to ask that the bells be rung for one service each Sunday-possibly Matins, which would not clash with ringing at St, Margaret's? This Sunday ringing could be by visiting bands upon application and subsequent approval by the Abbey authorities.Yours faithfully,

JANET E. SMITH.

London, N.W.

Regarding Mr. E. Barnett, sen.'s observations about a broken stay at Westminster Abbey, we have received a number of letters, including those from Messrs. G. K. Dodd, J. W. Abbott and E.J. Rowe, strongly disagreeing with his observations.

" REMOVE THIS ANOMALY*

Dear Sir,-First 1 must take Mr. E. Barnett to task for his remarks about the breaking of a stay at W'estminster Abbey in 1936. To state that a visitor who was involved in this pure accident showed "no respect for other people's property" is little short of libellous, as it insinuates that visiting ringers are vandals. As it happened over 30 years ago, one fails to see what it has to do with the present situation.

With regard to Mr. Pitstow's letter, 1 am now more than ever convinced that neither he nor the Abbey ringers wish or intend to change this unsatisfactory state of affairs, nor have they made any effort to do so, despite the widespread feelings of dissatisfaction among ringers on this issue. Mr. Pitstow uses the "red herring" of a document of the 1600 's to support his argument. That is now history and is totally irrelevant. Ringers and ringing everywhere have changed completely since then-except at the Abbey !-and travelling to and from the belfry is easier than it was three centuries ago! No, Mr. Pitstow, you cannot hide behind these old traditions. When traditions become manifestly outdated, then new ones must be established.

I fail to see what Dean Ryle's past dictates have to do with 1968 . The present Dean, Dr. Eric Abbott, is a most enlightened prelate, and would not take a bigoted, narrow-minded and reactionary view if the position were properly and objectively presented to him. A copy of the letter we sent to "The Ringing World" was posted to the Dean, and in his reply he stated: "The Dean and Chapter of Westminster would never wish to be exclusive in any wrong sense." It is now up to the Exerctise to press the Dean to receive a representative (or a deputation), who would convince him that ringers do feel that the Abbey authorities are exclusive in the wrong sense. Who better could one suggest than our Central Council president, Canon Thurlow?
Visiting choirs sing at the Abbey services, as Mr. Pitstow himself admits. Is it not wholly illogical, inconsistent and unjust that there should be this discrimination against bellringers, who are, equally with choristers, servants of the Church of Christ?

I appeal to all ringers who feel the injustice and anachronism of the Abbey's attitude to ringing to write to the Dean in force and ask him to take steps to remove this anomaly despite any protestations from his own selfsatisfied band. Until the Abbey authorities are made to realise what the mass of ringers feels, nothing will be changed.-Yours faithfully,

Stoke Poges. Slough.
P.S.-Why should the Dean have invited only three London Societies to ring for the Abbey's 900 th anniversary? Has he not heard of any other Associations, or did his ringers not enlighten him? The Abbey belongs to us all, not to London only !-W.B.

FREE POR ALL

Dear Sir-Mr. H. N. Pitstow's letter only confirms what the more informed of us have known for many years. What Mr. Pitsfow failed to say, however. was that under the present system the ringing produced is of a fairly high standard.
It would be a retrograde step to provide " free for all" ringing occasions at the Abbey. Nevertheless there is, I believe, a case to be made for allowing visitors to partake in the ringing on certain occasions. This could be done by the issue of tickets, say two or three at a time, to competent ringers, on apolication. I cannot see that this would offend either the Dean or the ringers, or interfere with any payment the ringers may be entitled to. Yours. etc.,

Byfield, Northants.

REDUNDANT BELLS

Dear Sir ,-The following have been reported to me as being for disposal:
Exeter.-St. Edmund's, 8 bells, 14 cwt Brentford.-St. Lawrence's, 6 bells, $11 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. Southwark.-Holy Trinity, 8 bells, 20 cwt Mariborough.-SS. Peter and Paul's, 8 bells, 13 cwt .
Stamford.-St. Mary's, 8 bells, 15 cwt .
Stamford.-St. Michael's, 6 bells, 13 cwt.
Norwich.-St John's, Maddermarket, 6 bells. 10 cht.
Morriston, Swansea.-St. John's, 6 bells, 9 cwt .
Privett, Hants.-Holy Trinity, 8 bells, 12 cwt.
High Halstow, Kent.-St. Margaret's, 5 bells, $10 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$.
West Tofts, Norfolk.-St. Mary's, 8 bells, 12 cwt .
Anybody with a scheme for rehousing any of these bells should write to me in the first place. Information has already been given about some of these bells and it may be that preliminary approaches have been made to effect a rehousing. If the register is to fultil its purpose it is important that 1 should be advised ot any movements which take place. Yours faithfully,

APSLEY SURPRISE

Dear Sir,-I am afraid I must plead " not guilty" to being responsible for Kingsley Mason's false peal of Apsley. Mr. Mason says that he used Middleton's composition on the authority of my "Collection of Surprise Compositions " but he has evidently misread his copy.

The collection contains three peals that are true to Apsley, one by Dennis Knox and two by R. F. B. Speed, and a note against Apsley in the list of methods refers the reader to these and to these only.

Mr. Mason has either misread the note to read Peal No. 6 (Middleton's) instead of a reference to Footnote No. 6, or has taken Peal No. 26 (Middleton's in another form) instead of No. 25, which is Dennis Knox's composition.
Sorry, Kingsley-'twasn't me.-Yours faithfully,

CYRIL A. WRATTEN.

A METHODIST HANDBELL TEAM

Dear Sir,-Reference the article in "The Ringing World" of January 12th on handbell leams, and in particular the paragraph on the team from Hope Baptist Church, we would point out that there has been a similar team of Methodist handbell ringers in existence for a number of years in Harwich. They still give programmes of Methodist hymns and carols at meetings in many of the local churches. Yours faithfully.

PROUD OF THE LADIES' GUILD

Dear Sir,-I would like to correct some misstatements in Ian Smith's letter on page 8. First, he implies that membership of the Ladies' Guild occupies so much of a lady's time and ability that she is not able to support her local territorial Association as well. This is quite untrue, and in my experience it is the same group of ringers, ladies and gentlemen, who attend both territorial and nonterritorial Associations in an area.
Furthermore, what is the purpose of the Ladies Guild? Surely it is, as with the Policeman's Guild and the Railwaymen's Guild, to bring together people throughout the country who have something in common-in this case their sex. I certainly do not feel 1 could do more to improve the standard of Sunday service ringing if I resigned my membership of the Ladies' Guild. I am proud of it, for we are still a minority and considered inferior by a number of so-called gentleman ringers.
With regard to the poor attendance at the Sussex District meeting, every area and every tower has its ups and downs, and it is unfair to blame this on lack of support for the Guild. There must be many places which bemoan the fact that a few years ago Surprise Major was rung on Sundays, whereas now they can barely manage Plain Bob Doubles.

1 feel there is no case for disbanding the Ladies' Guild, and 1 resent the statement that it is $\boldsymbol{*}$ dying a slow and dismal death."-Yours faithfully,

CELIA F. H. D'AETH.

ODD-STRUCK BELLS

Dear Sir,-Referring to Mr. Paul Ebsworth's idea of tapered steel washers (page 62) I fail :o agree that a washer with a round hole to fit a square shank would not be satisfactory as it could turn round if the castle nut became loose and make the bell more odd-struck than ever. I have dealt with this for some years and I find that if a leather washer is fitted correctly and the castle nut kept tight there would be no movement to cut and wear the leather washer away It is the crevice between the square shank and the square hole in the bell that needs taking up; you will find the hole in the crown of the bell is $1 / 16 \mathrm{hh}$ in. to $3 / 32$ nd in. oversize.

I should like to suggest my idea of fitting a leather washer. Firstly, get a piece of leather $t$ in. thick or as near as possible; soak overnight so that it is pliable, cut a piece two inches round and cut a square hole in the centre $1 / 8 \mathrm{th}$ of an inch less than the thickness of the shank; so that you have to use force to get it in position down the shank. Then put in the clapper and screw the castle nut fingertight only; next centre the clapper by means of a tape measure. When that is done, screw up castle nut tight, but don't put cotter in, as you will find after a day or so that you can get another half-turn on the nut. Then secure with cotter pin and keep the nut at that tightness. You will find it will give no more trouble.-Yours truly,

Ilkeston.

ARE YOU THE RIGHT MAN IN OFFICE:
Dear Sir,-1968 is here, and throughout the country bellringers will shortly be electing their officers to represent them though the year. It so often happens that people are reluctant to stand for oltice; no doubt we all have cur reasons, but how often we hear: "Not willing to stand, and not always has the person nommated really tried to make the time for the job. May 1, through your pages, in the interests of ringing, appeal to all ringers to try to fulfil their obligatuons? - someone obviously thinks you are the right person for the job.
May 1 also ask those at present in office, particularly if you fill that most important post of tower captain, to ask themselves if they are still the right person? Let us have a bit of oul-searching from you. It is generally accepted now that the captain does not have to be the best ringer although in my opinion ae should be comparable to his better ringers: but it is necessary that he should be the best captan, and on his ability to lead and organise his band, to train and hold his recruits, shall he be judged. How often have captains been appointed with not really enough thought and how often, once in the saddle, do they sit oblivious to changing circumstances while the band struggles on with nobody willing to displace "Old Bert" or "Old John" for feal of hurting his feelings-perhaps all hoping he will surrender his office to allow a new surge of lifeblood into the band, and hoping in vain. Tower captain for the good of your hand, please ask yourself are you the right man to be "kingpin", for that is what the office is. If you are nor, are you big enough to hand the reins over and support the new manindeed, are you big enough to propose him?

An afterthought for the band: when you get your man, or if you already have him. do you give him the support he deserves? Don't let him crash himself against a brick wall of apathy ; instead feed him with your enthusiasm and loyalty that he may rise to greater things and take his band along with him. If we all do this, no more will bellringing be spoken of as a dying art.-Yours, etc.,

NON-ASPIRANT.

NEMPNETT TRIPLES

- Dear Sir,-I am reminded by the 1967 "Index" that no one has queried the peal of Nempnett Triples (page 588). Nempnett places are made in 7-8 (first peal in the method was one of Caters-see page 442). If, as I as sume, the places in the peal of Triples were made in 5-6, then the method is Hunslet (of which the first peal of Triples was rung at Leeds on August 4th, 1966).-Yours iaith. fully,
R. BROWN.

LINCOLN DIOCESAN GULLD

Quite a busy time ahead was planned at the annual meeting of the West Lindsey Branch on January 20th, held at Gainsborough Parish Church. Canon Roberts presided and members promised ther support for a one-day ringing school, the Guild Ringing Festival to be held in the Branch, and a summer outing to Chester.

Upon Mr. Baker's proposition a collection was taken for the Gainsborough Parish Church $£ 10,000$ Restoration Appeal. After a short service, conducted by the Vicar, ringing was resumed until 8 p.m.

POINTS FROM PEALS

BY CANON K. W. H. FELSTEAD

1am grateful to Mr. Phillippo for his letter on page 775 last year about the peals rung at Bunwell so that we now agree that the 100th peal was rung on April 12 th last. I have, of course, to rely on accurate reporting and in this case a peal rung at Long Stratton appeared to have been rung at Bunwell, hence the disorepancy Whilst mentioning this, very rarely is one "foxed" by a tower appearing under different names. A case of this appeared last November, when a tower "Culcheth, Lancs," was amongst the , peal towers. This name does not appear in "Dove's" or "Crockford's Clerical Directory," etc., but 1 presume it is the Newchurch tower of unknown dedication mentioned in "Dove," even though the weight of the tenor does not agree with the published one. It would be helpful to have a consistent name.
I am also grateful to Mr. Ian V. J. Smith for letting me know that one of the peals counted in the 50 at Beeston (mentioned in the last article) has been found to be false. Thus the next peal there will be the 50th now. The false peal was rung in 1898 !

17 VIRGIN TOWERS CONQUEREL

Peals this time refer to the last six months of 1967. In this period another 17 virgin towers were ronquered-all but one were olaimed as the first on the bells. The exception was Bampton, in Westmorland. The others which I confirm are Leek Wootton, Badingham, Broadwood Kelly, East Allington, Hovingham, Preston-by-Wingham, Parkham, Sutton Maddock, St. Audries, Westleigh, Lostwithiel, Compton Bassett, Milborne St. Andrew, Mottisfont, St Neots and Shebbear. What lovely names many of them have! The numher seems to be about average for the six-month period
Rather fewer than usual were the number of infrequent towers-only 11 in fact. The longest silence in the peal lists was at Griston, its name last appearing in 1912. The claim that it was only the second peal on the bells was not quite accurate-it was the third peal. for there was another one in 1911. This was the only tower last to be heard before the first war. Four towers last had a peal in the 1920's. Croston's last was in 1925. so the claim as the first peal for 50 years is again not quite right. The 1925 peal was the only previous peal of Major (Double Norwich). Before that there had been seven peals of Grandsire Triples from 1890 to 1911 and a peal of Stedman Triples in 1914. So there have only been ten peals in nearly 80 years-few for an eight-bell tower.

I confirm that the last peal at Haverfordwest was in 1927. There was also one here in 1926. Carmarthen likewise last appeared in 1927 (not 1923, as claimed). This was the only previous peal I have come across. King's Caple's recent peal of Minor was (I confirm) the first of Minor on the bells. Previously there had been three peals of Doubles. two in 1928 and the last in 1929. Aldwinckle last had a peal in 1931, likewise Hinton St. George. The former had also recorded one in 1919, hut the one at Hinton was the first on the bells. We then have to jump to 1938 to find the next infrequent visitors to the peal columns. There were three towers from this yearBrooke (the only previous peal before last year's one); Maiden Newton (where peals were also rung in 1932, 1934, 1935 and 1936one each year); and Ashburton (peals ofDouble Norwich in 1902 and 1926 and Grandsire Triples in 1932 and 1938). The last presecond war tower (which is where I draw my line in mentioning rare peal towers) is West-bury-on-Trym. The cluim that the peal was the first of Minor on the bells was correct, but it was not the second peal on the bells. As well as the 1939 peal of Grandsire Doubles there had been one in the same method in 1913. So the recent peal was the third one.

MILESTONES

Then we come to milestones. Further investigation shows that I missed one or two in my last article, i.e. towers which reached certain marks in the first six months of last year. Chief of these was Birmingham Cathedral, where I now make the peal of London Royal on February 18th last the 600th on the bells. I note that peals are once again being rung here after the enforced six months' rest. Then there were three 50 -pealers I umitted to mention. They were Caythorpe (50th peal on January 21st), Stafford (March 27th) and Ratby (April 29(h). Actually I cannot be blamed for the last one-the account did not appear in the peal list until October 27th. A hint for prompter publication!
To return to milestones in the past six months-Bushey takes pride of place with its 350th peal. It was claimed for the peal on August 21 st, but I made it the previous peal, on August 3rd. The peals have been very evenly divided through the years. Thus there were 134 from 1890 (first peal) to 1914, i.e. in 25 years, 97 between the wars, i.e. in 20 years, and 119 since the last war, i.e. 23 years. Duffield reached its 300 th peal on December 7th. Here the hey-day was prior to World War I, for 179 peals had been rung when it commenced. Between the wars there was not a great deal of activity, especially in the 1930's. Forty-four peals only were rung in the period. Since the last war the pace has gradually increased again-six peals in the 1940's. 24 in the 1950's and 47 in the 1960's so far. The pre-1914 war average was about six per year and it has now been reached again.
No towers reached the 200 's in the period under review, but three passed the 150 mark. They were Shirley, Warwicks, Epsom (Chris? Church) and Walthamstow (St. Mary's). The Epsom tower claimed as such. but I would not like to be absolutely certain as I have one or two peals which, when published, did not quite make it clear which Epsom tower was meant. All the Shirley peals have been rung since 1923 so there is not much doubt about them. The Walthamstow total includes early peals commencing in 1778.

CENTURY MARK

I confirm the 100 th peal at Fairfield. Other towers to reach their century were Cuckfield (July 7th), Trumpington (July 29th), Farnham (July 15th) and Old Swinford (St. Mary's) on November 11th. Fairfield completed its 100 in the quickest time-it did not start until 1933, then came Trumpington, which. as a sixbell tower had 34 peals from 1920 to 1955. The remaining 66 have come since augmenta: tion, from 1958. Both Farnham and Old Swinford have peals going back to the early days of peal ringing, so their centuries have been a long time in coming. Cuckfield's first peal was in 1815 , but the 30 -odd peats immediately before the first war and a similar number since the last one appear to be the main periods of activity.

Reaching the 50 mark were Harwell (October 14th), Wye (October 28th), Silverdale (November 7th, and Burton-on-Frent (St. Modwen's) on November 11th. The last tower-the old parish church of the town-has taken nearly 170 years to reach this total, having been overshadowed by the famous ringing tower of St. Paul's. Wye has taicen even longer, for the first peal I have there is in 1736 . Both the other two towers have only had peats in this century

Finally, some other odd notes. The peal of Yorkshire Royal at St. Helens was not the first such on the bells. One had been rung on December 26th, 1952. Likewise the claim for the first of Surprise at All Saints', Basingstoke, was not justified. Basing Surprise Major was rung in 1966 . A minor correction for Humberstone-the peal was the first since 1953, not 1952. The peal at Norton Fitzwarren pinpointed the way in which a tower's fortunes change. Here, there were 24 peals in the three years 1899 to 1901, then came nine from 1902 to 1905 and four from 1910 to 1913. Since then there have been single peals in the years 1953,1956 and 1967.

SOUTHEND & DISTRICT GUILD

Future Uncertain

The annual generai meeting of the Southend and District Guild was held at Rayleigh on January 27th. The Rector, the Rev. G. W. Hatch (acting president), took the chair. and members stood in silent tribute to Canon J. A. Stanley, late Vicar of Pritllewell and president of the Guild for the past seven years. The chairman then welcomed the visitors, who included Mr. Frank B. Lufkin and two ringers fron Charing, Kent.

The secretary and treasurer's report was followed by the election of officers, and Mr. Frank B. Lufkin, Master of the Essex Association and founder of the Guild, was elected president.
A proposal was then put to the meeting by Mr. Michael Hallett and seconded by George Eve, that in the event of the proposal to split the South West District of the Essex Assuciation being passed at the Association's annual general meeting on the Spring Bank Holiday this year, the Southend and District Guild will terminate its existence at its next annual general meeting. This was agreed to.
Sgt.-Major H. H. Furminger was elected Master of the Guild, the first Service man to hold this post. Mr. Stephen Halliwell was elected Deputy Master, and Miss Jenifer Emms was elected secretary and treasurer.
The president addressed the meeting and told how he and Mr. Don Coombes had founded the Guild back in 1950. But he agreed with the meeting that, if the proposal to split the South West District of the Essex Association is passed by the Association, then the decision to lerminate the Guild at its next annual general meeting was a wise one.

J Brazier (Worcestershire and Districts Association) and $\mathbf{J}$ Seager (Yorkshire Association).
The President announced that in future this presentation would take the form of reading out names, a request to stand and a welcome by the President in the name of the Council. He mentioned at the same time that the practice of making obituary tributes would cease. but the customary silence would be kept and prayers said.

Election of Honorary Members.

It was resolved that Mrs. R. F. B. Speed and Messrs. G. W. Pipe and F. A. White be reelected.

Losses Through Death.

The President reported the deaths of the following members and past members of the Council, the members standing in silence: Messrs. E. G. Fenn (Ancient Society of College Youths, 1939-56), T. R. Dennis (Ely Diocesan Association, 1913-32). A. J. Pitman (Swansea and Brecon Guild, 1927-32; hon. member 1953 onwards), P. Page (Romney Marsh and District Guild, 1933-39), G. ## Minutes.

The minutes of the Bath meeting, as published in "The Ringing World " of March 24th, 1967, and amended in 'The Ringing World " of April 7th, were adopted.

Reports and Accomits.

The following were adopted:

Honorary secretary and ireasurer (published in "Ringing World" of June 9th. 1967. page 391)

Honorary librarian ("Ringing World," June 16 h , page 409).
Accounts for 1966 ("Ringing World," June 9th, page 391).

Motions

It was resolved that this Council deprecates most strongly the deliberate submission of false information for publication in "The Ringing World, ' and asks all Associations and individual ringers to do all they can to stop this practice before serious harm is caused to the Exercise and its journal.
A motion seeking to charge a fee for peals published in the present style was referred to "The Ringing World" Committee, which was instructed to report its conclusions next year. A motion to amend Section D (8) of the Council's Decision on page 21 to read as follows:
"Peals which contain more than one method shall be called "Spliced" provided that methods are joined in the fundamental units of which they are constructed (i.e. the leads in treble-dominated methods, the divisions in the case of Stedman, Duffield and the like). In addition where a peal qualifies as Spliced under the above definition methods may also be joined at the half-lead, provided that where this is done only one of any group of methods difiering only in the places made at the halflead or the lead-end may be used in any one composition" was referred to the Methods Committee for its consideration and report.

Future Meetings.

It was resolved that the 1968 meeting at Worcester be held on Tuesday, June 4 th . The Hertford County Association wished to bring forward its invitation for 1969. This was accepted.

Reports.

The following were adopted, subject to the qualifications where noted:
Trustees of the Carter Ringing Machine (published in "The Ringing World " of June 9th. 1967, page 391).
Standing Committee (given orally by the secretary).
"Ringing World" Committee ("Ringing World," June 16th, page 407 ) with the qualification that whilst accepting the report presented, this Council requests *The Ringing World" Committee specifically to include in its report to the 1968 Council meeting a statement on the measures it had taken and the plans it had made for widening the appead of "The Ringing World" to all sections of the ringing community.

Peals Collection ("Ringing World," June 23rd, page 432).
It was noted that the Methods Committee had nothing to report.

Canberra Carillon.

The President reported that, following representations from the Australian and New Zealand Association about the precise form of the British Government's gift to the Commonwealth he had corresponded with members of both Governments to try to convince them of the desirability of hanging some of the bells for ringing.

It was therefore resolved that this Council. representing all the ringers of the Commonwealth, unanimously supports the idea, that cight or more of the bells of the Canberra Carillon be hung for ringing in full circle in the English manner

The President said that copies of this resolution would be sent to all the officials involved in the scheme.

Votes of Thanks.

The Council expressed its gratitude to the Lord Mayor of Nottingham, the Bishoo of Sherwood, the chaimman of the Southwell Diocesan Guild, to the Vicar of St. Mary's Church for the service of Holy Communion. and also the incumbents of all the other churches for the use of their bells. Thanks were also expressed to all the officers of the Southwell Dincesan Guild and particularly to Mr. W. L Exton, the honorary general secretary, for all the excellent arrangements.
The members of the Council were the guests of the Lord Mayor and Corporation of Nottingham at tea immediately after the meeting.

BATH AND WELLS ACTIVITIES

Frome Branch A.G.M.

Coincidental with "The Ringing World" frontispiece for the week showing the imposing tower of Chewton Mendip, Frome Branch gathered at this beautifully-loned eight on January 13th for its annual general meeting. With visitors from the Bath, Chew and Glaston Branches, and more from Bristol, Wales and Bridgwater, the event looked more like the Bath and Wells artnual general meet-ing-especially since the Association's general secretary and the treasurer, Messrs. Gilbert and Naylor, were also present.

Ron Beck was like a cat with two tails with two or more "Bristol" and "London" teams, and the general ringing was undoubtedly better than usual.

All the Branch officers and officials were reelected, which indicates satisfaction and not apathy, and the Frome/Bath/Chew Striking Competition play-off was proposed for March 23 rd.

In response to Bishop Wilson's appeal for a bell for Trinidad a collection was taken in Mr. Beck's hat-there is no truth in the suggestion that this hat holds more than others. Phillip Jones proposed a vote of thanks to the Rev. A. Clarkson, who had so warmly welcomed the Branch to his church, and to Mr. and Mrs. H. Baker for making all the local arrangements.

Cary Branch has 218 Members

About 60 ringers attended the service at Wincanton Parish Church at the Cary Branch's annual meeting on January 27th. The Rector Preb. R. B. H. Kay, officiated, assisted by the Branch chairman, the Rev. G S. Robinson, and Mr. L. Lane was the organist.

At the business meeting after tea a silent tribute was paid to Messrs. F. Sparks and C. Whatley, who had died during the year. The secretary in his report spoke of an increase in the membership of the Branch to 218.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were: Charman, Rev G. S. Robinson: vice-chairman, Preb. O. H. Skipwith; Ringing Master, Mr. D. M C. Hill; Assistant Ringing Master, Mr. R. G. Field; secretary. Mr. L. McCreadie
Twenty-two new members were elected from the towers at Babcary, Cucklington, Evercreech, Henstridge, Milborne Port, Stoke Trister. Queen Camel and Wincanton. and a number of certificates were presented by the charman.
Meeting places for 1968 were fixed (subject to permission) at Barton St. David, Horsington and Queen Camel, with practices at South Cadbury, Cucklington, Kingweston and Templecombe, with next year's annual meeting at Castle Cary.

Ringing was then resumed and continued during the evening

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GUILD

The annual meeting of the Mansfield District took place at Mansfield on January 27th. The ringing varied considerably in method and quality. The service was taken by Canon $R$. Warburton, who later joined the 50 -strong company for tea at Grove House.
The business meeting began with a moment of remembrance for $G$ Oakley, A. Munk and F. Salter who had passed away during the year. The secretary's report and accounts for 1967 were adopted, and the following District officers were returned: Chairman. S. W. Fossey: secretary, D. J. Beach: Ringing Master, H. T. Rooke; Assistant Ringing Master. B. A. Richards: committee member, D. A. Whetton. L. Boulter and Mrs. S. Ford, of Eastwood, also A. Rooke and Miss S. Etchles, of Warsop, were proposed and elected ringing members. It was ohserved from this that three generations of the Rooke family are now ringing at Warsop Church.

The chairman proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Canon R. Warburton, the ladies and all who had helped in any way with the meeting arrangements.
D. J. B.

BELFRY GOSSIP

We have mentioned previously the keenness a: Northallerton, Yorks. The quarter of Grandsire on January 28th was the first of Triples for all the band and by a local one !
Mr. John R. Ketteringham, of Bayswater, W.2, will be out of ringing for a few weeks as he has to go back to hospital. A speedy recovery. John.

We have had several notes of appreciation concerning the work of Mr. W. L. Roper in compiling the 1967 (and other) indexes. It is nice to know that readers do appreciate the bours of voluntary work he puts in on behalf of " The Ringing World."

After the reopening and rededication of the Buriton. Hants. Methodist Church, two of its members joined the village captain and three friends from Petersfield and Steep to ring a quarter peal at the Parish Church to mark the occasion. The Methodists-the Misses A and S. Roberts-ring most Sundays before going to the service in their own church.

Three generations of the Rooke family are now ringing at Warsop Church.

Mr. Frank Hawthorne is retiring this Easter and is going to live at Aberarch, near Pwllheli, North Wales.

We regret to learn that Mrs. A. Relfe, of Lamberhurst. died in the Kent and Sussex Hospital, Tunbridge Wells, on February 3rd.
The clapper of the fifth at Hitchin was broken at practice on February 5th. It was promptly despatched for repair. Ringing continues on seven.
Mr. D. Hall. of Burgess Hill. Sussex, is moving to Cheshire shortly after the annual District meeting of the Southern Division of the Sussex Association on February 17th; he is the present hon. secretary.
The peal at Langdale on January 27th by members of the Furness and Lake District Branch of the Lancashire Association commemorated the 70th birthday of Mr. Robin Shuttleworth, who for 21 years was tower captain at St. Michael's, Hawkshead.

GREAT-GRANDFATHER CELEBRATES

Grandfathers ringing for the birth of grandchildren are quite a frequent feature of the columns of "The Ringing World." Much more unusual was the quarter peal at Great Baddow on January 21st, when Dr. P. T. Spencer-Phillips, wno is 85 , made a return to conducting after ten years to celebrate the christening of his great-grandson, Jeremy Ben Fawcus. The baby's grandfather. Dr. P. J. Spencer Phillips, was also ringing We only wish the baby's parents were ringers, too!

SOUTHAMPTON UNIVERSITY GUILD

At the annual general meeting, held on January 31st, Canon K. W. H. Felstead was re-elected president, Howard J. Payne was elected Master David H. Stone Vice-Master, Susan E. M. Davis secretary/treasurer, and Jeremy D. Cheesman to the committee. Communications should be sent to: Miss S. E. M. Davis, c/o J.C.R. Post, The University, Southampton SO95NH.

RECRUITING EXHIBITION AT HEREFORD

To meet a shortage of bellringers in Here-ford-there are only nine available with 18 bells at two churches-an exhibition will be held at All Saints' Church on the evening of February 23rd The public are invited to see eight ringers in action and also inspect the bells.

Mr. Michael V. Powell, the Hereford District secretary, states in the "Hereford Evening News ${ }^{n}$ that there is no stipulation of religious belief for would-be ringers, and whether or not they attend service after calling everyone else in is entirely a matter of choice.

50 YEARS A RINGER

Mr. Charles Brown has completed 50 years as a ringer at St. Andrew's, Wingfield, Suffolk. On February 4th the Vicar, the Rev. W. G. Muir, on behalf of the church and congregation, presented him with a gold wristlet watch together with a commemorative scroll from the Suffolk Guild and paid tribute to his conscientious work and unswerving loyalty over the years.

Another office Mr. Brown holds is that of sexton, the duties of which he has fulfilled for the past 22 years.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION

A representative gathering of N . and E . members met at St. Matthew's, Upper Clapton, on January 20th, when the bells were put to good use in the afternoon and evening. The Association's form of service was conducted by Father Cossar, who gave a short and inspiring address. Mr Dennis Neal accompanied at the organ. At the business meeting the belfry election of Miss Jennifer Indge. prior to a peal at North Mymms, was ratified.
Votes of thanks were extended to Father Southgate, Vicar of St. Matthew's, who is shortly leaving the district to take up an appointment at Fleetwood, for the use of the bells; to Father Cossar and Dennis Neal, and to the local ladies for arranging an excellent tea in the new Church Hall

AUCKIAND CALLING

Determined eftorts are being made by Mr. W. T. Lack to get the bells of St. Matthew's, Auckland, New Zealand, ringing again, but, as his announcemen: states, he badly needs nelp. He writes: "One cannot expect young ladies to shine with a 14 in . shiftung spanner in quite the same way as they did when shoveling pigeon-muck and cleaning the trame down! Also Robert (my son) and 1 would have welcomed an extra pair of hands when we humped our tirst wheel up the tower, as jarrah is about 16 per cent. heavier than uak.'

While working in the beltry Mr. Lack's thougnts went back to the ringers at Auckland -the pioneers who sang their lirst quarter of Grandsire Tripies in 1912; the haut-muffled quarter for Tommy Biddle, of Christchurch, in 1913 ; and the peal attempt that year which broke down atter two hours of good striking He adds: "The last tangible link with these men was the copy of The Bell News and Ringers Record ' for December 26th, 1914. found in the loft adjacent to the ringing chamber, open at page 439 with a controverstal letter occupying three-quarters of that page, by one $\mathrm{H} . \mathrm{W}$. Fright on "The Illegitimacy of Stedman.;

70 YEARS A COLLEGE YOUTH

This month that grand and remarkable veteran, Mr George E. Symonds, of Ipswich, completes 70 years' membership of the Ancient Society of College Youths. In 1967 he attended the annuversary dinner of the College Youths and it is the hope of the Society that he will be able to be present this year. Earlier this year he and Mrs. Symonds celebrated their diamond wedding. George is now 92 and he seems to be as active as ever, having rung peals for his 90th. 91st and 92nd birthdays.

THE SURPRISE ALPHABET

By taking part in a peal of Oxfordshire Surprise Major at Weedon Bec, Northamptonshire, on January 27 th, Mr. Barry E. Saunders became the third ringer from the south of Northamptonshire to complete the Surprise Major alphabet in recent months. Mr. Alan A. Paul was the first with the first peal of Verney Surprise Major at Easton Neston on August 26th. 1967, followed three weeks later by his brother Graham, whose last method was Dorchester, rung at Market Harborough, Leicestershire.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The first meeting at Mersham of the Ashford District since November, 1925 , took place on January 17th. The service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. C. F. Pollard. who welcomed the ringers and in his sermon spoke of the discipline, dedication and devotion required from ringers. The offertory, amounting to $£ 5$ 16s. 6d., was donated to the John Willis Memorial Fund.
Tea was enjoyed in the Village Hall and over 100 partook of the fare so lavishly arranged by the Mersham ringers. A short business meeting was held after the tea, which concluded with a vote of thanks proposed by Dr. L. Garraway.

URANGWUT II

Urangwot II proved quite a popular teaser and attracted 56 entries. There is only one acceptable solution it both towers had the bells hung clockwise-an assumption well justified by the small number of anti-clockwise rings in existence.

The tive ringers may very conveniently be represented by A, B. C, D and E. Ringers know well that there are 120 permutations of five numbers or letters when each is different. However having learned that D and B were adjacent and in that order they can be treated as one and the permutations are thus reduced to 24. Similarly, in the second tower $A$ and E may be treated as one. although the order there is nox specified. For the second tower there arise 48 permutations so far. The other conditions impose considerable restrictions in both cases and a final comparison of the few remaining acceptable ones shows which permutations can be taken logether to give the answer. Solution:

First tower: (1 Tom), 2 Chris, 3 Alan, 4 Denis, 5 Bob. 6 Ernie.

Second tower: (1 Tom), 2 Denis, 3 Chris, 4 Ernie. 5 Alan. 6 Bob.
Forty entries claimed this solution on its own or with the anti-clockwise solution and 17 of these were ladies, including the winner, Mrs. Elizabeth W Struckett, Blackdown Border, Tennyson's Lane. Haslemere. Surrey
One young lady expressed the hope for some more similar puzzles as she greatly enjoyed solving this one-even though the headmaster did not approve of her doing it at school !

BELFRY RHYMES

From "Bell News," December 26th, 1908.
Read by the Master at the dinner of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths.
Mr. Joseph Crumb, though a good natured chum.
In the belfry would boast like a rebel.
Every method could ring, but a very strange thing,
He usually made choice of the Treble.
The first peal he rang went off with a bang. He felt like Napoleon at Jena;
When the smoke cleared away, he shouted "Hooray ${ }^{\text {" }}$
'Twas Stedman he rang on the Tenor.
When disputes would arise over London Surprise
Crumb then cut a very fine caper:
Each error explained and adroitly maintained
Twas as easy as winking-on paper.
Some thought Crumb a lord, others deemed him a fraud,
So diverse. the opinions of people;
But all were agreed, should he ever succeed Sure "twould not be inside the steeple.
He invited me once, with my wife, to take lunch-
In transport our hearts were uplifted;
But when we got round do you know what we found?
Why, as usual, the bounder had shifted.

Rings of Four in Nottinghamshire-By GEORGE A. DAWSON

Arnold. - Since the church's foundations were underpinned during coal mining operations the bells have not been rung. They are chimed quite often and there are moves to have them rehung in a new frame and augmented to five. When visited the fittings were in poor condition. Two trebles by Samuel Midworth, of Mansfield, dated 1841. He was a brass founder and the only other bells known by him are Warsop (1812, since recast), Skegby (1830) and two bells at St. Mary's, Bulwell (1851), which were recast and incorporated into the ring of eight now there.

The third by George Oldfield I is 1699 and tenor by Thomas Mears in 1799. Weight about 8 cwt .

Calverton.-A good four rehung by Taylor's in 1896, when they augmented them from two. All swing east-west. Tenor on ball-bearings and the trebles on plain bearings. The treble is by George Oldfield I, cast in 1623. The other three are by Taylor's, $1896 / 7$, the second being a recast of one by George Oldfield I in 1667.

The bells go well, but the tenor is slow going. One quarter peal, 1,320 Minimus in two methods, was rung here on October 19th, 1963. There used to be a local band till about 1965.

Car Colston.-The four are not rung as the tower is unsafe. Attempts to ring them about 1964 resulted, according to rumour, in the band departing from the tower at high speed. All are hung side by side along one side of the tower. There is a peculiar stay system here, the stays being about 18 in . long and engage on a sliding block arrangement bolted to the side of the frame.
The two trebles are by George Oldfield I, 1633 and undated respectively, third by Taylor's in 1872 and the tenor bears the badges ascribed to Richard Mellours and his son, Robert, 1470-1525. The inscription on this bell is not one of the more common ones used by them and it reads :

Clara + voce + pia + resono + usu + sca + maria
Tenor diameter is 36 in . so weight will be about 8 cwt .

East Stoke. - A complete four by Henry Oldfield II, in 1591, these fine bells are unringable as the massive wooden frame is now unsafe. Tenor weight about 10 cwt. They are occasionally swing-chimed.

Epperstone.-Although mentioned by Dove as a four, these bells are not a true four but three and a large clock bell. All are now hung "dead" and fitted with chiming hammers, the lighter three in the old wooden frame and the clock bell between this frame and one window ledge. They were ringable in 1901.
The treble is by Thomas Hedderly, in 1742 , and is one of the earliest bells by the Hedderlys using the stamps of the Oldfield family. The second is by George Oldfield II, in 1729, the third by Henry Oldfield II, in 1590 . The clock bell is by Taylor's, in 1865. Third diameter 33 in . and tenor 45 in .

Farndon. - Condemned by Taylor's in the early 1950 s, but prior to this time I believe there was a local band.
The bells are hung in a substantial wooden frame, which looks typical of those made by the Hedderlys, and plain bearings. Treble by George Oldfield II, cast in 1710, the second by Thomas Hedderly, in 1774, and the two tenors by Henry Oldfield II (undated and 1589 respectively). Tenor diameter 38 in., weight in the region of 10 cwt .
Flintham.-These bells are hung "dead" in the central tower on R.G.J.s The ropes attached to the chiming hammers fall in the very corners of the tower among the choir stalls.
Treble by Thomas Hedderly, in 1777, 2 and 3 by Henry Oldfield II. in 1613 and 1616 respectively, and the tenor by George Oldfield II in 1718.
Quite a pleasant sounding four but alas, only chimable.

CHURCH OF ST. OSWALD, EAST STOKE

ST. JAMES THE GREAT, NORMANTUN

Gonalston. - Although hung for full circle ringing, the light four have neither stays nor sliders. The bells are hung in two tiers in the small tower in a frame erected by the local joiner, W. Faulks, in 1852, when the church was extensively rebuilt and the tower added. The fittings are in a poor condition but the bells are quite ringable by a strong band. The Bingham District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild have held meetings here.

Treble and tenor by Taylor's, in 1853, 2 and 3 from the Nottingham foundry, possibly William Noon's, in 1684 . Tenor diameter 28in., about 43 cwt.

Hawton.-All attempts to even look at the bells in this fine three-stage late Perpendicular tower have met with refusal on the grounds that the floors are unsafe.

One bell by Richard Mellours is probably coeval with the tower, which was completed in 1482.
Linby.-Unmentioned in Dove, these bells were the subject of an article in the "R.W." early in 1966. Plain bearings in very poor condition, they are hung in a much-strengthened frame. The fittings are in poor condition; each bell has its own peculiarity; the tenor man is hidden from the ringers of 2 and 3 by the clock case. Definitely bells for tenor kings, the light four, by Thomas Mears, in 1826, have had two quarter peals rung upon them, in November and December, 1965.

East Leake.-A 3-bell tower here, the fourth bell is a small (13in. dia.) sanctus. Rehung by Taylor's in a metal H frame in the year 1920 , they are spaced to accommodate six bells. The local band ring them with the treble half down, giving bells in the order $1213,1213$.
Normanton-on-Soar. - Politics keep this this pretty four from being rung. An opportunity recently showed that the bells go very well in spite of much neglect in recent years. Rehung by Taylors in 1897, when they recast all the bells, they were previously a complete four by George Oldfield II, in $1634 / 5$. The tenor weighs about $8 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$. The tower is a central one with a tall spire.

Norwell.-These bells were rehung in a metal frame by Taylor's in 1932 and a fourth bell was added one year later. The frame is arranged for the addition of two trebles at some future date. Although in good condition, the bell chamber has been of late much neglected and birds have gained entry. The bells are rung occasionally for service by Sutton-onTrent ringers and go well. The tenor weighs $9-2-5$ in G, diameter $39 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{in}$., by Taylor's, 1821. Treble and 2 by Taylor's also, in 1932-3. The third is a fine bell by Henry Oldfield, in 1591.

Oxton. - Eight cwt. four which go well. There is, or was till very recently, a local band. One quarter peal has been rung here, in November, 1963.

A wooden frame and plain bearings the fittings are in good condition. The treble and tenor by Taylor's, 1885 and 1911 respectively; the 2 nd and 3 rd are by George Oldfield II.

Dear Sir,-1 enclose six extents of Plain Bob Minor, which may interest those conductors whose bands are restricted to that method. Alı contain the maximum number of singles (42).

This first extent I arranged from the following two round blocks, which I joined together by omitting two singles.

The 216 has the six shortened courses with 5 and 6 coursing; and the 564 has either 5 or 6 coursing with the treble throughout
The remainder are three-part arrangements all on the same plan, and no doubt further extents could be arranged in a similar way; they are:

The Church of the Holy Trinity, Guildford

The Church of the Holy Trinity, Guildford

HOLY Trinity, Guildford, stands in a proud position at the top of the High Street-justly proud because it possesses a very fine ring of bells; proud because its peal record of 334 is the highest in the Guildford Diocese; and proud because its Ringing Society has a long list of wellknown ringers, the most famous being Alfred H. Pulling.
The earliest record concerning bells in Holy Trinity reveals " 2 d . received of Jemys Monger for the bells for a stranger". Shortly after this, $1514,8 \mathrm{~d}$. was paid for the hanging of the Service bell in the steeple. At this time there were four bells and one Sanctus bell. By 1550 another bell had been added but in 1552 one large bell of $19 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cWL}$. was sold.
In 1689, when eight shillings was paid for bread and beer for the ringers on the occasion of the Coronation of William III and Mary, there were six bells in the tower. Forty years later concern was expressed for the satety of the steeple and on 23rd May, 1740, it crashed through the roof of the nave bringing three of the bells with it. Although the Mayor laid the first stone in 1748 it was not until 1763 that the first service was held in the new church.
Peter Flutter is a name well-known to Holy Trinity ringers. It was he who generously paid for the recasting of the six bells and the augmentation to eight. (It would appear that two of the three bells which were not broken when the steeple fell were hung in the new church and the rest of the ring stored in a barn.) On the ringing room wall is painted:-

The First Peal on the bells
These bells were recast and augmented from six to eight by Peter Flutter, Alderman of the Town, and the first peal rang on them on Wednesday, May luth, 1769 , and on Monday, May 29th, 1769 Mr . Holt's peal of Grandsire Triples consisting of 5040 changes was rung here in 3 hours and 25 minutes by the following youths of this town-etc."
The casting was carried out by Lester, Pack and Chapman, of Whitechapel. The parishioners were made responsible for providing a wooden frame, transporting the bells, and hanging them.

The ringers of the 1800 s differed greatly from those of the first half of the 20 th Century as only two more peals were rung in the 130 years between 1769 and 1899. The Holy Trinity Society was formed in 1892; in 1899 change ringing was introduced; and in 1900 Alfred H. rang three peals in the tower.

Since 1912 the bells have hung in an iron frame. In this year John Taylor & Co. recast the treble, 4th, 7th and tenor. The cold statistics below reveal little of the character of the bells. To enjoy them one should hear them singing London.

The Ten Years before the Guild's Birth

WHEN our Guild was founded in 1927 the writer was 44 years of age, and now, 40 years tater, I am writing aoout the tenyear periad prior to its tormation. At the age of 64 the oest plan is to consult my peal book and reca.l some pleasung memorics of weil-snown ringers 1 have met. ine lirst world war caused a lot of tower belt ringing to cease, bui in June, 1yid, 1 caned a nanubell peai of Stedman Caters at Ctapham, where I agan met Cha山ls winney, w. I. Cockerilı and H. Langdon, three ot St. Paul's Ca-hedral conuuctors, one being a piano tuner, anotier a schooimaster and the other a snipping merchant. The umpure was Eawin norrex, then 80 years of age, who enjoyed the task of checking the peal.
The following month it was Stedman Cinques at Shoreditch with Mrs. Elste Haırs and James George from Rugby ringing 5-6 and 11-12, Bill Pye conducting. In January, 1919, I made two trips to Leytonstone for Double Norwich "in hand " with the two Pyes and Bill Keeble, both successful after a December failure, due to restless umpires cracking nuts, poking the fire and snoring.
A peal of Major at Sunbury found Ber: Hughes and Aibert Diserens in the band, also the weil-known Armiger Trollope and Major Hesse. Now I relate a peal attempt going quite well and after an hour and a quarter the 7th ringer's belt became slack and his trousers began to sink downwards. As the bells neared halfway and his garment had reached the ground, I called $B$ instead of $S$ at halfway for half-peal. Two local ladies came up and asked the captain why the bells stopped, and he referred them to me, the conductor. I replied that the answer would be given when we left the tower, and over a friendly drink the situation was explained with tact, amid laughter.

At Waltham Abbey we had Treble 12 with Reuben Sanders, E. P. Duttield and T. H. Taffender calung the bobs

GUILUFORD MEMORIES

In 1921 John Heathorn passed away at the age of 92 . He was an inmate on Abbots husprial from 1897 and was tngland's oddest ringer. Ben Chorley was an active member at Holy Trunity, Guildford, from 1895 untul his death in 1922. Charles Willshire was a live wire and a fine conductor before he went to Canada; he died in 1962 at the age of 96. Although 1 rang a good many peals at Guildford, they were all handbelt peals except one, a peal of Double Norwich at Hoy Trinity in 1921, when Henry Hulton rane the 3rd. He was in a lot of peals with Alf Pulling and was a fine ringer on front bells. James Hunt was a keen ringer in Guildford before he went to London and worked for Warners, and I have happy memories of Maurice Smither, who was a fine ringer with handbells.

Bert Harman was also a keen ringer and conductor in the Leatherhead area, and it is pleasing to see his name in our paper conducting quarter peals in the Isle of Wight, where he now resides. Jim Brackley I first met in 1911 at Horseli, when I called his first peal. His death in recent years is recorded at Old Woking; 42 years a ringer and a chorister is a shining example. Two sisters from Aldershot, Hilda and Bertha Mills, were ringing at various towers in the $20^{\circ}$ s and they will be remembered by their attendance at Guild dinners.
Many Surrey towers have had long-serving ringers and at Worplesdon we remembered Sam Petter, at Chertsey John Hessey, at

To do justice to those not mentioned in the ten years 1917-1927 space does not permit many prominent names here, but we noted improvements in the Farnham and Chertsey Districts, which bore fruit when the Guild was established. A name not forgotten for his work in the 20 's was John S . Goldsmith, who was a great hekp with the snags which came up prior to the inception. # Cathedral Handbells to Mark 40th Birthday

THE BISHOP'S LEAD

Abstract

SURPRISE announcement at the dinner commemorating the 40th anniversary of the foundation of the Guildiord Diccesan Guild at Harvey's Restaurant, Guifuford, on February yth, was the proposed presentation of a set of handbells of two chromatic scales ( 25 bells) to the Cathedral to mark the burthday. The gift is estimated to cost $\mathfrak{i} 200$.

Starting the appeal with the gift of two bells, the Bishop (the Rt. Rev. G. E. Reindorp) hoped the presentation would be made on the day of the retirement of the Dean (isishop George Clarkson) on May 17 tn , the seventh birthday of the Cathedral. Forty was the keyword of the gitt. The sishop asked each junior to give 40 haltpenmies, each senior student 40 pennies, and eacn adult member 40 snillings.

Four peals of Royal were attempted on February 10 th in connection with the anniversary. Successes were Stedman Caters at the Cathedral, Plain Bob at Haslemere, and Stedman Caters at Epsom. Unsuccessful was Cambridge Surprise Royal at St. Nicutas', Gutildford.

The company of over 160 rose to greet the president (the Bishop of Guildford) as he entered accompanied by the Master (Mr. Peter G. Smart) and Mrs. Smart. Other distir:guished guests with them were Canon Gilbert Thurlow (president of the Central Council), Canon K. W. H Felstead (Master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild) and the Dean (Bishop George Clarkson).
Others seated at the top table were a former Master (Mr. C. W Denyer) and Mrs. Denyet, the hon. secretary (Mr. C. W. Munday). and Mrs. Munday, the second secretary of the Guild (Mr. G. L. Grover), Mr. and Mrs. Coldman (son-in-law and daughter of Mr . Albert Harman (former Master), Mr. and Mrs. J. F. M. Maybrey, Mr. P. G. Sherwood and Miss Y. Eloie (librarian). An excellent meal was served.
Following the president submitting the loyal toast, the Master announced that he hid received a letter from Mr. Albert Harman, for many years Master of the Guild, expressing his regret for absence. His letter stated: " Last Saturday I rang a quarter peal of Kent Ireble Bob at Godshill and after* wards we drank to "the continued prosperity of the Guildford Guild.' " Another apology was from Mr. Harold Pitstow, who had been a member of the Guild since its inception.

The gathering heard with regret that Major Bragg and his family were involved in a motoring accident on their journey to the dinner. Two of the ladies received cuts.

The toast of "Continued prosperity to the Guildford Guild" was proposed by Canon K. W. H. Felstead, the Master of the Winchester and Portsmouth Guild. who brought greetings from the parent Guild and congratulated Guildford on its 40th birthday. It was in July, 1927, at a general meeting of the Winchester Diocesan Guild that a decision was taken to divide that Guild, and a subcommittee reported that meetings of the Guildford and Yorktown Districts had passed resolutions for forming a Diocesan Guild from Junuary, 1928, subject to the approval of the Bishop of Guildford and with that part of Surrey as was convenient.

The remaining members of the Winchester Guild decided to keep together and to that day were :he Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild. Reciprocal arrangements were made for resident members to be compounding members on payment of one shilling and that the funds be divided as 25 per cent to the new diocese and 75 per cent to the former diocese of Winchester. That was in accord with the approximate percentage paid in the last five years.

FIRST OFFICERS

On December 31st came the inaugural meeting of the Guildford Guild. Canon Lionel Blackburne, Archdeacon of Surrey, was in the chair, and Canon Coleridge, president of the Central Council, and Mr. A. Young, secretary to the Council, were present. Others present included Messrs. C. F. Johnston (Croydon),
A. A. Hughes (Whitechapel), C. T. Coles, G. Pullinger (secretary of the Winchester & Portsmouth Guild) and the Rev. C. W. O. Jenkyn (Master of the Oxford Guild). Officers elected were: Major Hesse, Master; Mr. J. S. Goldsmith, hon secretary; Admiral Walker, hon. treasurer; and Messrs. A. H. Pulling and W. Shepherd Central Council representatives.
The first peal for the Guild was rung at Capel on January 1st, and it was the only peal rung in that tower from 1914 to 1928. In that year, 40 years ago, the first peals of Lincolnshire Surprise Major and of Superlative Surprise Maximus were rung. The foral titles of Minor methods were being changed to place names.

The handbell record peal of 19,738 Stedman Caters, which was rung in 1912, was still the record length although it was rung 56 years ago in Guildford for the Winchester Guild. A peal of 19.260 was rung recently and he was of the opinion that their record would not last for long.

LEADING PEAL TOWERS

Canon Felstead sard he was in the process of collecting all the peals that have ever been recorded since 1715, and there were many thousands more than before 1881. He had listed the towers of the Guild and at the moment Holy Trinity, Guildford. headed the list with 334 peals. Forty years ago there were only 116 but in that period the number had been nearly trebled. Second was Ashtead with 326, followed by Christ Church, Epsom, 153, St. Nicolas', Guildford. 130, Leatherhead 120, Ewel! 113, St. Martin's, Epsom, 105, Farnham 101 and Chiddingfold 94.

In their account of the history of 40 years, it would be seen how the Guild had oeen influenced by men who would always be remembered in ringing. There were Alfred Pulling. Jack Goldsmith and Major Hessc, famous men who had served ringing and the Church well. Now a new generation was growing up and it was very pleasant to see the numbers of young people ringing in these days. He hoped the deeds of those stalwarts of 40 years ago would provide an inspiration for future generations and that their names would go down in the annals of ringing history.
The president in his reply stated he had known Canon Thurlow from his schooldays. as they were both at Felsted. The Canon was well known as a writer and had written books for the Pitkin series on Cathedrals and had broadcast for the B.B.C. Dr. Reindorp gave a special welcome to John Chilcott and mentioned that during his visit to Washington Cathedral he learned that they had to invite English ringers to ring the first peal and that the conductor of that peal was with them. The bells of Guildford Cathedral were identical with those at Washington.

In connection with their Dean, who had now reached three score years and ten. the Bishop said he had written a letter to "The Surrey Advertiser," which he hoped they would all read. He thought the Dean was absolutely right in his decision. (The resignation of the Dean was announced to take ettect on May 17th, the seventh anniversary of the consecration of the Cathedral, and the Bishop appealed for a testimonial.)

CATHEDRAL HANDBELLS

Dr. Reindorp then announced the proposal to provide the Cathedral with a set of handbells of two chromatic scales, size 22. His wife was giving the bell with the note $A$ (atter Alix) and he was giving $G$ for George. For these two bells he was sending a cheque. He appealed to all members of the Guild to support the purchase, suggesting that to mark their 40 years each junior should give 40 halfpennies (1s. 8d.); each elder scbolar 40 pennies (3s. 4 d ), and adult members 40 shillings. Contributions should be sent to C . W. Munday, 37, Bradford Drive, Ewell, Epsom. The cost of the set would be about $£ 200$ and he hoped it could be dedicated on the Cathedral's birthday, May 17 th.

The Bishop concluded by thanking the ringers present for what they were doing for the Church. They were providing one of the finest sounds in the English language. ." You are some of the people who have given England a solid foundation," he concluded.
Canon Gilbert Thurlow proposed the toast of " The Church and the Exercise" and said: "It is not our job to preach the Church. It is our job to build the Church and to leave it hetter than when we found it. What we have to do is 10 preach Christ, and it is our job to preach Christ by the way we live.
" To those who run the Church doun you should say, "Do you know what it is doing". Its hospitals, schools, building Christian civilisation in many lands, its leadership amongst all kinds of people, especially the down and out, its work amongst alcoholics, drink and drug addicts and the mentally afflicted. Tell those la-de-da critics who try to pretend man is self-sufficient and the Church useless to spend a term each with the Church Army, Samaritans or Franciscans.

GIVING FROM THE HEART

" The Church does so much of its work in free giving. Why are we cutting down on hospitals and university programmes today? Not because we, cannot afford them, but because we have stopped giving to them. How did Guildford Cathedral get there? Not via the rates and taxes. All from the hearts of people. A stranger's question: Why is that huilding finished?" Because people loved it and wanted it. 'Why is that other building not finished?' Because the State relied on noney and ran out of it."
Speaking on the second part of the toast the Canon said: "Bells say no words; their message is not limited by words. People do not need to speak English or to have any special gifts to be moved by the bells. They are a prophetic voice and rung by folk from every walk of life, and behind them are centuries of skill, of leadership and painstaking tuition. I remember, when a curate at Wokingham, going to Holy Trinity, Guildford, and Alf Pulling saying "That 'ere young parson, can he ring?' I replied 'I don't know, may I try?
"Now you are 40 years old. We no longer hear Alf's voice, but we hear his bell: how this would thrill him! Instead we rejoice in the number and spirit of those entering the Exercise and continuing to proclaim the Gospel. They are as full of fun and charm and skill as those who were young when I was about here. And one of those, Charlie Denyer, past Master of the Guild, will reply o the loast."

MEMORIES AT DINNER

Mr. C. W. Denyer, in a speoch full of memories, spoke about a visit to Wokingham in 1934 in an antique Darracq driven by Ernie Gardner, and there they met the curate, Gilbert Thurlow. In 1934 their first Bishop, Bishop Greig, retired. He was their first president and was succeeded by Bishop Macmillan. That year witnessed one of the biggest events in ringing history, when 12 ringers went to Australia to take part in the celebrations for the centenary of Melbourne City. One of those 12 was Jack Goldsmith and they went out not only as ringers but as missionaries. Their programme was upset by the tremendous welcome and at one place they were entertained by the Governor General. They did more for the ringing Exercise than anybody else and the story can be read in "The Great Adventure." One of the best things Jack Goldsmith did (and Jack was his hero in those days) was the weekly report he sent to "The Ringing World" during his Australian visit.
Charlie said he was a lad of 15 or 16 at that time and Jack was the secretary of the Guild. There was Admiral Walker, the Guild treasurer, who did not start ringing until he was 65 or 70, and he used to go up the tower not only to see the bells but to look for birds' nests. He was a great naturalist. Others prominent then were Charlie Burdock, of Holy Trinity, Major Hesse, the Master of the Guild, John Corbett, known as the Bishop of Bagshot, who became treasurer of the Guild, Walter Harrison, director of "The Surrey Advertiser," who was chairman of the Guild Committee, Alf Pulling, Robert Whittington, of Cranleigh, and his wife, who were the first married couple to ring a peal.
Other names Mr. Denyer recalled were Bill Melville and Mrs. Melville, of Holy Trinity Guildford, Mr. and Mrs. Hazelden, Bill Thorne, of Ockham, Tommy Streeter, of Shere, the Upshall brothers, from Farnham, Dick Hasted, George Gilbert, Jack Hessey Wilkins Massey, of Shere, David Sleet, of Ottershaw, Ted Coward, of Dorking, "Pop" Denyer, the speaker's father, who was a great inspiration and responsible for forming the Farnham District, Bill Beeson, Les Hunter, of Shalford, Ted Matthews, Hilda and Bertha Mills (Hilda took 12 little sprigs of heather to the docks and gave them to the Great Adventure party before they left), and Les Warner, of Crankeigh. Those and many others had made the Guild what it was today, and they could all look back with a great deal of pride and satisfaction.
Mr. Denyer concluded with a toast to the memory of John S. Goldsmith and other officers and members of the Guild. He said that this toast was usually drunk in silence but that night they could drink it with thankfulness and cheerfulness in their hearts.
The Master ended the speeches with an expression of thanks to the Bishop for his gift of bells and to the dinner committee for ar ranging such a very fine dinner. The committee consisted of Douglas and Jill May, Peter Sherwood, John Maybrey and David and Carolyn Tubbs.
During the evening a touch of Grandsire Triples was rung by Tom Page, William Vig. gers, Douglas May and David Struckett.
The evening concluded with a dance. A collection taken during the dance raised $£ 20$ for the Cathedral handbells.

The Founding of Guildford Guild   By GEORGE L. GROVER, Former Secretary

   By GEORGE L. GROVER, Former Secretary}NO doubt readers will appreciate that it is difficult to write from memory about events which happened 40 years ago and more than difficult to write the second phase of an essay without having any idea of what is recorded in the first phase, the style of its composition or how far it covers the ground which these memoirs are intended to
The Guildford Guild was not founded with the unanimous support and approval of all the ringers in the area proposed to form the new Diocese of Guildford.
The Yorktown District of the Winchester Diocesan Guild had not had close liaison with the Guildford District, and looking back now It would appear, mostly for nostalgic reasons, were generally in favour of remaining for ringing purposes in the area and control of the Winchester Guild.
Again, the ringers in that area, which is now in the Leatherhead District of the present Guildford Guild, were completely out of touch with any part of the Winchester Guild and were much more ready to throw in their lot with the Surrey Association, which was fairly well established in a number of towers in that area. A lot of hard missionary work had to be done by ringers resident in the Guildford area to make possible the final creation of the Guildford Diocesan Guild.

OPPOSITION FROM TWO DISTRICTS

It must have been a very heartening thing to the Guildford missionary workers that at the annual meeting of the Guildford District of the Winchester Guild, held in November 1926, they were successful. This was in spite of the well-organised opposition to the creation of a new Guildford Guild. The opposition had persuaded John S. Goldsmith to accept a brief from them and to use his not inconsiderable specch-making ability and debating skill to quash any suggestion of a new Guild. The rank and file of the Guildford District, however, by a large majority, decided in effect to promote a new Guild to cover the Guildford Diocesan area. Following this success, a delegation of Guildford Districs ingers was appointed to attend the next meeting of the Yorktown District of the Winchester Guild to try to persuade the towers in that area to help with the promotion of the new Guild for the Guildford Diocese.
In view of the rather uncompromising aititude of the Yorktown area ringers prior to their annual and special general meetngs held in November, 1926, and January, 1927, respectively, it must have been a very pleasant surprise to the sponsors of the new Guildford Guild that the Yorktown District rescinded their previous "non-co-operation" resolutions and agreed to join in forming the new Guild. The only area now to be persuaded to assist with the new Guild was what is now the Leatherhead District of the Guildford Guild. There was no organised Leatherhead District of the Winchester Guild and therefore no machinery by which a District meeting could be convened. Accordingly representatives from towers in the Leatherhead area were invited to join the organising committec set up by the Guildford and Yorktown Districts of the Winchester Guild. They did so. and the scheme to promote a new Guildford Guild was agreed and was ready for launching. It is extremely pleasant to be able to record that those members at Guildford and vehemently opposed) to breaking away from the Winchester Guild for the formation of the Guildford Guild cheerfully accepted the decision of their meetings and threw themselves wholeheartedly into the task of making the new Guild the success it became.
During the course of laying the foundations for the new Guild the Surrey Associatuon were approached by the organising committee but from the recerds of the Guild no really workable arrangement was negotiated. For many years, however, the officers of both Guild and Association tacitly agreed not to interfere in the area or with the activities of the other.

OUTSTANDING PEOPLE

It is, of course, impossible in such a treatise as this to mention individually many of the ringers who helped to found and establish the new Guild on a sound basis, but perhaps is is fitteng to record the name of Mr. Walter Harrison, manager of the "Surrey Advertiser," who from the start took a great interest in the Guild and gave unsparingly of his time in attending meetings, and his services and advice on the administration of the Guild's business aftairs.
John (Jack to his contemporaries) S. Goldsmith, who had urged that Winchester should continue to embrace the Diocese of Guildford, accepted the office of secretary of the new Guild and for the first ten years of its lite controlled its destinies. Under his adminis: rative ability, assisted by the officers chosen from time to time by the Districts, the objects of the Guild were gradually achieved. An organisation was put in being which united the separate ringing bands in the Diocese for the purpose of mutual support, obtained recognition of their work by the Church authorities and most certainly encouraged the preservation of the bells and their fittings.
There were dozens of members of the Guild who worked for its success both in the wider world of ringing generally and also parochially, but of course the one name which springs first to mind is that of the late Alfred Pulling. The standard of ringing that he set at his home tower, Holy Trinity, Guildford, was an inspiration to all the towers in the Guild and his prowess as a peal ringer and his brilliance as a conductor kept the Guild in the front rank as regards purely ringing aspects. Then it is fitting to refer to one of the clergy, a non-ringer but truly a friend to the ringers, and who gave invaluable assistance to the new Guild, namely the Very Rev. E. C. Kirwan. Provost of the pro-Cathedral. Canon Kirwan perpetuated his memory by presenting the bookcase which houses the Guild library. In re ferring to the bookcase the name of Charles Hazelden is brought to mind, as by his labour the Guild's library was founded and made into one of the leading ringing libraries of the agc. Charles Hazelden was also for many years a Central Council representative, leader of the band at St. Nicolas', Guildford, and, it is hardly necessary to record, a first-class ringer and conductor

PEALS OF GUILDFORD GUILD

By E. J. BRAGG

The first peal for the Guildtord Diocesan Guild was rung on January 1st, 1928-Oxtord Treble Bob Minor, at Capel-and was the only peal for the Guild conducted oy F R. Tullett. Twenty-three peals were rung in the first year. Most of the conductors were household names-W. J. Robinson, W. T. Beeson, C. H. Kıppin, R. Hasted, J. S. Goldsmith, F. Bennett, A. Harman and C. H. Winch.

The year 1929 saw the advent of the late A. H. Pulling, who conducted his first peal for the Guild-Double Norwich Court Bob, at Warnham on March 23rd, 1929, and his last at his own tower, Holy Trinity, Guildford, in his favourite method, Stedman Triples, on December 31st, 1952, and between these dates he conducted 334 , peals for the Guild. As Alfred went out, E. J. Wells came in, conducting his first peal in November, 1951, and is now the second most prolific conductor, with 103 peals to his credit; A. Harman and A. P. Cannon came next with 85 each. John S. Goldsmith, who was the force behind the formation of the Guild and founder of "The Ringing World," conducted 14 peals for the Guild.
As might be expected, the leading tower is Holy Trimty, Guildford, with 204 peals, followed by Aldershot with 50 peals. Again, owing to the influence of Alfred Pulling, there have been more peals of Stedman Triples (151) than any other method.

The most outstanding peals are Doubles in 24 methods, Spliced Surprise Minor in 14 methods, and Spliced Surprise Major in nine methods. Altogether 42 different Surprise Major methods have been rung.
In the 40 years of the Guild's existence 1,241 peals have been recorded.

service ringing, but each was a gentleman in the true sense of the word and both carried out their duties with meticulous care.
Two auditors served the Guild during the first ten years, namely C. N. Burdock, who was a member of Alfred Pulling's band, and that is enough to say about his ringing abilities. He died at an early age and was succeeded by Mr. Richard Hasted, of Farnham, who was leader there and a ringer and conductor of ability.
There were several changes in the District officers during the period under review, and all of them worked with enthusiasm to promote the Guild, and all of them ought to be mentioned here but space will not permit. There were. too, quite a lot of tower leaders and families of ringers whose labours for the Guild should be recorded but it would be invidious to try to pick out any to the exclusion of others.
In its early days, too, the Guild had in mind the provision of bells for the contemplated new Cathedral and a fund was started. which has subsequently been used for this purpose.
A Benevolent Fund was also founded and was well supported. Out of this fund it was possible :o make grants to members who had fallen on bad times.
In 1930 an annual dinner was instituted and this has proved a very popular event.

HEREFORD DIOCESAN GUILD

At the annual meeting of the Bridgnorth Branch held at Bridgnorth on February 3rd, the officers elected were: Ringing Master, Mr. A. Jones : secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Joan Bennett: Diocesan Committee member. Mr. F. C. A. Bennett: auditor, Mr. A. Elsmore. The Guild service was taken by the Rev. $\mathbf{S}$. Thnmas and he also presided at the meeting. A bountiful tea was served by the wives of it. I' Ponard's ringers. Ringing during the afternoon was at St.
Leonard's and in the evening at S. Marv's.

Reply to Critics of Accrington Peal

Dear Sir, It was inevitable, I suppose, that the ringing of the record peal of 12,096 Glasgow Surprise Major at Accrington on January 6th should have caused feelings of annoyance and dismay in Birmingham; but it is to be regretted that this led to such respected members as Peter and Roddy adodting the tone they did in their letters on page 99.
May I say at the outset that I am writing this repiy without any reference to other members of the band, so 1 have no idea whether or not they hold similar views to mine. I write merely to put the record straight as 1 see it.
Roddy's letter makes three complaints, the last of which is also the subject of Peter's letter. His first complaint is that the peal was not claimed as a record. On this 1 am in complete agreement with him; I think it ought to have been so claimed and 1 agree that the majority of ringers will regard it as such. But whether the "record" was clarmed or not seems beside the point; the fact is that a perfectly good peal of 12,096 changes was rung, and to maintain that the record still stands at 11,872 would be quite ludicrous.
His second complaint is that only two days' notice of the attempt was given instead of the recommended seven. This, too, I agree was regrettable; but to imply that this was done deliberately 10 forestall visiting "listeners" is quite erroneous. The fact was that notice of the attempt was sent to "The Ringing World " as soon as the attempt had been organised.. Although Birmingham's 11,872 had been rung on November 25 th, the composition was not published until December 15th, when it accompanied that "inner story"" of the "outstanding record peal that wild go down in history.

Despite the misguided claim that this composition was the maximum possible ("even with the use of singles "), Richard had increased it to 12,096 (with singles) within a week, and on December 22nd a band was fixed and a decision taken to attempt the peal on January 6 th at Accrington subject 10 permission being obtained. This was readily granted, and notification of the attempt was sent to "The Ringing World "forthwith. Unfortunately, this coincided with the Christmas holidays, and the letter could not make the deadline for the issue of December 29th, and consequently did not appear until the following issue of January 5th-hence only two days' notice. It was regrettable, but unavoidable, as the band would have dispersed to universities and iobs in various parts of the country before the following week-end. But, you know, two days' notice would have been sufficient if someone had really wanted to come along and listen (as several people did); and many of us have often been given less notice than this to, say, stand in a peal many miles from home and managed to get there on time.
The third complaint, which is also the subject of Peter's letter, is on the "ethics" of using a single made in 4-5 at the half-lead. Well, really! and this complaint from Birmingham, which has produced more peals of Surprise containing singles (and at the halflead) than any other centre in the country ! This is reminiscent of the "old days." when singles in Bob Major and Double Norwich were condemned as unethical! Again, Peter's use of inverted commas round the term "single" and his reference to a "special call ${ }^{\circ}$ implies that because it is made in 4-5 somehow causes it to be less acceptable than if it were made in 3-4 or $5-6$. Surely. in the case of Glasgow, the reverse is true. The onlv dodge made either at the lead-end or the half-lead is in 4-5. So this is the obvious place to make a single. Whether it is "ethical" or not. ${ }^{\text {ch }}$
Finally, if the imnlication that Peter realised a single at the half-lead would have enabled the 54 courses to be included in one composition is true-then the statement that 53 courses was the maximum possible, even with the use of singles," should never have been made.-Yours faithfully,

CROSSTHWAITE.
Preston, Lancs.

NOT A QUESTIUN OF ETHICS

Dear Sir, - Why all the fuss about the Accrington peal of G.asgow? One can assume that, as responsible people, the band knew the rules and never intended the peal to be an "orficial" record-breaker-perhaps they were practising for bigger things !
What I cannot understand is why Messrs. Pipe and Border must now try to justify themselves and their "very good peal of Glasgow," which was, as we all know, rung last November. This is not a question of ethics or a reason for hiding record compositions of London Surprise from "the light of day." What utter nonsense will we read of next?-Yours truly,

MICHAEL R. MEADOWS.
Wentworth, Rotherham, Yorks.

THREE QUESTIONS

Dear Sir,-With regard to the letter from Mr . Border in "The Ringing World" (page 99) I think a number of points should be made, not with ethics specifically in view but common sense.
Firstly: If Mr. Border thinks the controversial $4-5$ single unethical, he should have had Mr. Ainsworth point out that the composition could be extended by its use when the report of the peal was published.
Secondly: As Mr. Border points out, special calls of this nature were used in the early days of Triples composition because they seemed unavoidable. Surely they are now unavoidable in Surprise Major to obtain the greatest number of changes without incurring falseness.

Thirdly: Who is Mr. Border to imply that Richard Parker is naive? Surely he is the naive one for not realising that anyone with a little sense and knowledge of composition would be able to employ this sort of single himself.
To conclude. I believe that the only reason this correspondence is taking place is because the St. Martin's Guild (talented and able as many of their members may be) cannot concede defeat !-Yours, etc.,
S. J. HOPGOOD.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The tall spire of St. John's, Deptford, has long and historic connections with the Kent County Association and it is fitting that the Lewisham District should hold its first meeting of 1968 in this Kent tower.
Ringing commenced at 3 o'clock. The Vicar, the Rev. N. L. Dunning, conducted the service. An excellent tea followed, which was kindly prepared by Mary Andrews and her helpors.
Mr. Arthur Richards took the chair at the husiness meeting. Mr. Frederick Cullum. from Erith, paid a short tribute to Mr. Alfred Hill. a very dear friend of the District. Who died suddenly on November 25th: the meeting stood in remembrance. The District has noened a memorial fund to the memory of Mr . Hill. and donations should be sent to Mary Andrews.
Tony Lewis gave a report on the committee meeting held last November. in which he mentioned that mwing to the financial difficulties the Association was experiencing. it was felt necessary to increace the membership subserin'ions to. sav. adults 5 s . and iunior memhers 2 s . 6 d . Ho acked the meeting to consider this as it will the disriscer at the annual general meeting on Easter Mnnday.
Ringing was continuer with methnis ranging from rounde and call chinges to Glasgow.

A WESTMINSTER ABBEY WELCOME

Dear Sir,-Most of the letters in the Westminster Abbey bells controversy are antagonistic towards the ringers at the Abbey. May [ in all fairness state, from my own experience, that the criticisms aimed at the ringers are not entirely justified.

During a visit to London some years ago, after ringing for morning service at St. Paul's Cathedral and St. Michael's, Cornhill, I was taken to the Abbey by Mr. Herbert Langdon and Mr. William Pasmore. It was Remembrance Sunday, one of the special occasions on which the Abbey bells are rung. I was introduced to the secretary of the Abbey band, Mr. Harold Pitslow, who gave me a cordial welcome and who readily agreed to Mr. Langdon's request that I be allowed to take part in the ringing.

I received nothing but courtesy and kindness from the Abbey ringers, one of whom most graciously stood down to let me ring. During the "break" between two excellent touches of Stedman Triples. Mr. Pitstow, and others, told me of the restrictions relative to the use of the bells and to visiting ringers; restrictions not of their making but traditional to the Abbey, watched over by Canon Perkins, who, I believe, had charge of the tower and its bells.-Yours faithfully, Pudsey, Yorkshire.

LADIES' GUILD IN SUSSEX

Dear Sir,-While it is to be hoped that the good ladies of our Association will not deign to reply to your correspondent in the issue of February 2nd, I feel that I would like to put in an unasked-for opinion.

Since I frequently attend the Ladies' Guild meetings in this area, because of the friendly. helpful atmosphere not always experienced at other meetings, I think that possibly your correspondent might more gainfully have used his intelligence and time in inventing an instant cure for that vicious influenza bug that laid so many ladies low!

Whereas Mr. Smith would no doubt be always welcome at many meetings, where his knowledge and experience would be a great asset, such outburst of incorrect statements can do no good to anyone.

Were these ladies actually involved in farcical meetings and practices to the detriment of the Association as a whole I would possibly agree with him, but still bear in mind that "The hand that rocks the cradle." etc. Perhaps Mr. Smith is aware of this.
Generally speaking, these ladies do much for the Association in Sussex to my knowledge and are regular Sunday service ringers as well as home-runners. Surely the furtherance of Sunday ringing is basically the reason for such an Association and its Ladies' Guild. and whilst I am sure the peal of Cambridge Maximus would be as easy to many of them as perhaps to Mr. Smith, I personally do not feel that it is necessary in the context he suggests at this time.

Le: the ladies have their Guild and continue their good work. I know that in time this gentleman will be looking forward to having the children of some of the present Guild in his tower band wherever he may be.-Yours sincerely,

CLIVE BRETTELL.

TAPERED WASHERS

Dear Sir.-I have read with interest the letter of Mr. Paul Ebsworth re tapered washers, and whilst his system of tapering washers is very good, for the purpose of correctung odd-struck bells it is impracticable.

Firstly, most staple bolts have a square shank at the base which coincides with a square in the headstock to prevent the clapper turning. Secondly, these tapered washers need to be somewhere in the region of 2 in . dismeter.
A local blacksmith will, of course, make washers of this description.

However, it is standard practice to put insulating washers of either leather or fibre under all bolt heads and staples. It is usually the wearing of these which creates looseness, and if a steeplekecper should find this happening. bolts could be taken out one at a time and the insulating washers replaced.
We ourselves make tapered fibre washers by using a wooden block with panel pins to hold the washer. The tapering is then done with an electric sander.
I hope this will be of interest to your readers.-Yours sincerely,

TY TENNIT.

WORCESTERSHIRE BELLS

Dear Sir,-I am afraid Mr. A. J. Whittle in his letter published on page 82 is again incorrect as regards "who cast what."
Eckington, Worcs, has a complete ring of six by Richard Sanders, of Bromsgrove in this county. The third bell carries the following inscription: "Richard Sanders cast us all 6. 1721." These bells are, I believe, the only complete ring by Sanders now in existence.
Mr. Whittle, Pershore Abbey has not a complete Rudhall ring. In 1814 Thomas Mears recast the original ireble of 1729 and in 1987 Messrs. James Barwell and Sen. of Birmingham, recast the fourth. True the other six are Rudhall castings and I agree that they are a magnificent old eight-rather surprising after hearing other bells contemporary with the date and manufacture of the two recast= !
Beckford bells have not long been restored by Taylor and Co., who, I believe, did some recasting.

Mr. Whittle, what a pity the Rudhall foundry was "Londonised," otherwise today we might have quite a few of "Rudhall's beautiful whole neals" in the Midlands of Worces-tershire!-Yours sincerely,

MARTIN D. FELLOWS.
Stourbridge, Worcs.

DANBURY IN WORLD WAR I

Dear Sir,-It was a great pleasure to read the letter from Mr. Savage ("Ringing World," page 83) concerning his wartime activities in and around Danbury, also his kind reference to our late Rector, the Rev. F. S. Hopkirk.
As the correspondence is only indirectly concerned with ringing perhaps Mr. Savage would care to write to me and 1 will enwould care to write to me and to forl in some of the gaps during the post-war years.

Perhaps he can be persuaded to revisit Danbury, where he is assured of a warm welcome at any time.-Yours faithfully,

Kewset, Mill Lane,
Danbury.

CHRISTMAS DAY BROADCASI

Dear Sir,-With reference to several letters in recent issues on the subject of the broadcast of Christmas bells, may 1 point out that here must be hundreds of ringers who, like myself never have the opportunity of listening to this feature for the simple reason that they atc in their towers carrying out the primary duty of all ringers, namely ringing for service. A very large number of churches now have a Choral Eucharist starting at 0930 and 1000 hours.

If this broadcast could be timed for 0830 , a great majority of them would be able to enjoy the Christmas bells, as, having rung for etther the midnight or early morning services, and probably having stayed for their Christmas Communion, they would then be free.-Yours faithfully,
A. R. POYNTZ.

Shaldon, South Devon.

ST. HILARY, CORNWALL

Dear Sir,-It was most interesting to read of the revival of ringing on the light six in the tiny tower of St. Hilary, Cornwall-a church which was once the centre of a lengthy controversy over churchmanship. The writer of the article is, however, not correct in quoting St. Hilary bells as being unique in hanging in three tiers of two; a similar sttuation exists at St. Ewe, near Mevagissey. also in Cornwal, and which also possesses one of Cornwall's rare old stone spires. St. Ewe's ring of six (tenor 7 cwt.) were recast by Gillett and Johnston in 1926 and hung in the tiny tower in a combined $A$ and $H$ shaped frame-two trebles below, 3 and 4 above and at right angles to the trebles, and the tenors in the top tier in an A frame. The towet is so small that it hardly seems possible tor it to contain a ring of six-an illustration of the frame erected in the foundry can be seen facing page 21 of the late Ernest Morris's "History and Art of Change Ringing," 1931 edition.
Incidentally, on a completely different subject, I would like to thank most sincerely all those who responded to my appeal for views of churches to complete entries in my peal book-1 now need only photos of Hawkley. Hants, and St. Lawrence's. Brentford. Middlesex; if anyone has a spare view of either of these towers I would be delighted to hear from them!-Yours sincerely,

PETER N. BOND (Rev.).
Great Yarmouth.

ESSEX ASSOCIATION

Poor weather, influenza and Chelmsford City versus Colchester United in the F.A. Cup all doubtless combined to keep the attendance down at the Northern District annual meeting at Braintree on January 6th. However, those who did get to the gathering certainly made up for the numbers by keeping the meeting lively throughout.
The re-elected District Master, Mr. R. Lindsell, reported on a most promising year with a welcome increase in peals, and quarters and a great number of "firsts."
The secretary, Mr. R. Threadzold, was able to continue in this vein with a healthy statement of the financial situation.
Thanks are due to the Braintrec band for their welcome; the Vicar, the Rev. R J. Mulrenan for his co-operation and for conducting the service; and the Rector of Black Notley for making his light five available in the evening.

Rings of Four in Nottinghamshire-By GEORGE A. DAWSON

Rolleston. - These bells can now only be chimed as the state of the fittings will not permit them to be rung up. They were all rung half up for a wedding some two years ago which resulted in the tenor man acquiring a large crop of blisters in ten minutes.
The third is a fine bell by John. of York. The tenor, in contrast, is one of the poorest pieces of bell metal I have ever seen, the inscription wandering around the bell. It was cast bv Thomas Hedderly in 1778 and weighs athout 14-15 cwr. Treble from Nottingham, 1697, and the second by George Oldfield II. in 1628.
Saundby.-Rung by members of the Retford area recently, the bells are said to go well despite the rapidly deteriorating conditions upstairs. One has to stand amongst piles of coke for the heating system at this ground floor ring. Heng in a wooden frame with plain wearings, there is room for two more bells at the side of the existing frame. The louvres are in poor condition-one set had fallen in when I visited the tower several months ago.
Treble oy Henry Oldfield 1, in 1605: the second is by George Oldfield, in 1620 . The third is an undated Taylor bell of about 18001890 vintage. The tenor is a pre-Reformation bell of about $5 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$ bearing a saltire cross which is probably by one of the Seliok family of Nottingham, 1470-15\%).

Sibthorpe.-Much restoration work has been done here in the last year. Prior to this the bells were thought unringable. However, it was discovered that they are hung in an early all-metal frame by Taylor's, dated 1893. All the bells were recast at this time. Previously they were a complete four of 1622-3 bearing the shields of George Oldfield II and Paul Hutton. who managed the Congleton branch of the Nottingham Foundry. Bells in Nottinghamshire by Hutton are rare-Cromwell $2 / 3$, in 1622, and Selston $5 / 6$ (also 1622) are the only other known examples. Tenor will be about 8 cwt .
A quarter peal was rung here recently.
Upton. - A ground floor ring here, where the ropes fall in the corners of the tower. It is a knuckle-scraping job to ring them. The long draught of loose rope, combined with old bearings. makes them a poor-going set of bells. One quarter peal nas been rung here, on November 30th, 1963.
The tenor, about 8 cwt ., bears the crowned badge aseribed to Henry Oidfield I. This badge occurs also on the 4 th at Skegby, with the date September, 1551. The third and second by Henry II are dated 1589 and 1611 resnectively. and the treble is a Taylor's recast (1887) of a bell by Thomas Hedderly in 1759.
Upper Broughton. - Augmented to four in 1948. these bells are hung in a metal frame for five. The treble is on ball-bearings. the three tenors on plain bearings. The bells are rung from the ground floor and go extremely well. The tenor, by George Oldfield I in lnill. weighs about 7 cwt . The 3 rd is by his father. Henry II, in 1596. Trebles by Taylor's in 1948 and 1910 respectively.
Woodborough. - A fine but noisy (in the ringing chamber) four hung in a wooden frame for five bells. There have been several quarters, a long length and a peal, which was the first peal of Minimus in the county. This was rung on February 15th, 1964.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH, SIBTHORPE

Treble and third by Henry Oldfield II and the second and fourth are by Taylor's. 1886 and 1896 respectively.
There are also 4-bell towers at Gringley-on-the-Hill, Grove, Laneham and Osberton, but I have no information as to the state of these rings. No doubt members of the North Notts District would be able to help.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

The annual meeting of the Salisbury Branch was held on January 27tb at St. Paul's Church, Salisbury. The service was conducted by the Rector (the Rev. K. C. Cooper) and the Rev. G. Baverstock gave the address. An excellent tea followed in the Church Hall, prepared by local ladies.
The Master of the Guild (the Rev. R. Longridge) presided at the business mecting. Tributes were paid by the Master to the late chairman, Mr. H. A. Roles. The secretary (Mr. G. A. Trimby) reported that membership of the Branch showed an increase of ten over the previous year; another encouraging feature was an increase in the number of junior members.
Officers elected were: Mr. N. Skelton chairman: Mr. D. Kerley, vice-chairman; Mr. G. A. Trimby, secretary and treasurer: Mr. A. Newman, assistant secretary: Ringing Masters. Messrs. A. Haines, R. Jones and L. Page, with M. Carter and Mrs. A. Abrahams on the commitee.
Meetings arranged for the coming year (subject to Dermission) are: Britford, Dinton, Martin, Broadchalke, St. Thomas', Fittleton, Coombe Bissett, Amesbury and Woodford. It was agreed that at practice meetings special attention will be given to ringers who are willing to learn change ringing. G.A.T.

EAST GRINSTEAD AND DISTRICT GUILD

Despite the miserable wintry afternoon there was a good attendance on February 10th at Withyham, Sussex, with about 30 members at tea. At the meeting three new members were elected and there were three ratifications. The treasurer reminded members that their 1968 subscriptions were now due. The chairman confirmed that the annual general mecting on March 9th will be held at Edenbridge, with Hammerwood, Cowden, Limpsfield Chart and Chiddingstone bells also available. (For times see Notices.)
Because of Easter there will not be an April meeting. Messages of sympathy have been sent from the Guild to Mr. A. Relphe in his sad bereavement.
Thanks were offered to Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Hairs for the tea, and to the Rector, the Rev. P. L. Scott, for taking the service. Ringing continued until $8.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$.
R. J. E.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

Ringing varying from rounds to London Surprise took place at the quarterly mecting of the Northern Branch at St. Giles'on-theHill. Norwich, on February 10th, when just on 50 members attended. Evensong was conducted by the Vicar (the Rev. T. F. Drury), the lesson being read by the Branch chairman (Mr. G. Sayer).
Mrs. Go'den and her helpers arranged an excellent tea, and at the business meeting the following elections to membership took p.ace: Miss Marion Simmons (Inswood), Richard W. Key (Aylsham), Gordon, Elvin and Robert Fisher (Wymondham) re-elected, Martin Tinsey (Barnham) from probationer, Miss Ann Fellows and John Norris prior to peals. Ringing was resumed after the votes of thanks.

The John Carter Ringing Machine

By W. H. DOBBIE

$\mathrm{O}^{\mathrm{N}}$N August 1st, 1961, I made my urst acquaulualice witn the machine, wien a smau paaty or Acni Counly Assuciauon memuers were met at the simence miusewh, sumta Acnsingion dy Mr. Lougias Rugnes. Mr. Hugnes expianned now the macume opera.ed and We nad the phoasure of nearing stedman Cinques and Camoriage major, with interest arousea and searcnug lor intormauon, I tound arawings, a uesuripuon and the nistory ot the mainint-and otners- in six " Kunging Worids" starting on March lith, 195u. Witn the technical ot-aus adsuroed, a further visit in Decemoer the same year proved to be more exciung than the nrst and 1 was better able to apprectate the skiled crartsmansimp of John Carter and the prection of the ringing of his macuine.

With my previous experiences well remembered, interest was again quickened at the Cencral Councu meeting in 1965. Mr. Hughes ended his annual report on the machine by giving the opinion that the number of demonstrators should be increased from the ranks of "younger men." Here, I thought, was the chance 1 had been waitung tor and, rather ignoring the "younger men" part of it, volunteered my services. Several months later 1 was delughted to receive an invitation to renew acquaintanceship with the machine in company with other volunteers. We were met at the Museum by the two trustees, Mr D. Hughes and Mr. F. E. Haynes, and were given the opportunity of setting the machine to ring various methods and of studying its nner workings

A perusal of the visitors book revealed the following interesting details: Stedman Cinques was the method mostly used for demonstrations, being twice as popular as London Surprise Major. Other methods used on occasions were Bristol and Cambridge Surprise Major, Double Norwich, Kent, Treble Bob Major, Plain Bob Minor and Major, Stedman Triples and Caters and Grandsire Triples, Caters and Cinques. Only two long lengths are recorded, being a quarter peal of Cambridge Maximus on Seplember 26th, 1959, and a peal of Stedman Cinques, 5,019 changes, conducted by Mr. John Chilcott. This peal was rung on September 7th, 1963, the composition was by John Carter (C.C. Collection No. 15) and the time was 3 hours and 11 minutes.
During 1966 and up to the present time 1 have made eight visits to the Museum to help with demonstrations and with some fresh methods to try on most occasions. The fol lowing methods have been rung on the machine for the first time (I think):

Dec. 3rd, 1966.-Eryri Surprise Majot.
Jan. 4th, 1967.-Bristol Surprise Maximus and Crayford Surprise Major.

March 11th, 1 yol-Lonaon Royal (No. 3) and Aldennam Surprise Maxımus, Duttield Maximus was also rung on thes occasion and is of some interest as it was the method used by John carter when he gave the first demonstration of his macnine to some friends (about 1905).

July 15th, 1967. An unsuccessful attempt to ring three methods spliced was made and touches of Bristol were brought round.

Aug. 19th, 1967.-Touches of Spliced London, Superlative and Ealing were successfully rung.
Sept. 2nd, 1967.-On this occasion a peal of three-spliced was attempted but came to grief after one and a quarter hours and over 2,000 changes. The machine operated faultlessly, but the conductor called a bob a fraction too late and, as is usual, the machine proved to be more reliable than its operator.

Iwo demonstrations of the machine on December 1lth were rather disappointing as a fault had developed which prevented touches from coming home properly. It was agreed with the permission of the "Trustees " to withdraw the machine from the Museum to investigate and correct this fault and to do several other things that required attention. During the period December 20th, 1967, to January 19th, 1968, the work was done and the machine was returned to the Museum in good condition.

During test ringing and at other times to compile a fairly extensive record of the performances of the machine a different method was used each time and the resulting diagzams have been filed. Plain courses and some short touches of 34 Surprise Major methods, four Surprise Royal and five Surprise Maximus methods were rung. Grandsire, Stedman, Plain Bob and Duffield on all numbers were also rung, as also were touches of Double Norwich, three-spliced in three variations and half-lead spliced in six methods.

The following long lengths were also rung:
Dec. 24th. 1967.- 1,260 Stedman Triples in 45 minutes.

Dec. 31st, 1967.-1,728 Spliced Rutland, Cambridge and London in 54 minutes.
Jan. 8th, 1968.-5,184 Spliced Rutland, Superlative and London in 2 hours and 44 minutes. (Composition by Cecil Mayne.)

Jan. 13th, 1968.-5,280 Bristol Surprise Maximus in 3 hours and 54 minutes. (Composition: Traditional 10 courses, conducted by Mrs. S. M. Dobbie.)

OBITUARY

MR. J. H. MARSHALL

With regret we report the death on February 1st, at the age of 86 years, of Mr. John Henry Marsnall, late of East Bridgford, Nots.
Athough never a ringer in the true sense, he was a staunch supporter of his church, its bells and the ringing thereot. It was while he was farming at Cropwell Bishop in 1905 that he old four bells were rehung in a new iron frame, and it was he who gave a new treble bell to make five, in memory of his brother
He then moved to Cropwell Butder, and later to Cotgrave, where he served his church on the P.C.C. and again, when Cotgrave bells were restored, he gave a treble to complete the six
It was here that he made his first contact with ringers and, in particular the late Walter White. He joined the Midland Counties As ociation and was proud of his membership ater he retired and went to live at East Bridgford.

Prior to the funeral service at St. Giles' Cropwell Bishop, the bells were rung half muftled by members of the Bingham District of the Southwell Diocesan Guild.

GUILD of DEVONSHIRE RINGERS

A well-attended annual meeting of the South West Branch of the Guild of Devonshire Ringers was held at Se Mary's, Plympton on February 3rd. Call changes, Grandsire and Stedman Triples and Plain Bob Major were ung during the afternoon.
Choral Evensong, in place of the now tra ditional Guild service, followed-a controversial decision! Many members enjoyed the settings of the Canticles and the appropriate bell anthem, "Rejoice in the Lord Alway" by Purcell and all were pleased that the Ven F. A. J. Matthews, Vicar of St. Mary's and Archdeacon of Plymouth, was assisted in lead ing the service by Fr. Paulinus Angold, of Buckfast Abbey, chairman of the Mid-Devon Branch of the Guild.

After tea the business meeting took place. The repor: of the secretary and treasurer ex plained that the balance in hand was greatly reduced partly because of a subsidy paid on ocial evening. Guild certificates were awarded to Alan Frost, Barry Knight, Cbristopher Luckraft Claire Maxwell-Jones, Diccon Pearce Stephen Peirce and John Steere, all ot the resurrected Stoke Damerel band.
A proposal that a rule of the Branch, limit ing the terms of office of the chairman, sec retary and treasurer and Ringing Master should be removed was declared out of order by the chairman. Consequently the officers elected were: Chairman, D. Roy Bould; vice-chairman, J. P. Sims; secretary and treasurer, Robert A. Southwood; Ringing Master, Miss Sylvia Sims; Deputy Ringing Master (a newlycreated post), John C. Mitchelmore; Press officer, John Steere; auditor, Prof. R. J. Brocklehurst; representatives to the General Committee of the Guild, Barry Knight, George E. Mudge and Miss Patricia Sims

Subject to permission, the spring meeting will be held at Holbeton on April 6th, the autumn meeting at Tamerton Foliot on October 5th, and the next annual meeting at Tavistock or January 25th.

Our thanks are due to the Vicar and parishioners of St. Mary's for their hospitality, and also to the Rev. K. A. Newing, of St Maurice's Church, where members later enjoyed further ringing on the fine eight under he direction of the Branch's first lady Ringing Master.
J. F.S.

BATH AND WELLS ASSOCIATION

A company of over 40 attended the Ilchester Branch practice meeting at Drayton on February 3 rd

Ringing on the pleasant, tuneful eight (tenor 19 cwt .) was under the supervision of Messrs W. E. Turner and Gordon W. Rendell. and included rounds, Grandsire Doubles and Triples, Bob Major and Double Norwich Court Bob Major.

University of Bristol's Dinner Week-End

THIS year's dinner, held on January 27th, marked the 25 th anniversary of the Univer. sity of Bristol Society of Change Ringers.

The week-end began on Friday evening with the now traditional gathering at the Volley, By 9 p.m. the bar was completely full of ringers and by 10.30 p.m. (thanks to a noble plece of curning-in by a Birmingham University visitor) fuller 1
On Dinner Day itself 18 towers were open for ringing. A silent and non-conducted peal of Grandsire Caters was rung for the Society at St. Stephen's, a first for the Society and a magnificent achievement by all. At the special general meeting Mr. P. J. Bird announced his resignation as general secretary. He was thanked for the hard work he had done during the seven years he had held this office. Mr. E. G. Mould was elected unopposed as his successor. Mr. Mould's address is 7, The Paddocks, Thornbury, Glos. Tel. Oldbury 4108).

THE LORD MAYOR

Almost 200 people sat down to dinner at the Senate House. We were very pleased to have as a guest the Lord Mayor of Bristol, Alderman the Rev. F. C. Vyvyan-Jones, better known to Bristol ringers as Rector of St . Michael's. Mr. P. J. Bird opened the speeches by proposing the toast to the City (and County !) of Bristol (a geographer on the committee had forgotten that Bristol was a county). He spoke of the ideal combination of numerous pubs and churches in Bristol, which seemed to attract numerous drinking bellringers. Unfortunately, due to improvements in the city road system, a few of the pubs had been demolished-what would happen to Dinner Week-end if they removed the Volley?

In referring to the anti-Welshness which exists among some Bristolians Mr. Bird stated that this was because the Welsh had first come over as missionaries to educate the Bristolians.

The Lord Mayor, who, as his name implies, is also Wedsh. denied this by referring his argument to an important member of Mr. Bird's family !

The secretary, Miss G. M. Brearley (" a mere training college student "), in proposing the toast io "The Visitors," spoke of the Association of the University Society with St. Matthids' College. Fishponds. She also spoke of the thriving Association of the Northern Universities in ringing and expressed the hope that perhaps a Southern Universities Association might be formed in the not too distant future.

Mr. F. Sharpe (convener of the Towers and Belfries Committee) replied on behalf of the visitors. He remarked that in days gone by young ringers were trained by local bands and more often than not the bands stayed logether, and many ringing traditions were maintained. Now this rareiy happened, especially in smaller villages, but still the ringing experience was not lost as ringers progress to University Societies. University Societies only kept the keenest ringers.
In proposing the toast to the Society, Mr. R. Newton, Master of the Sussex University Guild, spoke of the connections between the two ringing societies. The Sussex University Guild was only formed in 1964 but it was making steady progress and the Master hoped that it would continue to grow as the University grew. In reply to Miss Brearley's suggestion that a Southern Universities Association might be formed, Mr. Newton stated that perhaps the Sussex University Dinner later on this year might be made the inaugural meeting of this new Association. He congratulated the University of Bristol Society on their ringing achievements over the last few years.
In the Master's speech, Mr. M. G. R. Zobel stated that Cupid, the now famous University figure, had been acting from afar this term owing to the fact that he had graduated last summer and no suitable successor had been found! Miss P. Bligh-Cheesman and Mr. C. Collier announced their engagement last term. Mr. Zobel spoke of the quarter peal successes so far this year, with four different conductors. Referring to the drinking habits of ringers he remarked that it was this time last year that the Society was thrown out of a pub for, believe it or not, not drinking enough! Mr Zobel ended by stating that the Society was going from strength to strength and he hoped that this would be maintained.
The remainder of the evening was spent drinking and talking, during which one or two people were seen selling tickets for other University dinners-definitely a good opportunity!
Sunday morning, after ringing, saw a goodly gathering inside and outside the "Verrecchia" on the centre. The pavement was completely blocked by coffee-drinking ringers. Two policemen eyed us from afar but obviously decided that we weren't really causing an obstruction as they did nothing about it !

BELFRY GOSSIP

To casual readers. Have you enjoyed "The Ringing World "? Why not order a personal copy to be sent to you by post? Subscription rates on second page of cover.
With regret we learn that the president of the Norwich Diocesan Association (Mr. F. Nolan Golden) has again entered the West Norwich Hospital. We wish him well.
A farewell quarter peal was rung at Drayton, Oxon, to Mrs. Chappell and her family, who are emigrating to Australia. She is looking forward to ringing at Melbourne.
Ringing in the peal of Grandsire Caters at Beddington was John P. Hull, who celebrated his 13 th birthday last December. A pupil of Mr. W. H. Jackson, of Kingston, John scored a very good frist peal from the second. It he continues in this way he will be a credit to the Surrey Association.

The ringers of the peal at Banwell, Somerset, on February 10th, met one short because of sickness and are very grateful to John Walton, chairman of the Axbridge Branch, who stood in the peal at a moment's notice. Geoffrey Hebden. of Banwell, is to be congratulated for ringing " inside" to Rutland as his first peal of Major and first of Surprise, especially as he had expected to rins the treble, and had ten minutes warning of the change of plan.

In the peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at Gressenhall (see page 109) the conductor was David E. House, who rang a composition by T. B. Worsley.
The action of Mr. Herrick B. Bowley, captain of Leicester Cathedral band, in standing down to allow another ringer to take part in a peal of Lincolnshire Surprise Maximus at the Cathedral on February 10th was much appreciated by the band. "A very fine gesture," writes the conductor.

By ringing the treble to a peal of Cambridge, Andrew Corby "completed the circle" on the new bells at Sevenoaks, which were installod in 1966. He is the first to do so, but only by a short head, as Miss Doris Colgate, the popular secretary of the Ladies' Guild, needs only the tenor.

Mary Pemberton, one of the late George Gilbert's girls. (now married and Mrs. Wells) returned to Burnham on February 10th after nearly 15 years and rang a faultess peal of Double Norwich. Peals in this method had defied her as she had had failures at Highclere (twice), Aldermaston and Blewbury. The band were glad to associate the peal with Reg Rex's 65th birthday, and all spent a happy hour afterwards in the local hostely.

DONATED BY  MEARS & STAINBANE, WHITECHAPEL BELL FOUNDRY, LONDON, E.I

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH, ECKINGTON
John Taylor has received the order to rehang the bells at Holy Trinity Church, Eckington, Worcestershire. These are a ring of six cast in 1721 by Richard Sanders, of Bromsgrove, and are stated to be the only complete ring by this founder left in the country. The tenor is $19 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt., and we think all the bells are sound. They are hung on a massive oak frame standing about six feet high, and this is the original frame.
The bells will be taken to the foundry 10 be tuned and quarter turned, with complete new fittings, and hung on a steel frame because the oak frame is past repair. Bonds of Burford carried out repairs to the bells in 1903. They are always rung for Sunday service.
A donor is paying for the extra cost of the frame for eight bells and is giving two trebles, so these bells will then make a good octave. The population of the parish is only about 850 , and they have to find about $£ 2,000$ to complete the work. The Worcestershire Ringing Association has promised a grant of $£ 50$, but there will still be a great deal of money to be found.

NEWS FROM DURBAN

The quarter peal at St. Mary's, Durban, South Africa, on February 4th, breaks a silence of $12 \frac{1}{2}$ years at this tower. Previous quarters have been rung. on August 20th, 1955, and in 1929. The 1955 quarter was conducted by S. G. Osborne, a visitor from Rugby. The two quarters rung recently in Durban have been a stimulant to ringers in both towers. Mr. D. G. Armitage returns to the U.K. in April, but before then he hopes to ring a peal. The bells in the two Durban towers have never been pealed.

SHINGLED TUWERS

Mr. C. A. Bassett, of Wadhurst, writes with reference to his article on "Shingling" giving the following additional information: "The highest shingled spire in Sussex is at Horsham ( 140 feet) with Rotherfield ( 139 feet) a close second. Wadhurst's is 129 feet and Fletchsecond. 110 feet. 1 am not sure of Billingshurst's; it has the largest spire of all but stands on a rather short tower."
There was a typographical error-the length of rope with the sets of pulley blocks should read 900 feet, not 90 feet.

WURSHIPPING BELLRINGERS

The Rev. F. H. Mountney, Vicar of All Saints', Hertford, has expressed his strong disapproval of the statement of Mr. M. V. Powell in connection with the Hereford recruiting drive that "there is no stipulation of religious belief for would-be bellringers and that whether or not they attend services after calling everybody else is entirely a matter of choice."
Writing to "The Hereford Times," the Vicar states: "For some years now we have had our own band of ringers, all of whom are members of our church and remain after ringing for service. I should not like new volunteer bellringers to be misled by Mr. Powell's words and 1 should be grateful if you would give equal publicity to our rule about worshipping bellringers at All Saints."

INVESTIGATING THE SWING AT mONTACUTE

Mr. W. A. Hughes, of Mears and Stainbank, came to Montacute, Somerset, on February 9th to measure the movement of the tower during ringing. He set up his instrument in the doorway of the bell chamber and for the purpose of his tests he requested that Doubles should be rung with the tenor covering, so that the maximum oscillation could be expected.
One hundred and twenty changes each of Grandsire and Plain Bob were followed sy a plain course of Stedman and then Mr. Hughes joired the ringers to take part in two touches of Plain Bob Minor. The readings obtained were: $\mathrm{N}-\mathrm{S} 1 / 8 \mathrm{th}$ in., E-W 1-16th in. As these readings were taken 56 feet from the ground and approximately two-thirds the way up the tower, the readings at the top could be expected to be at least $3-16 \mathrm{th} \mathrm{in} . \mathrm{N}-\mathrm{S}$ and $3 / 32 \mathrm{in}$. E-W, assuming the tower bends in a parabolic curve.
Compared with readings taken at other towers, Mr. Hughes considered these to be above average and could only be eliminated by rehanging the bells at a lower level and making the heavier bells swing E-W.
During ringing, the flagpole, which is 27 feet long, whips visibly and the weathercock changes direction like an auctioneer looking for bids at a sale. These factors tend to mislead people into thinking that the tower is moving several inches.

OUR COMPETITION

URANGWOT III
I was staying with a ringing friend of mine recently when the telephone rang. .. That is awkward," Frank sard when he came back from answering it, "they want another one for a quarter of Grandsire Triples at Much Clashing tonight, it's our practice night and we'll be a bit short" "Could I help? You know 1 can only manage the tenor bemind, but I wouldn't mind oollging it they'd have me," 1 offered. "A tenor man would do. The rest can all ring 'inside,' so here's how you get there," Frank replied. I noted down the instructions and went along.
When 1 returned Frank had hardly got the door open before he was asking, Well! How did you get on?" ". Very well," 1 said, "we rang quite a good quarter." "Did you, have a whip round for 'The Ringing World,' who was in it and what bells did they ring?",
"They've got you off pretty well," 1 smiled, "for they gave me the letter to post after showing to you as proof that. The Ringing World ' had not been forgotten, but, as 10 the second part, they gave me some information to pass on to you and let you work the rest out for yourself!"
1 then passed on these points. The ringers were Alice, Brenda. Carol, David, Edward, Fred and George and they came from three families only. Brenda belonged to one family, Fred to another and Edward to the third. Fred and George were just boys and the others were Mr, and Mrs. Black, Mr. and Mrs. White and Mrs. Green. Alice rang the treble. David rang the second and Mrs. White the third. Leaving the tenor ringer out of trese considerations. it turned out that no two members of any family were ringing next to each other, and the two men. two boys and three ladies were all separated. It also happened that each of the boys was ringing as far from his mother as the seven bells allowed.
Frank fished out an old envelope from his pocket and asked for the details to be read out again slowly. He was still busy when his wife called out that supper was ready. "Tell you what," said Frank. "that problem might be worth sending up to 'The Ringing World.'"
A prize of 10 s . is offered to the first correct answer opened on March 1st. Address envelope: URANGWOT III. & The Ringing World," c/o Seven Corners Press Ltd., Onslow Street, Guildford. Please do not include Notices in envelope.

GOOD DEEDS WITH HANDBELLS

Scouts of the 2 nd Sandgate Troop, near Folkestone. are entertaining old people with popular tunes on handbells. They intend to make handbell ringing a permanent feature and are to buy a new set costing $£ 100$.

MEMORIAL TO THE LATE FRED SALTER

Friends of the late Fred Salter will know how much of his life he devoted to bellringing, in service to his lower and in Guild offices. He served St. Peter's. Nottingham. for over 40 years, latterly as Master of the ringers.
The St. Peter's Company of Ringers propose to erect a suitable bookcase in St. Peter's ringing chamber to his memory; this will house the ringers' library. Anyone wishing to help towards the cost should send their donations to the undersigned:
David Stainsby, 376, Loughborough Road, West Bridgford, Nottingham.

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Iwo towers were visited by the Northern District on February 3rd-Weston and Graveley. Some fair ringing was achieved on the five bells by those who found their way up to the tower. A variety of methods were rung, including Spliced Doubles.

From Weston a convoy of cars set off for Graveley, the leaders changing at the successive farm tracks and "no through " roads up which they tried to go. With very few losses, however, we reached Graveley, where ringing had just commenced on the pleasant six. Cambridge. London. Norwich and York were achieved before 8.30 , when the bells were lowered in peal.

COMPOSITIONS

Some Musical Surprise Methods

By ROGER BALDWIN

$\mathbf{M}^{\mathrm{R}}$R. S. HUMPHREY in his article entitued lrregular Major Methods," published on December Ist, 1967. discusses the possibility of obtaining musical methods with other than Plain Bob lead-ends. This is more than just a possibility-in fact two months earlier, on October 5th, at Bushey, I conducted the first peal in such a method-Piccadilly Surprise Major, the composition containing 144 combination roll-ups. As many people have expressed interest in this type of method I am now publishing a short selection illustrating what can be acheved musically.

The musical structure of a method and its leadend are intimately bound together and must be carefully matched to produce the best effects. To illustrate the point, consider the following, the tirst two sections of methods M1 and M2. Rung with Plain Bob leadends. this backwork is musically very limited and misses out about half the 78 's, but rung with the (irregular) lead-end 14258367 it is transformed into a delightfully musical method with 6578's when the treble in $3-4$ and peal compositions with 144 combination roll-ups. It is worth noting, by the way, that the changes at the backstroke lead of the treble's dodge in $1-2$ up are then the lead-ends (in reverse order) of a course of Plain Bob starting from 12346578.

Finally: Mr. Humphrey requests a formula relating conjugate pairs with a given coursing order. This is best obtained from the lead-end of the method $\mathbf{A}$, say, given by $A=B R B$, where $B$ is the given coursing order, $B^{3}$ its inverse and $\mathbf{R}$ is one of the cyclic transpositions ( $\mathbf{R}=3456782$. for example).

REDEDICATION

CHECKENDUN, OXFORDSHIRE

$\mathbf{H}^{1}$H on the southern end of the Chilterns, nestling among the beechwoods of southern Oxfordshire, lies Checkendon, an ancient village, which receives mention in the Domesday Book. The Church of SS. Peter and Paul is almost entirely Norman, built of local flints in herringbone pattern by the monks of Bee early in the 12 th century, only the south porch being a later addition. It is considered by some to be one of the finest small Norman churches in the country, with two particuiarly notable round arches to the chancel and sanctuary. The tower has contained a ring of six by Lester and Pack since 1765, the fourth and tenor being recast in 1879. The ring had its last major overbaul in 1914, when an eight-bell iron frame was installed.
It was a proud moment for the locad ringers and the parishioners when the Lord Bishop of Oxford rededicated the bells at the evening service on February 11th. The old six have teen retuned, augmented to eight and rehung on ball bearings in the 1914 iron frame. The Bishop, in his address, took a theme of bells symbolising the joy and peace of the Christian faith, and two "bell" hymns were sung, both of which were known to have been used in the 1914 rededication service. These were "Ring Forth, Holy Bells" (Laudate Dominum) and "The Sacred Bells of England " (Aurelia), introduced by the Rector, the Rev. Norman Williams.

Immediately following the service the first quarter was rung on the eight, 1,260 Grandsire Triples in 46 minutes, by D. Cuppock (first away from tenor) 1, Lucy E. Hearns 2, R. K. Russ 3, D. Wesley 4, W. A. K. Gray S, R. B. Blond (cond.) 6, G. J. Hearns 7, A. Coppuck (first quarter) 8. This was the first quarter on eight for the ringers of 1,2 and 7. It included five members of the local band, and a sixth ringer who learned to ring in the tower. Thanks were expressed to Bob Blond, who came from Blewbury to conduct.
The local ringers, led by Mr. G. J. Hearns, have a lot of spade-work to do to adapt themselves to eight-bell ringing. Practice night is Wednesday, and visitors are always welcome. The old tenor weighed 10 cwt . 2 qr .8 lb in G , but was always considered flat. This has been horne out by the 34 lb . of bell metal removed in retuning it. The bell is now 10 cwt . 1 gr . 2 lb . in G. The foundry work was carried out by Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, the bells being rehung by Frank White, of Appleton, at a cost of nearly $£ 1,000$. All the money has been raised locally, a great credit to this small parish, and perhaps the inscription spread over the two new trebles is particularly apt in this sense. It has been adapted from a prayer attributed to Sir Francis Drake:
Treble.-" 1967 -In endeavouring any great matter it is not the beginning . .
Second. ": but the continuing unto the end which yieldeth the true glory-1967."

ALL SAINTS', TOOTING GRAVENEY

$\mathbf{M}^{\mathrm{R} \text {. JOHN BETJEMAN, the well- }}$ known writer, poet and nonorary member of the Central Council, has writien that the sp.endid Parish Cnurch of Alt Saunts, Cooting Graveney, is "perhaps the tinest church in South London." It owes its existence to the friendsmp of three people. It was designed oy the famous architect Temple Moore, under the direcuon of the first Vicar, who took oifice at the age of 70 , and with funds provided entirely in memory of Lord Charles Brudenell-Bruce by his wife. Alt these three had been litelong friends when this church was consecrated in 1906.
The building is distinguished tor external austerity. Entering the church, the visitor is struck by the majestic effiect of the spacious interior with its forest of greygreen stone columns and its profusion of rich and costly furniture. The fittings are entirely ancient and of the Italian Renarssance. The altar-piece and reredos are from Bologna and the standard candlesticks are florentine. The choir stalls are quite superb and carved in walnut. The magnificent grille around the sanctuary comes from the mountains above Lake Como and may be as ancient as the fifth century.
The fabric itself is based on the style of the 14th century. By dispensing with a structural chancel arch and by dividing the square area of the body of the church with double aisles to north and south of the nave, the architect has combined a sense of stately length characteristic of a great medixval church with the maximum of accommodation for a large congregation.
The lovely seven-bayed arcade runs continuously from the east end of the chancel to the west end of the nave. Behind the High Altar is the Morning Chapel with a medizval French altar-piece. The transepts extend on either hand behind the choir stalls. In the south transept is the fine Harrison organ. Above the north transept the tower rises in three stages.

A frame for eight bells with a tenor of 25 cwt. was installed in 1906, but the other bells were never added. The new light octave, with a tenor of $7 t \mathrm{cwt}$., has been obtained through recasting the bells of the now demolished Church of St. Michael and All Angels, Paddington. The large H -pattern frame has ingeniously been adapted by the bellfounders, John Taylor and Co., who installed the originai fittings in 1906. They have also had to struggle with a clock and various other hazards which have appeared in the tower since 1906. There is even room now for a ring of ten bells !
Thus with the dedication of these bells on Saturday, March 2nd, All Saints' will be completed after 62 years. Further details will be found among the notices.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS, MARKSBURY:

 WELVE months ago the bells of St. Peter's started ringing again at Marksbury after 15 years of silence; and, full of trepidation, we wondered how we would be accepted in the homes of the parishioners. Would our young band stick together through the first few hard months? And, more important, would we be a success?These and many other questions filled our thoughts but we need not have worried. Although we were a little doubtful at first whether our new venture would survive the first stage of enthusiasm, the kind help of many parishioners and the Rev. C. Mason enabled us to overcome the initial difficulties.

A special vote of thanks is due to Robert Perry, who has seldom missed our practice nights and, being a much advanced ringer, has been of considerable help. Mr. Alan Lee, our Branch secretary, and Mr. Peter Devrell have on many occasions visited us, instructing us and helping us on the road to success.
A very successful ringers' outing was organised combined with Dunkerton, and another is in progress for this year; also, at Christmas, a grand Christmas dinner was served to the ringers by Mrs. R. M. Coombs and helpers. The Rector presided over the happy evening.

Now, as we enter our second year, may 1 appeal to all our ringers for their continued support and active co-operation during the next 12 months. Congratulations, Marksbury, on your first anniversary; may you have many more birthdays.

ALAN J. COOMBS.

Twenty-Five Peals at Truro Cathedral

By The Rev. A. S. ROBERTS

WHEN the 25 th peal was rung at Truro Cathedral on Easter Monday, 1966, this might lave been well nigh the 50 th if all attempts had been successful. Without any records one can remember some live peais being lost just before and after the bells were rehung at the end of 1904 and at least anotnex tive through beats running dry in previous years. There is the memory, too, of Mir. Wiltred Wiluams' three losses-one genume fallure and two because of a broken clapperuntul his success atter the Central Council meeting in 1964. There have been many more torgotten failures.

The bells were hung in 1910 and the first peal was one of Grandsire Caters rung on boxing Lay, 1911, dy, as one would expect, a band from Plymoutn, in which the three towers were representeo by thelr leaders, t . W. Marsh (Charies Cnurcn), who conducted, G. H. Myers (St. Andarew's) and J. woodiey ( (mmanuel). It must have been a long day out when one rememoers that traveung was by train and on toot in those days, tor a secunu peal was a،tempted at Kta, out lost, and a quarter peal was rung at Kenwyn. Ine next peal was not untll 15 years later.
Early in 1920 that great pioneer of tours, W. H. Fussell, began arrangements for a tour in Cornwaul in the september of that year. Peal ringing was almost unknown in the county, the tast naving been at 3 . Germaiss 15 years oetore, and $1 t$ was at this tower that his tour was successluily degun. fhe appucation to attempt a peas as me Catnedral was made through the secretary of the Chapter but was turned down "tor the sake of the ciuzens of Truro," out on recelving the news he went off armed with several copies of "The Ringing World" to show one of the Catheoral Canons that sımilar things happened in other places and it was permitted.

THE SPARK

There is no doubt this peal and tour was a spark which set the Truro Guild al.gnt. peal of Kent Treble Bob Royal was rung, conducted by George Wiluams, and the touring party was entertained atterwards to dinner by the Diocesan Guild, at which members of the Cathedral Chapter were present. It was an occasion one never forgets and such a band, of revered memory, is worth recalling: $F$. White (Cranbrook) treble, G. Williams 2, H. Barton 3, W. H. Fussell 4, E. Barnett sen. S, G. Martin 6, G. R. Pye 7, F. S. Bayley 8, S. J. Hector 9, G. W. Cave tenor. All have passed on, but with the party was Edward Jenkins-still very active in the North.
This peall was an inspiration and it seems that the citizens of Truro did not murmur, for the next year, 1927, two peals of Grandsire Triples, out of a total of 13 for the Guild, were sung at the Cathedral. Both were conducted by C. R. Lilley, who was then living in Plymouth. Local ringers took part in both, but in those days help had to be sought from over the border. In 1929 the Rev. E. S. Powell conducted Grandsire Caters, and in 1931 C. R. Lilley the same, this being a sign of great progress by the local band, for it was rung by eight members of that band with the help of the conductor and Thomas $G$. Myers, from Plymouth.
The next year, 1932, the Centraal Council met at Plymouth, and J. S. Goldsmith brought a band to Truro to ring a peal of Stedman Caters. He conducted the peal. Again it is a band that should be named: E. H. Lewis treble, Mrs. G. W. Fletcher 2, J. S. Goldsmith 3, C. T. Coles 4. G. R. Pye 5, R. Richardson ${ }_{6}$, J. H. B. Hesse 7, C. H. Kippin 8, G. W. Fletcher 9, J. T. Dyke tenor. Only two of this band are with us today.

NO BAD PEALS

I think it is true to say that no bad peals have boen rung at Truro, for such ringing comes to an end long before the well over three hours is reached on bells like these, but some have undoubtedly been better than others. Great praise was given to the Cambridge Royal after the Central Council meeting. However, one that will long be remembered by those who heard it was the foregoing conducted by J. S. Goldsmith. It was a day of ringing in and around Truro and 1 remember when on my way to Kenwyn with several visitors, among them J. H. Swintieia (Burtun) and John Austen (Gloucester), how we stopped again and again to listen to the perfect and uncnanging rhythm. It was amongst the tongest peals on the belis-s hours and 4i minutes.
In 1933 E. Maurice Atkins conducted Grandsire Caters and in 1 yos Alan Pink rang the tenor to bob Major, and this same year wilham rye, naving waıted 21 years since nis originat applicaulon, lang the tenor to Caniobriuge Koyal. It was the hrst of surprise on tae ocils. a nis, 1 belleve, was this tast theotil pcal, and that ne rang only one mort-at neavilite the next day. he was then a sticn man and it was ony through the persuasion ot nis witenu, Cnaryes Coles, inat he joineu ure tour. It was allmost uncanny how ne managed the beil tor what, so tar, is the longest tulte tor a peal at lruro-3 nours and 40 minutes. In tne years 1935, 1936 and 1958 there were respec.iveiy Grandsire Laters, Granosire lsipies and Stedman Caters. This last was conaucted by Frank Bennett when on tour.

Post-war peals began in May, 1447, with one of Hob koyal rung by Plymouth and local ringers ana conducted by cyril $t$. Lanxon, who was the nrst Cornishman to conouct a ten-bell ptar. A previous attempt was maue by the sam: band a few weeks belore, on the Easter Monday. Another peal of Koyail (uxford (.B.) was rung the next year, when Alan Pink agann turned in the tenor; he is still the only one to have done so twice. The distinction of the local Alan (Carveth) is that he has turned the bell in and rung it behind.

Between 1948 and 1958 there was only one peal-Grandsure Caters in 1953 for the Coronation and conducted by T. G. Myers. These lean years were due, no doubt, to local inactivity. In 1958 I had the pleasure of conducting a peal of Grandsire Caters, since when to 1966 there have been nine peals, which shows what local enthusiasm can do, tor Alan Carveth in that tume has become the leadnig conductor by calling four of these and taking part in all but one.

TOWER " CIRCLED"

It has been the writer's privilege and pleastue to have taken part in 14 of the 25 peals over a period of 40 years, and to be the only one so far to have "circled the tower." With method ringing in Cornwall moving forward and with enthusiasts like Alan Carveth and Anthony Davidson a!tached to the tower such a small accomplishment over so long a time should soon be surpassed. The following are the methods that have been rung and a list of conductors:
Grandsire Triples 4, Caters 9; Bob Minor 1. Major 1, Royal 2; Stedman Caters 3: Keni Treble Bob Royal 1; Oxford 1; Cambridge 2; Yorkshire 1 .
Conductors: A. Carveth 4, C. R. Lilley 3, A. R. Pink, T. G. Myers and A. S. Roberts 2 each, W. H. Marsh, G. Williams, Rev. E. S. Powell, J. S. Goldsmith. E. M. Atkins, William Pye, F. Bennett, C. E. Lanxon, R. A. Southwood, R. C. Kippin, D. G. Clift and W. Williams one each.

Holy Trinity Church, St. Austell, Cornwall

By J. Fairless

THIS church is one of the most dignified and spacious of Cornish parish churches and, though he present fabric dates mainly from a rebuilding at the end of the 15th century. It still incorporates portions, including some Norman work, of the earlier church that it replaced.

No lover of church architecture should fail to visit the church, given the opportunity Its Perpendicular tower is iudged by many authorities to be the most handsome in Cornwall, while it has a richlycarved Norman font and a wealth of sculptures adorning the exterior of the tower and the buttresses of the south nave aisle.

The earliest church known to have existed on this site was erected before 1169, and the Norman portions of the present fabric show that this 12 th century church comprised at least nave and chancel, with chancel south aisle or chapel.

Holy Trinity Church as it stands today comprises a nave of five bays, with north and south aisles; chancel of three bays, with aisles, the south aisle being known as St. Michael's Chapel; west tower; south porch with upper chamber; and a modern north vestry.

The tower, 94 ft . high, is surmounted by a battlemented parapet with enriched pinnacles at the angles. The upper stage is embellished with gargoyles and carved heads, with diaper work and with ten lines of carved stone showing nine different patterrs. The date of the tower was deduced by Canon Hammond as nearing completion between 1478 and 1485 .

With regard to the bells, the earliest records are dated 1552, and it has been suggested that these old bells were probably stationary and the note was produced by striking the outside of the bell with a ropeoperated hammer

In 1747 a ring of eight bells was cast by Rudhall, of Gloucester, the tenor bell being 15 cwt . These bells were a true ringing set, being mounted on wooden headstocks and hung in bearings to enable them to rotate 370 degrees.

In 1875 the ring was rehung by William Aggatt, a local blacksmith of Chagford. In 1902 the bells were recast and dedicated by the Bishop, the tenor bell being $18 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. For the following 65 years St . Austell Parish Church bells continued to be acclaimed as one of the finest-sounding rings in Cornwall, with its notorious "difficult" tenor offering a challenge to the best of ringers.

Finally in 1967, the brass bearings became so badly worn that, together with the long draught of rope involved, the bells became difficult to ring and major repair work was necessary. This overhaul was carried out by the engineers of Charlestown Foundry, through the generosity of Messrs. English China Clays Limited, who removed the headstocks to the foundry where new trunnions were made and ball-bearings fitted. New bushes and pins were made for the clappers and repairs made to wheels and stays. This unique job was undertaken between Easter and Whit Sunday. 1967. A rededication service was held on Whit Sunday. May 14 th . attended by directors and engineers of English China Clays and Charlestown Foundry, together with the band of ringers and a fine congregation.

By tradition, changes are called in the tower.

DEDICATION

NEWTOWN LINFORD, LEICS.
The picturesque little Church of All Saints, Newtown Linford. nestling on the edge of Bradgate Park, the one-time home of the tragic Lady Jane Grey, and now described as the gateway to the Charnwood Forest, was the scene of the dedication of a new treble bell by the Bishop of Le,cester on February 1lih at Evensong. Over 100 people attended and af:erwards were eniertained to coffee.
During the service rounds were rung by a Newton Linford band, who all started Irom scratch less than ten months ago and are making steady' progress and ringing for service every Sunday, thanks to the perseverance and good natures of Messrs. Ron Hughes, Richard Wilson and Roger Kendrick, also to local towers who welcome us as visitors.
After the service touches, ranging from Grandsire Doubles to Cambridge and London Surprise Minor, were rung by visiting members, and Newtown Linford ringers were able to join the more experienced ringers for Plain Hunt and Bob Minor.
Lady Jane Grey was certainly familiar with All Saints' Church, which is built of local forest stone and roofed with Swithland slate. She was probably baptised there, and she woutd have known the sound of the third bell, inscribed "Tomasat," which, according to tradition was moved there on the dissolution of Ulverscroft Priory in 1593.
The new treble bell was cast by John Taylor and Co., of Loughborough, and is inscribed "In memory of the Smith family " and weighs $2 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cw}$. The second is dated 1903, the third is Tomasai. The fourth was cast by John Taylor, and given by the Earl of Stamford; the fifth was cast by Watts, of Leicester, and is inscribed "Celorum Chrste Platiat Ibe Iste" and the $7 \frac{1}{4}$ cwt. tenor was recast by John Taylor in 1842.
All the bells were rehung on ball bearings when the new treble was added and are now a pleasant light six. and we hope that with everyone's continuing help and kindness we shall have 1 commendable local band to ring them before too iong.

JILL HOWITT.

A SQUARER DEAL FOR LEARNERS

THE EXPERIMENT CATCHES ON By Elizabeth M. Barber

THE response to my December article was most encouraging. I will not pretend that inquiries arrived in countless numbers, but throughout the last fortnight of term they accumulared steadily, and by the beginning of the Christmas vacation had reached the highly respectable total of 15 . Many of these inquiries contained expressions of such sympathy with the objects of the Graded Tests system as to cause me to feel increasingly confident that a scheme constructed along these lines has a very real part to play in the field of ringing teaching; for this sympathetic encouragement I am most grateful.

Here is the list of all those who to date lave shown interest in the "Squarer Deal." In all cases except one, of whose interest I learned at secondhand, representatives of the towers and Associations on this list have been in touch with me.

Ampthill, Bedfordshire.

*Bishop's Waltham, Hampshire.
Brant Broughton, Lincolnshire.

* Scheme believed in operation.
$\dagger$ Scheme in operation
Now for details of the operational schemes, so far as they are known. Radlett's learners are working with the $C$ and $D$ cards and appear to be doing very nicely. Droxford wrote in for ten D cards, while Waltham Abbey, with an extensive recruiting campaign in progress. put in an order for 20 . Kenilworth is using the $C$ and $D$ tests as a basis. as are the learners at Wymondham, who now possess 14 D and 12 C cards between them. The scheme run by the North-West District of the Essex Association is rather ditterent from the foregoing; their tests; based on my $C$ and $D$ cards, resulted from the discussion of the original "Squarer Deal" article and were distributed. by way of a large-scale experiment, at a learners' meeting at Wendens Ambo in October of last year.
Thus the Graded Tests system has steadily been increasing its sphere of influence; but to what precise extent, and with what precise effect? Only a comprehensive survey will provide the answers to these questions: and I intend to make just such a survey, which. if comprehensive enough, will be submutted for inspection by the Central Council's Education Committee in June.
To be of real value, the survey must incorporate details of all Graded Tests schemes currently running, including details of the type of test being used in each case, and results of all serious discussion of the subject at Association/District/Branch level: so between now and the end of May (but an early reply, if it is $a_{i}$ all possible, would be very much appreciated) I shall be delighted to hear from all towers running schemes, from all towers which have attempted to do so but for one reason or another have abandoned the attemps. and from all committees or sub-committees of Associations which have been discussing the use of the scheme. All relevant information will be included in the survey, from which, 1 hope, the following important facts will emerge:-
(i) The total number of towers involved in the scheme.
(ii) The total number of learners involved in the scheme.
(iii) The types of test favoured by instructors using the scheme.
(iv) The scheme's major drawbacks.
(v) Its value as a generator of enthuslasm among learners.
(vi) Its value an as aid to learners' progress. Is the scheme, viewed as a whole, a successful enterprise or an ignominious failure? I hope that the answer will be provided by the survey, and I very much look forward to hearing from all those who have been kind enough to give the "Squarer Deal" their consideration
The address to write to: Miss E. M. Barber, Somerville College. Oxford; or, between March 16th and April 28th: 5, St. Peter's Close, St. Albans, Herts.

LEADING PEAL RINGERS OF 1967

DAVID ROTHERA MISSES CENTURY BY ONE

DAVID E. ROTHERA
Last year's leading peal ringer was David E. Rothera, of Hendon, who just failed to reach 100 after a run of bad luck during the final week, culminating in the loss of a peal of Glasgow at Great Dunmow after three hours' good ringing with 11 leads to go.

David is a native of Birmingham and spent three years at Cambridge, but it was not until he was living in London that he became interested in ringing, mainly through the influence of his brother Philip. He was taught to handle a bell in 1963 by Ruth Foreman at Hendon, and rang his first peal in 1965.
His 1967 total included four peal of Surprise Maximus, three Stedman Cinques, 19 Surprise Royal in seven different methods, 65 Surprise Major, comprising 22 peals of Spliced in up to 14 methods and 43 peals in 17 different single methods, including Glasgow and Belfast (which he rates the most difficult method he has yet rung). He admits that he still finds conducting beyond him, and that he tends to make more mistakes when he tries to follow coursing orders. He was grateful to all those who conducted his peais last year, and particularly to Jonathan Porter.

Following in George Thoday's footsteps, David also works in Local Government, as a solicitor in the Town Clerk's Department of the London Borough of Barnet. His other hobbies include cricket, badminton, squash and tennis.

THE list of leading peal ringers for 1967 is rather shorter, at 205, than that for 1966. Rather surprisingly, nobody has reached three figures, although David Rothera, the leading peal ringer, came as close to the magical figure as one can without acheving it. In addition, the list reveals a much smaller number ringing 70 or more peals.

In spite of the fall in numbers, standards remain very high and, whilst it is not intended to recall any particular peals, we are left with the impression of a year of sound progress, both in the number of people ringing their first peal (572) and by those, many of whom feature in the list, who are pushing the level of achievement still further ahead.

Before listing leading peal ringers we would like to apologise, in advance, for the mistakes which are bound to appear in the list. It is virtually impossible to keep records of this nature without mistakes creeping in; this has been proved by errors brought to light by the peal totals received from various people. To those who sent in their totals we would like to say thank you and trust we have made no transcription errors. We hope that the numbers of errors in respect of those who did not send their totals are minimal.
The leading peal ringers for 1967 are listed below; we feel that David Rothera's total of 99 is particularly worthy of note, inasmuch as his peal ringing career is a mere $3-4$ years old.
Man: David E. Rothera 99 (cond. 1). Lady: Maryl R. Fielden 49 (cond. 1). Handbells: Robert B. Smith 36 (cond. 25). Conductor: C. Barrie Dove $50 \frac{1}{2}$.

May we sum up by saying that the trends noted in last year's report have continued. With few exceptions the ladies have not conducted many peals, nor do they feature very largely in the list of over $25^{\prime}$ 's. At the other end, however, the year's list of first-pealers contains a good number of ladies. It is good to see so many people ringing their first peals, no doubt some of them will be regular members of the over 25 club in future years.

Keeping these records has been a most enjoyable and interesting experience. We extend our best wishes to George Thoday, who is taking over from us for 1968.

BARBARA AND DAVID BURT.

LEADING PEAL RINGERS

MRS. MARYL R. FIELDEN

It was an agreeable surprise to Mrs. Maryl R. Fielden to learn that she was the leading lady peal ringer for 1967, as her total for the year was only 49 , of which she had conducted one.

Born at Preston, Lancs, 22 years ago, Maryl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Crossthwaite. She thus inherited a strong ringing tradition. Her father taught her to ring in 1958, and to date her peal total is 297, a very high annual average

Most of her ringing has been in the front rank and the notable peals in which she has taken part in 1967 are, for quality, a chatlenge to either sex. They are:
$\angle 3$ all the work Surprise Major.
8 all the work Surprise Royal.
10 all the work Surprise Maximus.
33 Surprise Maximus.
Of the eight peals she has conducted during her ringing career, two have been all-ladies peals.

The year 1967 was Maryl's lucky year. On March 27th she was married at Preston to John H. Ficlden and they now live at Yelverton, near Rugby. By profession Maryl is a teacher.

CHURCH CLOCKS

JOHN SMITH & SONS - DERBY

Letters to the Editor

REDUNDANT BELLS

Dear Sir,-Both the Vicar of St. Edmund's, Exeter, and I were surprised to read that St. Edmund's bells were available for rehousing. Whist the bells are redundant, no authority has been given to place them on the rehousing list, and inquiries received by the Central Council secretary should be ignored.
At least one bell at St . Edmund's is cracked and the present position is that the Parish Church of Heavitree, Exeter, will possibly acquire some or all of the bells for augmentation to ten at some future date.

Your list would appear to be incomplete. there being at least two further octaves in the county which are redundant, namely St . Leonard's, Newton Abbot, and Lundy Island. I have not been in contact with the agent of Lundy recently but 1 believe the belis nave now been removed to the mainland.-Yours faithfully,

Exeter, Devon.

INCUMBENTS' RESPUNSIBILITY

Dear Sir,-Having received a most kindly and courteous reception from the Westminster Abbey ringers on a special occasion a couple of years ago. I am indeed sad to see the amount of unkind criticism and vulgar abuse which has found its way into the correspondence on the subject of the ringing arrangements at the Abbey. 1 admire Mr. Pitstow for his calm and reasoned explanation, and heartily endorse the views expressed by Mr. D. J. Beach.

As an incumbent, and therefore ultimately responsible for the ringing arrangements at my own church, 1 should be extremely annoyed if people adopted the attitude of some of your correspondents in trying to tell me and my ringers how we should do our jobs.Yours faithfully,
R. D. ST. JOHN SMITH.

Darley Dale, Derbyshire.

NO RIGHT TO RING IN ANY CHURCH

Dear Sir,-In my opinion Mr. Pitstow's letter regarding the position of the ringing at Westminster Abbey answered all the questions that had been asked on this subject.
I am amazed that people are still writing to complain (and some of the letters do not seem much to the point).

Surely one has no ripht to ring in any church. One is usually invited to ring as a visitor, or else one asks for permission to ring. If sometimes the answer is "No," can the ringers not accept this?-Yours faithfully,

CAMILLA WAY'.
St. Margaret's, Westminster.

FIRST OF SURPRISE AT BASINGSTOKE

Dear Sir,-Regarding Canon Felstead's ketter on points from 1967 peals, it was stated that the peal of Cambridge Surprise Major in December, 1967, was not the first of Surprise on the bells a: All Saints'. Basingstoke.
The peal of Basing Surprise Major rung in 1966 was false. A letter appeared in "The Ringing World : stating this fact. It was also withdrawn from the Winchester and Portsmouth Diocesan Guild's report. I can only assume that Canon Felstead failed to see the note in "The Ringing World." So the first peal of Surprise at All Saints', Basingstoke, was the peal of Cambridge rung in December, 1967.-Yours sincerely.

HOWARD E. J. SMITH.

THE ACCRINGTON PEAL

Dear Sir,-In reply to the letters of Messrs. Pipe and Border, I would like to point out the facts relating to the peal at Accrington.

It was never intended that our peal shoula be claimed as a record. Athough not wishing tor nationwide publictity, we decided that notice should be given of the attempt in .. The Ringing World" of December 30th, but unfortunately publication was delayed until January Sth. In order to give opportunity for ringers to witness the attempt, the oelfry door was left open, despite the church being situated in the shopping centre of the town.
If Mr. Ainsworth had mentioned in his report of the Edgbaston peal that the only reason for not ringing 12,096 was that his band considered the use of half-lead singles unethical, then we should not have rung the peal at Accrington. The fact that the peal was rung on the St Martin's Guild annual meeting day was purely coincidental and not designed to prevent them from coming to listen to it.
The opinion expressed by Mr. Woodrulle in his letter of the samc issue, when he states that " a spirit of competition in record peal ringing is not a bad thing for the Exercise," sums up the attitude of the band which rang the peal at Accrington, and 1 for ous will have no hesitation in using "dubious singles" for further record peal attempts. -. Yours faithfully,

RICHARD J. PARKER.
Edgbaston, Birmingham.

RECORD PEALS

Dear Sir,-Reading the letters by Messts. R. W. Pipe and P. Border ("Ringing World," February 9 th ) on Glasgow Surprise Major record lengths. I am absolutely disgusted by the attitude they have taken. Surely this grievous nature should not exist between ringers, especially those who many ringers regard with great respect.
Why all the fuss regarding "so-called" record lengths? I would suggest these are purely for personal glorification and not to the glory of God.
If so-called record lengths must be performed for the glorification of the participants, I would suggest they take place at such towers where a ring of bells exists of sufficient number which are not in the House of God, or, alternatively, on handbells.-Yours sincerely,

HAROLD W. H. LEATHER.
Monk Soham, Woodbridge, Suffolk.

TRIPLES COLLECTION

Dear Sir,-The Triples Collection dated 1935 went out of print in 1948 ; since then the Central Council has done nothing for Triples ringers. The publication "Spliced Triples" was presented by me to the hon. librarian but this is of little use to those who do not know the methods. I have sent to Mr. GarnerHayward a supply of leaflets which he has kindly promised to enclose with future orders. A similar position arises with my "Blue Line F.C.H." Readers who require either or both of the supplements only can apply to me direct. (See advertisement.)-Yours sincerely,

JOHN SEGAR.

TOWER GRABBERS PLEASE NOTE

Dear Sir,-I have noticed that so far no one has offered to compile a list of "Tower Grabbers " this year in "The Ringing World." If this is due to a lack of voiuntecrs to compile the list I would be willing to take on this job.
If you could request all tower grabbers with iotals of over 100 rung in 1967 to send their totals to me, I will undertake to make a list. I suggest that three weeks from the date of publishing would be a suitable dead-line.-Yours sincerely,

RUBIN J. COLLIS.

SPLICED SURPRISE MINOR

Dear Sir,-1 refer to the peal of 70 Spliced Surprise Minor rung at South Mymms on Nuvenber 22nd, 1967.
I am sure 1 am not the only six-bell ringer interested in the fifth extent and would ask Mr. Bailey it he would publish this.-IYours fuithfully,

HOWARD W. EGGLESTONE.
Claydun, Ipswich.

IDEAS WANTED FOR COMPETITION

Dear Sir,-In 1895 the Cumberland Association was presented with a shield by the late Canon H. D. Rawnsley, and except for the first world war years was competed for each year until 1939. The present Cumberland and North Westmorland Association would like to have the shield in circulation again.

The old competition was for change ringing and the rules were not very catisfactory and would not be of any use today as so very few towers would be able to compete would. therefore, very much like to pick the brains of any of your readers who are interested or who have had experience in successful competition ringing, be it in striking, Sunday service or any other method.Yours sincerely.

OBITUARY

MR. FRED ATTON

Althoug.t he had not been in good health since last spring, the death on February 5th of Mr. Fred Atton, of Braunston, Rutland, at the age of 68 , was a great shock to his many friends
Born at Braunston, he served faithfully for many years as a member of the P.C.C., bellringer, steeplekeeper, clockwinder and as a tireless worker in the large churchyard. He was ever ready to roll up his sleeves and work for any good cause. A staunch member of the British Legion and Civil Defence Corps, secretary of the Village Hall for many years and umpire for the local cricket club were among his voluntary services.
His most cherished wish was the augmentation of the present four bells at All Saints' Braunston to six. He knew that the bells had been cast but was unable to share in the jov expected this summer of "the two new "uns." He was laid to rest on February 10th in the shadow of the tower be loved. We thank God for his life's work and remember with gratitude the frienoship we had had the good fortune to share with him.

LETIERS-Continued

MINOR METHODS

Dear Sir,-Recently you were kind enough to publish an appeal for details of early peals of Minor for me. I would like to thank again the several people who replied and in some cases enabled me to amend my records of first performances. As I expected, there is clearly quite a lot of information that never appeared in the ringing Press at the end of the last century and beginning of this: some I now have but I would still fike to see a complete list of the peals of Minor rung at Sunderland between 1907 and 1912. Can anyone belp?
I now have, from various sources, the names of several methods that have been rung in peals but whose notations 1 have so far been unable to trace. May I ask anyone who knows any of the nutations or who can suggesi where I might be able to obtain them, to get in louch with me, either direct or through the columns of "The Ringing World "? The methods are as follows:
Anston, Baden-Powell, Kitchener, French's and Buller's Surprise, all included in a peal at Anston, Sheffield, on December 10th, 1907: the first three were included in another peal at Anston on December 31st, 1911, but were then described as "Treble Bob."
Brown Edge Surprise (Norton, Staffs, September 29th, 1923)-almost certainly a Douhle Surprise method, and hence either false or the same as one of the five Double Surprise methods in the Minor Collection.
Buckley's Surprise (Glossop, Derbyshire, December 18th, 1863).
Coronation Exercise (Grappenhall, Cheshire, November 19th, 1895).
Echoes of Airedale (Gargrave, Yorkshire, November 29th, 1879; it was also included in 1,872 Minor at Bingley on May 29th, 1872).
Heston Bob (Heston, Middlesex, December 31st, 1900).
Horsham New Bob (Walton-on-the-Hill, Lancashire. August 25th, 1902).
Tong Delight (Tong, Yorkshire, February 17 th . 1883 ; included in 2,520 Minor by the Tong band at Shipley, Yorkshire, on May 12th, 1880)
Stansted Court (Stansted, Essex, December 30th, 1899-this may be the same as Stansted Double Bob, but I would like to have this confirmed).
Warnham Court (Warnham, Sussex, December 25 th, 1886. and several other peals in various parts of the country in the following years).
At the end of his Index of Minor Methods. published in "The Ringing World," Harold Chant asked for the details of some methods. Mr. C. K. Lewis has now managed to trace four of these and their notations may he of general interest.

THOUGHT PROVOKING

DRDP THE SEX TITLES

By E. DORICE KELLY

Mr. Ian V J Smith's letter in * The Ringing World " (Febiuary 2nd) is very courageous, very honest and very wise. It is also a great compliment for a man to tell the ladies that their Guid is no songer necessary.

I think the biggest trouble is that those in office, having been handed the torch, teel they must keep it going at all cost. For those of us who have seen the wheel turn full circle there can be no doubt in our hearts that the Ladies' Cuild has accomplished what it set out to do and that women are now as free as men to come and go in the belfry as they please. This has not bcen accomplished by demanding our rights but by sheer hard work. (I did 21 years as secretary to a large and cumbersume district, where every meeting meant a lonely (my husband does not ring) and arduous journey. inctuding strange towns in the blackout.

However, during this period it has been gratifying to feel the antagonism change to acceptance. and, believe me, the antagonisni was very real, even among the clergy have attended Association meetings and tea and then the ladies have been "pecled off" by the Vicar and sent home. Also 1 have taught a little band of ringers from scratch. fixing stays and silencers, and as soon as the ringers reached a reasonable standard my services were calmly dispensed with by the Vicar.

During all this time there had been throughout the country some progressive and forward looking gentlemen who have held out a helping hand to the ladies, for which they will be for ever grateful.
There were two occasions in the later years that made me feel we had at last "arrived" and that it had all been worth while. One was when 1 was asked to arrange an all-ladies band to ring the bells at York Minster for the service of rededication of the Seven Sisters Window (after the war); the other was after taking part in a Ladies' Guild peat and tinding a gathering of gentlemen outside to congratulate us.
The fading away of Districts in the Ladies' Guld (because the incentive is now gone) should be a clear warning, and during this process, if there is a frequent change of officers, valuable literature or documents appertaining to the Districts can easily become mislaid and lost for ever.

It has always been my opinion that too many Societies weaken the ringing fraternity (excepting the University Guild, which meets the needs of a "floating crowd "), and the Ladies' Guild would do well to study Mr. Smith's letter and many other points and then discuss the advisability of continuing the Guild. Any special effort by ladies can easily be contained in the ordinary Societies. Where there is high density of population, and therefore more ladies, the temptation to keep up the Ladies' Guild for its own sake might be great, but in the interests of women as a whole the last great step of all would be to drop the sex title of Jady ringers and let us just be ringers.

DEVON LADIES HAVE THREE-TOWER MEETING

The annual meeting of the Devon Branch of the Ladies' Guild, held at Dartmouth on February 10th, was well attended and, as usual, very well supported by the gentlemen. The six bells at St. Petrox' were made full use of before the ringers moved up to hill to St . Clement's (another good six).
The service was conducted here by the Vicar (the Rev. H. R. Philips) with Mr. S. Scardifield as organist The weather was dry but bitterly cold so a well set out tea at South Ford Schoolrooms down in the town was much appreciated.

After tea the men left 10 ring at St . Saviours (8) while the ladies held their meeting presided over by Mrs. H. Boobier. A new secretary. Mrs. Jill Southwood, of Plympton St. Mary, succeeds Mrs. P. Burnham, who is retiring after an agreed term of three years. Mrs. Southwood is the wife of the secretary of the South West Branch of the Devon Guild. so perhaps fewer main meetings in this district will now clash. The ladies then joined the men at St. Saviour's and the successful afternoon taking in the three Dartmouth towers ended at 8 p.m.

Next meeting: May 18 th, Sidbury or Littleham.

Spliced Plain Major Composition

By CYRIL A. WRATTEN

ARECENT letter from Mike Hunt, of Wood Green ("R.W." Dec 22nd. 1967), has drawn attention to the various peals of Spliced Plain that have been rung, mainly on handbells. during the past two years These have been the work principally of two bands -the University team at Birmingham led by Richard Parker, and our own in Cheltenhamand follow after several years of neglect of this ype of composition. A similar situation existed during the 1950s, with Daniel Matkin's prolific band at Bournemouth ringing a similar type of peal to those being rung today, and the Lincolnshire band under Jack Bray, while initially in the same class as the rest, ultimately ringing much more advanced and complicated compositions. One of the greatest disappointments of recent years was the discovery, some ten years after they were rung that all the peals by the latter band in more than 26 methods (they reached 50 methods at one point) wire false.

In view of the apparent lack of any publisher' articles in the past on this class of peal, it is hoped that the following notes on some of the more elementary aspects of Spliced Plain Major composition may be of interest

The basis of these compositions is. naturally enough, Plain Bob. Since each has the same rows in a plain course as Plain Bob. Double and Reverse Rob are two obvious extras Now look at the following methods.

| 12345678 | 12345678 | 12345678 |
| :---: | :---: | :---: |
| 21436587 | 21436587 | 21436587 |

| 46281735 | 46281735 |  |
| 64827153 | 64827153 | : |
| 68472513 |  |  |
| 86745231 |  |  |
| 87654321 |  |  |
| 78563412 |  |  |
| 75836142 | 68472135 |  |
| 57381624 | 86741253 |  |
| 53718264 | 87614523 | 46213857 |
| 35172846 | 78165432 | 64128375 |
| 31527486 | 71856342 | 61482735 |
| 13254768 | 17583624 | 16847253 |
| 2nds Plaida Bob | 2nds Gainsborough 8ths Wellington | 2nds Little Bob 8 ths Crayford L |

Every row in a course of any of the last four is present in the corresponding course of Plain Bob-each method simply leaves out alt the rows with the treble in 7-8 (Gainsborough and Wellington) or in 5-6-7-8 (Little Bob and Crayford) and has what remains of the Plain Bob half-leads in a fresh order.

It follows from this that, provided only that no half-lead is repeated, any zombination of these methods to form a course will be true Every row within such a course occurs in the corresponding course of Plain Bob; some of the Plain Bob rows may be missing. but no extra rows have been added. This in turn means that any Plain Bob composition may be used as the basis of the Spliced peal.

We in Cheltenham have used the following 5,040 by N. J. Pitstow:

Repeat twice.
Doubled with Singles, this allows for the wastage of rows that results from the inclusion of the Little methods. (In this form it appears as the first peal of Little Bob in the C.C.'s "Collection of Compositions in the popular Major methods")

The simplest spliced courses are PPGPP and PLP, the former first appearing in the "R.W." for October 31st, 1919. For handbell peals in particular these have the advantage of keeping 7.8 coursing throughout. By omitting two sels of sH in each of the six parts of the above composition and calling all courses PPGPP a 2,016 is obtamed, this was rung talmost certainly not for the first time) "in hand" at Cheltenham on June 29th, 1966.

If PLP is substituted for PPGPP in all courses with bobs H only and the full calling is used, we get a 5,112 . Snurlunea to 3,4, - Dy omitting a block of 3 H in one part, this was rung at Kingham, Oxon, on November 26 th , 1966, and "in hand" at Cheltenham on November 28th, 1967. A similar ariangement, with courses called PPGPP and PLP alternately, was rung "in hand" at Nettleham. Lines, on May 3rd. 1966.
Anothe course which keeps the tenors coursing throughout and adds Double Bob to the methods is LPDPL; if this is called in pace of the PLH courses in the 5.11- wouve. and 3 H is omitted in every part, we have another 5,112 (rung at Cheltinham on ius 20th, 1966). Reverse Bob can now be added by substituting LPDRL for LPDPL throughout.
There are several more courses that will keep the tenors coursing. PPWDP ( $\mathrm{W}=\mathrm{Wel}$ lington) makes a useful substitute for PPGPP and adds yet another method Both courses have the musical (and practical) advantage of having 7-8 dodge together at the back whenever the treble turns round in the Little method -a feature shared by PLP, and by RCrD ( Cr = Crayford Little Court). The latter calling is, however, suitable only for courses with bobs at Home, and CrDP is often more useful.
It is now a fairly simple matter to dispose these various courses against the basic calling to obtain a 5.000 in seven methods. There is, however, a far simpler way of getting six methods in, the "odd man out" being Crayford L.C. This is to call every course WRDGLP. George Feirn has arranged a 9.140 on this plan by using Pitstow's block above for the first three parts, calling a single in place of the last Bob, and calling the final three parts thus:

\begin{array}{r}
32456 \text { W M H } \\
\hline \begin{array}{l}
36425 \\
34265 \\
32645
\end{array} \text { — }_{2}^{2}
\end{array}

Repeat twice. calling single for final bob.
All courses are then called WRDGLP. This was rung "in hand" at Nettleham, Lincs, on May 10th. 1966.
Having now got our seven basic methods into the composition, how can this number be increased? The easiest way is to add those methods which substitute a pair of Kent places for one of the half-lead dodges of Double and Reverse Bob, Little Bob and Crayford L.C. i.e., Fulbeck ( F ) and Cleatham ( Cl ) (Double and Reverse Bob with places in $3-4$ at the half-lead), Hackington (H) and Canterbury (Ca) (the same but with the places in $5-6$ ), and Lansdowne (La) and Cambray ( Cm ) (Little and Crayford with half-lead places in $5-6$ ).
If these methods are inserted in such a way that. while one of the tenors is dodging "normaliy." the other is involved in the nlacerraking, no falseness can occur against our original courses. This is because the tenors will break their rigid coursing position for the two rows which differentiate the new methods from their "parents", and these rows cannor therefore repeat in any course which has the tenors coursing throughout.

One such course is PFPCID which, together with PHPCaD, was used, as far as 1 am aware. for the first time in the 29 -method composition by Derek Ogden that was rung at Heptonstall, Yorks, on October 29th, 1960. Other courses are CmDP and LaPDPL or LaPDRL A certain amount of caution is required when using the first two, since Fulbeck and Cleatham leads in the in-course half of a composition can go false against Hackington and Canterbury in the out-of-course half, and vice-versa.

Vanious arrangements of these courses to produce peals in from 5 to 13 methods were rung "in hand" at Cheltenham during the latter part of 1966 and early 1967
The next stage is the introduction of St. Clement's ( S )/Crayford College ( Co ) and their numerous variations. Again falseness can be avoided ny parting the tenors while these methods are rung, with one bell working in $1-2$ while the other hunts at the back. If PLLPLSL is rung in place of WRDGLP in George Feirn's arrangement above the .omposition again runs to 5.040 change and was rung in this form "in hand" at Burton-onStather. Lincs, on November 6th. 1959
In our case it was, however, safer to let the ringer of $7-8$ keep his bells together on the front, and falseness became a problem A lead of St. Clement's with $7-8$ dodging towett in $1-2$ is false against four different half-leads of Plain Bob-two with the treble in 5-6 and two with nt in 7-8. There are two ways of avoiding this falseness. One is simply to arrange the methods in the "false" course in such a way tha, the false half-lead is not present. The other, and rather more subtle. way is to ring the lalse half-lead in a Little methnत so that the treble turns back before the false rows are reached:

| St. Clement's | Plain Bob | Little Bob |

The following arrangement in 15 methods, in which the false half-leads have simply been omitted, will perhaps serve to illustrate some of the above points. Notice the use of single leads of Double Bob to replace two leads of Plain Bob in the 5th. 6th. 12th an sth courses; this is done to bring the length of the peal down to 5,040 cbanges without omitting an 3 H sets.

Repeat five times, calling Single for first Bob $H$ in parts 1 and 4.
Rung at Cheltenham on March 8th, 1967, "in hand".

MIDDLESEX COUNTY ASSOCIATION  New Officers for South and West District

For the first time tor many years Hounslow bells were open prior to the annual District meeting on January 274h. They have been out of actuon for several years and it was pleasing to tind that they were going reasonably well. Kinging also took place at Heston, and an excelient tea and the meeting followed in Heston Vicarage.
A review of the District's activities showed 1967 to be a year of steady progress. There was a great increase in peal ringing, due largely to the ettorts of Frank Biagrove, and an encouraging increase in quarter peals and in resident membership, with 25 new ringing members being elected. No less than 23 meetings had been held, mainly on weekday evenings. Bi-monthly Surprise Royal practices at Hillingdon had been introduced to alternate with Surprise Major practices, and the value of the monthly evening practices, for which towers are visited on their practice nights, was again proved. It was decided to continue on the same basis in 1968, and to hold Saturday meetings on May 25th and September 7 th, with the next annual meeting at Staines on January 25th, 1969. The annual joint meeting at Hillingdon will be on October 26th.
The accounts showed that the ever hungry "Pink Pig" had collected £21 for the Bell Restoration Fund-a very satisfactory sum.
The election of officers brought a number of changes. In particular, Derek Fowles, who on his recent marriage left the District, regretfully resigned from the post of chairman, and was thanked for his services over the past seven years. His place was taken by John Hill. who was pleased to hand over the Mastership to Frank Blagrove, no stranger to the post. The new officers are: Chairman, J. Hill; Master, F. T. Blagrove; Deputy Master, R. K. Russ ; secretary, Mr. J. Palmer (address: 26, Widmore Road, Hillingdon); assistant secretary, Miss A. Horsford; auditor, N. F. Edwards.
Six new ringing members were elected, viz.: K. Capper, R. Jephcoat and Miss J. Jeskins (all of Ruislip), C. Venn (Hillingdon), Miss M. Chambers (Chelsea) and D. C. Brown (Langley, Bucks).
A lengthy discussion followed on the ways of helping the many learners in the District. Various views and reminiscences were heard, and it was thought to be fairly true that the people who make best progress are those who visit other towers and attend meetings frequently. However, learners need encouragement to do this, and to help them more experienced ringers should make efforts to visit the struggling bands of the District as often as possible.
The meeting closed with the usual votes of thanks, with particular reference to Robin Collis for his excellent work in repairing Hounslow bells, and further ringing followed at Heston.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION Rochester District

A quarterly meeting of the Rochester District was held at St. Mary's, Chatham, on January 20th, at which the Rev. Stanley Evans acted as chairman. Eleven new members were elected including one non-resident life member. Mr. Trevor Cross, one of the District representatives on the General Committee, gave his report on the committee meeting held in November, 1967. From his report members deduced that an increase in subscriptions was imminent. The possibility of electing a District chairman was also considered but was deferred until a future meeting.
It was agreed to postpone the annual striking contest in view of the fact that a large number of ringers would be out of the area on the originally arranged date (April 27th). L. M.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD North Dorset Branch

Unfortunately on the day fixed for the 1967 annual general meeting, December 9th, snow and icy roads in parts of the District made it unwise or impossible to travel to Gillingham, and the business meeting was postponed with much regret. Some 14 members did brave the elements and were rewarded by some good ringing and a sumptuous tea prepared for 50 . Thanks and apologies were expressed to the local ringers (correspondent Mr. A. R. Rose) and caterers, led by Mrs. Braddick, for all the trouble they had taken.
It was decided to carry over the business of the annual general meeting to the next quarterly meeting, and this is to be held at Shillingstone on March 9th. It is hoped that there will be a good attendance to make up for the disappointment felt in December.
A joint meeting with the Wimborne Branch on April 20th is also planned. Details of this will appear in a Notices column.

Marlborough Branch

The farrly heavy five at St. George's, Ogbourne, attracted a good attendance at the meeting of the Marlborough Branch on February 17th and visttors from Chippenham and Salisbury were welcomed. The Vicar (the Rev. H W. Dunne) conducted the Guild service and Mr. A. Keen, of Aldbourne, was organist. The village ladies provided an excellent tea.
In accordance with suggestions, the new secretary (Miss H. Jones) submitted a schedule of monthly meetings for the rest of the year and these were unanimously adopted. Copies will be supplied to tower correspondents, and advertised Mr. G. Newman, who presided, proposed the vote of thanks, and ringing was resumed until 7.30 p.m.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Biggleswade District

Youth to the fore-that was the scene at Sandy on February 10th for the Biggleswade District meeting. Many young ringers came and rang whatever the Ringing Masters offered, from rounds to Plain Bob and Grandsire: with the help of some more experienced ringers. It seemed appropriate that we should have tea in the Youth Club, and amidst table tennis and the latest pop records the ultramodern surroundings seemed to make the traditional meal a much more lighthearted affair. Even the usually boring business meeting went with a swing! !
Yes indeed, the future looks bright for us, but let us hope we have enough to offer them to maintain their interest, and we hope to see them all again on March 9th at Clifton. L. E

PETERBOROUGH DIOCESAN GUILD

Northampton Branch

A full programme for 1968 was announced at the annual general meeting of the Northampton Branth at Northampton on January 27th.
Ringing commenced at 2 p.m. at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre (8) followed by the Guild form of service and service ringing at St Giles' Church (10). Tea was served to members and friends in St. Giles' Church Rooms and the meeting followed.
The president, the Rev. C. J. W. Faulkner, was reappointed, and the offices of secretary) treasurer, Master, auditor and Branch committee were also filled. New appointments included a social organiser (Mr. G. F. Roome) two Branch instructors (Mr. G. F. Roome and Mr. R. A. Eldridge) and a Press correspondent (Miss Williams). The new social organiser hopes to arrange a Branch outing.
Many items were discussed, including the holding of joint practices, which, with experienced ringers on hand, should improve the standard of ringers amongst young ringers. At a meeting of tower captains last November it was decided that a quarterly news letter could be issued to towers, and the first issue was published in December. This had met with considerable response and the convener of this meeting, Mr. George F. Roome, was thanked for all the hard work he had put in.
The usual votes of thanks were given for the flawless arrangements and all in all the meeting was most successful.
Ringing, was resumed until 8.30 p.m. at All Saints' Church.

THE YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION

Southem District

Over 40 members took advantage of a clear, dry afternoon and evening to visit at least one, if not more, of the three towers open for the District's meeting on February 17th. Ringing took place at Barnby Dun ( 6 )-the first time the District had been there for a number of years-Arksey (8) and Campsall (8). Tea was taken at Arksey. The main item was the annual general meeting in May, when four elections will be held-those of the secretary (not seeking re-election), a General Committee member and two of the District's Committee. The Wakefield Cathedral Sunday service team were congratulated on their recent 12 -bell quarter peal-a notable achievement. M.K.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The band who rang the peal of Rutland Surprise at Banwell would like to thank John Walton for ringing at such short notice.
Sunday, February 18th, broadcast after listening to Evercreech bells: "You have been listening to the bells of St. Peter's, Evercreech, ringing Grandsire Triplets." We hope all the children are doing well!
In the Central Council minutes on page 124, a representatve member attended from South Derbyshire and North Leicester Association, and not South Derbyshire and North Notts Association

With an average age of 18 , a quarter peal of Minor was rung at St. George's, Dublin, on January 27th, which is claimed to be by the youngest ever band in Ireland. For two of the band, Miss G. Winnetk and the conductor, P. W. Brown, it was a 21 st birthday compliment.

At Blofield, Norfolk, call changes were recently rung half-muffled in memory of Miss B. Moss. organist at the church for approximately 30 years. The ringers were Mrs. B. Brindley 1. Miss L. Bates 2, K. L. Brown 3, Miss H. Grass 4, C. Tooke' 5, H. Ford (conductor) 6.

The University Societies of Durham and Newcastle rang a peal of Yorkshire Surprise at Brancepeth on February 17th to mourn the ending of G.M.T.
The handbell peal at Audlem has enabled F. R. Morton and his two companions to complete 100 peals together as a trio. Their average age is 22 years.
The Hereford County Council, who were proposing to give a grant of $£ 20,000$ to help meet the cost of repairs to Hereford Cathedral tower, have been recommended by the County Finance Committee to set aside only $£ 3,000$ this year for the purpose.
Duplicates. - The peal at Church Wanborough, page 109, is repeated on page 129. The peal of Cambridge Surprise Royal at Ash-ton-under-Lyne on page 107 is an incorrect duplication of the peal published the previous week.
There is plenty of scope for education in the art of ringing by the Oxford University Society. The Balliol College "brains" who appeared in the University Quiz recently were dumbfounded when asked what were the words Stedman, Grandsire and Plain Bob.

GENEROUS GIFT FOR IRTHLING. BUROUGH BELLS

A very welcome surprise at Irthlingborough During 1965 Mr . J. Fidler, of Loughborough. came, by request. to St Peter's to make an estimate of the work necessary to put the ring of eight bells in order They were last rehung with two new trebles to make eight in 1893 with two new trebles to mak by Messrs. J. Taylor and

Just before the estumate arrived it was found necessary to raise $£ 1.500$ for repairs to the roof of the church. This was followed by an appeal for $£ 850$ for the complete overhaul of the church organ. Thus hopes for the bells were completely dashed.
Through the unexpected thought and generosity of a sidesman and older members of the belfry, the fittings-all excepr the bells themselves- have been removed to John Taylor and Co for restoration, rehanging on ball bearings, etc.
Mr. Ernest Shelton, of Irthlingborough, is being responsible for the whole cost of the work- $£ 777$. The work is expected to be completed in four months' time.
Many thanks to Ernest.

NEWS OF YETMINSTER BELLS

Five of the six bells at St. Andrew's, Yetminster, near Sherborne, Dorset, were taken to Loughborough last summer to undergo ertensive restoration. When the bells were lowered it was found to everyone's dismay that the tenor was cracked. There was much discussion among members of the tower, the P.C.C and the parish in general as to the best way of dealing with this contingency, and at last the order has been given for the bell to be recast.
Besides being used for striking the hour, these bells are also used for the automatic chiming of a verse of the National Anthem every three hours. This loyal greeting has been sadly missed during the past six months and parishioners look forward to hearing it regularly once more, and the local ringers are eagerly anticipating a really good ring of six.

SHEFFIELD UNIVERSITY GUILD

A strong ringing programme was arranged for February 10th, the day of the Guild's annual dinner. In the morning peals were rung at Ashover and Handsworth but the afternoon peal ringing was tess successful. Other towers open were Killamarsh, Eckington, Norton and Dore in the morning, and Walkley, Ranmoor and St. Marie's in the afternoon.
The Roslyn Court Hotel was the seat of the evening's entertainment and more than double the numbers who attended the previous two dinners took their places at 8 p.m.
The Guild were very pleased to have with them once again their president, Mr. Paul Taylor, and to welcome for the first time Canon Collins. of St. Marie's (R.C.), the University tower. The toast of "The Guild" was proposed by Mr. R. Farnsworth, and the Master (Miss Patricia Rogers) replied. "The Visitors" was proposed by the Deputy Master (Mir. J. F. S. Eborall), and the Master of Birmingham (Mr. J. R. White) replied on their behalf.
The formal proceedings concluded, the floor was cleared for those wishing to dance and the bar made more accessible for those less energetic.
Many thanks go to all those who met us at the towers, and to the incumbents. C.A.P.
"TEN YEARS AFTER"
Regarding a complaint mentioned in our issue of October 27th last, we agan state that the character "Uld Bill", in the story "Ten Years After," puolished in our issue of September 22nd last, was in no sense associated with Mr W. T. Froggatt. of Birmingham, or with any living person. and that it Mr. Frog. gatt has thought it referred to him we can assure hm that this was not so We are certainly sorry if the article has caused Mr. Froggatt any distress.

ST. CUTHBERT'S, DARLINGTON

At the annual dinner of the ringers of St Cuthbert's. Darlington, Co. Durham, on February 10th. the captain. Mr Thomas Cooke welcomed among the guests a former Vicar of St. Cuthbert's the Rt Rev G. Holderness. Bishop of Burnley, and Mrs. Holderness. O:he: guests were the present Vicar. Canon P. N Wansey, and Mrs. Wansey and Lady Starmer

APPRECIATIUN FRUM PEACE CAPITAI

St. James', Turramurra, N.S.W (a six-bell tower), where Margaret Goodyer and her two sons ring, had 27 people at a recent practice. A recording of the bells was sent by a local resident 10 his daughter in Geneva A letter of thanks has been received from Geneva, which reads: "As you pull away wondering whether the surrounding parishioners are cursing or blessing you for disturbing the peace, you may just remember that there are many people to whom your bells are dear and that they ure now resounding in Geneva, the peace capital of the world."

EXIENSIUN BY COMPUTER

We hope to publish shortly an article on "Methoa Extension by Computer" by Geoffrey Dodds, of 18, Sandfield Road, St. Albans. So far Mr. Dodds has found all the extensions possible of all regular Plain Minor and Surprise Minor methods and he has made a start on the Surprise Major methods. He hopes to be able to offer a service to anyone looking for an extension of a method, provided they send the place notation or other identification and a stamped addressed envelope.

STANDING OVATION FOR YOUNG DERBYSHIRE RINGERS

At the annual general church meeting on February 19th five young Derbyshire Association members-Susan Heeley (17), Denise Loma- (18, Richard Dexter (23), Colin Greenhough (17) and Alan Shore (15)-received a standing ovation for their efforts in getting Wingerworth bells, which not so very long ago were completely silent, ringing regularly for Sunday services
Warmly congratulating them, the Rector (the Rev. N. G Wickham) said it was a tremendous achievement to have had the bells rung for at least one service on almost every Sunday since last Easter. This was particularly so when one realised their young age. the heavy demands of " $A$ " 'and " $O$ " level homework and the numerous other counter-attractions, which, together with the loss of several ringers to college, had made their task more difficult.

The new secretary of the Beverley and District Society is Mrs D. S. Johnson. 5, Redland Drive. Kırk Ella, near Hull, E. Yorts.

ST PETER MANCROFT GUILD DINNER

The Guild held its annual dinner at the Flixion Rooms No: wich, on February 14th, and it was a most enjoyable evening We are fortunate in naving the president of the Central Council as one of our members and were happy to see both Canon and Mrs Thurlow among our number.
In proposing the toast of "The Church " the Master, Dr David Heighton. placed parucular emphasis on the link between the Guild and the moner church and brietly reviewed the activities of the past year Despite the long periods when no minging could take place due to structural repairs to the tower, he sald hat the achievement ot a peal of Stedman Cinques by an all-local band was something of which we could all be proud and he hoped that when ringing was resumed progress might be made in the field of Surprise Royal. Best wishes were sent to members unable to be present. particularly to Nolan Golden, who has had to enter hospital again.
In his reply the Vicar (the Rev. W J. Westwood), president of the Guild. thanked the ringers for their services throughout what had been a difficult year and said that it was hoped to release the tower from the hands of the builders in time to ring on Easter Sunday He looked forward to the dedication of the west window in July which is to be a memorial to the late Vicar, the Rev. Frank Jarvis. and he noped that it might be made the occasion for a zommemorative peal.
After dinner a showing of the Washington Fitm proved to be excellent entertainment and the rest of the evening provided a welcome opporturity for the Guild to catch up with its gossip.

NEW ERA AT BURES

A few years ago Bures, Suffolk. had a local Surprise Major band, but employment elsewhere reduced the band to the Plain Doubles and call changes standard. Of the old company only the Mills family and Evelyn Cansdale were left
After a long period of teaching. the dawn of a new era was witnessed on February 18th -a very proud day for the four of the old team-as The service ringing was again done by an all peal-ringers' band.

RECRUITING IN HEREFORD

The Rev Peter Nourse, Vicar of Eardisland. Herefords. who is a ringer, has written to "The Hereford Times" endorsing the view that only practising Christians should ring shurch bells. He adds:-
$\because$ Church bells exist for the purpose of giving praise to God and of summoning people to worship. and not merely for the pursurt of the hobby of campanology. Anyone who wishes to tecome a bellringer should, as a matter of course, be expected also to be or at least to become a practising churchman."

STRATTON ANNIVERSARIES

It was very much a congratulatory quarter (Grandsire Triples) that was rung at Stration, Cornwall, on February 13th. Not only was it for the 38 th wedding anniversary of Mr. J. Sangwin. but also his birthday compliment. A still older couple honoured were Mr and Mrs. P. Sluman (their 53 rd wedding anniversary and Mrs Sluman's 73 rd birthday) Mr. Sluman is the only surviving member of the 12 local men who helped to hang Stratto bells in 1912.

SURREY ASSOCIATION  Northern District Elect 19 New Members

The annual genera, meeting of the Northern District was held at St. Peter's, South Croydon, on January 27th. Ringing in the crowded belfry during the afternoon ranged from rounds to Cambridge Royal. The service was led by the Vicar and an excellent address was given by the Rev. D. G. Smith. Tea was prepared by the local tower captain, Miss V. Potter, and her helpers.

Sixty-nine members and visitors signed the attendance book at the meeting and 19 new members were elected.
The contmittee's report spoke of 1967 as a disappointıng year in some respects. Mr. Bill Jackson, the Ringing Master, had moved out of the district in August and the learner instruction had falled to continue during the latter months. The secretary's failure to find a judge led to the cancellation of the striking competition. On the brighter side were the first Assoctation dinner for 12 years and a quarter peal Sunday on May 21 st to celebrate the founding of the Association on May 21st, 1880, and on the lighter side the firstever Association cricket match, the officers taking on the rest.

Membership showed a net increase of 12 to 236 . Thirty-three peals were rung, including one of 12 Spliced Surprise Major, the most Major methods rung for the Association. Nine ringers rang their first peal, and Robert Cooles his first as conductor. Leading ringers were M. Uphill (10) and C. Mew and J. Ketteringham (9). C. Mew was also the leading conductor (7). 171 quarter peals (a record) were rung, the leading towers being Addington (51) and Kingston (19). Congratulations were extended to the Rev. Tony Clayton for his work in obtaining a new ring of eight for All Saints', Tooting Graveney.

Following the report, Richard Stevens was thanked for standing in as Ringing Master, and a vote of thanks was given to the retiring secretary, Norman Steere.

The new committee were elected: Ringing Master, A. Bagworth; secretary, E. Godfrey: assistant secretary, N. Thomson; other members: Rev. A. Clayton, Miss J. Armstrong and C. Mew.

Ringing in the evening was on the 12 a: St. John's.

THE PROFESSOR DISCUSSES AN OLD LETTER

And Gives Me A History Lesson

NOT long ago," said the Professor, "1 came across a letter written in January, 1935, by that great Spliced Minor authority, A. G. Driver." He produced a closery-written 13 -page epistle.

It was, judging from the con'ext, one of a series in some correspondence that had taken place between him and Arthur Giil, of Wath-on-Dearne. Arthur was one of Dan Smith's band, which had rung a peal of Spiced Minor in 35 , methods at Felkirk on November 24th 1934.'
. 1 was also in the peal at Felkirk," I pointed out.

- Yes, bub I understand it was a good ptal, nevertneless! At that time there was, I believe, a certain amount of friendly rivalry between Dan Smith's team and what A. G. Driver called 'the Cheshire people,' the object being, as is apparent from the correspondence, a race' to reach 42 spliced in seven $120^{\prime}$ 's. The Cheshire band had always forged ahead and eventually rang 42 on February 9th, 1935, in a peal conducted by John Worth."

Dan's team never did exceed 35," I observed, ${ }^{\prime}$ a number which was not surpassed in Yorkshire for nearly 20 years."

It was thought in some quarters that 42 would be the maximum possible and someone had even ventured to predict this in "Beltry Gossip.' Driver's comment on this statement was (and he quoted from the letter), ' It is quite a mistake to say that 42 is the limit and I have written to the Editor and told him so.' How right he was, although 1 don't think tnat even he visualised that peals in the region of 170 would be compressed into seven extents."

- Here is an interesting piece of advice," said the Professor, scanning the pages, "that he gave to Arthur Gill:
one thing 1 would strongly recommend to you, which is to pick your 720's so that no method appears in two of them. There is really no rule against this, but all the 'big' spliced peals in many methods have been anranged to avoid it, I think, and I for one should be sorry to see the standard lowered in this matter.

Quite a stickler for purity."

- Yes, but what interests me is the activity that was taking place behind the scenes in order to make it possible to ring 42 methods to a peal."

You mean by A. G. Driver?'

- Not only by him; there ware others, one of whom is often forgoten, but, as is evident from this letter, played quite an important part."
"Who was that?",
"Charles Severn."
Charles Severn, indeed? No mugs, these Yorkshiremen !

Charie Severn was a ringer at Killamarsh, and Killamarsh is in Derbyshire," was the Professor's icy response to my profound utterance.

Of course," he went on, " he was a member of the Yorkshire Association, and the report of his death in the annual report of that Association, in 1933-34, describes him as a composer of outstanding ability and a great authority on six-bell ringing.' His compositions include a peal of Killamarsh Surprise Major, a method of his own arrangement, which was rung after his death at Wath-on-Dearne on April 18th, 1936. He arranged and conducted a peal of Biddulph Surprise Major (at one time called Double London) at Killamarsh on December 14th, 1931, which was the first peal of Double Surprise Minor ever rung. He rang many peals of Minor in seven methods, quite a few of which were Surprise."
"What about Spliced Minor?"
"I am coming to that. He probably did a little practical splicing although I can find no spliced 720 's among his peals, but he made several arrangements by which 42 spliced could be rung in seven 720's and published these in 'The Ringing World.' In some of the 720's he gave the figures and in others merely suggested one or two methods that could be added to, or deleted from, his existing figures without stating how this could be done. He had three plans

\begin{aligned}
& \text { (a) } 8+8+6+5+5+5+5=42 \\
& \text { (b) } 8+6+6+6+6+5+5=42 \\
& \text { (c) Seven } 6
\end{aligned}

" The first three 720's in (a) were original and contained the following methods:
I. Waltham and Burslem Delight; Hexham, Surlieet, Berwick, Beveriey, Prımrose and Cambridge Surprise.
II. Waterford and Berwyn Treb.e Bob; Kentish, Berkeley, rdinburgh, Yembroke, Oswald and Barham Delight.
III. Evesham, Tewkesbury, Carisbrooke and Donottar Delight; Wooter and Sandsacre Sunprise.
He mentioned that the first two 720's could be cut down from eight to six methods in order to fit in with plans (b) and (c), and how several of the fives of what A. G. Mriver called 'the very old 35 -method peal' could be turned into sixes, even giving the methods that should be used for this purpose. How to do this he left with his readers, with a warning that care must de taken to seiect the rignt leads or falseness would occur.'"
"In his letter to Arthur Gill," continued the Professor, tapping the document in questhon, " Driver proceeded to give his own solutions to the problems Charles Severn had posed to his readers. He cut down the 720 I from eight to six, retaining the Surprise methods, and dealt simularly with No. II, retaining the six Delight methods. (He later extended the eight into thirteen.) He tidied up III, turning it into a symmetrical three-part, whereas Severn's 720 had each part different. Finally he demonstrated how, using Severn's suggestions, the fives could be turned into sixes.
"So really," I commented, "The 720's of the 42 -spliced peal in Cheshire were the brainchildren of Charles Severn."
" It is almost impossible in Spliced Minor to define an 'original' extent, as so much is built up on the work of previous arrangements. Nevertheless, I think it is fair to say that most of the 720's in the Cheshire peal owe as much in their construction to Charles Severn as to A. G. Driver, who was credited with them. Charles Severn was dead by the time the Cheshire peal was rung or he might have had somathing to say."
"I notice that you don't mind saying it for him! "'

Not I !" said the Professor.

THE TANGLE (DVER DOUBLES METHDDS

Dear Sir,-Whilst not wanting to get involved in another discussion in your columns of the type which followed a recent handbell peal in Monmouthshire, I feel I must write in reply to a question in "Belfry Gossip" (" Ringing World, January 26th, page 65). This refers to a peal, in the same issue (page 72), which consisted of several Douhles methods and variations. A claim to the most Doubles methods in Wales is, in fact, incorrect. I do not know what the record is-or even what the methods/variations record is-but it is more than they rang.
The peal in question states that 50 mathods were rung-this is not in fact so. At a quick count I make it ten methods-the rest are variations and I must admit that I did not count them. This peal may be able to claim the methods/variations record but it certainly cannot claim the methods record for Wales, as this record must be greater than or equal to the number of methods in a peal I myself conducted for the Llandaff and Monmouth Association in 1964. This peal contained 31 methods and 15 variations and was at the time (and possibly still is) the most methods for the Association.
This question brings me to a further point. In our extents for the above peal two of them contained 12 methods each. This meant that in these extents only one lead of these methods was rung-but one was rung. As Mr. C. A. Lewis pointed out in February 9 th "Ringing World" (page 102), certain compositions containing variations do not in fact use sufficient leads to justify the number of variations assigned to them. The position starts to bear a relationship to the splicing of Surprise Major in the middle of the lead. (For example, see "R.W.," April 28th, 1967, page 284.) Mr. R. B. Smith has shown us how a lead of Cambridge may be made to contain as much as 16 methods. What a field this opens for Doubles variations! Not only may we share a plain lead with several calls to add variations, but we can pack a few more methods into each lead. For example:-

| St. Simon $\{$ | 42351 24315 | Reverse Grandsire Single | $\begin{aligned} & 54312 \\ & \begin{array}{l} 45321 \\ 54321 \\ 45312 \end{array} \end{aligned}$ |
| Winchendon Place | $n / \begin{aligned} & 42135 \\ & 4123 / 3 \end{aligned}$ | Union B | Bob $\begin{gathered}54132 \\ 51423\end{gathered}$ |
|  | 14523 |  | 15243 |
| St. Hilary | $\overline{14253}$ | Plain Bob | $\overline{15423}$ etc. |

These, of course. are mainly methods. But since there is a Reverse Grandsire single in it, I can also claim the variations produced by using this call in each of these methods. So I have eight methods and eight variations in two leads.
This, I agree, is taking the matter to ridiculous limits, but I feel that composers and conductors in this field should carefully consider exactly what they are and what they are not ringing at any time.-Yours faithfully,

ELLIS N. THOMAS.
St. John's College, Cambridge.
P.S.- The methods in my example are, of course, St. Simon and Braywood Bob. The full extent is SBBS $\times 3$. St. Martin and Welford and St. Osmund and Longworth may also be included.-E. N. T.

The Church of St. Paul, Burton-on-Trent

HE building of St. Paul's Church by Mr. M. T. Bass, M.P., commenced in 1870 , a concrete raft being necessary due to difficulties of running sand which is very prevalent here in the Trent Valley. The design of Mr. J. M. Teal, of Doncaster, is cruciform in plan with a massive square tower 123 feet high, and the style generally is Early Decorated executed in Coxbench and Ancaster stone. The belfry stage consists of three massive windows on each face tilled in with thick glass louvres, while the ringing chamber (now heated with North Sea gas) is reached by ascending 91 steps, some of which cross the roof of the Lady Chapel. The original ring of eight, 25-3-21 in $\mathbf{F}$, was cast by J. W. faylor, of Loughborough, from specifications prepared by Sir Eamund Beckett, Q.C., and cost $£ 1,050$.
Consecration took place on April 7th, 1874, and dedicated to St. Paul with the Rev. James H. Fish as Vicar, who had served curacies at Sheffield and Doncaster. He nelped to form the Midland Counties Association and was its first president and also tormed St. Paul's Society of Change Ringers. The first peal on the bells was Grandsire Triples in 1876, conducted by W. wakiey. The Vicar's first peal was 5,024 Kent Treble Bob, rung half-mutfled on the occasion of the funeral of Archbishop Tait in 1882. His 18 peals included 6,720 Superlative and the frst-ever peal of Stedman Triples rung by a band composed entirely of clergymen. Double Norwich, New Cumberland, Superlative, Cambridge, Stedman, Grandsire and Duttield were regularly recorded. The sudden death of the Vicar in his 41 st year was a great loss to the church, Association and Society, this coming at a time when his band was poised for the highest achievement of those days, a peal of London Surprise. However, it came less than six months after his death and was the fourth-ever of London to be rung.

Names which readily spring to mind are W. Wakley, Albert P. Wakley, A. Wakley, H. Wakiey, W. C. Wakley, E. I. Stone, J. Jagger, J. Griffin, H. Bastable, J. W. Washbrook, H. Dains, F. E. Dawe, G. Robinson, C. H. Hattersley, N. J. Pitstow and A. P. Heywood. The Rev. F. E. Robinson practised his Superlative at Benington and came to St. Paul's to ring his first peal in that queen of methods which was the ninth of Superlative ever to be rung. Three peals of Superlative on consecutive days in 1885 were the 20th, 21 st and 22 nd ever rung in that method. A silent peal of Stedman Triples is recorded in 1886, each ringer having previously called a peal with the same figures. Miss Edith K. Parker (Edmonton) called Superlative here in 1911 and was the first and only lady to conduct a peal on the original ring of eight.

RECASTING IN 1912

The last peal on these bells before recasting was Stedman Triples; it was also the 220th. The new ring of eight, 28-2-9 in D flat (1912), had as first peals Stedman Triples, these two peals being Pitstow's variation of Thurstans' Four-Part. The Great War of 1914-1918 took Coy. Sgt. Major H. Wakley, Sgt. R. C. Stone and Sgt. A. P. Wakley, who between them had rung 343 peals. With ringing restricted during hostilities and armed forces commitments the band became sadly depleted. However, in 1922 two trebles were added, No. 1 by W. W. Worthington, Esq., and No. 2 by the parishioners, in memory of those who fell in the Great War. The first peal on the ten bells was Stedman Caters.
Around 1925 the "Wednesday" band, with Maurice Swinfield as conductor, continued with Stedman, and some years later the tally was over 230 different callings. R. H. Dove learned to handle a bell at St. Paul's about this time, scoring his first peal in 1926 at a nearby tower. In the 1930s James George, of Birmingham, rang the tenor on his 80 th birthday to his $1,201 \mathrm{st}$ peal. The year 1945 saw B. G. Key a lively ringer and conductor at St. Paul's. After the ringing ban of 1940 was lifted a peal of Cambridge Royal was rung by a visiting band. Mrs. D. T. Gardiner conducted Grandsire Caters (her farewell peal) in 1955 and Miss J. Toon conducted Grandsire Doubles (also her farewell peal) in 1964 and Miss E. K. Parker Superlative in 1911. They appear to be the only three ladies to have calied a peal here.

Although 366 peals have been rung in this tower, attempts are now somewhat restricted to three or four per year, quarters being frequently rung. Visitors on outings are always welcome here at St. Paul's.
Ringing locally before 1874 was very popular as the "Society of Change Ringers at Burton" were subscribers to Clavis Campanologia, 1778.

IRRESPDNSIBLE TDWER GRABBERS

For about ten years the bells of St. Mary's, Stapieford, Wilts, have not been rung but only chimed, because of the architect's warning against ringing, there being a slight crack in the wall of the beil tower and one bell is cracked.

On a recent Sunday evening the Vicar (the Rev. J. P. Adams) was amazed to hear the bells ringing for about five minutes. "I have been here for ten years and have never heard the bells," he told a Press man.
The ringers, who are now being sought by the Wiltshire police, made off in a car when people living near the church went to investigate.
The Vicar added: "Whoever were ringing the bells knew what they were doing They made a fairly respectable sound. If they had not known what they were doing they would not have been able to have fitted the ropes to the bells."

CALL FOR APOLOGY

Among letters we have received on this incident is the following:-
Dear Sir,-I have reason to believe I know who was responsible and am at present involved in the investigation. Perhaps before the matter becomes too involved the people concerned might care to write and attempt to justify themselves. If they do not do so I intend to pass the information to the responsible authorities together with advice as to what action they can take. In order that the affair does not become too involved, a personal apology to the Vicar and churchwardens might suffice.
This sort of thing has already caused considerable friction in the West, and Wiltshire and Dorset in particular, and must be stopped. -Yours sincerely,

Wants Joint Ringing Council for London

Follow Yorkshire, says Harold Rogers

> by a Joint Council similar to that formed
> Proposing the toast of "The London County Association". the Master said he would like to comment briefly on the whole aspect of London ringing and the need for tackling its whole co-ordination with first things first.

An appeal was made by Mr. H. W. Rogers, the Master, at the annual dinner of the London County Association at Chatham Rooms, Victoria Station, on February 24th, to London Societies to organise and co-ordina.e themselves as a cumposite whole "At the dinner of the Society of Royal Cumberland Youths their Master appealed for the situation of the unringable London bells to be considered in depth by London Societies. Such admirable aims as these-in isolation-is simply puting the cart before the horse.
"Let the London Societies organise and coordinate themselves as a composite whole first and then and only then, do these many problems stand a chance of solution. I am personally a member of a relatively small professional body which has now two somewhat smaller contemporaries. A joint council has been formed to consider and plan for their amalgamation.
"In our own sphere of activity we can learn from the experiences of Yorkshire, where no less than ten Societies are co-operating together under the Joint Council of Yorkshire Ringing Societies. In the absence of a better name-and there may well be one-let us have a Joint Council of London Ringing Societies with aims and objects such as:-

To represent all ringers in the London area.

To co-ordinate the meetings of the individual Societies.

To represent to the Church authorities matters affecting the London bells and ringers.
"And so we could go on.
"But remember this oft-repeated true phrase, United we stand, divided we fall." For this purpose I would rephrase it: 'United we can do our job, divided we must fail to do it ${ }^{\text {: }}$

Mr. W. G. Wilson followed with the toast "The Visitors". and added: "May I say Amen to the Master's remarks? 1 cannot agree more." He gave a special welcome to Mr. Frank Lufkin. Master of the Essex Assoctation and a member of the Central Council, Mr. T. W. White and Mr. R. Cooles, of the Surrey Association and secretary of the Battersea tower.

Mr. Cooles, who replied, said he belonged to a different Association from theirs, and their officers were all working long and hard to improve the quality and quantity of ringing in London. Their results were very inadequate for the work they did and the reason was that their system was wrong-they were too divided. Their Master had suggested how it could be improved and he entirely agreed with him.
Mr. Cooles said his own ringers were only interested in their own lower and three or four towers about a mile around. He thought they would create more interest if a Council for Greater London Ringing Societies was formed and the Associations revised their areas to about the size of a London borough. It would, he thought, give the parochial ringers a vision.
The concluding toast, "The Ringing World" was proposed by Mr W. T. Cook and replied to by the Editor.

An excellent dinner was served, the arrangements being admirable. Mr. A. F. Udall acted as M.C. for the evening and he was assisted on the dinner committee by Mr. L. C. Way and Miss J. Spurgeon.

The Master announced that the next meeting of the Association would be held on Saturday, March 9th, at St. Stephen's, Hampstead, from 3 to 4 p.m.: tea in the Parish Hall, then on to St. Martin's. Gospel Oak, from 5.30 to 7, and St. Mary Magdalene's, Holloway Road, from 7 to 8.

ST. ALBANS DISTRICT'S

 TWO RESTORATION PROJECTSTHE meeting on February 17 th started with afternoon ringing at South Mymms The six were rung to metrods up to York and London Surprise before the service. Tea followed in the hall Unfortunately 42 names were received and 57 people turned up. which made catering rather difficuls. Please, do con inue to support us, but do try and send names in beforehand.

At the meeting Father Clare, of South Mymms. . ook the chair. I was decided to hold a formal dinner again on December 7th; there will also be a barbecue and social in the eummer. Another coach visit to the A.T.V. studios will be artanged for late March or early Apri: to ste a live recording.
The next District practice will be at South Mymms on April 4th.
A lengthy discussion followed on the Voluntary Bell Fund. Two requests had been put forward. from Harpenden (8) who are planning rehanging and retuning their bells. and Wheathampstead (6) who are hoping to add two new trebles. Both had targets in the $£ 1,000$ region to aim at. At length it was decided that $£ 30$ should go 10 each tower, which will leave a small amount in hand in case another request should suddenly appear out of the blue. The Wheathampstead ringers are organising a "walk" on Good Friday in aid of their fund and are looking for wealthy sponsors! Please contact the band if you can support this venture.

The District was told that Mr. A. W. Coles is now in St Albans City Hospital, and Mr. George W. Debenham, of $\mathrm{St}_{\mathrm{t}}$. Peter's. St. Albans, is also in hospital. The District's sincere wishes for a speedy recovery go to both members.
Before the meeting was closed Mr Gerald Penney mentioned the forthcoming marriage between two District members on March 2nd - Miss Barbara Goodspeed, of St. Albans, and Mr. Graham Sillis, of South Mymms. Every best wish for their future happiness goes from the District.

The nex meeting will be at Essendon on March 16th.

NEW LDNG LENGTH DF GRANIDSIRE CATERS

Umpires' Report on Record Length of $\mathbf{1 6 , 5 5 9}$ Grandsire Caters rung at Appleton on February 10th.
AFTER seeing the band safely settled in the tower, two of the umpires-Bills 1 and 2 -settled themselves down round a lighted stove in the church together with a book supplied by Brian White containing the composition and course-ends. The weather was freezing outside but after an early rise the band seemed fit and ready.
After a few preliminary rounds and the usual halt for adjustment, the peal started in changes at 720 promptiy. Within a short period the bells settled down to a beat ably iet by Frank on the tenor that was 10 be so regular as to be not only of good standard but was of very considerable assistance to the umpires in having secondary checks during difficill periods For a while there were considerable comings and goings in the church. including the arrival of Bill 3 to join the umpires

Ringing was of a very high standard and any small instances of hesitation were in fact such that they could be classed as natural human errors if they could be classed as errors.

The first 5,040 was reached comfortably in 2 hours and 47 minutes and with an almost monotonous time of approximately three minutes per course ; with little if any variation, checking was made comfortable.

Umpiring with a constant stream of visitors is not easy, especially when the weather is too cold outside to allow the bells to be heard at their best, but here again the ringing was such that if the umpires were at times distracted, the picking out of check course-ends was made most easy.
Coffee soon came along (not for the ringers) and shortly after 11.30 Bill 1 slipped off for 3 Guinness.
Here again was an example of the evenness of the ringing inasmuch as on his return he was able to calculate at three minutes a course which course-end should come up and did it independently.
Bills 2 and 3 were now relieved and at last Bill 1 settled down in solitude to do a little much more serious checking.
Ihe 10,000 was now approaching and just as the appropriate course-end was approaching, a bevy of lady ringers suddenly appeared in the church, causing Bill 1 to beat a hasty retreat to the churchyard to carry out the check. The two other Bills returned to start sampling the provided sandwiches. At this period they were joined by, among others, Walter Judge, and the ringing at this period was of a very high standard.

CALLING ROUND

Before the start the umpires had been warned that in the event of trouble the bells would be called round from a certain point, and after this point it became obvious after a while that this course was being taken.

There were certain slips occurring but at no time could the umpires find any really bad fault in the ringing. Courses were still rolling up with the same regularity.
After a while Bill 2 suddenly shouted "He's turned them again," and there was a general exodus into the churchyard. Bill 1 remaned for a final check, but it became obvious thas this was "it," and the beils duly ran round in 9 hours and 12 minutes at 4.32 p.m after a peal for which all must have nothing but high praise.
The band are to be congratulated on a fine effort, which caused no element of doubt at all. The conductor in particular is to be congratulated not only on his efforts but his insistence that the final figures be checked by the composer before publication.

The ringing was such that no element of doubt arose at all and so the umpires' job was made very easy.

Afterwards the band adjourned for tea, and later a typical Appleton Saturday night was spent at the Plough.
The umpires would like to congratulate the band on their performance and by so doing making the umpires' task easy, and to the White ladies and family for their generous hospitality and refreshments.

Better luck for a longer length next time.

TOLLING THE KNELL FOR DEATH WATCH BEETLE

By MICHAEL FRY, M.I.P.R. (of the Rentokil Group)

TCAP, tap, tap tap in a rapid burst of a dozen with a pause-tap, tap, tap, tap again and a pause, is a sound you might hear in the bell chamber of an ancient church in the stillness of the night any time during April and the beginning of May and sometimes even June.

This is the ticking of the death watch beetle, which the newly emerged beetle makes to signal for a mate. It taps its horny forchead on the surface of the wood on which it is standing, and on which its ancestors may well have slood for many hundreds of years.

Death Watch Beetle, named by the scientists Xestobrum rufovillosum, and sometimes referred to by its older name, Anobium tesselatum, has over the centuries done enormous damage in Britain's churches, attacking the ancient oak beams and other oak timbers. It is never known to fly inside buildings, because the temperature is too low. Experts are pretty sure, therefore, that the grubs or eggs were present in the oak when the church was originally built or were brought in with oak used for alteration or restoration.

The adult beetles live only for a few weeks, the maximum known is ten, so that it is very likely that during May, June and July you may find dead bectles on the floors or ledges. Many will have mated and the females will then had laid their eggs to start a new generation.

You can quite easily recognise the dead beetles: they vary in size between a quarterinch to one-third inch in length and are a dark chocolate brown in colour, with their wing cases having a variegated appearance with yellowish patches on them.

The exit holes that the emerging beetles make are quite large and almost exactly circular, being one-eighth inch in diameter.

Another sign of the active grubs in the wood are the tiny but quite visible bun-shaped pellets of digested wood the creatures excrete. These may get pushed out of the exit holes by live grubs, and will collect on horizontal beams and ledges and, of course, on the floors.

These, then, are the signs to look and listen for-the tapping sound, dead beetles, filight holes and the little heaps of bun-shaped pellets.

Xextobium rifovilionan, the Death Watch Beetic. The fine yellow hairs from which is gitu then give it variepted appearance. Thi adult beetle is only 6 mm loag Clatches of egos laid by the female of Xestobium rufovillosum, the Death Watch Beetle. At the top of the picture is an old beetle flight hole 1 inch in diameter-a perfect circle.

Briefly the life cycle of the death watch beetle is as follows. The females lay their eggs usually between $40-60$ in numbers, either singly or in pairs, in cracks or enevices in the wood or in old exit holes, anywhere in fact where there is safe and firm anchorage. The eggs hatch out after about $3 \frac{1}{2}$ weeks, but they are so small you are unlikely to see them. When the tiny grub emerges it fairly soon burrows into the wood, where it may continue quietly tunnelling and growing for up to ien years. It then comes up to the surface and, just underneath, forms a pupal chamber, where it turns into a beetle. This, strangely enough, takes place in autumn and there it remains as an almost perfectly-formed beetle till it emerges in the spring.

The trouble with death watch beetle in churches and elsewhere is that though the individual grub itself does not do much damage, we are not so much concerned with decades of attack bur centuries. The effect of this across six or so centuries has to be seen to be believed, for generations of grubs can tunnel out the heart of a beam where the main strength lies, leaving what virtually amounts to a hollow shell, somewhat peppered with exit holes but otherwise apparently sound. Fortunately the massive size of the oak timbers usually found in churches have very considerable leeway as regards safety margins for weight bearing. It would be unwise, how-

23 Spliced "All the Work" Non-conducted

AN OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT

CYRIL A. WRATTEN'S REPORT

THE silent and non-conducted peal of 23 Spliced "all the work" rung at Longney, Glos, on February 18 th , was achieved at the second attempt. A previous attempt three weeks eariier by the same band and at the same tower was lost after two and a half hours' exceilent ringing, when a three-bell shitt occurred in Cornwall, 20 leads from the end.

The band was a mixed one. Richard Parker and Maryl and John Fielden, from Lancashire, had all rung in the first three peals, using Norman Smith's composition, at Bilsborrow, on December 31st, 1966, and subsequently at Higher Walton in January and at Milnrow in March last year. Tony Peake and Brian Bladon, from Swindon, and Jim Taylor, of Bristol wese in the bands that had rung the composition for the fourth, fifth and sixth times-at Weston-super-Mare in May, at North Bradiey in June and at Dunstable in July, John Mayne and Roger Baldwin, from Hertfordshire, had both rung in the latter peal. So although the composition had only been rung six times previously, the band was by 110 means new to it.

The first attempt to ring the peal non-conducted, at Longney on January 28th, had one false start, due mainly to nervousness. But nerves seemed to have been stilled when the bells went into changes for a second time, for the band settled into a good beat almost at once. In fact the third, fourth, fifth and sixth parts were each rung in exactly the same time of 24 minutes and 40 seconds, the first two parts have taken 25 minutes and 5 seconds and 24 minutes and 55 seconds respectively The shift at the beginning of the last part, which brought the attempt to a sudden halt, was all the more disappointing as a result, for the peal seemed by then to be in the bag."

ever, to minimise the effect of death watch beetle, particularly in a bell tower with a 23 cwt. tenor poised on a beam. Occasionally the damage may be so severe that ringing has to be suspended, and Dr. N. E. Hickin, Rentokil Scientific Director, a world authority on woodworm, can recall isolated cases of this-but it is rare.

If a bellringer sees any of the signs mentioned in this article he would be doing a service to his church by reporting immediately either to the cap:ain of the ringers or to the Vicar or churchwardens. They can immediately call in a timber preservation expert to examine the problem at first hand and advise on what action should be taken. He will make out a comple:e report and detailed recommendations, and firms like my own make no charge for this service and offer churches extended methods of payment and special discounts : they also guarantee all their work for 20 years.

I hope his brief article will have proved helpful and I will be happy $t 0$ write personally, through the Editor, to anyone wishing to raise any querics.
was arranged for February 18th. Ropes adjusied and arrangements about starting and stopping agreed, the bells went into changes at 2.11 p.m. The nerves that had marked the start of the previous attempt were not apparent this time, and the first part-end came up with no trouble in exactly 25 minutes.

Part followed part with little sign of difficulty, the speed varying between 24 and $24 \frac{1}{2}$ minutes. My notes showed only 21 clipped blows in the first 4,100 changes, which gives a good indication of the standard of the ringing. However, during the sixth part nerves began to make themselves felt, and there were the occasional hesi'ations on changing into a new method. Only one lasted more than three blows, and that was corrected before the treble dodged in 3-4 up.

A more serious trip occurred in the lead of Double Dublin in the las! part-one lead later than the Cornwall that had been fatal in the first attempt. A word would have sufficed to restore the smooth sequence of changes, but none was uttered and no help of any sort was given. The lead-end came up with one bell and a half-blow too high, but the change to Bristol was made smoothly and all was well. But the ranging in this last part was faster and rather edgy, with a consequent loss of rhythm -only natural, considering the strain. The time of the part of 23 minutes and 40 seconds was the fastest of the seven.
The bells ran round at 5 o'clock precisely, and half-a-dozen pulls later I made my second and final call: "Stand!" Every lead-end hroughout the peal was checked, and frequent checks were made of the work of the 2 nd 's place bells throughout the lead.

The band deserves the congratulations of the Exercise on what must be one of the finest examples of concentration and ringing skill to date.

MANCHESTER BRANCH ELECT  LADY CHAIRMAN

The annual general meeting of the Manchester Branch was held jointly with the N.W District of the Ladies' Guild at Manchester Town Hall on January 20th. Although the attendance was small compared with previous years, the business meeting was long and lively.

The Branch chairman, Mr, W. H. Riddle, opened the meeting and welcomed all who were present. After discussing the Branch ringing programme for the year, the following officers were elected: Chairman. Miss Christine Andrew; secretary, Mr. Alan Ward; Ringing Master Mr. Jeffrey Brannan: deputy Ringing Master, Mr. Christopher Movley: committec member, Miss Mary Walshaw.

After a vote of thanks to the Town Hall committee and the Town Hall ringers for allowing the use of the bells and a committee room for the business meeting, a vote of thanks was also made to the retiring officers(Continued next column)

OXFORD UNIVERSITY SOCIETY DINNER
THE annual dinner was held on February 3rd and again took place in Jesus College. The day's ringing began at noon at Carfax. All the 12 ringable towers in Oxford were available, including this year St. Thomas', which was a substitute for St. Giles', the latter tower having been declared dangerous shortly after last year's dinner.

A large number of people at most towers prevented any very original ringing However, it was for the most part enjoyable, even if the standard was not consistent. Magdalen College, where the bells are amongst the easiest, was the scene of what was probably the best ringing of the day.

After Evensong in the crypt of the University Church of St. Mary the Virgin we moved to Jesus College, where the Dinner Committee's seating p.an received the expected criticism. However, the company proved sutficientiy congental for all to enjoy a very pleasant meal. We were glad to have with us our president, Canon E. C. Wigg, who proposed the loyal toast and introduced the other speakers.

The first of these was the treasurer, Mr. Richard Wilsher, who proposed the toast of The Church," regretung that all 100 often it flourished despite us and not because ot us. In his reply on behalf of the clergy the Rev. Raymond Lowe mentioned the long connection between beals and the Church, recalling the embroidered bells and pomegranates round Aaron's high pioestly robes. He also brought to our attention the great similarity between bells and women, namely that when pulled off balance they are completely out of control.
Mr. Philip Daniel, joint secretary, welcomed the visitors, pointing out that the dinner could not be passible without them. The Master of the Bristol University Society, Mr. Michael Zobel, expressed what he felt were the thanks of all present for such an enjoyable and lively dinner.
As usual the toast of "The Society" was proposed by the Master of the Cambridge University Guild. Mr. Richard Youdale said how much he and his fellow members always enjoyed the joint outings with us. We were assured that they had been thinking of us contınually on the last outing and only regretted that we had been unable to meet.

The Master, Mr. Stephen Royal, countered that on the joint outing we had been engaged in satisfying the equation "O.U.S. plus tower plus pub equals dominoes." He then continued with the traditional review of the year's events, mentioning also the proposed joint meeting of the Southern Universities. Members and guests then adjourned to the beer cellar, which for many people seemed to be the highlight of the day
F.E. M.

Mr. W. H. Riddle (chairman), Miss Christine Andrew (secretary) and Mr. Neil Bennett (Ringing Master).

Ringing continued after the business meeting until $9.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. Methods rung included Bob Minor. Grandsire Triples. Bob Major, Grandsire Caters, London S. Royal, Grandsire and Stedman Cinques, Plain Bob. Kent T.B., Duffield and Cambridge S. Maximus. A. W.

THE ACCRINGTON PEAL

Dear Sir,-l am sorry that Cyril Crossthwaite, in his letter on page 141, has so misinterpreted the points I made that it is necessary for me to write again.

He states that ". . . to maintain that the record still stands at 11,872 would be quite ludicrous." I agree. But the Central Council is duty bound by its rules not to accept the 12,096 at Accrington as the record, as Cyril well knows Their action thus weakens the authority of the Council.
He also reiterates the hard luck story about the Christmas mail delaying the notice of the attempt. Whulst accepting this, 1 nevertheless consider that, with a little foresight, the organiser couid have realised that letters get delayed at that time of year and could have taken alternative measures, had he so desired. In any case the non-appearance of the notice in the issue of December 29th gave the organiser over a week's notice to notify the secretary of the St. Martin's Guild about the attempt. This also is requred by the rules and this also was ignored.
I consider the question of the composition to be a less important issue, but I would make the following points. It has long been recognised that record peals require different standards from ordinary peals, hence the reason for umpires to check the truth of the peal and the standard of striking. Peter Border points out that the London Major record, which has stood for a considerable time, can be exceeded by the use of these unusual calls. Yet no one has chosen to beat it, although it has been perfectly legal all these years. It is an unwritten rule, which most people observe. This merely emphasises that the Accrington band made arrangements appropriate for an ordinary peal, and gave little thought to the extra implications of a record peal.
Birmingham ringers have always believed in innovation where this leads to a worthwhile result (and we believe that singles and calls at the half-lead have considerably widened the musical scope of peals), but we also respect accepted codes of conduct. This is neither humbug nor sour grapes, and I think it is regrettable that we should be attacked by Mr. Hopgood and Michael Meadows because of this. I am surprised, in particular. that a person of Michael Meadows' standing in the Yorkshire Association could write a letter so devoid of sense or constructive criticism. Yours faitnfully,
R. W. PIPE.

Birmingham.
Note.-The heading of this peal was not given by Mr. Alan Ainsworth but, like most headings, by the Editor.-Ed.

20-SPLICED PLAIN MAJOR

Dear Sir.-I regret that owing to an oversight the peal of 20 -Spliced Plain Major rung in Birmingham on Tuesday, February 131h, was submitted as "Composed by James R. White. Arranged by Christopher I. Rowson." In fact most of the credit for the composition should go to Richard J. Parker, who coitributed the majority of the methods in the peal. The band would like to place on record their gratitude to him for the use of his ideas. -Yours faithfully,

CHRISTOPHER I. ROWSON.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY RINGERS

Dear Sir,-1 shall be glad if you will allow me a space in your valuable columns to write a few lines in defence of a number of my ringing friends in London, whom I consider are being unjustly shot at by a number of critics. some of whom are also my friends. I think it is a great pity the critics cannot fight their little battle without dragging the Abbey ringers into it. If they think their grievance is jusified, why don't they attack the Abbey authorities? After all, it is they and not the ringers who make the somewhat strict and perhaps unusual but not surprising regulations. It is also they who appoint the Abbey ringers who, when appointed, are expected to perform their duties in accordance with these regulations. The employee does not usually dictate to the employer how he should run his business, and I do not suppose the teacher expects the pupil to dictate to him how the class should be run.
For many years I have known the Abbey ringers and I have no doubt that, given a free hand they-yes, every one of them-would be wilhing to welcome non-members to the Abbey tower. I have had the pleasure of ringing in company with them many times in many towers and have in fact had the privilege of ringing with them at the Abbey, by kind invitation of their secretary, Mr. H. N Pitstow. Not only do they ring at the Abbey when required; they are all regular Sunday service ringers and indeed devote a great deal of their time for the benefit of the Exercise.
1 venture to suggest that Mr. W. Frank Hansard needs to get his facts right before quoting such figures as $17 / 6$ a rope.
I regret that due to a spell of influenza my letter has been held up. This delay has at least given me the opportunity to say how pleased 1 am to read in the current issue of "The Ringing World" the letter from Mr. William Barion. who appears to have the same views on this matter as I do, and I trust that we are two of many - Yours sincerely.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

Dear Sir, - Reading the correspondence about the bells in Westminster Abbey reminds me of my ringing there in 1920 for a special service in connection with a Bishops ${ }^{\text {s }}$ Conference. After ringing we found ourselves "locked in" and unable to leave until after the service, which las:ed about two hours.
We spent this time in the roof of the Cathedral, watching the service from above.
Another recollection of my visit was the dirty state of the belfry and the absence of a place to hang a coat, but this was a long, long time ago.-Yours faithfully,
T. E. SONE.

Brenchley, Kent.

CHRISTMAS BELLS

Dear Sir,-Regarding a letter in "The Ringing World i, of February 23 rd by a Mr. Poyntz, of South Devon. I agree that ringers would like to hear the broadcast of Christmas bells, and perhaps the programme could be repeated at a more convenient time. However, if Mr . Poyntz would like to communicate with me I should be pleased to prepare and forward him a tape recording of Christmas bells for the years 1966 and 1967.-Yours faithfully,

PEALS AT CROSTON, LANCS
Dear Sir,-1 think Canon K. W. H. Felstead is wrong regarding peals rung at Croston Parish Church, Lancs. I have a record of two peals on the bells, viz.:
A peal of Grandsire Triples of 5,040 changes rung on April 22nd, 1821, by the Coliege Youths of Croston.
A peal of 10,080 Bob Major on April 15th, 1871, in 5 hours 28 minutes, conducted by Thomas Broderick, "being the first peal ol the method and the greatest number of changes ever rung at one time on these bells. The professors of the art were stationed as follows: Treble: Mr. T. Statziker, Croston; 2nd: Mr. J. Smith, Preston; 3rd: Mr. R. Smith, Croston; 4th: Mr. T. Broderick. Preston; 5th: Mr. J. Smith, Croston; 6th: Mr. W. Gornall, Preston; 7th: Mr. J. Ditchfield, Croston ; tenor: Mr. J. Simpson, Preston.
"We the undersigned professors of the Art having assembled for the purpose and heard the whole peal can testify that it was a fine struck peal.-T. Nelson, Croston; J. Nelson, Croston; R. Boulling, Leyland; E. Halliwell, Leyland. Preston, April 11th, 1832."
There are a number of peals rung on the Wigar parish bells which were never recorded by the local band-one of the peals started at 330 in the morning-but they were all Grandsire Triples.-Yours, etc
W. O. FARRIMOND.

Coppull. near Chorley.
Note.- Canon Felstead writes that he had recorded the first of these two peals but not the Bob Major. In the "Bell News," Vol. 2, p. 159 , there is a list of all peals longer than 10,000 changes which had been rung, and this one is not among them. He was grateful for the information.

"THE BACKBONE"

Dear Sir,-We often hear in the "R.W." of great trumphs in peal ringing. sometimes in considerable detail; but the backbone of the Exercise is the local band. Could we hear of triumphs in this sphere?-bands where ringers turn up on time, organisation is efficient, there is a high standard of both method ringing and striking Assuming such bands exist, how did they do it; how long did it take: what were the methods of teaching? Incidentally. to gather a good band by acquiring ready-made ringers from other towers is hardly comparable with training a genuine first-class local band. How many local bands in the country can ring London Major or above? - Yours sincerely, Cheadle, Cheshire.
G. VISADE.

KING'S LYNN PRE-WAR RINGING

Dear Sir,-l would like to comment on Mr. Newsom's article on "St. Margaret's. King's Lynn" (January 19th). Where I have been a ringer since the 1920s. The reference to inactivity during the period 1926 to 1952 is incorrect as far as the period prior to the war is concerned.
If service ringing is considered active-and this is surely the main purpose of the bellswe were more active then than we are today. At present we have approximately six ringers for service ringing, and ring only once on Sundays except for special services During the period in question we had enough ringers to ring twice each Sunday. I presume that the writer of the article was not resident in the distric: at the time and this would explain his not knowing about the Sunday service ringing-Yours faithfully.

ROBERT E. GREENACRE.

LETTERS-continued  DOUBLE METHODS

Dear Sir, - 1 refer to Mr Struckett's interesting contribution on this subject in your issue of December 29th. As regards Double Treble Bob methods I agree there appears to be none with "Right Places" only. I would add that there appear to be only two such methods anyway. " $A$ " and " "B" below. Method " $A$ " can have alternative places in the first section.

| A | B |

COMPOSED IN 1894

Dear Sir,-The excellent article on compositions by Roger Baldwin (page 152 of the current "Ringing World "contains a composition of Plain Bob Royal which he kindly but wrongly attributes to me. It is actually a peal by Edward Francis (1894), published in the Central Council's Collection of Peals (1904). Section 2, page 23, No. 9. This information was given to me several years ago by the 'ate John Worth, of Macclesfield, when I had produced a peal differing from the Francis seal only by virtue of the M coming before the W , making the first two course-ends different and appearing thus:

| 23456 M | W | H |
| 52436 | - |  |
| 34625 | 二 | 2 |
| 36245 | $=$ | 3 |

Repeat.

The peal in this form was first rung (to the best of my knowledge) on April 4th, 1936. at Beddington, Surrey, as London (No. 3). Since then, however, it has been rung very many times over my name. It must be a good one as it has been claimed by others, including a famous and brilliant composer-Yours truly, FRANK E. DARBY

London County Association A.G.M.

$T^{H}$
THE London County Association's annual general meeting on February 10 h started with ringing on the 12 bells of St. Michael's, Cornhill, where all were catered for and ringing was at a fairly good "meeting standard" with rounds, Cinques and Maximus. Later, ringing was at the two old headquarters of the Association-St James', Clerkenwell, and St. Clement Danes'. The service in St. Clement Danes' was conducted by the R.A.F. chapiain the Rev. L. J. Ashton, and the address was by a member of the Association, the Rev. J. Tomsett. After an ample tea prepared by lady members in the Edinburgh Tavern some 60 members attended the meeting.
The Master, Mr. Harold Rogers, in his report, summed up the past year in the following terms: Although the year had not been outstanding when considered in relation to the 133 years of life of the Association, it had been extremely brisk and busy.
Seven meetings had been held and business transacted at five of these. Additionally, two joint meetings had been held with neigabouring Associations. Four committee meetings had been held and considerable business discussed.
Of the 12 practices held, ten at St. Mary Abbot's had been well attended, but the two at St. Mary's, Ho.loway, poorly attended, consequently St. Mary Abbot's is favoured for the 1968 practices on the first Thursday of each month, when all ringers are welcome. For new members, 1967 had been one of the record years with 34 elections.

SILENT TOWER SERVICE

One of the valuable contributions to London ringing which the Association members rendered has been to perpetuate the tradition of the pasi 50 years (established by Mr. T. H. Taffender and ably continued by Mr. C. M. Meyer) in ringing for Sunday evening services at towers which would otherwise be silent for this service. Notably among these Sunday evening activities has been: Southwark Cathedral on 11 out of 12 possible "third Sundays" (with the addition of weekly special occasions, Christmas morning and Whit Sunday), resulting in nine quarter peals consisting of Cambridge Surprise Maximus, Little Bob Maximus, Erin Cinques, S:edman Cinques. Grandsire Caters and Triples. The first ringing at Fulham after extensive tower restoration was a quarter peal in May by this company and subsequently six further quarter peals have been rung hure. Other towers visited were Holloway, Waterloo Road, Depiford, St. George's-in-the-East and Tottenham. Additionally assistance was given in quarter peals at Aldgate, Bethnal Green and Battersea.
Although peal ringing received rela:ively little attention, three of these were of note: one of Plain Bob Maximus at Southwark Cathedral conducted by Mr J. Phillip, and two of Stedman Caters at Isleworth. One of these was ine 250 th peal on the bells-a special 5,250 by C W. Roberts. Of these 250 peals the London County Association headed the list of Associations with 123 between 1797 and 1967.

The other peal of Siedman Caters was the notable composition of Stephen Wood's 5.009 , which had a full-page article in "The Ringing World ' October 27 th ) and which turns the back bells in a very musical sequence every fifth course

Finaliy, the Master expressed his grateful thanks to the officers and members who supported him so admirably and loyally during the year.

THE 1968 IEAM

Mr. H. W. Rogers was again elected as Master, with the following supporting officers: Deputy Master C. M. Meyer; treasurer and librarıan, W. G. Wilson; secretary, Miss V. E. Duprex ; assistant secretaries, J. Scott and H. Rider; stewards. L. Way and M. Wycherley: trustees, C. Hughes and D. Hewitt.
An attractive meeting programme for the second Saturday in each month was announced, with the locations stra!egically planned to cater for the whole London area. Two dates mentioned which are of fairly wide interest to ringers are the tower and handbell competition under the auspices of the Richmond-uponThames Music Festival to be held at Isleworth on April 6th, and the Association's joint meeting with the Middlesex County Association on July 13 th.

Following the business meeting, the London County Association Dawe handbell cup was competed for by bands from St. James', Clerkenwell, and All Saints', Isleworth. with the Clerkenwell company winning the cup with a good course of Bob Major. The Isleworth company rang a mistake-free course of Grandsire Trip'es but with a less satisfactory rhythm than the winning team. A good social evening concluded the day's activities.

DEVON RINGERS' TOUR

A number of members of the Devon Guild Seld another successful tour on February 24th, when the South Hams was again the venue, the we, her being fine but very cold The organiser was Mr Norman Mallett. and accompanying him with his family were Miss Pat Sims, Messrs. A L. Bennett. D. R. Bould. E. J. Cann, G E Mudge. P Perkins. S Pierce, D. Pearse and J. Steer, also Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sims in the afternoon. The following towers were visited:-
Harberton - A ground floor ring with long draught and difficult so handle, and where the Vicar (Rev L. Malsom) said prayers.

Diptford. - A nice ground floor ring, rostored since the last war.

West Alvingion.-An easy-going ring, where he beltry was full of competition certificates. Ringing was confined to well-struck callchanges in which two local ringers took part.

Malborough - A ground floor ring with single cope ends.
Cialmpton.-A very light ground foor six which seemed to drop.
Sou:h Milton.-Stedman Doubles was best on this good ring.
Bigbury.-A good-going ring but with single rope ends.

Modbury.-A grand six.
Erming on -A ground floor ring with long draugl.t which was restored a few years back.
The lunch interval was spent at Kingsbridge and the tea interval at Modbury. A L. B.

A Visit to the Foundry of the Future

By G. P. ELPHICK

Yes, of course you may go into the garden and play at bellringing with the clothes line. only don't disturb your father while he is watching the telly.
The programme followed the usual wellwora lines; a visit to the toundry with views of the moulding, casung and tuning shops, also the assembly shop with its compieted rings being tested by agie bellhangers using oniy the wheels to control the swinging be.ls. This was rollowed by a visit to a loca, tower to see the ringers in action, then back to the foundry to finish the programme.
A door opened into the drawing office-that holy of holies seldom visited by visitors. It was a strange room, circular in plan with no visible windows, yet it was filled with light. It had a number of identical doors leading into the various departments of this very modern foundry. The managing director explaned how the bell shapes were obtained and drawn by the computer, and was leading forth on the higher mathematics of bell design untii one of the party asked him to start at the beginning for the benefit of the less informed members.
It was, he said, about the 1960 's when the founders began to pull their heads out of the moulding sand of tradition. The first signs of change occurred when they became interested in repdiring ancient cracked bells. Centuries before, when a bell cracked in the crown. often an tron band was shrunk over the inscription band to prevent the crack spreading by compressing the bell. In the mid-20th century a system of repairing cracks was developed in the generai engineering trade under the name of "Metal-lock.". It was effected by drilling a series of lapering holes adjoining each other on elther side of the crack and forcing into them non-rusting alloy plugs linked together across the crack.
In 1964 the Danish welders successfully repaired the tenor from Little Hallingbury, but kept their method a deadly secret. The Bratish Welding Research Association intensified their research into the most difficult problem of preventing tin evaporating during a high tin contact weld. They were successful in 1967, when they welded the soundbow of the treble at Groton, Suffolk. This was a great advance on the methods used by Barimar LId., a firm of general engineering welders founded in 1906. But the problem of reducing stress caused by the difference in remperature between the weld and the bell remained.
The "Metal-lock" idea gave birth to the system of electro-plating into the tapered holes plugs of copper, so that instead of a mechanical joint there was a molecular one. This solved the problem of stress caused by hot welding. By the mid-20th century Koehlr had plated out brass, being an alloy of copper and zinc. The bellfounders eventually found a formula for plating out bronze, so that a crack could be repaired by metal of similar proportions to bell metal. They had achieved by cold plating what hot welding could not do. They could join either side of a crack together with a similar metal and not have the area of stress caused by the shrinkage of the molten weld.
In the firm's museum there was a machine that drilled out a hole in the line of a crack and the metal was electrically replaced. then another hole touching the first was drilled and the process repeated along the length of the crack. This process was speeded up by drilling many holes simultancously.
While this was an improvement on an entirely copper weld, for the atoms of tin were correctly surrounded by atoms of copper, it did not take into account the correct molecular structure of the alloy known as bell metal.

The equilibrium diagram for tin bronze shows that, during cooling, complicated changes occur in the metal during the cooling of a casting so that the molecular structure of lthe alloy is not the same as that deposited electrically. In order to ootain a metal nearer the orignal, a system was developed of using electrically deposited bronze as a binding medium round grains of the parent metal-in fact a form of concrete.

The mioroscope, which was invented by Leeuwenhoek in 1673, was vastly improved by the beginning of the 20 th century, when it was used to observe etched samples of bell metal showing the resu.ts of alpha, beta, gamma, delta and epsilon phases through which the cooling alloy passed during solndification. In order to study the molecular structure, electron microscopes were developed, one of the earliest being by a German team headed by Professor Ernst Ruska in 1932. By the 1960's this type of ins'rument, using an electron beam instead of visible light, had not been perfected to the degree that the bell metal molecular structure could be studied.

In those days the atom was often described as a central nucleus (like our sun) surrounded by a number of electrons (like the planets) This was discovered by Rutherford, working at Manchester University. By 1930 Chadwick found neutrons (like dead suns wandering in a solar system) and, later still, Professor Powell, of Bristol University, found that there were many much smaller particles, called pi mesons, that were shot out of the nucleus and fell back again (like shooting stars). By using these very small particles the electronic microscope was able to study the molecular structure of tell metal.

Before this, x-rays had been used to study by diffraction the surface of bells to find out the molecular structure. The giant atomsmashing machines now in use sprang from that built by Crockroft and Walton in 1932. They now produce such powerful beams of particles that the atomic structure of a bell could be studied through its entire thickness. This settled, once and for all time, the thorny argumen' that raged at the end of the 19th century between Thomas C. Lewis, who held that to remove the skin of a cast bell spoiled its tone, and the other founders who maintained that it was more important to remove it in order :o correct the partial tones. Therefore the founders had to modify their cold welding techniques to produce the exact molecular structure according to which part of the thickness of the bell they were replacing.
While this was going on the old ideas on bell design were being re-examined in the light of more recent knowledge. It was found that the bell tone was not so simple as described by Canon Simpson. He considered that it should in its ultimate state of perfection form a common chord covering a complete octave with a hum note an octave below.

It was the introduction of the musical scale of Equal Temperament into Europe that compelied the Continental founders not only to get their bells in tune with each other, but the partial tones as well. The brothers Francis and Pieter Hemony brought the art of bell tuning to a high level in the 17th century. They apparently used metal bars and tound the nodes, being the places of least movement, by observing the areas where grains of sand resting on them did not jump about when the bar was struck. The bars were suspended by strings at these points. They a.so made use of grains of sand to denote when the bars were vibrating in sympathy with the bell tone that was being tuned. This information appears to have been lost until Canon Simpson prodded the Eng.ish founders into activity over tuning the partial tones of their bells. Practically every bell has five major tones which can be picked out with the aid of adjustable tuning forks. The problem was to get them into a preconceived pattern based on the common chord.
When the clapper strikes the heavy metal ring known as the soundbow it distorts it into an ellipse; owing to its elasticity it springs back forming another ellipse at rightangles to the first, and in doing so forces the waist to follow it. Owing to tis shape and varying thickness the surface of the bell becomes covered by areas that vibrate as pure tones at different pitches and these areas also over.ap each other.

An examination by E. W. Van Heuven of a Hemony bell cast in 1663 produced these results. The nodal circle on the crown is 1.55 times in height the radius of the mouth. (See table below.) As most of these higher partials originate in the soundbow area, it was this that received the first modification. The upper partials were eliminated by altering the structure of the metal where the nodes would appear

It is due to internal friction that the sound of a bell is damped. Dr. C. W. Kosten showed that this could be considerably reduced by drilling holes in a nodal circle where a meridan passes. From this idea came nodal design, where the structure of the metal was altered to give greater elasticity. The question of elasticity was studied in great detail. Basically, it is the ability of a molecular structure to regain its original shape after distortion. The nodal structures were modified into a complicated arrangement of molecules, similar in some respects to the elastic garters worn to retain stockings in position many decades ago. Thus the bell sound became purer and stronger.
Then came the breakthrough. A master molecule was devised that controlled the complicated molecular structures devised and built up by slow, tedious methods used by the previous founders before the heat of the hydrogen bomb had been tamed. This master molecule, like the D.N,A. molecule discovered in the 1960's, controlled the growth of all metal structures known as bells. It could duplicate a bell to an atom. All that is required is a plentiful supply of plasma, which is matter in its fourth state. where all the constituent parts of the atom by their intense agitation become unattached to each other. The master molecule draws, from this pool of unattached electrons, neutrons and all the other hundreds of particles that constitute each atom and build a bell. It literally grows in the same manner as a child does. by the taking of nourishment. At the end of that assembly line you can see our latest bell taking shape-it is a 500 ton tenor for Wakey, Wakey ! There's a job for you -the children broke the clothes line ringing the extunt of Bnh Maior.

Method Extension by Computer By GEOFFREY DODDS

A

COMPUTER programme has now been written which removes the labour and inaccuracies which arise from finding extensions of regular Plain and Treble Bob methods by hand, according to the rules in the Central Councll Report on Method Extension (1953)* The programme requires the parent method name, to identify the results, and tis place notation, including the lead-head place. About half a minute later the stage, pivot bell and place notation of the parent method and all its extensions, if any, are printed out.
As an example of the speed, the programme investigated a Surprise Major method (Leatherhead) for all combinations of the five extension patterns below the treble, with the five above the treble, for each s'age of Royai and Maximus, with all pivot bell sequences possible. The time taken was 27 seconds.

Technical Details.

The programme language is Fortran 4 (E) and is at present being used on a punched card input, I.B.M.360, using a standard 80 column field.

Data Input.

Card 1. An alpha-numeric character card, for comparison with chaiacters in the Method input and for producing characters in the Extension output.
Card 2. Parent method.
Cols. 1-20. Parent method name.
Cols. 21, 22. 1.h.
Cols. 23-. Place notation, starting with the iead-head place, using blank and/or dot punctuation between changes, number characters for the places made ( 10 punched as 0 ) and hl immediately after the half-lead plice. The programme copes with irregularities in notation, as shown below l.h. $2-34-14-12-36.12--12.3$ h.l.

Card 2a. If the place notation is 100 long for one card, a continuation card can be used, in Cols. 1-45. The programme looks for " $\mathbf{H}$ " in h.l. to end the method input.
Any further methods for extension are set up on cards in sequence. Last card. Must be left blank.

Extension Uutput.

Part of the output of the above method is shown as an example. The general classification, name, stage, pivot bell and place notation of the parent method are printed first. Then the extension type, below-treble and abovetreble extension codes as given in the Report, stages, pivot bells and place notations of ali extensions are printed, unless consecutive extensions are identical.

* Out of print, but probably the Central Council librarian could arrange for photocopies to be made on request pending reprinting.

All the Rules in the Report, except part of Rule 11, are incorporated in the programme and it is hoped that results will be published from time to time. It will be found that there are a surprising number of extensions, in many cases with alternatives It is to be hoped that one possible extension series will in future be blessed with the name of its parent. There are already several cases where this is not so, e.g. London Bob Minor to Pershore Bob Major, which is the only line of extension, and Royal and Maximus have yet to be pealed.
The part of Rule 11 not used relates to the method type of the parent being retained in the extension. Delight methods would have to be checked by eye, as these could extend to Surprise.
Anyone who is interested in details of the programme layout, flow diagram, Fortran statements or card pack, please write to: Mr. Geoffrey Dodds, 18, Sandfield Road, St. Albans, Herts, enclosing s.a.e.

OBITUARY

MR. W. ABRAHAM

The sudden passing of Mr. W. (Bill) Abraham, of Bristol, has been a particular shock to ringers in Cape Town, for 11 was there that he took up ringing after a gap of 20 years. The ban on ringing in 1939 followed by war damage to the church broke his long service as tower secretary to St. Thomas', Bristol.

In August, 1958, at Woodstock, South Africa, we learned of his coming and saw to it that an invitation to join us was awaltung his arrival A day or two later he came to practice and at once became an enthusastic and vaiued member of St. Mary's. Regularity and punctuality were key notes of his ringing, and his bright and smiling countenance and his ability brought a new enthusiasm to our small band. He took a fuli part in rehanging the tenor and rany severai quarter peals betore returning to Bristol in 1959.
Back home at St. Mary's, Redcliffe, he went on to add to his quota of peals, while his house became a port of call to visiting South African ringers. He visited his son in Cape Town on two more occasions, taking part in the ringing, and just a year ago drove up to Rhodesia for a holiday. Woodstock is proud of the part it played in Bill's ringing life and remembers him with affection. A.V.S.

MR. W. ELLERINGTON

A well-kinown North Yorkshire ringer, Mr. W. Ellerington, of Middlesbrough, died on February 14th, aged 75. He was only in hospital a week and was actually chatting cheerfully to visitors a few minutes before he died.
He lived most of his life in Middlesbrough, coming to the town at the age of 20 , and worked for Messrs. Pooley, the weighing machine specialists, until he retired. He learned to ring at Naburn, near York, where he was born, and continued his ringing career at St. Hilda's, Middlesbrough, joining the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association, membership of which he retained until his death.
He wis not a great peal ringer but had rung one or two deals of Superiative in his younger days. Bill was always keen on attending District meetings, and his cheerful greeting and happy disposition will be sadly missed. With beginners he seemed to possess an abundance of patience.
His funeral (cremation) took place on February 17 th, and on the following Wednesday his friends and fellow ringers rang a halfmufled peal of Cambridge Surprise Major at St. Cuthbert's, Ormesby, the church where Bill finished nis ringing career only a few months ago.
We extend our sympathy to his son, Frank, and family. who now live at Scunthorpe.
T. M. C.

BELFRY GOSSIP

Mr. J. Penning's one-part of Grandsire Triples rung at Prestwold on February 17th has 160 calls It is taken from Grandsire, 1905 edtion. page 104 , writes Mr. D. K. Walklate (the conductor).
The Church of St. John, Miles Platting, Manchester, is to be demolished. A farewell meetung is announced for March 16th. (The bells are a ring of eight with a tenor just over 12 cwt.)
Croydon ringers are handbell ringing in Benjamin Britten's production of "Noyes Fludde." Aftel much searching they secured a loan of a set of 12 , size 22 in $E$ flat, from Mears and Stainbank.

Congratulations to two learners from St. Leonard's, Bilston, who competently rans their first peal of Surprise Major at Much Weniock on February 10 h , eleven months after their first bellhandling lesson.

Taking part in a recent peal at Fulbeck was Mr. H Barnes, who rang in the first peal on the bells 63 years ago. He is the only survivor of that band.
The Lancashire Association's Handbook (price 3s. 6d. post free) doubled its sales last year The Association's secretary attributes this success to a weckly advertisement in "The Ringing World." It is, however, a very good guide.

The members of the Fawley and Romsey bands are very proud of their peal of Doubles in 75 methods/variations at Barton Stacey. It was the second attempt, and to check the validity of all methods several quarter peals had been rung. Despite the very chilly hraught across an unscreened ringing $p$ 'atform a very good peal was rung with only six slips is 4 .

BROMYARD'S EXAMPLE

Behing the augmentation of the six bells of St. Peter s. Bromyard, Herefordshire, to eight and rehanging on a steel frame is a story of a novel scheme and practical generosity.
To mee the cost of $£ 2,000$ the P.C.C. launched a loan scheme in units of $£ 10$. These would be repaid over a period of ten years by an annua: draw of 20 bonds, the first to carry a bonus of £5. In 9 little over two weeks no less than $£ 1,530$ was received on loan and over $\mathbf{5} 50$ in gifts. The appeal then received a most generous gift from Mrs. M. Dawson as a memoria to her late husband. which will not only pay for the essential repairs and installation of a new bell frame but will also provide for one additional bell.

Iom Cooper. chairman of the Bell Repair Commat:ee and Master of the Hereford Diocesan Guild has offered to meet the cost of the second bell. Steps are being taken to refund the sum loaned.

A party of Bromyard ringers recently made the journey to the Loughborough Foundry to see the two bells cast. It is expected that Messrs Taylors will start the reinstallation and augmentation this month The Bishop of Hereford is to perform the ceremony of dedication on Friday, April Sth, at 7.30 p.m.

GOOD WISHES TO LAN AND MARGARET

A popular wedding, linking Lancashire with Kent, took place at Leigh, Lancashire, on February 24th, between Mr. Ian Oram, peal secretary of the Kent County Association and captain of the ringers at the Church of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Chislehurst, and Miss Margaret E. Fort, who is also a noted peal ringer. While the wedding was in progress a peal of Stedman Triples was being rung at the bridegroom's tower at Was being rung at the bristehurst by Kent colleagues. Hundreds of ringers will wish lan and Margaret every happiness in their married life.

BIRTHDAY BELLS AT OLD BRAMPTON

For Mr. P. (Percy) Attwood, the oldest member of the Old Brampton, Derbyshire, band, February 3rd will long be remembered, as he took part in a quarter peal rung at Old Brampton especially in honour of his 70th birthday (the day before). A native of Great Tew, near Banbury, where he first learned to ring over 54 years ago, Percy is a very popular figure in the Chesterfield District, as was evident after the quarter, when he received birthday presents from the Vicar (the Rev. A. B. Gordon) and from the other members of the band, the latter being in the form of two complimentary tickets to the Derbyshire Association's dinner that evening.

THE BRAINTREE FOUNTAIN

Twenty members and friends of the St . Michael's Guild of Change Ringers attended the second annual dinner since the custom was revived. It was held on Friday, February 16th. at the new dining room at the King Williatn. Bocking Church Street, Braintrec. The curator of the Colchester Museum, himself unable to attend, very kindly lent the Braintree Fountain or Ringers' Jug, which was on view in the dining room for the occasion. This handsome object, illustrated in Walters' "Church Bells of Britain", having a capacity of well over three gallons but now of doubtful practicality, was made at the Stock Pottery in 1685. It is inscribed with the names of the parish, the clerk and the ringers, to whom it was given by "the Mayor". Subsequently for over 100 years in the possession of the family of a Mrs. Waylett, a publican, it was given to the Museum over 60 years ago. Further information and the time when it was last "at home" would be welcomed by the Guild.

After an excellent meal. Mr. R. J. Lindsell, Ringing Master, proposed the traditional toast of "The Church". He referred to the enjoyment to be obtained from active participation in such pursuits as ringing in an age of armchair enthusiasm, and the important role of the Church still to patronise the arts. Without her the service of ringing would lose much of its meaning. Replying on behalf of the president, the Vicar of Braintree, who had a prior engagement, the Rev. John Nobbs thanked the ringers for regular support-few Sundays pass without morning and evening ringing-and commented on the usefulness of bells and friendliness of ringers. "Whatsoever ye do, do it heartily as for the Lord" provided an apt motto for the ringers.

The secretary then briefly outlined the known history of the jug. and the hope was expressed that the example of our predecessors in raising funds for the addition of two bells, consecrated at Michaelmas, 1899. in celebra tion of the 700th anniversary of the foundation of St. Michael's Church. could be followed by us today in the proposed addition of two further trebles to bring the total to ten. Plans for this are under way, and a fund-raising committee is in course of being set up, in view of the estimates received for the work.

The evening ended with tunes and changes being rung by members of the company on handbrlls. an aspect of the art to which increasing attention is being given. C.H. G.

TOOTING GRAVENEYS NEW RING
Exptessing his delight at a new ring of eight bells installed at All Saints Church. Tooting Graveney, Mr. Martin D. Fellows writes: "It should be placed on record that were it not for the untiring efforts of its curate, the Rev. Tony Clayton, the parish of All Saints would still be with only one bell in its church. Tony was indeed fortunate in being able to secure the old Warner bells from the redundant Church of St. Michael, Star Street, Paddington, to provide the metal for the new ring. "I well remember being telephoned and told 'We've got the old bells from Star Street for scrap, and the demolition contractors are having to throw them off the top of the tower as they are unable to get them out any other way '!'

HIS AMERICAN TOUR

Mr. William Theobald has been selected to go to the United States and Canada with the "Daily Express" Jetsell tour representing Messrs. Mears and Stainbank. He will be visiting Boston, Washington, Atlanta, Minneapolis. St. Louis and Montreal. At the conclusion of the tour he is going to Smith's College Northampton, Mass, to install a new ring of eight.
Mr. Theobald has made certain contacts but if any ringers in America or any going out there at this period would contact him he would be glad to hear from them and, if time permits, to meet them.

RINGERS MAKE MERRY AT  EASTBOURNE

On the evening of February 20th the Old Parsonage at Eastboume fairly rock d with the sound of bursting balloons as ringers and friends from a wide area met within its cen-turies-old walls. In spite of last-minute apologies from several old friends due to illness, over 70 people of all ages were present.

The holder of the lucky number ticket was found to be Bob Percy, Sussex Association secretary, whose family of ringers turned up in force. They are expected to make short work of his prize-an iced cake surmounted by a tenor of undetermined weight. (Cries of 'Fiddle!' were entirely unjustified!) During the evening the games included the ever-popular musical chairs-played this time with a difference-and a crafty quiz.

A loaded refreshment table was provided by an army of helpers. and the goodies disappeared at the usual speed. When the cider flagon tap snapped off in the middle of things cries of panic produced all manner of containers to prevent the drink being wasted on the woodworms. Harold denies that his beret was in use it this time.
Familiar melodies by the youngsters of the S: Mary's Handbell Choir were well received, as were Grandsire Caters by a band representing several towers. And as those from distant parts began to take their leave the festivities came to an end with "Auld Lang Syne"
H. R.

DRAYTON'S PRE-REFORMATION  TENOR

Permission has been granted by the Chancellor of the Norwich Diocese to recast the preReformation 63 cwt tenor of St . Margaret's Church, Drayton. Norfolk, which cracked on Christmas Eve This bell is being recast by the Whitechapel Bell Foundry, where is recently arrived. The weight of the new bell will be increased to 8 cwt . and it is hoped to have it back in the tower by the end of March, writes Mr. M. A. Frost, tower captain.

OBITUARY

MR. HERBERT DAVIES

An Appreciation

January 31st, 1968, saw the passing of Herbert Daves at the age of 82 , the last member of the celebrated band of ringers which made St. Peter's, Church, Pentre, Rhondda, noted throughout the Llandaft and Monmouth Associarion.
He came to the Rhondda from Kingsland, Hereford, at the age of 26 , joining the St. Peter's Society in 1911. He rang 37 peals for the Association, amongst thein Cambrage, Superlative and Double Norwich, but it is for his conducting of Grandsire and Stedman that he was better known, preferring methods in which the heaviest bell in Wales was rung behind.

The 74 steps of St. Peter's finally led to his calling the last bob in 1957, but he will always be remembered oy the Society for his patience and perseverance with its younger members, who never once heard his voice raised, even when things were not going quite as they should.

EAST DERBYS AND WEST NOTTS ASSOCIATION

The light and interesting six at Holy Cross Church, Morton, was selected for the Association's first meeting of 1968 on February 17th. The tenor, recast in 1500 , is 41 cwt. but is not the heaviest bell, the fifth being half a cwt. heavier. Over 4C ringers from ren lowers were present at tea in the Rectory Room, and the ringi:.g ranged from rounds and callchanges to Norwich and London Surprise.
A. the business meeting the president, Mr. Brynley Richards, was in the chair. Fourteen new members were elected including eight from Pinxton. of whom one was the Vicar (Rev. R, L. Gwyther).

Notice was given to change the present arrangement of monthly meetings to bi-monthly on the fourth Saturday of each even month. This will come before the A.G.M. on Easter Monday. Mr. S. W Fossey proposed a vote of thanks to the Rector (Rev. E. B Teale) for conducting the service. to the organist (Mr E. C. Clayton) and the ladies who provided the tea. and ringing continued until 9 nm

Ripley bells are not available for March meeting.

Randwick's Cycling Vicar has now Six Bells

RANDWICK, Gıouontershire, his now six bells instalied in tw belfry, through the inusuave of the Kev. the Hon. N. R. Morrison, who cycled 1,000 miles on a sponsored journey from Land's tad to John o' Groats to rause money for the suxtn ball.

Ihe idea of augmenting from tour iv six bells came to num when Miss Edna narper oltered a boll to the churcn in memory or her brotner, who died four years ago.

The Kandwick Church Council then agreed to purchase a sixth bell and, toanks to the Vicar's ride, a grant of $\pm 7$ trom the Gioucester and Bristoi viocesan Association of Church Bell Ringers and various sponsors, all but $\ddagger 25$ of the $\pm 600$ or so needed has been raised. The two new bells were cast by Messrs. John Taylor and weign adout 3 cwt. each. The inscriptions art:

- In memory of a dear brother, Russell Harper, 1904-1964, who loved the sound of bells, from sister Edna."
"Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association of Church Bell Ringers; Mrs. K. A. M. Wehner in memory of Rev. G. K. Wehner (her husband), J. H. B. Wehner (her mother-in-law) and A. M. Leake (her mother); M. H. Simpson in memory of Eva L. Simpson and the Rev., the Hon. and Mrs. N. R. Morrison," concluding with , the words "Behold the Lamb of God."

The new bells were dedicated at a private ceremony on February 17 th by the Rev. C. H. J. Woad, Vicar of Standish, with Miss Mary Bliss, chairman of the Gloucester and Bristol Diocesan Association, who struck each bell three times. The public dedication ceremony will take place on Palm Sunday. Commented the Vicar after the new bells had been tried out on February 22nd: "A very pure tone, purer than the old bells."

YORKSHIRE ASSOCIATION WITH SELBY SOCIETY

Was it the joint meeting or was it Howden's bells that attracted over 60 people to put in an appearance during the afternoon and evening? Whatever it was this meeting turned out to be very successful, with plenty of ringing, a pleasant service at which the Vicar played the piano for the hymns, a good tea and the briefest of dual business meetings.

Mr. A. Sheppard and Mr. H. Walker shared the chair and welcomed the Association's president and lady, together with the Association's general secretary with his wife and family, also Mr. H. Hawcroft, from Sutton-on-Trent.

Beverley was proposed for the District A.G.M. on the third Saturday in May. An invitation to hold the 1969 District A.G.M. at Howden from the Vicar was accepted; he added that the Association was always welcome.

Mr. J. Thorley deputised for Mr. L. M. Woodhead (who was absent through illness) and quickly disposed of the Selby District business. Mr. R. Warford proposed a comprehensive vote of thanks.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

West Dorset Branch

The Langford-Beams Cox memorial meeting was held at Bradpole on February 17th. Seven towers were represented and visitors were welcomed, including the Rev. R. N. Longridge, Master of the Salisbury Diocesan Guild. The Guild service was conducted by the vice-chairman of the Branch, the Rev. O. L. Wilmmott. His interesting address left much " food for thought." Tea was arranged in the Foresters Hall by the local ringers and lady helpers.

At the opening of the business meeting the chairman (Mr. C. W. Powell) warmly welcomed the Rev. R. N. Longridge, and his visit was much appreciated. Members were told of the Guild Festival at Wimborne and agreed to use their own transport.

Standard methods were rung during the afternoon and evening, including Yorkshire.
Next quarterly meeting: Beaminster, April 27th. Practice meetings: Askerswell, April 3rd; Whitechurch Canonicorum, May 6th.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Charing Win District Striking Contest

Eight teams entered for the first striking competition of the Ashford District held at St. Nicholas', Pluckley, on February 17th, and while the competition progressed non-competing members found comfort on the tombstones or churchyard wall and exercised their brains on informal judging. The foremost of these was "The Lurker" (W. W. Ling), who is renowned throughout the District for his criticism of striking.

After tea in the School Room, Mr. C. J. E. Wyld thanked the Rector (the Rev. J. L. Pittock) and the organist (Miss Anne Barber) for the service, and the local band for making the arrangements. The judges (Dr. D. Niblett and Mr. J. R. Cooper) then announced the results with a commentary. Certificates were awarded to the first three teams: 1 Charing, 2 Folkestone, 3 Cheriton. Other teams competing were Brabourne, Little Chart, Lympne, Rolvenden and Wye. The judges and Mr. A. G. Homewood were thanked by Mr. N. J. Davies, and ringing was resumed.

The Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Lavenham, Suffolk

By GEORGE W. PIPE

WITHOUT a doubt Lavenham is one of the finest churches in the land and considered by some, alongside that of the neighbouring Long Melford, to be the best example of a parish church in the Perpendicular style. Its most notable feature, which can be seen for miles over the gently-undulating Suffolk countryside, is its tower141 feet high.

The photograph shows that the buttressing treatment is not only unusual but massive. The secondary angle "towers" are 9 feet square and exquisitely dressed with knapped flints and stone. The tower was started in 1486 and by 1523 it had probably reached the louvre windows. The b.ending of the upper stage is very good although it was nol finished until possibly 1550 . Whether or not pinnacles should have crowned this masterpiece we have no documentary evidence, but local feeling is that these nould somehow look out of place.

1 he whole church was generously endowed by the Earls of Oxford and the local wealthy wool merchants, in particular the Spring family. Thomas Spring III died in 1523, his will specifying a bequest towards finishing the tower.

The bells are equally famous and one scarcely meets a ringer who hasn't either visited Lavenham or intends to! They have been a talking point up and down the country when favourite eights are discussed. Tonally bell for bell, with the exception of 6,7 and 8 , they are not good-how then their fame? This, I think. is due to three factors. First, the church and tower and its siting in Lavenham; secondly, the almost ethereal atmosphere in that great belfry; and thirdly, the quality of the 6th and 7th covered by the "Matchless Tenor".

And what a truly remarkable bell that is! Cast by Miles Graye in 1625 , with a diameter of $52 \frac{1^{\prime \prime}}{}$ and a note only a $\frac{1}{4}$ semitone sharp of D flat (A 440 cycles $/ \mathrm{sec}$.), it weighs only 21 cwt .7 lb . Thus, with these three back bells, the acoustics and this ever-present atmosphere, we have a quite unique eight. One can hardly fail to be moved when Bristol, Stedman or Double Norwich in particular is rung here.

There were five bells in the Ecclesiastical Return of Church Property in 1553 , with a tenor possibly heavier than the present one. A treble was added in 1702 and then two more in 1811. Up until 1964 the bells hung in their original c. 1525 oak frame (the main members measuring $17^{\prime \prime}$ square), it being impossible to retain it any longer due to death watch beetle. Then in that year the eight were rehung by John Taylor and Co. in a new iron frame with all new fittings.

The founders are well represented: 1 and 2 William Dobson, 1811; 3 Henry Pleasant, 1702; 4 Richard Bowler, 1603; 5 Henry Pleasant, 1702; 6 Richard Bowler, 1603; 7 C. and G. Mears 1845; 8 Miles Graye, 1625.

The first recorded peal we have set a high standard no doubt-5,000 Bob Major in 4 hours 3 minutes on December 2nd, 1813. Since then 170 have been rung there. Arthur Symonds having stood in 100 of them consecutively.

Lavenham is a tower where good striking and hospitality are traditional, and there is no doubt that it will always be a "must" for church and bell enthusiasts alike.

80th HENRY JOHNSON DINNER

FIRST LADY MASTER AND GLASGOW PEAL

CANNOT CONDONE BREAKING RULES

Abstract

WEARING the chain of office of the oldest Society in the City of Birmingham-the St. Martin's Guild of Church Bell Ringers-Miss Muriel Reay received many congratulations at the 80th annual "Henry Johnson" Commemoration Dinner on being the first lady to be Master of the Guild. The dinner was held at the Old Royal, Birmingham, with Canon Harry Hartley, Rector of Solihull, in the chair.

But the new Master faced the problem of the moment-the record peal of Glasgow -courageously: "I feel we cannot condone the hreaking of rules; if we did so the Central Council would fall into disrepute as would ringing in general."

The special announcement of the evening was regarding the gift of two new trebles to Solihull, providing the Diocese witb another 12 -bell tower. Present was Mr. "Bill" Leeson, who for 70 years had been a ringer at Solihull, and the bells are his gift to the church he had served so faithfully. He received a grand welcome from the assembly.

The chairman, after proposing the loyal toast, apologised for the absence of Mr. Frank Smaliwood, a vice-president of the Guild, who was too ill to attend. The company concurred with his suggestion that their good wishes for a speedy recovery be sent to Frank.
A bouquet was presented to Bishop Sinker for Mrs. Sinker, who unfortunately bad another engagement, and also to Mrs. Hartley and Mrs. Warman.
The toast, "The Memory of the Late Henry Johnson," was proposed from the chair. Canon Hartley remarked that he understood that the toast co this illustrious person, who used to haunt the steeple at Aston, was drunk in silence.

A toich of Stedman Caters followed, rung by W. Williams 1-2, F W. Perrens 3-4, Frank Haynes 5-6, W. G. Wilson 7-8, R. C. Ingram $9-10$.

FOUND THE LADY

The Archdeacon of Aston (the Ven. F. F. G. Warman) proposed the toast of "Continued Prosperity to the St. Martin's Guild "with a very happy speech. He recalled that when a young man, while living at Cheisford, he frequentiy travelled to and from Liverpool Street, and on those trains card-sharpers were to be seen trying to induce a luckless individual to try to "find the lady." These dinners of the St Martin's Guild had been in existence for 80 years and it was only now they had been lucky enough to "find the lady." He would like to congratulate the Guild on the choice they had made as Master in Miss Reay. This was a post that was firmly established in the past in the stronghold of the gentlemen.

The Guild and the Exercise owed a considerable debt to the ladies, and it seemed that each year more and more ladies had learned their art. Perhaps it was because they had ncw more confidence or perhaps because they felt they were entitled to feel the ropes. They all owed a great deal to the non-ringing ladies who allowed their husbands out on an evening and twice on Sundays to indulge in this practice
Regarding the second part of the loast, "Continued prosperity of St. Martin's Guild," Canon Warman said the clergy were all very grateful to bellsingers for the work they did up and down the country. They admired the great expertise and skill of those who indulged in peal ringing and had the great excitement of a long peal which contained " all the work " until that great triumph at the end, when the treble came down to lead for the last time and all the other bells ran down the scale.
The Master, Miss Muriel Reay, was cordially received when rising to reply and said St. Martin's Guild was founded in 1755 and was amongst the oldest ringing societies in the country She also understood that it was the oldest society in the City of Birmingham. The first peal by the Society was rung in 1755 at the Church of St. Philip, which was now the Cathedral, and was of Bob Major. Since then a great many peals had followed and something like 600 peals had been rung at the Cathedral and they had been rung in a great number of methods and on all numbers of bells. A high standard of ringing had been set which they all had to maintain.

Each gencration had provided very capable men to till the various offices. They had been fortunate in their choice of secretaries and long might it last! In the last 100 years or so they had had only five secretaries and each had served for 25 years. Their present secretary had completed 20 years in office and he was extremely capable, efficient and hardworking.
Under the present leadership of their Ringing Master, in 1965 they rang a long length of Stedman Cinques, the next year there was another long length and this year there had been a record length of Glasgow. This peal was surrounded by a lot of publicity. In the first two hours the ringers had to put up with the constant glare of B.B.C. cameras, but throughout their ringing was of a high standard and they would all like to say "Well done." They nad a number of records and if any other band of ringers were so lucky to ring another record peal without breaking the rules of the Central Council they would say to them "Well done"

MUST ABIDE BY RULES

"The Central Council have laid dowa a good many rules and regulations and they have also faid down a code of behaviour. A good many ringers feel that it is time the Central Council revised those rules, but we are of opinion that until that is done we must accept those rules and abide by them. As responsible people. I feel we cannot condone the breaking of rules; if we did so the Central Council would fall into disrepute, and ringing in general would suffer.
" In our towers we had a lot of young people and a number of young ladies who are making good progress. To these young people we look to provide the ringers of the future. Our Ringing Master has a good many ideas for the future and among them is a long length of Royal; what the method will be I don't know."
One other thing they were looking forward to was their fourth ring of 12 in the diocese. Thanks to ihe hard work of the Rector and ringers of Solihull two new trebles were to be added. She did not know when it would be but she felt they must certainly congratulate the ringers there on what had been done.
Mr. and Mrs. K. Lawson and their two daughters, from North Yorkshire, then rang on handbells a faultless touch of Plain Bob Major.

Bishop G. Sinker proposed the toast of The Visitors" and said when his photograph appeared as a ringer recently in the Press he understood the professional ringers of St. Martin's Guild were rather alarmed. They had been ringing that night and perhaps they wondered, if they left the bells up, who was pulling the bells that could be heard in varmous parts of the city. They would have read the next morning that it was the Provost, and that he was still among the living.

[When the news of the passing of the Immigration Bill was received the Provost rang the Cathedral bells in protest.]

Canon Douglas McLean, in reply, said they lived in an age of change, when far too many things were being pulled down for the sake of change. It was so with the Church and so many documents were being produced from the Church Assembly that the poor incumbent did not know what would descend on his head next. There were also changes in dress and hair. He hoped that while they would welcome changes that could be helpful they would strongly oppose changes which were unnecessary. The English man and woman did not like to be pushed about too far and it behoved these innovators to remember this.

LIFELINE OF THE EXERCISE

The toast of "The Ringing World" was submitted by Mr. Norman Harding, who said "The Ringing World " was a wonderful publication and circulated to all parts of the world where bells were rung in the English way. It provided news and good reading to suit every kind of ringer, indeed it could be looked upon as the lifeline of the Exercise.

What would happen if it went out of circulation? He ventured to suggest that it would be a ringing disaster. They would never know what was going on in other parts of the country and in the wilds of North-West Norfolk would never know when George reached his 3,000 th peal or the latest score at St. Philip's Cathedral. It was the duty of all of them to see that such a thing never happened. The journal, with its new look and excellent cover, had become very attractive, and all ringers should be encouraged to take it, and, it they did, the journal would be safe for all time
Mr. Harding concluded by thanking the regular contributors for news and articles, "The Ringing World" Committee that had many difficult problems, and the Editor and all those people who were responsible for providing the journal week by week.

Mr. Vernon Bottomley, who was entrusted with the reply, said a few weeks ago there appeared in "Womar", a letter written by Jill ripe which stated: "My nusband is very keen to learn bellringing. How shou,d he go about 1t?" Following that tetter be had a number of applications for information, the majority being from young ladies at Yardiey. He referred most of them to George, and it nice to teel that they had provided some " fodder."
The concluding toast of "The Chairman " was proposed by one of his own ringers, Mr. T. J. Warner, ot Solibull. He said that Canon Hartley could ring a bell but his wife was a better ringer. Unfortunately the 55 steps up to their beltry was a disadvantage to his ringing. The Master of the Guild had toushed on the hopes they had at Solihull of two new trebles being auded to their excellent ring of ten.

The ringing Exercise should know how they came by these two bells. When the Rector learned that the offer of one treble was a firm one, he made it his business to thank the donor and received the offer of a second trebie. Having secured the two bells he set about the preliminaries necessary before they could give an order.

THE DONOR PRESENT

The chairman, in reply, recalled that he and his wite rang at Malvern and how Charlie Cann called a bob. Speaking about the gift, Canon Hartley said he had tried to keed it quiet about the 12 bells as they still had one more day to go, during which time people could make objections to the faculty being granted. There were some people who thought that 12 bells made more noise than ten.
rhey owed those two bells to one person in that room who had given them. He would like to thank Bill Leeson for the gift. Bill had been ringing 70 years at Solihull. He had been thirough a lot of trouble to aet the new bells and hoped to be alive to see and hear them. The twelve would provide a light eight so that their young rugers could have a go.

The chairman read a letter written to him 171954 bv Mr. G. E. Fearn, annuuncing that Mr. Edgar Shepherd had proposed his electhon ds a member and that the Guild would be pleased to have hum as such. The Canon sand he could not recall having pard a subscription to the Guild and was prepared to pay for the arrears if they were not 100 heavy.

Mr. Warner assured the Canon that there were no arrears. "Believe it or not, the churchwardens pay the subscription," he added.

THE COMPANY

Supporting the chairman and Mrs. Hartley on the top table were the Provost (Bishop Sinker), Mr. G E. Fearn (hon. secretary), Miss Reay (Master), Archdeacon and Mrs. Warman and Canon D. Mclean.

KENT LADIES' THANKS TO Mrs. DOBBIE

Despite the rather adverse weather conditions. the Ladies' Guild (Kent Branch) held a successful meeting at Sittingbourne on February 24th Several gentlemen joined the ladies for ringing on the eight bells prior to the service, which was conducted by the Vicar. There followed an enjoyable tea, which had been organised at short notice, by Mr. Kenwood.

The gentlemen then returned to the tower, and Miss Todd took the chair at the business meeting. The new secretary (Miss Joan Wood) was officially welcomed. The meeting asked that a record of their thanks be made to Mrs. Dobbic for her ten years of service as secretary of the Kent Branch. Two new members were elected Fourteen ladies were present, and Mrs. Mitchell expressed her pleasure on seeing all but one of the Districts of Kent were represented. The attendance was especially creditable as there had been, unfortunately, only short notice given of the meeting
When the business was concluded the ladies rejoined the gentlemen for further ringing. to conclude a pleasant occasion.

SALISBURY DIOCESAN GUILD

Wimborne Branch

A quarterly meeting was held at Witchampton on March 2nd. Ringing on the six bells ranged from rounds for the many learners present up to London Minor. The Guild service was attended by over 40 ringers and was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. C. P. de Candole, with Mr. H. Faulkner, from Swanage, as organist.
After an excelkent tea the business meeting was held. Twenty new members were elected (a record); these represented three new towers being afflizated to the Guild, namely Morden, Spettisbury and Witchampton. Plans for the Branch outing on March 30th to the Newbury area were discussed, as were the joint meeting with the North Dorset Branch on April 20th and the proposed joint meeting with the Dorchester Branch in July in conjunction with the Hardy Festival. It is hoped to hold a Branch dinner at Canford School on Friday, August 2nd.

A VISIT TO NOTTINGHAM UNIVERSITY DINNER

INVITED by two of our recently ost ringers to their annual dinner at Nottingham University on February 24th, we arrived in sunny mid-morning and were only allowed time to dump our beds before being whisked away to the first tower. Whilst we were enjoying some short touches at Breaston, the University Society was engaged in a successful peal ot Yorkshire Surprise Major, which was the first peal on the recently rehung bells at Beeston Another successful peal that morning was one of ten Surprise Minor methods at Bunney, arranged for the visitors.

In the afternoon we visited the towers avaitabie for ringing, first calling at West Bridgford, where the highlight of our visit at least was the sight of the spotlessly clean bell chamber. After the somewhat crowded conditions here we found plenty of space at St. Mary's, Nottingham. As Jacker Long, our captain, commented in typical Lydney fashion, "Cor, them der sound good, mind, dunnum?"
Aftel being ordered to pay homage to "Little John" striking four, we went to St. Peter's for a 12 -bell ring. Here one of us was so unnerved by the shaking of the tower that he could not strike his Stedman Cinques properly! The last tower was the University's home, at Beeston, where we met, at last, the N U.S.C.R. Master, Dave Mclean.

The dinner was held in Derby Hall of Residence, where 67-a record number-sat down to turkey. Afterwards the president. Mr. Paul Taylor, proposed the loyal toast and announced a touch of Stedman Triples to be rung on handbells by members of the Society. This was successfully accomplished and Rosa: mund Rawlings, the Fresher representative, welcomed the visitors and proposed a toast to us. One of the guest speakers, Mr. Paul Cattermole, replied with a speech during which he advertised this year's Central Council meeting at his home town-Worcester.

Mr. John Baldwin, the other guest speaker, having ascertained that he was supposed to be speaking, there being some doubt in his mind lest the Society had confused him with another Baldwin, toasted the Society and reminded everyone that there were still thousands of Surprise methods which could be composed. Finally, the Master replied on behalf of the Society, pointing out the absence of Ted and Beryl Shuttleworth and explaining that they had been married that afternoon. He followed this by obscure references to members of the Society and ferrets, and then told of last summer's tour of the Lake District. After a "quick drink" we were not allowed to go to bed but were taken ten-pin bowling and then to coffee parties. The activities eventually seemed to finish at about $4 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$.

HERTFORD COUNTY ASSOCIATION  Northern District

Because Royston bells were again unavailable the Northern District met at Codicote on March 2nd The bells proved rather difficult to strike well but, despite this, methods rung included rounds, Plain Bob. Oxford Bob. Cambridge, London and Norwich Surprise. Between 30 and 40 members attended throughout the evening.
Next meeting: Baldock, on April 6th (subject to permission).

LONG LENGTH ATTEMPT 10,784 Oxford T.B. Major

Dear Sir,-I give notice of an attempt to ing 10,784 Oxfcrd Trebie Bob Major on handbeas on Sunday, March 24th, 1968, commencing at 11.30 a.m. The attempt will take place in the School Hall, Pancake Lane, Leverstock Green, Hemel Hempstead, Herts, and arrangements will be made for any ringers to come and listen if they so wish. The composition to be used is a shortened version of the 1,824 by T. B. Worsley, rung at Heptonstall on April 18th, 1927, and is as follows: 234567

645237 Repeat last 8 courses
426357 B
346257 W
234567 B H H
If successful this will be, I believe, the longest peal of Treble Bob rung on handbells. -Yours faithfully,

BRIAN J. WOODRUFFE.
Wheathampstead, Herts.

GLASS LOUVRES IN A LEICESTER CHURCH

Mr. Julian M. Morley has introduced modern glass moving louvres into the belfry of the Church of St. James the Great, Birstall, Leicester.

Previously the open windows, 5ft. high and 3 ft . wide. were covered with chicken wire. This resulted in the metal frame rusting, ropes getting wet and sallies damp. After a heavy fall of snow he had to clear it away from around the bells. It was also damaging the clock mechanism, floors and stonework.

In 1966 the ringers painted the bell frame with a rust resisting paint and bitumastic paint, but $b y$ the following year it had started to rust again After visiting many towers and examining fixed and moving wooden louvres he hit on the idea of using modern glass moving louvres.

Mr. Morley first made a three-inch square frame of Maranti wood, six inches wide and one inch thack. To this he fitted the louvre unit inside, and this left a two-feet high arch at the top, which he filled with quarter-inch plate wired glass. He then protected the whole of the window by fixing chicken wire to the frame iriside the tower.

A cord from the ground floor was attached to the lever which operated the louvres. To the top of the lever a spring was fastened to return it so that the louvres could be operated from the ground floor. (See picture with chicken wir: removed.) The louvres give complete protection from the weather and also reduce the amount of sound in the distance, but not in the immediate vicinity.

The louvres were supplied by N. V. Appleton Lid., of Slough, in kit form, the wood and glass cu: to pattern, and putty was supplied by a lowal building firm. The cost was $£ 12$ a window The fitting could be done by anyone who is handy with a hammer and screwdriver. The only difficulty Mr. Morley encountered was in ensuring that the wooden frame was square. If this was not so, the louvres would not operate freely.

OBITUARY

MR. ALBERT W. COLES

A wide crrcle of friends will regret the passing of $\mathbf{M r}$ Albert $\mathbf{W}$. Coles, of North Mymms, Herts, in St. Albans Hospital on Monday, March 4th. He was 79 years of age.
"Bert" and his brother, Tom, learned to ring at St. George's-in-the-East around 1890. The two brothers hecame stalwarts of the Middlesex County Association and for many years "Bert" was a vice-president of the Association for the N. and E. District. St. Giles'-in-the-Fields was his particular tower and here he taught many to ring.
At one time he was in the London City Police and later he joined the G.P.O. as a signwriter. The high standard of his craftsmanship can be seen in many towers; probably the best is at Rickmansworth, which embodies a number of peals. To his widow and son, Peter, the sympathy of many friends is extended. The funeral service (cremation) was at Enfield Crematorium on March 8th.

MR. A. E. MORGAN

Kingswinford, Staffs, will sadly miss Mr. A. E. Morgan who died on February 25th, aged 59. For 44 years he had been a regular ringer at St. Mary's, Kingswinford, and secretary and treasurer of the tower for about 20 years.
Although quiet and retiring, he did a tremencous amount of work behind the scenes, writing out merhods for learners and organising outings and meetings.
At his funeral on February 29th the whole pull and stand was rung 59 times, half-muffled, by R. A. Peakman 1, C. Peakman 2, N. White house 3, S. Mallen 4, B. Lawton S, C. F. Jukes 6, Dudley 7, D. Griffiths 8. ' C.F.J.

MR. E. T. SNELLER

Mr. Edward Thomas Sneller, of Ilsley, was taken from us very suddenly on the morning of February 23rd. He died in his cottaqe in the village he passionately loved, and they were very sad villagers who walked up the hill to the old Norman church to attend his funeral on Tuesday. February 27 th.
On Sunday the family attended Communion and remembered with love the "Master," as he was affectionately called, and for Evensong a long touch of his favourite method, Stedman Triples. was rung half-muffled, six of the band being very close relations.

He was churchwarden for many years, and although not attempting to beat any records for number of peals rung was yet in the top class of ringers. being faithful to his service ringing and an admirable striker when on the end of a rope. The "Master" had one other love. that of good music, and was no mean player of the clarinet, being in great demand by orchestras around the Reading and Newbury districts.

If ever a man loved his church, his family. his village and his neighbours it was Edward Sneller, and he will be much missed. He rang most of his peals at Ilsley with his famous uncles, Richard T. and William Hibbert, and amongst one of his proudest ringing memories was three courses of Stedman Triples at Westminster Abbey with such illustrious ringers as Herbert Langdon, Alfred Peck, Robert Newton and Challis $\mathbf{F}$. Winney, and his striking in that touch was equally as good as when ringing the fourth at IIsley.
Superlatives are often ill-used but in the case of the "Master" we can all say "Well done thou good and faithful servant." R.1.P.

Letters to

FALSE PEALS AT BIRMINGHAM
Dear Sir,-I should like to point out that the following peals were false, owing to the front-works of the Rosehilt group not being rung in the correct order:-
(1) 18-Spliced Plain Major, rung in Birmingham University Union on October 4th, 1967, conducted by Richard J. Parker.
(2) 35-Spliced Ptain Major, rung in High Hall, Edgbaston, on October 17th, 1967, conducted by Richard J. Parker.
(3) 20-Spliced Plain Major, rung in High Hall, on February 13th, 1968, conducted by myself.

As conductor of the last of these I should like to apologise to the rest of the band. Yours faithfully,

CHRISTOPHER I. ROWSON.

THE EMPTY PLACE

Dear Sir, - At the Society of Rambling Ringers reunton in February one empty place was land The idea behind this was to recerve, on the empty plate, a col.ective donation to one of the world food aid organisations. (A similar idea was in operation at one of the Lord Mayor of London's functions last November.)

We hope to make this a practice at future reunions as well, and would like to acquaint readers of "The Ringing World" with the idea for their own consideration.
Our particular donation was sent to Christian Aıd. I wonder if anyone (e.g. from the Clerical Guild) would like to write a few paragraphs giving information on the three or tour appropriate world organisations? - Yours faithtully,
D. MOTTERSHEAD.

Wilmslow, Cheshire

LADY "CIRCLES" WELLS CATHEDRAL

Dear Sir , - With reference to the recent quarter peal of Stedman Triples rung at Wells Cathedral ("Ringing World," page 156), I have since discovered that Miss Sheila $Y$. Hallett, by ringing the tenor ( 56 cwt .), has now rung all ten bells to quarter peals.

The band and her many ringing friends would like to compliment Sheila on this and the excellent way she handled this "man's" bell in the quarter peal.-Yours faithfully,

Midsomer Norton, Bath.

WORCESTERSHIRE BELLS

Dear Sir,-Mr. Martin D. Fellows was justified in putting old Alf in his place over Worcestershire bells. It came about in this way. Old "Learcher" Attwood, of Comberton. a humble shepherd but a renowned heavy bell ringer (1897-1906) used to tell us boys at Uverbury: " If thee wants to get some good bells ring at Beckford, Bredon, Eckington and finish up at 'Pasha,' they be all Rudhalls's and they take a good plough line with a whipcord for Bredon Norton's bells as they are so light."
Can Mr Fellows tell me the history and castings of the bells at Overbury, Ashchurch and Kemerton?-Yours sincerely,

ALFRED J. WHITTLE.

SPLICED MINOR IN EIGHT METHODS
Dear Sir,-I submit the composition re quested by Mr. Egglestone.

720 SPLICED SURPRISE MINOR
In EIGHT MECHODS

Contains 240 Cambridge (C), 192 King Edward, 120 Bourne, 48 each Ipswich (I), Primrose (P), and 24 each Hull (H), Norfolk (N), Queen Mary (Q), with 24 changes of method. -Yours faithfully, ROGER D. BAILEY. London, N.W.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

Dear Sir,-How deplorable has some of the correspondence been on the availability, or otherwise, of the bells of Westminster Abbey. How gracious and masterly was Mr. Pitstow's reply.-Yours fasthfully,

B. E. BARTLETT.

Also the Devon Association's representative on the Central Council.

FUDSEY SURPRISE MAJOR

Dear Sir, -1 should like to point out that the composition of Pudsey Surprise Major by Simon Wigg, fublished on page 176 of "The Ringing World," contains only 74 roll-ups, or 72 in the shortened version..
The following not very original arrangement of the peal may prove of interest. It also contains 72 roll-ups, but retains the 1856 's and 65 's of the original.

5,039 GRANDSIRE CATERS (Correction)

Dear Sir,-I regret to inform you that there was an error in the figures submitted of the peal of 5,039 Grandsire Caters by Charles H. Kippin (page 176). The first course should read:

62354978 1, 4S. (Not 2S, 4S). Yours sincerely,

THE NATIVES ARE STILL FRIENDLY

IT is over two years since I, a newcomer to this country, recorded my first impressions of bellringing in England, and these were published in "The Ringing World." Since then I have become acclimatised to England and its way of life, and to a large extent the English have accepted me as a resident in their midst. So how, in these two years, have my attitudes been tempered by time from those exnilarating first months?

I am thankful that I started my English ringing areer in the Oxford Diocesan Guild's territory, because the part of suburban London I moved to shortly after my arrival presented a depressing contrast-a no man's land of grimy, almost derelict towers, silent towers, and a general lack of the enthusiasm and fellowship I had found in my first weeks here.
1 had always thought of London as the hub of bellringing, but I have found it to be a fragmented hub. and running rather dry in its bearings. Four separate territorial Associations just fail to converge at its centre, where academic and the more illustrious Societies dominate, and these boundaries seem to creare socia! difficulties, even if they alleviate administrative ones.

My employment required me to live in London, but 1 was fortunate that, after a couple of fruitless months, I was introduced to a regularly-ringing progressive North London tower where beginners were being taught, and where some effort was being made to build a better standard of change ringing.
I have been very grateful for that help: after being taיight to handle a bell properly (and forgetting 13 years' bad handling and ropesight habits took a little effort on my part) my standard has improved steadily. The encouragement I have received from my ringing colleagues has been wonderful; even peals have been jeopardised to give me opportunities I'd waited years for. With this improvement has come a better understanding of my capabilities and limitations-1 realise that I will probably never become a self-assured peal ringer, as each one continues to be a major ordeal to be mastered. Also, the science of conducting still eludes me, despite the patient tuition of friends.
But if I'm not going to be a renowned peal ringer or a noted conductor/composer, where does my aptitude lie? I must admit that, although these days it is almost unfashionable, I derive the greatest enjoyment from service ringing. And actually enjoy working on frames, painting and maintaining the fittings that will keep the bells turning for, I hope, centuries yet.

I contunue finding great pleasure discovering new towers in the beautiful English countryside, and wherever I've gone I've found that wonderful hospitality I now associate with Britain. Old towers, fine old bells and grand people. This is the story of the past two and a half years. Not that there have not been moments of disappointment; such as the time someone with experience of bells nearly succeeded in deliberately causing a tragic accident in a local tower, and petty politics that occasionalıy boil to the surface in this journal. But these are the sort of things that occur in any human situation, and it would be unnatural for them to be absent from any community, even if it is supposed to be a Christian one.
So, to those overseas ringers who might be contemplating a visit to the Ringing Isle, what can my two years' experience in this country prompt me to advise? Come! You will undoubtedly receive an unforgettable welcome, enjoy ringing at many marvellous towers and, perhaps most important, you will make some of the finest friends. WALTER KNIGHT.

PRACTICAI

GOOD HUNTIN’!"

By A. YORK-BRAMBLE

(The full-length answer, as promised in these columns in December last, to "How should one attempt to teach • Rope-sight '? ") MOST tutors of ringing have at times wondered if their way of trying to get their pupils to acquire rope-sight is all it should be. Rope-sight is acquired, of course, through various stages of practice in "" hunting." In other words it implies the ability of the learner of method ringing to find his way amongst the moviment of the other ropes; with ear and eye ac'ing closery in conjunction. This brief statement looks all very well on paper; but it hardly tells how the objective is to be achieved in practice. It may come as a surprise to some that a close analytical study of what goes on calls for a rather detailed description and explanation.

There are, of course, more ways than one of guiding a learner through the stages of hunting. Yet this period is too often a time of disappointment and even frustration, no matter what form of instruction is being given. This is largely due to the pupils not having grasped precisely what is being required of them. In turn this is probably due to their not having been given a clear-cut concep! of what nunting" actually is. A preferred way of carrying all this into due effect is one which, in part, has been developed and tested Ly the College of Campanology over a period of ten years, and with considerable success. Described in what follows, it is suitable for one pupil alone, or two or more pupils taken together. It introduces, in a considered form of presentation, several new features. There are five stages

Stage 1: The concept of hunting itself, and its careful introduction.
Stage 2. The " try-out," i.e. by rhythmic beating (Handclaps with positions named.)
Stage 3. Rhythmic beating by handbells, leading to changes.
Stage 4. Preparation for acquiring "Ropesight." (" The Six Points.")
Stage 5 Pupil-controlled hunting practice.
The trist three stages do not employ the tower bells. In the first two we use handclaps to mark the rhythm of striking. In the third stage wi employ handbells; at first only as rhythm markers, but later as change produzers. In the fourth and fifth stages both handbells and tower bells are used. Whenever hand-claps are used the pupil simultaneously calls the position.
Stakc. 1. The Concept. - This calls for "papel-work " and must come first. The tutor should write out a plain-set of say, the Minor stage, and from it point out that changerows are produced by the exchange of positions of pairs of neighbouring bells. A conventent name for this exchange is "transit," used to avoid misunderstanding of the varrous meanings of the word "change." Continuously repeated ransits produce a trellis-like pattern of bell movement in their intersecting paths, called "plain hunting." In this plain hunting a bell's path can be uraced from side to side of the columns, moving one column further across in each successive change-row; and with, normally, two same positions at the row-ends when reversing direction (i.e. at leading and lying). In the actual ringing the process calls for hunting for bell-rope after bell-rope that is to be rung after, or followed or "covered." The process can be seen, from the rigures, to he either static or mobile-Static when hunting from the same position in more than one change, and Mobile when hunting while on the move from change-row to changerow Expressed in tabular form (Fig. 1):-

STATIC hunting occurs when

(a) repeating your position at either end of a change-row.
(b) making a place. (Explain by use of figures.)
(c) repeatedly last in the change-rows. (All covering.)
MOBILE hunting occurs when
(d) moving UP (Expanded covering, explained later.)
(e) moving DOWN. (Contracted covering, explained later.)
Fig 1 The Hunting Table.
Experience shows that learning to hunt is eastest if the steps are taken in the order (as shown above), paticularly of the last three(c), (d) and (e)., Before looking into the way of using eye and ear together to acquire the trick of this hunting business, we first check our paper work

Exercise (on paper).-The pupil should now write out the plain-hunt sets for Singles (3), Minimus (4), Doubles (5) and Minor (6). In each set he selects a bell and marks out its path throughout the set. In one set, say the Doubles the pupil is asked to mark in a final figure 6 after each change-row, and is shown that this is an example of a bell performing continuous covering-ringing last. In the modern concept all hunting may be looked upon as resulting in covering, i.e. in the three forms as noted above-Static, Expanded and Contracted.

Stage 2. The Try-out. (By rhythm only.)-For this first bit of ringing " with others, we write on the belfry blackboard, or on a large sheet of paper pinned 10 the wall, the figures of the plain-hunt set of, say, Minimus, with its four bells and eight rows; and we add a fifth-position bell to ring last each time, i.e. to perform a static cover. (See Fig. 2.)
As indicated above, hunting is most easily learned in the type-order of (c) Static; (d) Expanded: (e) Contracted. So we are beginning with "Static."
First Hunting Exercise. The simplest hunt-ing-static covering-is performed while remaining in one position in the change-rows, and looking for the bells to be followed in each change In this particular case the pupil sees an exercise of covering, in fifths place. the changes on four bells. In this exercise the pupil(s) will represent the fifth or cover bell and will clap the hands at the moment when that bell should be striking. The bells will be considered as striking when the tutor calls out therr positions. For this he uses ordinal numbers - 1 st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th - to avoid confusion with the bell numbers themselves (cardinal numbers). The figures posted up before the pupil(s) are followed as the exercise proceeds. When the exercise is successfully completed, the figures are covered up or removed, and the exercises repeated withous them. So this is how it goes: The tutor counts aloud, pointing at each row in turn, " $1 \mathrm{st}, 2 \mathrm{nd}$, $3 \mathrm{rd}$.4 h , Last, $1 \mathrm{st}, 2 \mathrm{nd}, 3 \mathrm{rd}$.4 th , Last (Pause)." This he repeats until the plainset is completed The pause. after the second time ro'nd, represents the open handstroke. and enables the tutor to take breath. As the tutor calls "Last," so also do the pupil(s) with a simultaneous hand-clap. The pupil does this rhythmically, of course; but his attention should be directed (on the figures of the plainset) to the end bell in each change-row on the "chart" as he "covers" that bell.
Second Hunting Exercise. We pass from Static to Mobile hunting. Our table (Fig. 1) shows this to be of two kinds-(I) Moving UP, or "Expanded," and (II) Moving DOW N, or "Contracted." In this exercise we' take the Expanded type of covering. The pupil(s) will "take" a bell, say the treble, and again refer to the "chart." (Fig 2.) The tutor counts and row-points as before. He first expıains that "rounds" are rung until after he calls " GO," when, immediately after the ensuing pause, the changes begin. The pupil(s) can see from the cnart that the treble moves up from 1 st position to 2 nd position. So the next clap-and-call will come on the tutor's 2nd," the next on "3rd," and then on " 4th." We stop there for the moment and note that we have " moved from front to back," called "hunting up" We also note an important difference between the first hunting exercise and this secord one, in the matter of blows struck, or positions passed through, between our own hand-claps. In that first exercise-static covering with bell 5 -four blows are to be counted in the intervals between our own two claps. Yet in this "hunting UP" exercise we can see, from the first four change-rows (as tar as we have gone). that five blows are to be counted between any two consecutive claps. The interval is expanded, in fact. If we had been ringing a tower bell it would have swung a iittle higher than in the first exercise; a little more "UP" if you !ike; or covering one more bell than in the static covering. Hence the terms "up" and "expanded."

Third Honting Exercise.-Here we tackle the contracted type of covering. i.e., hunting while moving down," and for this we pick up on the chart (Fig. 2), the point where we left off just now. This was at the treble's first blow in 4 tins. We notice that a second blow (hand-clap) is called for in this position i.e. to complete the "lie" So this is a little bit of what we practised in our first exercise, namely static hunting; with reversion to four blows between the hand-claps. But now, with the tutor still counting, we move "down " into 3rds position, then 2 nds and finally Ists, as we "lead" once more Now let us check the intervals, as in the previous two exercises. Here we find only three intervening blows. The intervals are contracted, and if this were being performed on tower bells, their swing would not be quite so high as when "static" -more "down." in fact. Hence the terms "down " and " contracted." Bell-units other than " 1 " should now be taken on the chart (Fig. 2) and their paths "clapped out," with positions named, right through the plain-set. The pupil should, by this time, have a pretty fair idea of what hunting means-entirely (at this stage) by 1 hythm only. He should also have realised that in change-ringing there are three rates of rhythm: (a) Normal, as in rounds, covering as such, leading and lying and place-making; (b) Slower, or "expanded." as in huiting UP: (c) Quicker or "contracted," as in hunting DOWN; also that every quickhunting bell is compensated by a slow-hunting bell.

NORWICH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION

A representative gathering of North, East, South and Wes: Branches met at St. Andrew's. Holme Hale, on February 24th, despite the icy wind that prevailed, when the bells were put to good use during the afternoon and evening. The Association's form of service was conducted by the Rev. P. Flather, and Mrs. Heyhoe actompanied on the organ.
At the business meeting the Rev. P. Flather, priest-in-charge, was elected an honorary member.

Votes of thanks were extended to the Rev. P. Flather and to Mr. S. H. Waterfield and his band of ladies for arranging a sumptuous tea. Next meeting: Castle Acre, May 25 th.
C. E G B.

ST. ALBANS, HERTS.-At St. Stephen's Church, on Feb 18th, 1.260 Plain Bob Minor: R. Bickerton 1. Carol Parkhurst (first "inside" and Minor) 2, R. J. Lewis 3, P. T. Dale (cond.) 4, A. S. Taylor 5 , A. W. R. Wilby 6.

Clevedon Parish Church and its Bells By edward g. Caple

THE "old church" of Clevedon, as it is known, appropriately dedicated to St. Andrew, the patron saint of fishermen, lies in a fold between two of the town's seven hills at the western extremity of the parish, within sight and sound of the sea; it is the "obscure and solitary" church of Tennyson's epitaph to Arthur Hallam.

The chancel is said to have originated as a fishermen's chapel and the main fabric has been dated as early as 1080 with good Norman work and additions in the 14th and 15th centuries.

It is cruciform in plan with a central tower, a modest church when compared with some of its magnificent neighbours in the county: the upper storey of the tower is supposed to have been added by John Ken, whose tomb is in the sanctuary, in the reign of Elizabeth I, and there is a record that a beacon fire was lit on top at the time of the Spanish Armada: the tower was whitewashed in early days as a landmark to sailors.
Until 1925 there were but two bells in a cage for five, three having been sold to Bristol by the churchwardens in 1525. Of the two remaining, one was a good bell by Thomas Bilbie, of Chew Stoke (1725), weighing approximately 15 cwt ., the other, about 6 cwt., cast by Lewis Cockney, of Bristol (1695); while there are a number of bells in Somersel by William Cockey, of Frome, it is thought there are only two others by his predecessor, i.c. Farleigh Hungerford (1681) and Hinton Charterhouse (1687).

NEW BELLS WITH A BILBIE TENOR

Early in 1925 a lady parishioner offered to give six new bells to form a ring of eight, utilising the existing two with the Bilbic bell as tenor, the work being undertaken by John Taylor and Co. On examination, however. It was found that the Cockey bell was of poor quality and tone and useless in an octave, and the founders suggested it should be recast, retaining the inscriptions and decorations, but the diocesan authorities would not agree and eventually the donor provided seven new bells. the Cockey bell being mounted on a plinth and placed in the church porch.

The Bilbie tenor went to Loughborough for tuning, coming back at a weight of $14 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$. and so good match with the others few would know it was not cast at the same time although in fact it is exactly 200 years older. When the order had been placed, the next step was to find ringers, and a band of teenagers was raised from the Bible Class, which in turn was mainly composed of ex-choirboys. Tuition began on the somewhat heavy-going five at All Saints', Clevedon, the final polish being given at St. Peter's, Portishead.

Meanwhile, structural alterations took place at the church, the tower being strengthened by grouting, and bats and mice came out as concrete was pumped in, new floors were built and an outside entrance formed, the door to the orlginal belfry stairway being in the nave, having also served in earlier times as the approach to the rood loft; the old oak frame was removed to make place for the new steel one.

SCARED YOUTHS

On September 30th, 1925, the bells were dedicated by the then Archdeacon of Bath, the opening rounds being rung (very badly) by seven scared youths suffering from stage fright. not allayed by the experienced older men standing immediately behind them. After the service a quarter was rung by a band representative of the diocese.
As the new company was entirely composed of novices. it was natural that the Church Council should want an older man in charge, and the first tower captain was the late T. E. Francis, a well-known .Somerset ringer living in the town; under his benevolent tuition, ably assisted by Herbert Knight, of Wrington, and some others, progress was slowly made.
Of the eight who rang those first rounds, two are still members, one being Stanley James, who took over as captain and steeplekeeper when Tommy Francis retired; there are also three others who joined soon after.

Against the advice of the Association experts a chiming apparatus was installed: it was suggested this would encourage laziness and the bells chimed more often than rung, but this fear proved groundless as, apart from occasional chiming of hymns for early celebrations of Holy Communion, the Ellacombe hammers are never used, the bells being rung twice every Sunday (thrice on the great festivals of the Church), the only break being the war years.

At the end of that first year, one of the churchwardens, George Marshall, a farmer and, for a short time a ringer, invited the ringers to supper, and these sumptuous spreads continued every year until he died, when this kindly function was taken over by Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Atkins. Mr. Atkins, a former choirmaster and now a ringer, was a railway official and stationmaster at Temple Meads, Bristol, at his retirement.

NEW YEAR'S EVE

Each year-end the band assembles in the tower at $8 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$ and the bells are rung "open" for about an hour, when adjournment is made to Devonia, Tennyson Avenue, where a five-course supper is ready and waiting. When all are replete, appreciation is voiced and baskets of fruit presented to Mrs. Atkins and her neighbour-helper. A return is then made to the tower for half-muffled ringing, and at midnight 12 blows are struck with the tenor, followed immediately by "open" ringing until about 12.30 a.m. A call is made at the Atkins' house on the way home to let in the New Year.

The bells are a delightful light octave, very popular with visitors and much in demand for peals in an area where heavy bell-metal is the rule. At the time the ring was installed the district around the church was sparsely inhabited, two farms and a few cottages, and Old Church Road was a lane, but in the past 40-odd years there has been considerable development so that the farm lands have largely disappeared and hundreds of houses cover the fields, one small Close being a few yards from the churchyard wall, so while the bells were there long before the houses, it is felt that frequent prolonged ringing can be an annoyance and peal attempts are well spaced with a total score to date of only 30. The Portishead band got in first, on December 17th, 1925, with Holt's ten-part peal of Grandsire Triples.

HUNTINGTON GUILD OF BELLRINGERS

Compliments at Annual Dinner

THE 1968 annual dinner was hold on Feb ruary 16th at the De Grey House in York A good company of members and friends sal down to an excellent meal in equally pleasant surroundings. After the meal was over, the president of the Guild, the Rev. Geoffrey Lawn, Vicar of Huntington, welcomed everyone to the dinner and read a letter of apology from Dr Alan Richardson, Dean of York and patron of the Guild, who was unfortunately orevented from attending by a previous engagement. The Vicar mentioned the high ights in the Guild during the last year, in cluding a very profitable visit to some of the local nostelries at Christmas to ring handbells and sing carols. He concluded by thanking the Guild for all its work. He also welcomed the guest speaker, Mr. Norman Chaddock, convener of the Education and Sunday Service Ringing Committees of the Central Council.
Mr. Chaddock complimented the Guild on its work and had a special word of conratulation for the production of the Annual Report. It was most important, he said, that a Guild should get its priorities right, and he was pleased to see amongst its objects the Guild put Sunday service ringing first. He felt that if ringers were keen Sunday service attenders, then the personal interests, such as peal ringing, would automatically follow on. Of course, ringers must be enthusiastic about their work, but there was little doubt, judging by the report, that there was plenty of enthusiasm within the Guild, and this was obviously one of the reasons why the Guild was in such a strorg position at the present time.

The tinal speech of the evening was a reply to Mr. Chaddock by the secretary of the Guild, Mr. A. Colin Banton, who also thanked the visitors for their support and for helping to make the evening so successful. The remainder of the evening was spent in an informal manner.

1968 A.G.M.

This was held on February 17th, when the main purpose of the day was to elect the officers for the ensuing year.

For the firsi time for many years, all the officers were elected en bloc, and it is boped that this is not a sign of stagnation within the Guild. However, in view of the successful year, reflected in the Annual Report, the president ithe Rev. Geoffrey Lawn) said be thought it was perhaps the best thing to retain ali the officers and he hoped that they would achieve another good year's work
The Annual Report was presented for formal adoption and was accepted. The secretary was thanked for his efforts in producing once again a comprehensive report, and also the treasurer for his excellent work in achieving such a successful balance. The total income For the year was $£ 44$ and, after the handbells, reports and dinner had been paid for, a credit balance of E 27 2s. was left.
A brief discussion on the peal levy then followed, and it was finally decided that the lee should be fixed at 1 s . per ringer for both tower- and handbell peals, and that fees should be paid into the Guild's Bell Repair Fund. It was also agreed to try to hold next year's dinner in York.

KENT COUNTY ASSOCIATION

A large number of people attended the Kochester District by-meeting held at Bobbing on March 2nd. The service was conducted by the Vicar, the Rev. A. Joslin, and was tollowed by a very adequate tea served in the Village Hall by Mrs. B. W. May and her band ot helpers Two members from Queenborough where re-elected as their memhership had lapsed when ringing at the lower ceased some eight years ago. Following restoration work to the lower, ringing was recommenced. A rettring collection was held in aid of the John Willis Memorial Fund. After the meeting handbells *ere rung for a while and a return was made to the church for further ringing. W. M.

Annual North and East District Meeting at Pinner

The Church of St. John the Baptist, Pinner, set high on rising ground, looks down on many old houses in thus once country village which has in recent years become a growing suburb of London. To non-ringers it is probably better known for its annual fair, which dates back to the 14 th century. There were five bells at the Parish Church as far back as 1622, which were recast and increased to eight in 1771. They were sut to good use on February 17 th on the occasion of the annual meeting of the North East District

The secretary reposted that the experiment of arrabigng four evening meetings was satis factory. although the average attendance was not so high as at the Saturday meetings. It was decided, however, to continue to include evening meetings in the programme for a fur ther year. Twenty-one new ringing members were elected to the Association, together with nine ron-resident life members.

The officers entrusted with the welfare of the District for 1968 were the same as for the past year, viz.: H. G. Hart (chairman), Mrs. H. G. Hart (Master), T. G. Hawkins (Deputy Master). E. H. Kılby (secretary), D. I. C Smith (assist. sec.), Miss V. E. Ware (auditor), and Miss G E. Newcombe, D. E. R. Knights and $R$. Gage (committee representatives).
Nine new ringing members were elected: Miss S. Hughes, Miss J. Sackett, Miss W. Pope, H. G. Corpe, C. Hughes, L. Hunt, S. TaibotPonsonby (Harrow-on-the-Hill), Rosemary Sanders (Pinner) and Peter Clarke (Hendon).
Mention was made by Mr. F. W. Goodfellow of the illness of Mr. A. W. Coles, a past Master and vice-president of the District, who had been visited in St . Albans Hospital by the chairman and himself. The best wishes of the meeting were extended to Albert for a speedy recovery.

In place of the bi-monthly Surprise Major practices at Hendon it was decided thas in an endeavour to assist any towers in need of extra help on practice mights, whether elementary or advanced, a meeting would be arranged if possible upon notice being given to the secretary. It was felt that this would meet a need and help all grades of ringing.

Before the meeting closed, the chairman proposed a vote of thanks to the Rev. David Ritchie for the use of the bells and hall; to the Rev. Mr. Beasley for taking the service; to John Sweden for accompanying at the organ; to Mrs. Bardsley and her helpers for providing an excellent tea; and to D. E. R. Knights and K. Sanders for local arrangements.

BELFRY GOSSIP

We are informed that Mr. Tom Goodyer, of Sydncy, N.S.W., will be over in England on a business trip in May. A barrage of peals from ex-Great Adventurers can be expected.

Twenty ringers attended a combined practice at Garveston (6), Norfolk, on February 26th, coming from Barnham Broom Group, Mulbarton, Norwich and Wymondham. Methods ranged from Plain Bob to Norwich Surprise.
The peal at Drayton, Berkshire, reported last week. in which the Master of the Oxford Diocesan Guild (Canon C. Elliot Wigg) took part, followed a wedding. The timing of the event was disturbed by the bride arriving 40 minutes late.
We hope the Suffolk Guild will note the performance of the re-formed band at Saxmundham, who rang a quarter of Plain Bob Doubles for a youth service. The conductor was 13 -year-old Andrew Ellis. There were two other 13 -year-olds in the band and one 14

The B.B.C. appeal on March 3rd was for Thatcham, Berkshire. where $£ 7,000$ is needed for the restoration of the tower. Michael Hordern, who made the appeal, spoke with affection of Thatcham bells.

The Vicar of Randwick, Stroud, Glos. would be glad to know the date of a peal rung on the four at Randwick.
The peal of Rutland rung at Banwell on February 10th was not J. Walton's 100 th peal, as submi:ted.
Pipe's Yilgrims' tour will be in Yorkshire this year from July 7th to 13th, with H.Q. probably in Sheffield.
At the recent Chesterfield District meeting at Staveley, Derbyshire, Stedman Triples was rung by an all-District band. How long before an all-District quarter?
Miss C. M. Wells, of 30, Forresters Road, Burbage, has succeeded Miss V. Watts as secretary of the Hinckley District of the Leicester Guild.
Many of the older Derbyshire ringers will be sorry to leain that a long-standing member of the Bolsover band, Mr. Joseph Saxton, is in failing health end has not been able to work for a long time.

Will those who rang in more than 100 different towers in 1967 please send their total for the year and grand total to Mr. R. J. Collis, 144, Percy Road, Whitton, Iwickenham, Middlesex.

A MEMORABLE PEAL AT CLEWER
The peal at Clewer, Berks, on February 4th was noteworthy for a number of reasons. It was the first peal on the bells since 1958, for shortiy after the last attempt the third bell was cracked. An ambitious scheme to recast the fresent six into a light ring of eight had been in existence for some years but had been shelved for lack of money, the church being in the midst of an extensive restoration. At that time no money could be spared even to recast the third. Some members of the band moved out of the district-Bill Butler moving to Thatcham at the other end of Berkshire, and Frank and Monica Blagrove spending a few years in Rhodesia.
Eventually, through the persistence of the remaining members of the band, sufficient money was found to enable John Taylor's to recast the cracked bell provided that the work of removing it from the tower and replacing the new bell was carried out by the ringers Jim Brooks undertook a great deal of this work and the new bell was finally installed ready to be rung for the first time on Christmas Day last year.

The celebration for the 25 th anniversary of the induction of the Rev. Cyprian DymokeMarr as Rector was an obvious occasion for ringing, attended as it was by the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishops of Oxford and Reading A quarter peal attempted at this time unfortunately came to grief, but a peal attempt on the anniversary of the actual day of the induction was successful. It was originally intended that the band should consist of all the old members, but a serious illness of a member of his family kept Arthur (Dick) Bird from ringing. The band would like to thank David Brown for standing in at short notice in his place.

SEVENTH GENFRATION OF RINGERS

On March 2nd Robert William Elliott, aged 12 years, was elected a ringing member of the Essex Association. Robert rings at Kelvedon Church, carrying on a family tradition which stretches back over 200 years and through seven generations.

In all these years there has been at least one Elliott an active member of the band, and sometimes up to five.

VIDEO-RECORDER USED

The bells of Chalford, Glos, rang on February 27th as a birthday compliment to one of the ringers, Shirley Downie, aged 13, and also Mr. J. Sampson (churchwarden), aged 82.

Afterwards the ringers were able to watch and listen to their ringing on C.C.T.V., as a portable video-recorder was used in the tower. This proved a very interesting experience for all concerned-especially in watching for one's own handling peculiarities !

It is hoped to repeat the experiment soon and also to visit a more spacious tower for casier shooting.

"THE EXPERIMENT CATCHES ON*

With regard to the article "The Experiment Catches On " in the issue of March 1st, the author would like to point out that the words "Oxford Guild" appearing immediately above the line "Oxford Guild (Witney and Woodstock Branch) " are a printer's error and do not constitute any attempt to misrepresent the Guild. She offers sincere apologies to all those to whom embarrassment has been caused.

ST. MARY'S, TWICKENHAM, BELLS

The bells of St. Mary's, Twickenham, are now at Loughborough and are not expected back until late summer. They are to be rehung in a new cast iron twottier frame. The present oak frame has held the bells on one level for the better part of 300 years, this being possible by swinging the fourth and seventh bells into the window openings. The other bells when rung miss touching each other by a very narrow margin, hence the advantage of the bells on two levels.

Messrs. John Taylor, who have examined the bells, state that they are sound and of good tone and will not have to be recast, but simply retuned New headstocks and wheels are, however. necessary.

According to P.W.B. the 19 cwt . tenor was cast at the time of Queen Victoria's jubilee in 1887. The other bells date back to the 17 th and 18 th centuries, except a very ancient one, John, which was 100 years old when rung to celebrate Sir Francis Drake's victory over the Spanish Armada.

A 15th CENTURY BELL GOES HOME TO BURY

A 9 cwt . bell cast by Reginald Chirche, of Bury St. Edmunds, who died in 1498, is to return to Bury and be displayed in Moyses Hall Museum. For many years it has stood unused in Hollesley Church. Friends of the Museum have offered $£ 80$ for it and this has been accepted by the Rector, the Rev. J. M. Gates, subject to the necessary faculty being obtained.

Mr. Claude Rush writes that this bell is the second of the three shown in Raven's "Church Bells of Suffolk." The other two are both dated 1620. Raven also states that David Elisha Davy, a Suffolk antiquarian born at Rumburgh, near Halesworth, in 1769 found a damaged bell when he visited Hollesley Church ir. 1824. This was a 1637 Miles Graye bell and it had a large hole in its upper part. Today at Hollesley there is a modern installation of eight bells with a 17 cwt . tenor in excellent order.

HOLY TRINITY, DARTFORD

The bells of Holy Trinity, Dartford, are now practically silent, and if it were not for one or two ringers who come from a distance they would not. be rung for any service at all, as the local band has, for various reasons, been diminished to five members, all of whom cannot attend each Sunday.

In an eftort to recruit more learners the Vicar has issued an appeal to various likely places around the town, where it is hoped some interested people may be found, and local ringers have been asked to support this appeal by meeting at Dartford on March 13th next so that any would-be aspirants may see and hear our bells being rung as he (the Vicar) would like them to be every Sunday.

We at Dartford know that there are some good ringers at Dartford apart from those of the local band, but they are committed to outside towers and while we have no desire to "poach" ringers, if there are others not already committed and who would care to join us in our endeavours to recreate a band, they will be welcome at the tower on March 13 th at 7.45 p.m. Should the outcome of this appeal be worthwhile, practice night will be transferred to Wednesday. $\mathbf{R . G . R}$.

ST. MARY'S, PRITTLEWELL

The bells at St. Mary's, Prittlewell, are again in the tower and 25 ringers, pleased to see them back, turned out on Tuesday. February 20th, to test them. Afterwards in the local everyone agreed that John Taylor and Co. had done a very good job
Of course, no one dared to disagree with Arthur Fidler, who was present. Arthur has done a good job of rehanging the bells and in doing so has made many friends in Prittlewell. We shall always be pleased to see him when he is agan this way.

The rededication took place the following Sunday at Evensong, the Archdeacon of Southend (the Ven. W. N. Welch) performing the ceremony in the presence of the Mayor and Mayoress of Southend (Councillor and Mrs. H E. Davis). Ringing followed until 9 .m.
Mr. Frank B. Lufkin, Masteı of the Essex Association and a past Master at Prittlewell, took charge of the ringing, while the present Master, Mr. Bernard Sadler, conducted the Mayor to the bell chamber to see the bells. On returning to the ringing chamber sumeone suggested that the Mayor stood back while the bells were being rung, to which he replied, "Yes, they tell me there are less painful ways of getting rid of a Mayor than with a bell rope! "

The Archdeacon, a friend of all Essex ringers, joined the Mayor and Mayoress in the ringing chamber and gave us a chance of assuring him that our prayers and peals will be for him when he is consecrated as the new Bishop of Bradwell on April 25th. G.R.E.

NOTTINGHAM RECTOR ANSWERS CRITICS

Criticism of the bells of All Hallows, Gedling, by residents who said they disturbed the peace and quiet of the neighbourhood, have been answered in "The Nottingham Evening Post ". by Canon C. H. B. Watson. After pointing out that the bells were no noisier than others in the county and were only rung for two hours a week at the bellingers' practice on Wednesday nights and on Sundays, he comments: "This attack was in bad taste. It has caused alarm and despondency among people who enjoy ringing the bells." Church bellringers-campanologists-had a rigid code of conduct. Special peals were rung only on odd occasions, perhaps once a year, he said.
Because the church bells had been ringing in the parish since 1595, it was residents rather than bells who had intruded upon the peace, he said.
He listed numerous everyday noises which disturbed the peace. These included the roar of traffic, fire engines, police cars and an amplified "pop" group in a hall near the church.
'If we are to live in a real world, we cannot flee these vibrations in our ears. You cannot silence the song of the birds nor laughter of children-nor church bells," said Canon Watson.

COMPOSITION WANTED

Dear Sir, -With reference to recent correspondence from Mr. F Hector Bennett and Mr. John Acres relative to a peal of Plain Bob Minor, rung at Dorney, Buckinghamshire, without singles, conducted by Mr. Frank Blagrove, is there any possibility of us knowing Mr. F. Blagrove's composition or do we stili continue to ring peals of Plain Bob Minor as we know it?-Yours sincerely, Shrewsbury. ERNEST WILLCOX.

LATE NEWS

MR. William langley
With regret we report the death on March 3 rd , at the age of 86 years, of Mr. William Langley, of Monken Hadley, Herts.
A regular Sunday service ringer for the past 40 years, Bill was known mainly for the very even beat he would maintain on the tenor when drumming for peals or quarter peals. He will be sadly missed by us all at Hadley for a very long ume.

BATH AND WELLS ASSOClATION

The Itchester Branch held two very successful events recently. On Pancake Day (February 27) they ievived the Branch Dinner after a lapse of many years. This was held at the King s Arms, Montacute, where 39 sat down to an excellent meal, at which the Archdeacon of Wells (the Ven. J. du Boulay Lance) was the principal guest. The Rector of Ilciester (the Rev G. Thomas) said Grace, and the charman (the Rev. C. J. B. Marshali, of Long Sutton), proposed the loyal toast. Other toasts were proposed and responded to by Mrs. R. E. H. Rendell, the Archdeacon of Wells, Mr. Roger Fox (deputising for Mr. T. J. Setter, who had met with aft accident), Mr. Billy Turner. Mr. Gordon Rendell and Mr. George Legget. The Branch hon. secretary (Mrs. M. M. Legget) was toastmaster. The evening finished with an impromptu skittle match, which resulted in a win for the Hardington-Yeovil Six ove the Ilton Plus's (2), the Archdeacon's (3), Long Sutton (4) and Montacure (5).
On March 2nd the Branch beld its quarterly meeting at Odcombe. Between 35 and 40 attended The Guild service was taken by the Rev. A. C. Dean, with Mrs. Egien as organist. An excellent tea was provided in the Village Hall and this was followed by the business meeting. Sympathy was extended to two accident victims-Mr. T. J. Setter and Mi. J. Drew. Five non-resident life members were ratified and new Branch members elected as follows: Mr. Robert Venn (Stoke), Miss Sarah Cox and Mr. Richard Stark (Montacute) and Mr. J. Worledge (Odcombe). Certificates were presented to Master Raymond Turner (Harding(on). Messrs. M. Bailey, N. Bailey and D. Groves (West Coker), D. Hammonds, (Preston), Miss Linda Drew (Stoke), Mr. Christopher Morey (Martock), Mr. Eric Rice (South Petherton).

Messrs. Gilbert W. Rendell, Robert Parker and Gordon Rendell were confirmed as diocesan instructions, and Mr. Billy Turner also allowed his name to go forward.
Congratulations on peal ringing were offered to the Rev. C. J. B. Marshall, Mr. W. E. Turner and Mr. R. Selway, and Mr. Turner also was thanked for his 14 years' service as Ringing Master The Branch is holding a half-day family ringing outing on May llth.

Ringing on this good-going 13 cwt . five was under the direction of the Ringing Master, Mr Gordon Rendeli, and included rounds, call changes Bob Minimus, Bob Duubles, Grandire, Stedman, Winchendon Place Bob, Reverse St. Bartholomew, Ola Bob and Reverse Canterbury Pleasure Bob.

METHOD EXTENSION BY

 COMPUTERThe simplest of methods, Plain, Reverse and Doubse BOD, extend uniquely tnrough the whole range from Minimus to Maximus. Almost as simple is Canterbury, known in the parent stage as Canterbury Pleasure Minor. A whole family of extensions exists, as shown below.

The place notations consist of the stage number of bells, an identirying letter for the method in that stage, the lead-nead code letter as in the Central Council Col.ections, ine pivot bell and the places. The extension dines refer to these place notations and derive from the parent by the extension type and front/ back suosection codes as used in the Centra! Council Method Extension Report.

Canterbury Pieasure Bob Minor extends in two ways:-
Static extension :
$A / W$, X, Y Expanding ext
: ${ }^{\text {KA }}$
Neither Major has the full parent name, but Canterbury Imperial is sufficiently close perhaps to give this name to 10 C and 12D in the second extension line. This would then make Cleatham (8A) into a parent method and this in turn extends in two ways:-
Static extension :
$A, B, C / U, V, W, X, Y \& A \neq 10 A \rightarrow 12 A$ $\mathrm{A}, \mathrm{B}, \mathrm{C}$ E $\mathrm{U}, \mathrm{Y}, \mathrm{W}, \mathrm{X}, \mathrm{Y} . \quad \forall 10 \mathrm{~B} \rightarrow 12 \mathrm{C}$ $A, B, C / U, V, W, X, Y$.

Whichever Royal or Maximus is named first will determine the extension line of Cleatham. Notice also the overlap, shown in some more advanced extensions of methods:
12B is an extension of either 10 B or 10 A and 12 C is an extension of either 10 B or 10 C

Incidentally, surely Hunslet Bob Major should be called Reverse Cleatham?

St. Mary's Cathedral, Limerick (1168-1968)

By the Rt. Rev. R. W. Jackson, LL.D., D.Litt., D.D., Bishop of Limerick

THE City of Limerick, situated on the broad Shannon, which is the longest river in these islands, is dominated by the great tower of St. Mary's Church of Ireland Cathedral-one of the largest medieval churches in Ireland. It stands on the highest point of a river-encircled island on a site which once held the Norse "Thingmote" or meeting-place, and which later was the royal palace of the Kings of Thomond.
It is said that St. Patrick of Ireland once preached at a hilly place called Singland, overlooking this island in the marshes on which the cathedral was to be founded in the year 1168 by King Donal Mor O'Brien. A few years ago there was found on this patrician site of Singland an early handbell of bronze. It is the oldest survivor of the Limerick church bells. Hammered into a rough oblong shape like a Swiss cow-bell, it dates from perhaps the tenth century and it is typical of the rise of the Celtic Church. Before the Irish twelfthcentury adoption of Western European uses, the Irish clergy made use of small portable bells which could be rung by hand from the top window of a round tower. The Irish name for bell-"clug"-conveys accurately the dull sound made by those old bronze bells. It was a moving experience for the writer to ring one such, a thousand years old, at the fifteen hundredth anniversary service of the coming of Christianity to Cashel.
The earliest record of the bells of the Cathedral itself goes back to the early fifteenth century, when a certain wealthy citizen, John Budstone, gave a gift of bellis to St. Mary's. This gentleman was Bailiff or Sheriff of the City of Limerick in 1401, and was builder of the Chapel of St . James and St. Mary Magdalene, which now contains the original altar-slab of the Cathedral, the longest in the British Isles. His grandson wrote: "John Budstone, whose bells sound in the Shrine of the Virgin, made a gift to the Church of four brass bells." (We need not take the word "brass" literally.) As the belfry is known to have been built about this time, no doubt it housed Budstone's ring.
More than two hundred and fifty years pass before we hear any verifiable information about the bells, but two pieces of local folk-lore may be interesting to mention. One is that on the eve of the Reformation thirteen silver bells were hidden in the Abbey River, which flows close to the Cathedral. The second has come back from the Far East, where in 1966 a student in Tiawan called Meh Chih Cheng wrote out the story from a local lesson book and sent it to the Dean. It is charming, though clearly mythical. We have sent a tape of the bells to Formosa in reply.

Here is the story:
"A marvellous chime of bells, made by a young Italian, were hung in a convent near Lake Como-the maker had spent years upon the bells. . . . With the money he bought a house . . . so that he might live always within sound of the bells. and he lost . . . everything he had . . . and his beloved bells had been taken away. No one knew where they were now.

It happened that one day he met a man from over the seas. The stranger told him that at Limerick in Ireland he had heard a wonderful peal of bells. The poor Italian trembled and said to himself, 'These can be no other than my bells.'
So he took a ship for Ireland, and at last arrived at the mouth of the Shannon. He was rowed up the river.
There the tall tower of St. Mary's Cathedral stood out against the fading sky ... and suddenly from that tower came the enchanting melody of the bells. They were indeed his bells. . . . The rowers waited for him to leave the boat; but he lay still. . . . They tried in vain to rouse him. He had found what he had been seeking all his life, and he was dead."
The origin of the existing ring can be traced to Alderman William Yorke, three times Mayor of Limerick, who died in 1679. The six bells were hung in 1673, during which and the following years Yorke was Mayor, at a stipend of $£ 100$ a year. His memorial in the Cathedral shows that his benefactions were many times that total. The new bells first rang on March 14th, 1673, on the occasion of the proclamation of peace between the English and Dutch.
During the years from 1670 the Perdue brothers of Gloucestershire were working in Ireland. In 1670 they had hung six bells in Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, and eight in SL Patrick's Cathedral nearby. In 1673 they hung six bells in St. Canice's Cathedral, Kilkenny, and in 1674 six in St. Werburgh's Church, Dublin, and also one in St. David's, Naas.

The initials of William and Roger Perdue were on the third bell until 1923, with the inscription:
"Vivat Rex et Floreat Grex Anno Domini 1673. W.P. R.P."
During October, 1673, William died, and the seventeenth century. Irish traveller Dineley notes a punning inscription to his mennory. This epitaph has now vanished:
"Here a bell-founder, honest and true,
Until the Resurrection lies Perdue."
In 1703 the treble ( $6 t \mathrm{cwt}$.) and second ( 63 cwt .) bells (recast (1938) were added by Tobias Covey and "E.C.," who probably was Edward Covey, suggested to be a Perdue by descent. (Note given by Mr. Fred Dukes.) There is a record that this ring of eight bells was used in 1712 to welcome to the City James, Duke of Ormonde, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. The third bell ( $6 \frac{1}{2} \mathrm{cwt}$ ) by Perdue was recast in 1923 by Taylor at the expense of $\operatorname{Sir}$ A. W. Shaw. The fourth, a new bell of $8 \frac{1}{4} \mathrm{cwt}$., was cast in 1907 by Taylor, at the expense of Mr. Everard Hewson of Castle Hewson, a generous enthusiast, who all his life loved the bells and gave munificently for their maintenance. The fifth, sixth and seventh bells, respectively $10,11 \frac{1}{4}$ and $16 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt., were cast by Mears of London in 1829: the last of these was recast by Murphy of Dublin in 1873 and again in 1938 by Taylor. Finally, the great 24 cwt. tenor bell of Yorke's ring was recast in 1930 by Taylor at the expense of Mr. Hewson. The name of Alderman Yorke was preserved in the recasting.

During the last fifty years constant work has been done on the tower and on the bell-frames and the ring today is in regular and effective use. It marks, as it did throughout the centuries, great historical occasions; it also calls Sunday by Sunday to worship-as is inscribed on a certain old bell:

'I ring to sermon with a lusty bome

That all may come and none may stay at home."
This year we in Limerick have the joy and privilege of sharing in the 800th Anniversary Celebrations of the Foundation of our Ancient Cathedral Church. Amongst the various Festivals arranged to commemorate such an historic occasion will be a Ringers' Festival Week-end, to be held on September 7th and 8th, 1968, to which bellringers and friends are extended a Cead Mile Failte-A Hundred Thousand Welcomes.

HEALING A FORTY-YEAR-OLD BREACH

Joint Recommendations with the Surreys

Abstract

AFTER two amicable meetings of a joint sub-committee of the Guiddford Diocesan Guild and Surrey Association, agreement has been reached on the question of boundaries, subject to ratification by annual meetings of both bodies.

With only two votes against, the Guildford Guild agreed to the recommendations at its annual meeting on March 9th at Guildford Cathedral. The main point is that when the report of the Archbishop's Commission on the organisation of dioceses in London and South-East England is implemented, ringing societies in the area should consider reorganising on a diocesan basis.

The service in the Lady Chapel, which was crowded with ringers, was memorable as it was the last Guild service Bishop George Clarkson would attend as Dean. This was the seventh year since the Cathedral's consecration and the Dean in his address said he did not expect in that time so much would have been fulfilled or that they would have a full ring of ten bells. For that he thanked the Guild for the keenness and generosity of the members that inspired others.
"I am very proud to be Dean," he said, "for we have a wonderful lot of people in this diocese who, in the last ten years, have given $£ 50,000$ to $£ 60,000$ each year. I want to leave with you my personal gratitude for a great job well done and for that I thank God."

He left with the assembly the thought that when they rang their bells they were ringing for Jesus.
The tea in the Refectory had been prepared by Mrs. Munday and helpers and was attended by the Dean. The Master (Mr. P. G. Smart) voiced the thanks of the Guild to him during the seven years he had been in charge of the Cathedral

BUSINESS MEETING

The most important matter on the agenda at the meeting, presided over by the Master, was the relationship with the Surrey Association. On behalf of the Executive Committee the following motion was presented:-

This annual general meeting accepts the following recommendations of the joint sub-committee of the Surrey Association and the Guildford Diocesan Guild:-
(a) When the report of the Archbishop of Canterbury's Commission on the organisation of the Church by dioceses in London and South-East England is implemented, ringing societies in the area covered by the report should consider reorganising on a diocesan basis.
(b) Until any such reorganisation takes place
(1) The Surrey Association should hold no meetings (other than joint meetings with the Guildtord Diocesan Guild) in the present Diocese of Guildford except in the following towers: Ashtead. Banstead, Dorking, Egham, Epsom, Epsom Common, Ewell, Leatherhead, Ranmore and Thames Ditton.
(ii) Ringers who live in that part of Surrey which is within the Diocese of Guildtord should be ensitled to become either resident or non-resident members of the Surrey Association.
Presenting the motion, Mr. J. F. M. Maybrey (liaison officer to the Surrey Association) said exactly the same motion would be submitted to the Surrey Association annual general meeting in May and nothing would be done until tne report of the Archbishop's Commission was implemented. The motion was the result of two meetings of three members from each Guild and they were all pleasantly surprised by the way they got on together.

The Master said the report of the Boundary Commission was received a week before the second meeting In the light of the Boundary Commission's report they thought there would be no advantage in making sweeping changes.

Mr. C. H. Kippin: There is not much that we can say, as the Guildford Guild has won hands down, but to support the motion. What will happen at the Surrey Association meeting I don't know. If I were a member of the Surrey Association I would ask where were the negotiators? Negotiations mean give and take. It seems to me that all the giving has been from the Surrey Association.
Mr. M. M. Powell commented that they could not dictate to the Surrey Association. If the Surrey Association decided to hold a meeting in one of their towers what were they going to do about it?

Mr. Maybrey said the list was drawn up by the Executive Committee of the Surrey Association. The idea was to stop the bickering that had been going on for years. They were not proposing any rules with the motion.

The Secretaly: This is an honest effort to overcome troubles which have existed for 40 years.

The motion was carried, there being only two members against.

DROP IN MEMBERSHIP

The annual report was presented by the Master, who regretted a decline in membership of 33 . Totals were: Chertsey 93 (against 119), Farnham 169 (187), Guildford 140 (136). Leatherhead 142 (137). With associate members the grand total was 558 (591).

The members stood while the names of those who had died since the last meeting were read, viz. W. A. Dollimore (Aldershot), B. G. Grover (West Clandon), G. P. Hammond (Wonersh), Miss H. F. Mills (Aldershot). Mr. J. Mills (Cobham), Mr. F. Oldroyd (Guildford). Mr. L. Warner (Cranleigh) and Mr. W. R. Robinson (late of Holy Trinity, Guildford).

MORE PEALS

The Master said there were 36 peals rung last year, which was three more than in 1966. These were rung in 23 towers (18) by 119 members (130) in 24 different methods or number of methods. There were 20 conductors (16), six members rang their first peal and three their first as conductor. Quarter peals reported in "The Ringing World" numbered 114 (92).
The report mentioned that sound-absorbent panels had been placed on the walls of the ringing chamber of the Cathedral. This work, done at the expense of the Cathedral Council, had made ringing at the Cathedral easier and much more enjoyable. An oak plaque to commemorate the dedication of the bells on May $17 \mathrm{th}, 1965$, had been provided partly by donations from the president (the Bishop) and partly by the Guild. It had been placed in the ringing chamber.

The Master said they were very pleased with ringing at the Cathedral. Great strides had been made by the young band but he stressed that they still needed help, particularly at night. Miss Eloie, in her report as librarian, said they had acquired "Lord Grimthorpe" and a small booklet by Mr. Harold Pitstow on "Westminster Abbey and Its Bells." An important acquisition was an album containing records and photographs of the dedication of the Cathedral bells, which was compiled by Mr. F. W. Housden and bound by Mr. C. W. Denyer In the changes that had taken place pending removal to the Cathedral, 14 books or manuscripts had been missing.

Looking Forward

Cover issues already booked are as follows: March 29th. St. Clement Danes', London. April 5th. Edington Priory, Wiltshire.
April 12th. Rochester Cathedral.
April 19th. Andover District.
April 26th. St. Thomas', Stourbridge.
May 3rd. Wimborne Minster.
May 10th. Bromyard, Herefordshire.
May 17th. Meldreth, Cambridgeshire.
May 24th. St. Mary Redcliffe, Bristol.
May 31st. Worcester Cathedral.

PROFIT ON YEAR

The accounts were presented by Mr. C. H. Kippin, who had held the office of treasurer for five years and retired on moving to Chandler's Ford. The Benevolent Fund balance of £166, he said, had been transferred to the General Fund, and the year ended with a balance of $£ 254$. On the working of the year there was a profit of $£ 20 \mathrm{14s} .8 \mathrm{~d}$., which the retiring treasurer regarded as quite satisfactory.

APPEAL TO PARISHES

Earlier in the meeting it was stated that a copy ot the annual report and of "The Ringing World" would be sent to each P.C.C. where thete was a ring of bells in the tower, and a suggestion of an annual subscription of one guínea.
A member: What are you going to do with the money?
The general secretary said there were several things needed. An article" in "The Ringing Wortd" suggested that they were not keeping pace with the restoration of bells and in a few years there would be a big lag. They would then be in a position to make handsome donations to parishes to help in the work.
The following officers were re-elected unopposed: Master, Mr. P. G. Smart; general secretary, Mr. C. W. Munday; auditor, Mr. P. G. Sherwood. Two nominations were received for treasurer, a ballot resulting in the election of Mr G. K. Wilkinson (Aldershot), the unsuccessful candidate being Mr. M. M. Powell (St. Nicholas', Guildford).

PEAL ELECTIONS

There was an interesting discussion on a desire to amend the Guild's rules governing election of non-resident members prior to a peal attempt. At present hefore such an election the majority must be Guild members; the desire of the amendment in the names of Mr. D. A. R. May and Mr. T. Page was "at least three members present."

Mr. May said in recent months there had been several peals in which there had not been a majority of Guild members present. With travelling so much easier, there were more people coming into the diocese to ring peals.

Mr. T. Page quoted two incidents. A recent peal at the Cathedral hid five members and five non-members, and a peal at Farnborough four and four

Mr. G. K. Williamson suggested that the words " participating in a peal" be substituted for " present."

Mr. Harold Reed said in regard to the Farnborough peal the number was five members and three non-members. One of the four had been elected previously.

DEDICATION

All Saints', Tooting Graveney

The new ring of eight bells at All Saints', Tooting Graveney, cast by John Taylor and Co., was dedicated on Saturday, March 2nd, by the Archdeacon of Southwark (the Ven. H. H A. Sands) before a large congregation of about 360 people. The lesson was read by Mr. Paul Taylor. The bells were put to good use after the service for three and a half hours, when abou: 100 ringers signed the visitors book. The ring is a great success. Both inside and outside the tower the bells are very pleasing on the ear. The volume is well controlled and the bells mix well without the common fault of certain bells predominating.

INSCRIPTIONS

Each bell is inscribed with the founder's names and the name of a saint of local interest.

Michael and All Angels.-The dedication of the former church in Paddington, whose old bells made this project possible.
Birnus. - Saint and founder of Wessex Christranity. Tooting was in the Diocese of Winchester for centuries.
Justus.-Saint and first Bishop of Rochester. Tsoting was in the Diocese of Rochester.
Mellitus.-Saint and first Saxon Bishop of London. Tooung was in the Diocese of London for a short period.
Augustine.-Saint and first Archbishop of Canterbury. Founder of Christianity in SouthEast England. Tooting has always been in the Province of Canterbury.
Alfege.-Saint and Arcbbishop of Canterbury. Martyred on the site of Greenwich Parish Church in the Diocese of Southwark, of which Troting is now part.
Anselm.-Sant and Archbishop of Canterbury. As Abbot of Bec in Normandy, he became known in England when he visited his Abbey's passessions here, one of which was Tooting Bec.
Nicolas.-Until this century the Parish of All Saints was part of the Parish of St. Nicolas, Tooting Graveney.
The tenor weighs 7 cwt .19 lb . (note B). Ringers will be very welcome at the practice night, which is Thursday, 7 to 8.30 p.m.

Eventually Mr. May withdrew the motion in favour of another for next year, which limited the application of the proposed change to towers in the diocese.
Major Bragg, the Guild peal recorder, was unhappy about those peals that did not comply with the rule being recorded in "The Ringing World" as rung for the Guild. He took his peals for his records from ${ }^{\text {a }}$ The Ringing World"
The Master: We shall now keep our eyes open.

A voice: When people lose a peal they don't become members.

The Master: You must rely on their honesty.
The motion was not proceeded with in the light of the proposed amendment. Perhaps the position will be clarified next year, but Major Bragg urged that conductors calling peals that did no: comply with the rules should notify him.
A desire was expressed by Mr. Dudley Elsmore that the Guild should give a personal gift to the retiring Dean and it should not be just a set of handbells for the Cathedral. A setiring colloction was made for this purpose.
Towards the Cathedral handbells the hon. secresary has received $£ 50$ but in addition a aumber of peoplo have promised to give bells.

OBITUARY

MR. W. ABRAHAM

William (Bill) Abraham will always be remembered as the tinger who came back, and it was with regret and great sorrow that the St. Mary Redcliffe Guld members and many other ringers heard of his death on February 11 th , aged 75 years.
Bill had deen a member of the Guild since his retirement nine years ago, when he returned to ringing after a lapse of 20 years. His regularity, punctuality and genial disposition have been a wonderful example to other members of the Guild.
Before 1940 he was a most active member of the St. Thomas the Martyr (City), Bristol, Guild and was for many years the tower secretary. His work, assoctated with towers and Guilds and ringers' social occasions, was his joy, and many outings were enjoyed by Bill and his party.
There is no record of his peals but the requirement for good striking was always one of his endeavours and all ringing was of equal importance
It was a curious happening that William died a few hours after his younger brother, Ernest, who had endured a serious illness and much suffering.
Ernest was an active member of the Guild at All Saints', Long Ashton, and had also been a member of the St. Thomas' Guild. Like his brother, he gave only of his best and will be sadly missed by many.
The combined funeral service took place at St. Mary Redcliffe on February 15th and was attended by a very large number of ringers and friends.
In the evening a quarter peal of Grandsire Caters was rung by members of his Guild and friends.
We extend our sympathy to the two widows and the members of their families. E.F.H.

MR. W. J. ROBINSON

We regret to announce the death of Mr. William $J$ Robinson, at New Cross. London, suddenly on March 5th. For many years he was associated with Holy Trinity, Guildford, in latter years undertaking the duties of steeplekeeper.
The funeral service was at Honor Park Crematorium on March 12th.
(See also page 234)
The MR. E. B. WILLIAMS
The Cornish Churchman" reports the death of Mr. Edgar Bice Williams, of Perran-ar-Worthal on January 26th at the age of 76. He had been captain of the ringers for more than 50 years, and as a tribute to his long service the bells were rung half-muffled on the Sunday after the funeral. His widow, Mrs. Olive Williams, was the organist for many years, and together they gave 100 years of service to Perran-ar-Worthal Church.

MR. W. GORRINGE

An old and esteemed Kent ringer, Mr. W. Gorringe, of 10, Thornhill Place, Maidstone, died on February 27th at the advanced age of 89. For many years he was associated with St. George's, Gravesend, and Milton-nextGravesend with the band captained by the late Mr. Fred Mitchell.

CENTRAL COUNCIL OF CHURCH BELL RINGERS

Preliminary Notice

The third session of the 26th Council (71st Annual Meeting) will be held on Tuesday, June 4th, 1968, at the Giffard Hotel, Worcester.
Committee Reports (Rule 12 (1)).-Conveners are reminded that reports must be made in writing to me by March 31st, 1968 . They will recall the Standing Committee's request that these should be reasonably brief.
Notices of Motion (Rule 14).-Notices, signed by two members of the Council, must be received by the Secretary by April 23rd, 1968. Members are reminded that an alteration will be proposed to the rules dealing with notices of motion with the object of overcoming the difficulty which has arisen from the change in Ringing World " arrangements. In the meantime they are invited to co-operate by submitting notices by April 16th.
Affiliation Fees.-Those who have not yet remitted are asked to do so forthwith.

ACCOMMODATION

Members are reminded that in order to ensure accommodation at the Giffard Hotel, Worcester (Headquarters), reservations must be made before April 1st, 1968. When booking, reference must be clearly made to the meeting of the Central Council of Church Bellringers.
Members, and other visitors, are also reminded that details of other Hotel and Guest House accommodation in Worcester and the surrounding areas are available upon receipt of a stamped addressed envelope from the Accommodation Secretary, 32, Badsey Fields Lane, Badsey, Evesham. Members are urged to make reservations without delay; the above detalls will not be forwarded with the notice of meeting

RINGING ARRANGEMENTS

Full details will be published later, but members may tike to know in advance that the usual "own transport" ringing tours are being arranged for Whit Saturday and Whit Monday. There will be two different routes available each day, commencing at $9.30 \mathrm{a} . \mathrm{m}$. A coach tour of selected towers will also be run on Whit Monday.

PEALS

A limited number of towers has been provisionally reserved for peal attempts on Whit Saturday and Whit Monday. Applications for towers by peal organisers will be taken in order of receipt Individual ringers, whether members of the Council or not, will also be placed in peals (as far as it is possible to arrange) if their requirements as to methods, etc., are notified.
Peal organisers are especially requested to apply for Worcestershire Association towers only through the Peal Secretary.
The subscription for a non-resident life member of the Association is 5 s .

Applications (enclosing s.a.e.) to Mr. G. L. Bowen, Peal Secretary, 35, Chesshire Avenue, Areley Kings, Stourport-on-Severn, Worcs.

VERNON BOTTOMLEY,
45, Westercroft Lane, General Secretary.
Northowram, Halifax.

METHOD EXTENSION BY COMPUTER

Warkworth Surprise is another "Diary " method. There are three independent lines of extension, each with only one extension stage. The two Major are very similar, the first having slightly less dodging in $5-6$, and the Royal is monotonously simple. One of these will be Warkworth when rung to a peal. Take your choice.
Minor: $m$, P2. lh6-34-14-12-36.14

More about Coins on Bells

By P. AMOS

SINCE writing my article on coins on bells that appeared in the issue of December 8th, 1967, I have come across a silver halfpenny issued during the period of the Black Death.
The pictures I have provided for "The Ringing World" tell how these hammered coins wert made-a craft that existed from Roman times to the reign of Edward III (1327-1377).
These silver halfpennies have a cross with three pellets in each corner and on the reverse is the royal head of Edward III.
In the coin picture is the die from which they were hammered out. This will give those seeking a 14th century bell with impressions on it a guide for what to look for. I might add that there is little likelihood of finding such a bell except in a tower with less than five bells where the bell has not been rung to any extent or subject to any great vibration.
Of the other picture, you may wonder whether it depicts a blacksmith's shop or a wedding over the anvil at Gretna Green! It is neither. It is a memorial in Italy of moneyers of the fourth century.

THE LADIES' GUILD - WESTERN DISTRICT

There was a good attendance at the annual general meeting of the Western District at Twerton on March 9th. The afternoon's ringing included a touch of Grandsire Triples rung by members of the Guild. The service was conducted by the Rector, after which tea was served in the Village Hall. Thanks are due to Mr. and Mrs. Alan Lee, who undertook the catering arrangements, and it was good to see so many members and friends, about 35 in all.
At the meeting which followed, officers for 1968-69 were elected as follows: Vice-president, Mrs. E. Chapman ; secretary, Miss B. Johnson; Central Council representatives, Mrs. Parfrey and Mrs. Bennett; committee, Mesdames Parfrey, Eyles. Lampard, Bennett and Miss Davis. New members elected were: Mrs. Massey (life member), Mrs. Jones, the Misses J. Bell, J. Fletcher and K. Jones.
The present arrangement of holding monthly evening practices, with the exception of thase in which the quarterly meetings occur (i.e. March, June and September), is to be continued.
Good wishes were sent to Mrs. D. Bennett, who was undergoing a period of convalescence following an operation, and it was hoped that she would be well enough to be with us at the next meeting.
On Saturday, June 8th, there will be a joint meeting with the South Wales Branch in Bristol. Please watch "The Ringing World. for details of practuces, the next being on Friday, April $26 t \mathrm{~h}, 7.30$ p.m., at Corston. B.J.

ST. DAVID'S GUILD

The quarterly meeting of the St. David's Guild was held at St. Mary's Church. Pembroke, on March 9ih. About 40 menbers were present representing the towers of Bosherston, Burry Port, Cardigan, Llandeilo, Llanelli, Pembroke, St. Florence and Tenby.

Ringing commenced at 2.30 p.m. The service at 4 p.m. was conducted by the Vicar. the Rev R. C. Davies, assisted by the Rev R. Doxey, curate, the lesson was read by the Rev. R. W. Thomas (Master) and the organist was Mr. W. Gwyo Thomas, of Tenby.

An excellent tea was provided by the ladies of the parish in the Church Hall. The Vicar of Pembroke presided at the business mectung and opened the proceedings by extending a warm welcome to the Guild. The traditional touch on handbeils was rung.
The Master welcomed the Rev. G. R. and Mrs. Ball from Bosherston to their first meeting of the Guild since their ringers became members, and also friends from the Swansea and Brecon Guild.
Apologies for absence were received, including those from the secretary and treasurer, both due to illness.
Eight new members were elected and three probationers were made ringing members.
Mr. Rees, of Llanelli, invited all members of the Guild to the dedication of the restored ring, which will take place at St. Elli's on April 20th at $3 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$.
Ringing was resumed until 9 p.m. B. M. R.

EAST GRINSTEAD AND DISTRICT GUILD

The venue of the 41 st annual general meeting on March 9th was changed to Edenbridge for easy accessibility. It was a fine and sunny day and some members rang at Hammerwood and Cowden before assembling at Edenbridge for the service taken by the Vicar, the Rev. D. H. Rartleet.

Tea was served in the Primary School, where the wives and tamilies of the local band had prepared a glorious spread. Mr. B. V. Collison opened the meeting by thanking the ladies for making the tea, and the local band for donating it. A voluntary collection was then taken, which raised £5 6s. 6d. for Edenbridge Bell Fund.
There were ten apologies for absence and two new members were elected. The annual report was adopted, the only query being the condition of Hammerwood's ropes after a grant had been made for a new set out of the E. J. Oliver Fund.

The officers were re-elected for 1968, the only change being in the committee, where Mr. M. Thompson replaces Mr. F. 1. Hairs.
Arrangements for the outing and the dinner have been left in the hands of Mr. C. A. Bassett and Mr. E. J. Ladd respectively.
No Guild meetings will take place in April or May but on June 8th the Guild will meet at Leigh, Surrey (afternoon) and Sharlwood (evening). W. G. Wilson's book "Change Ringing was then presented to the young ringer who had made the most progress during the year. This was Maurice Thompson and he received the book from the donor, Mr. B. V. Collison.
Ringing then continued at Edenbridge, Limpsneld Chart and Chiddingstone. R.J.E.

REDUNDANT BELLS

Dear Sir,-I refer to Norman Mallett's letter on page 162. I have amended my records. The information I have published has been given to me in good faith and it is not regarded as important to verify it, since it is unlikely that anyone will attend with lifting tackle and transport without first making inquiries
It is hardly surprising that the list was incomplete in view of Norman's silence hitherto I had, however, been advised in the meantime of the availability of the Lundy octave, one bell of which (unidentified) is cracked wh the crown.-Yours sinerely,

> VERNON
> BOTTOMLEY, Secretary The Central Council of Church Bell Ringers.

HIGH HALSTOW BELLS NOT FOR SALE Mr. E. W. Buffin, Rector's warden of St. Margaret's, High Halstow, Kent, writes regarding the list of redundant bells published in the issue of February 16th that:-
"Neither the Rector of High Halstow, the Rev. S. G. Davidson, his churchwardens, of whom I am one, or members of the Parochial Church Council are aware of any desire to dispose of the bells. Nor is there any intention of future disposal."
Note.-The Secretary of the Central Council has written to Mr. Buffin expressing regret and stating that he published the information received in good faith.-Ed.

FIRST-CLASS LOCAL BAND

Dear Sir,-Apropos Mr. Visade's letter re a genuine first-class local band, St. Mary's, Reading, has a resident band for eight-spliced. (If we had four more bells we would have enough for Cambridge Maximus.). We also supplied six people for a peal of Bristol Maxı-mus.--Yours faithfully,

Readıng.

IRRESPONSIBLE GRABBERS

Dear Sir.-1 read with very much regret of the despicable actions of some irresponsible tower grabbers in ringing the bells of $S$. Mary's, Stapleford, Wilts. without any permission. I have been responsible for organising a good many ringing tours and, like mosi other ringers, am eager to ring at any tower which I have not visited before. I have found that in nearly every case a request for permission to ring is generally granted, but if it is not there is a very good reason. The action of these selfish people is to be deplored as they bring other ringers whose behaviour is more constitutional into disrepute.
Mr. Theobald's letter. printed adjacent to the article ("Ringing World," No. 2,968 , page 178), offers a way out for these people with which I strongly disagree. If he knows who they are he should give the information to the authorities, whether or no they make an apology to the Vicar and churchwardens. They should be exposed not only to the authorities but also to their Association, the officials of which should expel them from this Association and the fact published in "The Ringing World," so that all other ringers may have the opportunity of excluding them from their activities. A newspaper publishes details of those who offend against the rules of society and this should be the case in ringing circles.-Yours faithfully,

LAÚRIE MITCHELL.

Sittingbourne, Kent.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY RINGING

Dear Sir,-Might I suggest that the arguments regarding Westminster Abbey should cease, as the letters have degenerated into a mud-slinging match. The space could better be employed in instructing young ringers in how to man the bells in some of our village churches.
1 always thouught the object of our church bells was to call the faithful to worship, and certainly not mud-stinging.-Yours faithfully,

Reading, Berks.

WHO DECIDES AT THE ABBEY?

Dear Sir,-We are often forced to smile when we read the statements, sometimes naive and sometimes sweeping, which appear in your correspondence columns, but the plum must surely go to Norman Harding for his letter in March 8 th issue.
Mr. Harding says is is up to the Abbey authorities to say who should ring-and goes on to admit that he himself has been invited to ring by a member of the band!
Was it not you, Mr. Harding, who, in a hotly-worded letter in defence of Grandsire during the 1966 controversy, suggested that the instigator of that correspondence probably could not ring that trivial method-without realising that ihe gentleman in question was in fact a College Youth?
Yes, indeed, Mr. Harding, contributors should get their facts right.-Yours faithfully, Barnard Castle, Co. Durham.

PEAL RINGERS THANKED

Dear Sir,-The arranging, travelling for and ringing of a peal is no doubt often not appreciated by those whose names are recorded in the footnotes. in whose honour the peals are rung. Would you allow me. through your columns, to express my appreciation of the peal of Stedman Triples rung at St. Peter's, Drayton, on February 24th, to welcome my family and myself to Drayton Vicarage and the North Berks Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild?-Yours sincerely,

Drayton, Berks. ERIC WOOD (Rev.).
P.S.-The wedding was not 40 minutes late, as stated in "Belfry Gossip."-E. W.

APPRECIATION :

Dear Sir.-May I through your columns express thanks and appreciation to Mr. Cyril Wratten for his excellent article on "Spliced Plaun Malor Composition"? He has obviously gone to a great deal of trouble and the result is a splendid example of how theory should be set out and explained. - Yours faithfully. F. L. COVENTRY.
Bebington, Cheshire.

PEAL WITHDRAWN

Dear Sir,-The peal of 5,088 Bob Major rung at Holy Trinity, Rothwell, on April 15th, 1967, which was composed and conducted by myself, has now been found to be false, and I would ask all concerned with the recording of peals to strike this performance from their records. I should at the same time like to apologise for the inconvenience this will undoubtedly cause.
I should also like to offer my apologies to the rest of the band and to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gill, for whom the peal was rung as a wedding compliment.--Yours faithfully.

IAN NORTH.

LOOSE LEAF METHOD BOOKS

SUGGESTED
Dear Sir,-Recently I bought a copy of "A Collection of Surprise Methods in Place Notation," which I found very useful and clear but it was compiled in 1964 and therefore much out of date.
I realise that such books as these cannot be reprinted each year. What 1 should like to suggest is that any future printings be "loose leaf." These are not very expensive nowadays and I feel they would be worth the extra cost. Then one extra sheet could be printed and sold each year to be put in the cover-and the book would then never be more than one year out of date.
Every five or six years a new set of sheets could be printed and sold bringing the whole collection up to date.-Yours faithfully,

GEOFFREY R. DREW.
Tewkesbury, Glos.

LONDON COUNTY DINNER

Dear Sir,-1 regret that there is a little confusion as to what I said at the London County Dinner.
My words concerning the work of officers referred to all the London Associations.
To cater for "parochial ringers" I ventured to suggest that the Districts of the Associations should be about the size of the London boroughs.-Yours sincerely,
R. J. COOLES.

London, S.W.

EARLY ESSEX RINGING

Dear Sir,-In conjunction with my work for History " A " level, I am doing a project entitled "What was the effect of the formation of the Essex Association of Change Ringers on the growth of bellinging in Essex." I am writing it with special reference to the towers of St. Nicholas', Fyfield, St. Andrew's. North Weald, and St. John the Baptist's, Danbury. However, I would be grateful for information on any lower in Essex concerning pre-1879 ringing, the effect, if any, of the Essex Association and the history of ringing since 1879. Anything and everything would be very welcome. Thank you.Yours sincerely,

THE LADIES' GUILD

Eastern District at Low Ebb

Although the day fixed for the meeting was rather cold, a coachload of members and friends travelled from Suffolk to Saffion Walden on March 2nd. An all-ladies' touch was rung at Wendens Ambo. At the business meeting it was noted that support for the Guild in the District was at a very low ebb and that serious thought would have to be given at the next meeting to winding uo the District if the situation did not improve.
Mrs. Pipe was re-elected as vice-president. and the new hon. secretary is Mrs. Lester, of 40. Stowmarket Road, Needham Market, Suffolk. A short service was held in Saffron Walden Church atter the afternoon's ringing.

PRACTICAL

"GOOD HUNTIN"!"

So far rope-sight has not entered into the proceedings, and before we turn to it some useiul progress can be made by the use of handbells. If handbells are not available, Stage 3 can be performed by hand-claps, with hands raised up for handstroke and lowered for backstroke.

Stage 3. Rhythmic Beating by Handbells.-

 For the next step in this business of learning to hunt, each pupil takes a handbell, and the hand-claps are replaced by handbell strokes (hand and back). If more than one pupil, the belis will, of course, be sounding altogether at this stage. The discord must be ignored. This "ringing" also accustoms the pupil to the correct manipulation of the bell, and to antieipation of the handbell stroke, for its correct striking. In a short time, when the pupils can hunt correctly by these means, the group (if several pupils) can be divided into two, each group representing, and sounding as, one bell unit. Or, if only one pupil, the tutor can join with him in this " divided " exercise. It teaches the pupil to work out (without being "put of ") his own bell-path, while simultancously others are carrying on with theirs. If the whole group consists of, say, four pupils, then the first division will be into two sub-groups of two each. Then each sub-group may divide into two single pupils, each independeatly working out his own path. We have now arrived at independent hunting rhythmically by each ringer pupil. In some cases it may be helpful to include one or more experienced ringers in the group, in place of some of the pupils, who will take turn in due course. And still we are "ringing" by rhythm, and not by rope-sight, to which latter we now turn.Change-ringing by Sight with Handbells. By "rope-sight" is usually understood the ability, while pulling into position in any given change, to spot the rope next to be tollowed. Then, while following (or "covesing ") that rope, to spot the next to be followed. And so on. For practice in this on handbells we refer again to our chart (Fig. 2), and take once more the three hunting exercises, with one pupil and four ringers. Each takes a handbell The procedure is primarily to look for arm movements-up and down: but the rhythm is nevertheless to be maintainedby ear. The tutor does not need to count but calls "Go" and watches the pupil's performance, correcting as necessary. (Without handbells use clapping with arm movements.)
For the first hunting exercise-static cover-ing-the pupil takes the fifth hell and hunts (while remaining in fifths place) for the bells ne is to "cover." In fact he looks for arm movement of the last bell in each change. In this case the bells are 4.3.3.1.1.2.2.4.4. It must be impresued upon the pupil's mind that if ne fails to spot his bell-to-be-followed. he must not hold up his own bell-action (and thereby break up the ringing) but must maintain the rhythm, just as lie has learned to do in the original first, hunting exercise.
In the second hunting exercise expanded covering-he now has the treble and is to bunt UP. For thus purpose he looks round (or "hunts" for the bell (arm) that is following him, in each change, and in the next ensuing change he follows that bell (arm). In this case the bells are seen to be 2.4.3. The treble's next stroke is a static covering one, since it :emains in the same position (4ths in this case), striking over or "covering" bell 2.
In the third hunting exercise-contracted covering-the pupil finds himself striking over, or "covering," one less number of bells at each stroke; as we can see from the chart, beginning at the row where we left oft, i.e. 4.3.2.1.5. Here the treble is covering three bells 4. 3. and 2. In the next row it is covering two bells- 3 and 4 , and in the next row covering one bell-3. Next it is in the 1st position-leading. The process, looked at in this way, is seen to be one of eliminating or discarding the bell just covered, at the same time covering the remainder.
Stage 4. Preliminaries for Rope-sight on Tower Bells. - The faculty of rope-sight comes into its own on tower bells, though the ability to hunt by rhythm, acquired on handbells or otherwise, remains most useful in tower bell ringing. In the latter it is essential that for full and rapid achievement the following six points be carefully observed:-
(a) Orientation or "Facing." The ringer must stand to face the approximate "centre" of the rope "circle," so as to command as good a view as possible of all the ropes, by swinging the eyes from side to side, without any appreciable turning of the head. Consider the following: Suppose, for example, the ringer of, say, the third, in taking his position to begin ringing, faces towards the rope he will follow in rounds, i.e. in this case the second, which is, of course, on his right-the sort of thing one sees with beginners (and others) in tower after tower. Now, when the call is heard for change-ringing, say Plain Bob, and this 3rd bell ringer is to start hunting up, he must necessarily look round to his left to see the ropes "above" him. He will then find much of his field of view in that direction cut off, until he turns himself to face centrally, and with eyes swinging to his left. So, Point 1 is-" Stand with body facing centre of rope circle."
(b) "View Line." Since rope-sight virtually means "sally-sight," keep the view line horizontal. So Point 2 is-" Look across the horizontal. So Point 2 is-" Look across the ringing chamber at approximately eye-level." (c) "View Interference." Most beginners find the sally tending to interfere with the view, and some will even incline the head sideways, " to look round it." Insist on looking "through" the rope. from the start. The тope will soon disappear altogether. So, Point 3 is-" Ignore sight of own rope."
(d) " Instant Look-round." The tutor's insistence on the pupil's application of this idea from the very beginning of trying to hunt, brings its own reward. As soon as the pupil has decided which bell he is to follow next. and has looked to that rope in readiness to pull after it, he must instantly look round to find the next rope to follow, and so on. The most favourable point in time-of-action for this is just as the ropes are coming up to the point of reversal of direction, so that "picking up" the next rope and sounding after the last one become simultaneous. So, stroke." (At end of stroke the rope-sight will have gone ? )
(e) "Aural Pickup." But the visual check is not enough. The ear is even more important than the eye. The totally deat are rarely good strikers, but blind ringers can strike perfectly, with practice. Moreover, the attentive ear usually can pick up the bell-to-be-followed more quickly than the eye can range round, and select it from, the "circle" of rapidly-moving ropes. In expanded covering, or hunting up, it is the bell coming after one's own that is to be next followed or covered; and it is the pitch of its note-high, middle or low-that can help to tell the position, in the "circle," of that bell's rope, i.e. checks direction in which to look for it. Similarly in contracted covering, or hunting down, it is the bell coming just before one's own that is to be spotted, covered and then eliminated from those yet to be covered. The ear can give the first intimation of this, for directing the eyes; and at the same time it checks the striking. From this it may be understood how the process of hunting is sometımes referred to, quite seriously, as achieved by "ear-sight." The pupil must be taught, from the start, to listen for the sound of his own bell. Tone-telling exercises can be given, by the tutor tapping handbells-or even a child's toy "dulcimer." The common chord and well-known changes such as "Queens" will be found to be helpful in the practice of tone-telling. So, Point 5 is "Listen all the time !".
(f) Hunting Rules. We have seen that the modern concept of hunting is based on the idea of "covering," i.e. ringing "last" of a number of bells, and in one of two ways"static" or "mobile": and all the time looking for the "bell-to-be-covered." In static hunting one's tell continues to strike in the same position, but covers different bells, except in adjacent place-making, when it covers the same bell for more than one stroke. In mobile hunting one's bell covers different bells while changing position. It is either "expanded " (hunting up) or "contracted" (hunting down). We may express all this hunting in three working rules:-

Rule I. In static hunting cover the " last bell down" continuously.
Rule II. In expanded hunting (mobile and up) cover the bell now coming over you.
Rule III. In contracted hunting (mobile and down) cut under the bell just covered. while covering the last bell of the remainder.
So. Point 6, "Look for the bell to be covered, and look early
(To be continued)

HERTS COUNTY ASSOCIATION

Joint Meeting at Ware

It is many years since the Eastern and Bishop's Sturtford Districts held a joint meeting, and there was a very full belfry at Ware on Marih 10th.
Afternoon ringing included Cambridge in a variety of methods. Owing to only a few rames being sent in for tea this had to be canceiled, but a local cafe was able to supply needs.
in the evening the rope of the second bell broke twice in succession, limiting the ringing to the back six. In spite of this the meeting was a very successful one. B. S. W. F.

TECHNICAL

SOME NEW MINOR METHODS

By M. S. BRUCE

APART from methods with places in 5-6, 4th's place lead-heads and bells lying three or more blows in one place, all available Plain and T.B. Minor methods have been rung and named. There are 64 Plain and 360 T.B. methods conforming to these standards, and while they provide enough variety for most ringers, there are those who enjoy the challenge of doing something for the first time. It is to these, and for the average ringer in search of novelty, that new methods have appeal. Since it is impossible, short of lowering standards, to find orıginal material in the existing systems, I have jotted down a few notes on three new Minor systems which I hope will be of interest.

DOUBLE-LEAD METHODS

It is a characteristic of Plain Minor methods that, until a single is called, all the changes with the treble in a certain place bave the same character-all + ve or all -ve. Hence the need for singles, which T.B. methods avoid by having the treble strike twice in each place hunting up and again hunting down. Is there another path for the treble which will have this effect? In fact there is. Consider a single called, in any Plain Minor method, when the treble is in 6ths place. The bells will then be out of couise, and if another single be called similarly 12 changes later, a + ve lead-head will be produced, 24 changes after the orıginal lead-head. It is on this basis that this system has been produced.

Consider the simplest example, that of Plain Bob Minor. This can be adapted into a Bob Minor. 123456 can be adapted into a jugate pairs 2-3 and 4-5 exchange in 2-3 and 5-6. As in conventional methods, there is symmetry around the half-lead, and the keadend comes at the treble's next ( +ve ) lead. In the 24 changes the treble is twice in each place going up and twice coming down; once in a tve and - ve change each time, as in T.B Minor. Compasitions are exactly as for Treble Bob. Calls are made only at the leadhead, despite the tempting similarity of the half-lead, and there are, of course, no singles.
This is only one, and the simplest, of the 374 methods available to this plan.

A double-lead method may be constructed from any two plain methods which are "opposite half splices "-i.e. which have the same suocession of +ve and -ve changes in a halflead, as in this method, compounded from St. Jámes's Youths' Exercise and Bala Bob:

\begin{gathered}
36 \underset{\text { h.l. } 12,16-1256-36-14}{14}, 56342 .

(B) THIRD'S PLACE LITTLE MEIHODS AND THEIR ALLIANCE

There are three 3 rd's place Little methods, siven below

\begin{array}{llll}
\text { 1. } & -14 & \text { h.l. } 36 & \text { l.h. } 12
\end{array} 42563

If single changes are rung, as in doublelead methods, when the treble is behind, and the treble then hunts down to a half-lead turning place in 4ths's, the problem of providing all the in- and out-of-course changes above 3rd's place will have been neatly solved. The following examples are given:
$1-16-16-3456-16$ h.l. 34 l.h. $12,64523$. 2. $34 \quad 16-36-1256-36$ h.l.14 l.h.12, 56342 .

Ring Alliance in-course and Little out-ofcourse, or vice-versa The system is, of course, valid, mutatis mutandis, with Alliance designed to be rung with 2nd's place or 4th's place Little methods.

(C) OPPOSITE HUNT METHODS

Like Grandsire, these have two bells plainhunting at any time. In this case, however, the bell in the hunt is not coursing after, but opposite to the treble, and in the plain course is the 6th, not the 2nd. The plan is self-explanatory, and the only details necessary are an example and a list of methods.

List of methods.
These methods are necessarily simple and are few in number. They are given below:

|  | -16-16- | 1256 | 16 | 35246 |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| 2. | -16-16 34 | 1256 | 16 | 35246 |
| 3. | 34 16-16- | 1236 | 16 | 34526 |
| 4. | m | 1256 | 16 | 35246 |
| 5. |  | 1456 | 16 | 52346 |
|  | 34 16-16 | 1256 | 16 | 35246 |

All the systems outlined extend easily to Major. Caution must be used with doublelead Major, which is as liable to falsity as Treble Bob or Surprise; the falsity is easily identified by any T.B. proof system.

By HAROLD CHANT

"A" Group Methods.

(Using Mr Bruce's classification.)
Mr. Bruce asks: "Is there another path for the treble that will have this effect?" (i.e. avording singles by having the treble strike twice in each place bunting up and down). His own solution is given. ingenious and worked ou: with commendable thoroughness.
The question was solved over 100 years ago by Benjamin Thrackrah in his book *The Art of Change Ringing," published in 1852 .
which I believe was rung in the Dewsbury area. He based his method on "Evening Delight," from "Campanalogia," 1702, which had the same treble path but, as Horbury Thackrah pointed out, was false, Delight as it lacked the necessary $+12345$ single " changes.
1 hope 1 may not be accused of sour grapes when I say that I think the layout of this system is far superior to that devised by Mr. Bruce. The plan is, I :hink, as widely adaptable as the double plain bob system.

I was aware that asymmetrical plain methods could be incorporated in a 720 and was careful to say that asymmetrical plain methods were false under normal circumstances, when 1 wrote the Minor Alphabet a few years ago. It is possible to remove falseness under certain circumstances by using diametrically opposed symmetrical methods.
This can be accomplished without "single" changes (except as an ordinary standard call at the lead-ends) but "single" changes are necessary to obtain a continuous 24 -row lead unless the ordinary Treble Bob path is used.
"B" Group.
Hunting up to 3 rds with the treble in a "Little" method and down to 4ths in an Alliance was suggested to me by Mr. W. F. Moreton several years ago. Neither of us followed up the suggestion as 1 believe we both were not fond of the idea. Perhaps Mr. Bruce may consider the methods worth trying: all kinds of queer stuff are rung nowadays !

"C" Group.

I have not actually met this type of method before. Albert Nash, of Wath-on-Dearne, once told me that he had experimented with twin hunting metnods but he never showed me any of his efforts. I never discovered anything of the kind in his notes and records of Minor methods which I examined after his death.

By CYRIL A. WRATTEN

- B" Groap.

This idea is even older than Mr. Chant realises, since it appears in Annable's "Notebook" of c. 1730 under the name of " Novelty." Annable's system differs in detail, although the principle is the same as in Mr. Bruce's article. but it has the advantage of simplicity. I can provide details if required.

The Introdaction.

Not all "Plain and T.B." methods have yet been named: cf the recent Fawley Surprise. I have details of a number of such methods that have yet to be rung. 1 also believe (but cannot check immediately) that not all named T.B. methods have yet been rung to $720^{\prime}$ s, let alone peals, and their "c.C. Collection" names are consequently not sacrosanct!
(A quibble on facts, which, of course, has no bearing on the validity of the article in general.)

MARCH 4th AT APPLETON

$S^{A}$ATURDAY, March 4th, was the 150 th anniversary dinner of the famous Appleton Socrets, ard, although it is one of the highlights of the ringing year, no rules or minutes have ever been recorded, and one can assume the only difference between the first and 150th dinner would be the numbers attending, as it can be readily understood that the first and the yearly dinners since have always been very happy.
This year, as has been the practice during the past several years, visitors began to arrive on the Friday, and a very pleasant evening was spent in the Plough listening to the rehearsing of handbells for the next night, with the locals-Bob Mordaunt and his missus, Bill Coles, Tudor Edwards, Derek Jewell, Roy Boud, Les Walters, Farmer Sangwin, Frank Mack-all of whom had arrived to be sure of getting into the Village Hall the next afternoon.

The traditional peal attempt was started at 10 o clocic on Saturday morning, but the conductor was so unnerved at starting without such stalwarts as Frank White, Fred Sharpe and the C.O.S. that he went utterly to pieces, mentally called himself into the hunt, but forgot to call the "bob" aloud to let others know what was going on. However, at Appleton there are no heart searchings or inquests, so by 12 noon everyone was at headquarters until the urief respite from 5.30 to $6 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$., when the Plougit closes and the bar opens at the Hall. During the afternoon the friends began to arrive.

SOME OF THE COMPANY

Nelson and his friend Mottershead from the North, the usual ex-University contingent, Stubbs, Bennett and now Mr. and Mrs. J. Camp and Mr. and Mrs. David Derby (and as far as one can see it makes no difference to the lads "being on the chain") and Chris Johnson.

Then came John Lott and his London crowd, Ernie Gower with his Warwick youngsters, who, were it not tor the restraining influence of Doctor Mackie, would soon get out of hand, Jack Pror and hus two ministering angels and a host of others from long distances whom Appleton welccmed.

Then there was the hard core, Walter Judge, Fred Wilkıns, Neil Allnatt and Dick Chaundy, from Oxford. the Hibberts from Ilsley, the Hagbourne chaps, Bryn, Reg and Ray from Bristol, Trevor Bailey and his young friend, and a lot of other good people who must not be hurt because they are not mentioned.
At seven o'clock precisely the company sat down to a meal under the chairmanship of the Rector, whom we were all pleased to see accompanied by his good lady, and he was supported by Frank White, Canon and Mrs. Wigg, Sir Basil Blackwell and his two sons, the Appleton doctor, Miss Cross and Frank's co-churchwarden. It was a hot meal and everyone was delighted with the effort as it is not an easy feat to organise a hot meal at the Village Hall. Coffee, cheese and biscuits having been finished, the Rector proposed the loyal toast and the evening got under way with a Very nice homily from Geoff Gunn proposing "The Church" and aptly responded to by the Rev. Mr. Tuckwell (Rector).

NATURAL BERKSHIRE BROGUE
Fred Sharpe then most admirably proposed "The Appleton Society " and we were all agog for the reply, which is undoubtedly the speech of the evening, by Frank White, and this year was no exception, being well worth listening to in that unspoiled natural Berkshire brogue. Roger Mitty (grandson of Cuthbert White) proposed "The Visitors" in a very friendly manner and Anthony Foster thanked the Appleton Society for their happy day.
It is very doubtful if there is another gathering, in other spheres as well as ringing, where a crowd of 120 get through a most entertaining evening without modern methods such as a compere, microphone or a pop band of some sort. But it is done at Appleton and no doubt the bighlight of the evening was "lapped " Spliced Stedman and Erin Cinques; in fact later in the evening the Whites and Bob Mordaunt "lapped" a bobbed course of Stedman Cinques, because one well-known Northern visitor heard the Spliced but didn't see it, voting it an amazing performance.

The usual traditional Appleton songs were rendered by Fred Sharpe, Harry White, the Doctor, Bill Coles and Bill Hibbert, and the Whites entertained us with their stylish tuneringing on handbells, but directly the opportunity arose the company were soon singing the typical Appleton songs and any hymn that anyone cared to "pitch " and start-and it has to be heard to be realised, in spite of a steady flow to and from the bar-was sung with reverence and the harmony was something out of the ordinary.

NUNC DIMITTIS

At 11.30 p.m the company sang the Nunc Dimittis and then it took quite a long while for old friends to say "Goodnight" and make arrangements for future happy meetings and start for home. some with many miles to go.

The visitors staying at the Plough wended their way over to the hostelry to prepare for bed, but it was quite a surprise to find the number of people who "fell by the wayside" and popped in with the residents to have one for the road before proceeding onwards, but each car driver had been carefully vetted and detailed for driving duty.

So ended another happy March 4th, thanks to Frank White and his loyal band of ringers who can still go to the tower and ring Grandsire Caters with two more listening outside. Not bad for a village of only a few hundred souls. Thanks are also due to the "White" ladies, who do a lot of hard work to ensure the visiting ringers are well looked after. W. H.

SOUTHWELL DIOCESAN GULLD

The March meeting was held at West Bridgford, where the very pleasant light eight were put to good use, methods ranging from rounds to Stedman and Cambridge. The steeplekeeper, Mr. W. Ratcliffe, is to be congratulated on the condition of the bells and belfry. In the absence of the District Ringing Master Mr. J. Miller took charge.
A splendid tea was provided by Miss J. Thornton and Mrs. Butler. At the business meeting it was announced that Daybrook bells would not be rung for the Crawford Cup so it was decided to inquire if Basfurd bells were available.
The May meeting was tentatively fixed at Attenborough. D.S.

BARNSLEY AND DISTRICT SOCIETY

One cannot tell whether it was the rustle of spring or the anticipation of ringiag on fine-toned bells that brought the ringers out of hibernation, but on Saturday, March 9 th, all roads seemed to lead to Royston for the monthly meeting.

Because of weddings, a late start had to be made but, once started, good use was made of the bells from rounds and call changes to more exotic material and, although close-lead ringing enjoyed pride of place, open-lead was certainly not neglected.

Among the visitors the Society were pleased to welcome were the president of the Yorkshire Association. Mr. V. Bottomley (who has also certain connections with the Central Council), and his talented wife, who can drive d car (we hear) almost as well as she can ring bells. Furthermore, after the tea and meeung, which were held in the adjacent Church School, the members of the Socjety who were fortunate enough to be in the ringing chamber at the time witnessed the rare but welcome spectacle of Jean and Vernon partaking in a touch of Wooabine (an irregular method, may it be softly spoken !), rung in the approved South Yorkshure "cartwheel" fashion with a striking and rhythm that would have done justice to Barnsley Shield Contest ringing !

As the next meeting was due to be held on Holy Saturday it was decided to hold a joint meeting with the Halifax and District Association on Saturday, Apri] 20th, which is a week later than Barnsley and District's normal meeting day.
H. C.

5,088 PLAIN BOB MAJOR

Contains all the $5678,6578,4678,5478$ and five courses of 4578 and four courses of 6478. First rung at Appledore, Kent, on October 28th, 1967. Conducted by the arranger.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The peal at Ormesby on page 191 was zung under the auspices of the Cleveland and North Yorkshire Association.
Our attention has been drawn by those keeuing peal records for the need of accuracy in submitting names of ringers in peals.

Is it true, inquires an Ashford District member, that recently a ringer at a Canterbury college arranged for members of his tour to ring at Strood, Kent (ten tubular beils)?

New bell ropes have been provided at St . Wenn's Church Cornwall. According to "The Cornish Churchman " ringers from the Diocese and beyond find St. Wenn a good place to visit.
Mrs. Mary I. Edgecombe was a ringer at St. Mary's, Callington, Cornwall, for 38 years. To commemorate this her sons have given three chairs for the ringers' gallery. They now stand, suitably inscribed, with the table Mrs. Edgecombe herself gave in 1964.

The peal at Great Yeldham (page 168) is duplicated on page 188.
Dublin University Society are planning a tour to Limerick to include five new recruits. Mr. Tom Chapman reports four first quarters from Bishopstoke. One of the signs of new life.
The band who rang the quarter peal at Radley for the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hadland are grateful to Mr. A. K. P. Poole who deputised for Miss Daphne Pollard, who unexpectedly had to spend a few days in hospital.
During the machining of "The Ringing World " of March 1st four incidentals were cut off peals on page 198. They should read: Birkenhead peal: Thomas E. Howarth treble (first peal of Treble Bob), tLucy P. A. Hopkins 2 (first peal). Sawley peal: Christine Browne treble, Anne Browne 2 (first pesl on eight bells). The errors are regretted.

WARMINSTER FIVE-TON PULPIT MOVED

The massive five-ton stone and marble pulpit at Warminster Parish Church hides the high altar from some of the congregation and the voice of the preacher is partially mufled by a pillar. Since before the last war plans have been afoot to move the pulpit, and a building firm recently estimated that the cost would be at least $£ 250$.
Thanks to a small body of volunteers, this tricky operation has been carried out at a cost of only $£ 4$ spent on quick-setting cement. Organisıng the moving was Mr. Brian Price, former Minster ringer, who now teaches at King's College, Taunton. The building firm said the pillar would have to be broken down into sections before removal, but the volunteers simply dug underneath it and moved it in one piece by the use of a borrowed bydraulic jack. The task took a week.

The pulpit has been moved five feet and now the entire congregation can see the altar, and thte troublesome pillar is now behind the preacher and acts as a sounding board. Helping Mr. Price were two Lord Weymouth School masters-Mr. Philip Terry and Mr. Howard Marsden-and two Minster ringers-Messis. N. G. Knee (captain) and E. E. Frampton-and Mr. Edwards (verger).

MISSIONARY WORK

Miss Ann Gardner, a former member of the Washington Cathedral band, has taken her zeal for change ringing to Oberlin Collegc, Oberlin, Ohio. Here she has instructed two of her room mates in handbell ringing and with great enthusiasm they send to ". The Ringing World "a quarter of Plain Bob Minor. Ann concludes: "I am doing my best to spread the Exercise in this country even in the absence of towers. I may be able to come to England this summer and learn a great deal more first-hand. I certainly hope so."

50 YEARS A RINGER AND NOW HIS FIRST PEAL

Mr. James Wood, of Sharnford. Leics, has been a ringer for 50 years (since he was eight years old) and has just rung his first peal. The peal was rung as a compliment to his father.
Harry Wood, on his 80 th birthday (which was also James' 58 sh birthday). Harry has been ringer at St. Helen's, Sharnford, for nearly 70 years and it was on these bells that the birthday compliment was paid.

KITCHEN BELL PEAL

Some years ago alterations were made to the Old Sarratt Rectory, Herts, when Joe Goodman received 13 servants' bells which used to call for "service." Joe and Mrs. Goodman extend hospitality on the Feast of St. Stephen and on one occasion it was suggested that a peal should be rung on the six Joe had sorted out-complete with springs. However. the conductor did not fancy this. so cquipped them with straps and partially muffled the clappers-ordinary hooked ones, which roll-and they needed it. The first attempt, a fornight earlier, was lost through a slip appearing at the wrong time, when brains would not respond quickly enough. This time all went well, as our peal columns reveal. (See handbell' peal at Common Wood, Chipperfield.)

MISSING PEAL BOARDS OF HOLY TRINITY, SOUTHWARK

Those ringers who were present at the dedication of the hells of All Saints', Tooting Graveney, on March 2nd, will have noticed three early 19th century peal boards in the ringing chamber. These very fine boards record peal, by the College Youths and the Junior Society of College Youths. They originally hung in the tower of Holy Trinity, Southwark, in company with a number of smaller boards
Some years ago I was given permission to remove these boards for safe keeping, on the condition that they should one day be placed in a belfry. While I was making these arrangements all the smaller boards disappeared, leaving a mark on the wall where they had been.
1 have reason to believe that another ringer removed these boards and I would appeal to him to get in contact with me so that all Holy Trinity's peal boards may be together again and preserved for generations to come. Any information leading to the recovery of the board will be gratefully received by me at 76. Franciscan Road, London, S.W.17, and treated with complete confidence. Should the present possessor of the boards read this I assure him that his name will not be disclosed but I would remind him that he has stolen property in his hands!

REV. A. CLAYTON.

"PROOF WITHOUT FEARS?"

Mr. J. R. Taylor, of Bristol, writes that, as a result of an idea originated by Mr. S. J. Ivin, of Bedford, he has written an Algol computer programme which proves touches of Major (Treble Bob bunt) of any length in any number of methods. Total storage used is less than 2,000 words.
The peal of 23 -spliced all-the-work has been proved in about 75 seconds. Mr. N. J. Diserens has written a similar programme in Fortran, which he has used to prove his peal of four-spliced all-the-work in about 15 seconds.

PEAL AT BARBON, WESTMORLAND

The recent peal of Minimus at Barbon Westmorland, is believed to be the first peal of Minimus in the county and was arranged without the band's knowledge of the condition of the bells, When they arrived at the cower they found a ring of four by J . Taylor and Co. hung on plain bearings in a wooden frame with pits for six bells. Al though the bells go well and are in good condition, the nose in the ringing chamber is tremendous and it was decided to attempt just cne method instead of the proposed three so as not to mistake the conductor's instructions. Details of the bells are as follows:-
Treble.-As thou does knit them Lord in one so bless them evermore. Given A. M. D.6. By grateful parishioners July 1st, 1896. The silver wedding of Sir Uchtred and Lady KayShuttleworth. 24 ins. high, $28 \frac{1}{2}$ ins. diameter. Second.-In memoriam of Margaret Harrisson, O.B. 1878, and Mark Harrisson. O.B. 1877. Vincit Qui Patitur. 17 ins. high, 29 ins. diameter.

Third.-In memoriam of Eleanor Eastham of this church, benefactress. Given by grateful parishioners and friends. James Harrison, incumbent, 1893. 27 ins, high, $31 \frac{1}{2}$ ins diameter. Tenor.-Hora Fugit Ora. A. M. D.6, and in memory of Richard Willan, of Darlington. The gift of his loving sister. MDCCCXCIII.

ALFRED H. WEBB'S 40 YEARS' SERVICE

A peal was rung at Hagbourne, Berkshire, on March 19th. which marked the end of an era. In 1927 Alfred H. Webb became foreman at this tower; he gave 40 years' devoted service to that office until he was stricken with illness in December of last year. Although he is now thankfully on the road to recovery, Alf decided that the time had come to relinquish the foremanship of the Hagbourne Society and also the posts of Ringing Master of the North Berkshire Branch of the Oxford Diocesan Guild and people's warden of Hagbourne Parish Church, which he has held with equal distinction for many years.
The peal was conducted by his successor, Michael Bishop, grandson of Thomas East, who was himself tower foreman for the first quarter of the century, and who was ringing at a time when James $W$. Washbrook and the Rev. F. E. Robinson were frequent visitors to the tower
Though Alf has relinquished the foremanship, he intends to be an active "backbencher," and we look forward to his speedy return to the belfry.

RICHMOND-UPON-THAMES MUSIC FESTIVAL

The annual tower- and handbell ringing contest in the festival is to take place at Isleworth Parish Church and Church Room on April 6th, starting at 2.30 p.m., when tower bell teams will have five minutes' practice ringing followed by the ringing of 250 changes or more in any standard method on eight bells and upwards, Triples or Caters being accepted. Atter tea in the Church Hall the handbell ringing contest will take place. The festival awards two shields for competitors annually and the adjudicator this year is Mr. A. Patrick Cannon. Entries will be accepted on the day but it would be helpful if teams intending to enter could notify the chairman, Dr. D. J. Neal Smith, 93, Cole Park Road. Twickenham, Middlesex, as long before that date ds possible.

CONSTITUTION WIDENED BY UNIVERSITY OF WALES SOCIETY

During the recent ringing tour of South Wales tne University of Wales Society held its annual general meeting at Hawarden, when It was decided to amend the constitution by admitting ringing members of the new University of Science and Technology and all those pursuing academic work in the University To strengthen contacts with former members it was decided to appoint a past members secretary. Officers elected were: Master, Margaret Twigg (Aberystwyth); secretary, Roger Harpole (Cardiff). Arrangements are being made for a tour of Kent from September 18th to 23 rd. The annual dinner will be at Swansca on December Ith.
The tour started on Friday, February 23rd, when members from University Colleges at Aberystwyth. Cardiff, Lampeter and Swanse: assembled at Machynlleth. Afterwards there was ringing at Dolgellau and Portmadoc.

On the Saturday they were joined by members from the college at Bangor for ringing at Beaumaris. Ruthin and Hawarden. Later. Rhyl, Abergele, Llandudno and Bangor were visited. Some of the party were able to stay for Sunday ringing. The Society is grateful to those incumbents who gave permission to ring.

OBITUARY

MR. WILLIAM J. ROBINSON

With the passing of Mr. William J. Robinson (Rabbie), one more link with Aifred $H$, Pulling's famous prewar band at Holy Trinity, Guildford, has been broken. Robbie, who was 86, passed away peacefully on March Sth at the home of his grandson in New Cross, London. Although in failing health for several years, his death came suddenly. He was a very active man and right to the end he had his daily walk.

Because of his health he had not been able to ring for the last six years but he was still keenly interested in ringing affairs and, until his failing eyesight prevented him from doing so, was an ardent reader of " The Ringing World." He was a kind and gentle man, although his bushy eyebrows and gruff voice gave him a fierce appearance, enough to frighten the timid and the not-so timid.

Robbie started his ringing career at Olney, Bucks. After serving in the R.A.M.C. in the first World War he moved to Dorset, following his trade as a basket-maker. In 1926 he moved to Guildford and joined the band at Holy Trinity. Until then he had rung little more than the standard methods and only a few peals, but he quickly mastered the more intricate methods and was soon ringing peals of Surprise Major in many methods. He was a safe and reliable ringer and a good handler. For this reason Alf Pulling nearly always placed him for peal ringing on the 3rd at Holy Trinity, which with the 4 th and 7 th was well known for its habit of dropping suddenly on the unwary, but Robbie was seldom caught out.

His record of peals is not immediately avail able but it is believed he rang over 300 , about half of these after he had reached his 60th birthday. They included the first ever peal of Spliced Surprise Major and a lorg length of Double Dublin He did not aspire to being a conductor, but did call about a dozen peals, including Holt's Original, on a number of occasions.

He was steeplekeeper at Holy Trinity for many years and was never absent from the tower for Sunday ringing and practices right up to 1958, when circumstances beyond his control necessitated his leaving Guildford and his beloved tower.

He was a good and faithful friend and his passing will be mourned by all who knew him.
F.A. M.

MR. ALBERT W. COLES  Appreciations

Albert W. Coles was one of two highly respected and admired brothers whose main ringing activities were centred in and around the London area. "Bert" and "Tom" Coles earned their tributes by personality, hard work and achievement.
In 1903 at St. George-in-the-East Albert was invited to be taught to handle a bell-only after having "sat through and watched" the two previous practices! However, within three years he had, in this tower, rung his first peal. He was elected a member of the Middlesex County Association and London Diocesan Guild in 1905 and served this Association very well for many years, culminating in being Master (1935-39) and a vice-president (194353). He represented the Association on the Central Council in 1948. His great service to the Exercise was as an instructor, either leading or assisting, and just some of the towers which benefited from his tuition were St. Giles-in-the-Fields, Bethnal Green, Clerken well, Cubitt Town, Holloway, Islington and North Mymms.
He achieved fame by being a member of the William Pye band, during which time many records were made, such as 7.392 Camnbridge Surprise Maximus at St. Mary-le-Bow: first peal of Cambridge Surprise Maximus at Exeter Cathedral; first of Spliced Surprise Maximus at Chelmsford Cathedral: 10.440 Cambridge Surprise Royal at Walthamstow; first of Spliced Surprise Royal at St. Magnus', London Bridge, and the pioneering series of Spliced Surprise Major in 3 to 12 methods. His peal total was 479 , conducted 12 , all on tower bells. This seems unusual, for he was quite capable of conducting more and of ringing a handbell peal. Stedman remained his favourite for ringing and conducting.

Mention, of course, must be made of the Veterans' Reunion, which Albert originated and put into effect so successfully. He had done some excellent signwriting of peal boards, usually gold leaf on a black background to his own significant design, and made some beautiful pen and ink drawings of church towers, all of which will remain a memorial to him. He was a lover of the open countryside, and had walked many miles in various parts of the country, though the Sussex beauty spots were his favourite visiting places.

To his widow, son and daughter-in-law are extended sincere sympathy in their bereavement.
T.J. L.

I dirst met Bert Coles when I was a bashful "teenager"-in the days when ladies were not always welcome in the belfry. Always ready and willing to help inexperienced ringers, he had great pattence logether with a quiet, unassuming manner, which did much cowards making the beginner feel at ease.

Little did I know then that we were to be neighbours in North Mymms for nearly 30 years. Tom and I will always be grateful to Bert for introducing us to the village where he had himself settled and where we subsequently made our home. May he rest in peace.

URANGWOT LII

Forty-five entries were received and the author is gratetul for several encouraging remarks. One entry even came from a non-ringer-a great pity, when he writes from New Court, St. John's College, Cambridge-an address to delight any campanologist ! Ladies supplied 16 entries ( 81 per cent. correct), while gentuemen supplied 29 entres ( 72 per cent. correct). Is it tume to form a Gentlemen's Guild?

From the correct entries the name drawn as the winner was B. J. Couzens, 110, Debden Road, Sattron Walden, Essex.

Solution:

David is not a boy and is not Mr. White, being next to Mrs. Wmate. He must be the otaer man and Mr. Vavid Black. The remanning adult maie Cirisuan name, kaward, must go with white to give Mr. Eaward white. Auce is not Mrs. Black, being adjacent to Mr. Black, and is not Mrs. Wnate so must be Mrs. Auce Green. Eaward is a white, so brenda and Fred are not whites. Mrs. White must de Carol, leaving Brenda to be Mrs. Brenaa Black. Fred is of the third family and must be Fred Green.
Thus far and with the restrictions on neighbours we have (Ignored) 81 Alice Green

Not a woman or a Green

2 David Black
3 Carol White
54 Not a woman or a White
Fred Green to be as far away from Mrs. Green must be 4 or 5 . The remanning woman, Mrs. Black, must be 5 or 6 , and 4 George were her son he would have to be on 1, 2 or 3 for furthest separation. George must be George White as he cound not achieve satisfactory separations from Mrs. Green and Fred Green. This leaves very few combinauons to try and the only acceptable one quickly emerges as:-
1 Mrs. Alice Green 2 Mr. David Black
3 Mrs. Carol White 4 Master Fred Green 5 Mr. Edward White 6 Mrs. Brenda Black 7 Master George White

The Church of St. Clement Danes

NO! our unusual front page photograph is not in the depths of the country, but in the heart of London -the Royal Air Force steeple of St. Clement Danes in London's Strand, added to the original Wren's Church in 1719.

Both the names of St. Clement and "Danes" have been associated with churches on the present site since the ninth century. St. Clement was a Bishop of Rome and is commemorated by the anchor motif on some of the present church finishings. In the ninth century it is alleged that when King Alfred expelled the Danes from the City of London, those who had married English wives settled just outside the city walls-the site of St. Clement Danes.

Spanning some ten centuries to the twentieth, we arrive at that grim night on May 10th, 1941, when the famous Wren church was reduced to ruins by one of the enemy's last fire assaults on London. The grand old 24 cwt . ring of ten bells came down from the tower in pieces and shortly after this the London County Association learned of the passing of its Hon. Chaplain, the Rev. Pennington-Bickford, Rector of St. Clement Danes. Without his beloved church and bells he had no will to live. In 1839 the headquarters of the London County Association was established in St. Clement Danes and 102 years later a substantial portion of the Association's property was burnt in the tower room when the church was destroyed. The late E. Alexander Young, F.R.I.B.A., a parishioner of St. Clement Danes, included in the design of the L.C.A. certificates references to St. Clement's.

These are the anchor and escallop shell, allusion to the world-famous folk songs with swags of handbells, oranges and lemon, also the signature E fiat major which was the key of the old St. Clement's tenor and bells. The old bells were a product of the Whitechapel Foundry, being cast in 1693, and prior to the war were an extremely fine 24 cwt . ring of ten.

Today, the new ring of ten bells at St. Clement's is somewhat lighter and of a different character to the old ring. They were first rung in 1958, and with all the fabric and other furnishings of the church are now in the custody of the Royal Air Force. Tablets in the tower record the details of that fine performance-the first all-ladies' peal of Stedman Caters.

An eleventh bell has been added to enable the electrically-operated carillon to play the nursery rhyme "Oranges and Lemons", which can be heard at 9 a.m., mid-day, 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. each day.

The London County Association still continues its close links with this church, holding the service prior to its annual general meeting in it and ringing the bells for Sunday service on at least one Sunday in each month.

Regularly year-by-year the L.C.A. also rings handbells at the annual Oranges and Lemons service and the ringing is frequently broadcast afterwards. On the last occasion-March, 1967-it was seen and heand in all Pathé news programmes. H.W.R.

First Peal at Durban, S.A., Met Outside Hostility

MARCH 9th dawned nice and cloudy, which augured well for our peal attempt at St. Mary's, Greyville, Durban. Fortunately the weather stayed cool and we were able to complete our peal in 2 hours and 49 minutes in a temperature of only 70 degrees $F$., this being the coldest day for months.
The peal represented the culmination of three months of intensive effort by St. Mary's ringers aided and abetted by Cyril Chambers of St. Paul's, and Geoffrey Armitage, a ringer from the West Riding of Yorkshire, who has been in Durban since December and who is returning to the U.K. at the end of March.
However, the peal was not rung without incident! One of the ringers had forgotten all about the peal and had gone to the cinema! Thus, at very short notice, i.e. five minutes, Robert Philogene's younger brother, David, was roped in to ring the second. David is 14 years old and has only been ringing for three years. David is at school, as is his 16 -year-old brother, Robert, who has been ringing for five years. Our tenor man, Roderick Callum, is 17, also still at school. John Maeder is the manager of the Glenwood, Durban, branch of Barclays Bank-

Barclays ringers in England please note! John has been a faithful member of St. Mary's band for over 25 years, during most of which time he has managed to keep a Grandsire Doubles band ringing for Sunday services He and his team are now beginning to make progress with Plain Bob Doubles and Minor.

Cyril Chambers learned to ring 35 years ago at Chaddesley Corbett, Worcestershire He has been the mainstay of ringing here for the last 23 years. This was his first peal for 32 years. It was only his fifth peal, all of which have been of Grandsire, his last one being Grandsire Caters at Kidderminster on June 6th, 1936, conducted by Charles H. Woodberry. During recent years he has had to devote a little less of his time to ringing as his wife is now crippled with rheumatoid arthritis. However, he is always happy to welcome any visiting ringer to Durban. He can be contacted during business hours at phone number 62722, and during other times at 878274.

Just after the halfway mark in the peal wc were subjected to ten minutes of banging on the ringing chamber door and much switching on and off of lights. Fortunately, as the daylight began to fade, the caretaker came to the church and saw that we were in darkness and restored our lights. All was quiet for a while after this until about six extents from the end, when the banging began afresh. We were later told that about 20 people were outside the church, along with a posse of the South African Police. As the end was in sight someone finally managed to break the ringing chamber door down. Fortunately we were able to keep the intruders at bay and finish the peal.
Right at the end of the peal the Rector arrived and was able to disperse the crowd. It is much to the credit of the first-pealers that they kept going through all this, although the striking did suffer in places. We should also like to record our gratitude to the Rector for allowing the peal attempt and quarter peals.
This is the first time a peal has ever been rung in Durban, and change ringing (particularly in long lengths) is completely foreign to the bulk of the population here. The peal came round at 7.20 p.m., so we did not keep too many children from getting to sleep! It is hoped that any future efforts will meet with a better reception! The following day we made front page news in the local paper. G.A.

Truro Guild's Year of Progress

THE 1968 annual general meeting of the Truro Drocesan Guild was held at Launceston on March 2nd and was attended by about 65 ringers. The president, Mr. Alan Carveth, opened the meeting by ringing the Guild bell, and prayers were led by the Vicar of St. Mary's, Canon W. G. R. K. Steer, who welcomed the meeting to Launceston. There were several apologies for absence, including one from the Guild treasurer, Mr. S. J. Robinson, who was stricken down with bronchitis only a few days earlier. Silent tribute was paid to the members who had died since the last meeting-E. Friend, S. Gerry, W. C. Osborne, G. W. Read, E. B. Williams and P. R. C. Williams.

There were no matters arising from the minutes and, on behalf of the treasurer, the gencral secretary presented the accounts balances ot $£ 101$ in the General Fund and $£ 48$ in the Badge Account being recorded.
In his first report as Ringing Master Mr. W. C. Boucher spoke well of the various functions he had attended, making special mention of the warm welcome he had always been afforded. The highlight of the meeting was the comprehensive report of the peal secretary, Miss Marion L. Lidgey, in which she mentioned the 15 peals rung during 1967, of which lour were by entirely resident bands, and four ringers rang their first peals. Sixty-five quarters were rung with 94 "firsts" amongst them.
The general secretary gave a brief account of the Central Council meeting at Nottingham and the chairman gave a report on the library on behalf of his wife. The library was always in need of more books and particularly of gifts of "The Ringing World between the years 1924 and 1966.

The election of officers followed and al were re-elected with the exception of the librarian as the office was vacant, Mrs. Carveth having undertaken to run the department unt? the annual general meeting. Mr. Robert Pee Pearce was elected to that ottice, the fact that he lives next door to the general secretary being purely coincidental!

It was decided to hold the summer festival at St. Winnow on July 6th (if convenient) and the 1969 dnnual geveral meeting at Hetston on March 1st.

Under the general heading of any other business several matters were dealt with. The elections during 1967 of the following nonresident life members were confirmed: $C$. J Clarke, E. M. Cooper, P. J. Dye, H. Griffiths, D. K. Knowles, F. D. Mack, G. E. Mudge, L. A. Perry, J. R. Scott, E. E. Speake, M. J Stone and B. J. Wylde. The chairman drew the attention of the meeting to "The Ringing World" with the Cornsh tower on the cover and the general secretary offered anyone details of the new scheme "A Squarer Deal for Learners." which raised a certain amount of intertst. Mr. Ted Langley proposed that the Guild donare $£ 10$ to the Rev. A. S. Roberts towards the cost of completing his church at Carbis Bay and this was approved. Mr. Roberts was unable to attend the meeting due to work on his church.

The meeting was then closed and followed by tea, for which the Launceston people were thanked by Mr. Harry Miles. The bells in the neighbourhood were soon put to good use. A. J. D.

MR. ROBERT PEEL PEARCE
the new Guild librarian, who was born in 1952, has the distinction of being the youngest person to have learned to ring at Truro Cathedral, being only $9 \frac{1}{2}$ years old when he started. He is one of a family of five, tour of whom are ringers at the Cathedral-the oungest being at present too young. Mr. Pearce has been responsible for several improvements, including the belfry carpet.

THE HIGHER SIDE OF RINGING

By the Rev. D. G. SMITH

A DDRESSING the Surrey Association at its meeting at St. Peter's Church, Croydon, on January 27th, the Rev. D. G. Smith looked at ringing from a new angle. He presented the ringer as an interpretative artist, and change ringing not as an anxious hit-and-miss affair but potentully a glorious and ioyful art. His text was familiar to all ringers:

PPraise him upon the well-tuned cymbals,
Praise him upon the loud cymbals.
I should be belittling your calling were I to say that the ringing of bells was a sentimental exercise, or something that merely served to remind us of the past. The ringing of bells is an art, and art is always a serious matter. True art is always concerned ultimately with praise of God. That doesn't mear to say that the only pictures worthy of the name of art have religious subjects, or that the only true poetry is devotional. It doesn't mean that the only music of real worth is that heard in church.

Dylan Thomas, the Welsh poet, who was ribald and Rabelaisian at times, and whose poems, deeply felt as they are, are anything but pious in the churchy sense, claimed that they were written for love of Man and in praise of God. and, he added. 'I'd be a damn fool if they weren't.' This was not merely a superstitious looking over the shoulder. He knew that the very rhvthms and cadences he used in his verse were an echo of the harmonies of God's creation. In using them he was offering them back to God, who had given them: offering them in thanksglving and praise. Therefore what he wrote was poetry and sometimes great art.

Michaelangelo, releasing titanic human figures from the blocks of stone he carved gave back praise to God for the creation of Mian. So his work is great art. Henry Moore. the English sculptor, echoing natural stone and rock-formations in his strange carvings of men and woman and abstract shapes gives back praise to God for the creation of the hills and dales of his native Yorkshire. So his work attains the dignity of true art.

INTERPRETATIVE ARTIST

" In music the composer is the great crea tive artist-echoing the music of the spheres, the dance of the planets, the alternation of the seasons, life. death and resurrection. But in music we have, too, the performer, the interpretative artist, the solo violinist or pianist or trumpeter-or the orchestral player
"The change ringer is, or should be, an interpretative artist-a performer or one of the a band of performers like the orchestral player. Like all interpretative artists, he or she will have to serve a long apprenticeship and be prepared to submit to a stern and exacting discipline. Perhaps in change ringing there is more call tor teamwork and less chance for individual prowess than in any other art.

And what are the elements of this art? As 1 see it. and l'm no expert, strong, simple rhythm and tunes of considerable subtlety and complexity, the whole being the product of manual sk:11 and mental concentration and sheer dedication to mathematics. These elements, at their best, echo the rhythms and order of God's creation."

I have observed this, as it were, from the outside, not being a ringer myself. But think I bave been able to detect in the tower here at St. Peter's the point at which change ringing passes from being an anxious hit-andmiss affarr to being potentially a glorious and joyful ait. One notices it, naturally, more often with more experienced ringers but sometimes in the course of a few rounds of call change; with beginners there comes a moment when the team-or band, as 1 suppose I should call it-achieves a kind of unity and accord. The individuality of the ringers is lost. Hand, eye and brain are dedicated to a rhythm and a tune, the striking is rhythmic and true, and the tower itself will rock in sympathy; ever so slightly !

TRANSMUTED INTO AN ART
' It is not for me to say how often this moment of accord is reached in this or any other tower, but I expect you know what I mean, I expect you recognise what I have tried to express in non-technical terms. This to me is the essence of bellringing-or change ringing-and as I see it this is all transmuted into an art at the point where it is oftered back to God. The moment of perfection and the working towards that moment-both must be offered.
' I say 'must' because art carries with it obligatıons and responsibilities. Bellringing carres with it obligations and responsibilities. Ringers handle the largest and loudest of percussion instruments. The tunes of the bells, for good or ill, can be heard from one end of a small town to another. But ringers are handling more than this. They are dealing with the rhythms and cadences of God's universe, and these can only be approached and learned about in humility and with a sense of dedication.

- 1 have heard it said, and you have have heard it said, too, that bellringing is a folksy and backward-looking art: a thing stuck in the past. Perhaps where people are frivolous about it-and by 'frivolous' I mean where they see it as an end in itself-this can be true. Such an attitude pulls any art down from its true place of dignity. But the ultimate end of bellringing, as with all art. is to praise God, and where this ideal is maintanned it will always be relevant and valuable and an adornment of life. Many of you, I expect, strive for this ideal already. It is up to you who do to encourage your fellowringers to follow your example. It was the peculiar genius of the Jews that they saw everything as coming from God and returning to Him. The humblest percussion instrument was used as a means of offering praise: Praise him upon the well-tuned cymbals: praise him upon the loud cymbals,' sang the psalmist. In an age when God's praises are sung but faintly it is your proud responsibility to summon by bells, to call men back to a truer sense of God's creation and of their dependence upon his might and mercy and love."

Plain Bob Minor Without Singles

F. T. Blagrove Gives the Long-awaited Answer

Two types of bobs are used-the common bob :n which seconds place is moved to fourths place, and the Holt bob in which sixths place is moved to fourths piace. These Holt bobs are called so as to affect the treble, viz.:-

| 426153 | 416352 | 436251 |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| 462513 | 461532 | 46351 |
| 645231 | 645123 | 645312 |
| 654213 | 654132 | 65421 |
| 562431 | 561423 | 563412 |
| 526341 | 516243 | 536142 |

The first Holt, in which the treble dodges 56 up, puts the changes out of course. The second Holt, in which the treble makes fourths and in, retains the bells out of course. The third Holt in which the treble dodges 5-6 down, puts the bells back in course. The above three Holts form a Q-set, but one which cannot be used to join logether three plan courses.
To obtain the extent of Bob Minor without singles, any one of the C.C. Collection Extents Nos. 1 to 6 is used to give the in-course 360. Anywhere within this 360 the out-ofcourse 360 can be inserted by means of one of the following:-
By John Holt:
Call the treble 56 up, followed by BPPPBPPPPBBPP, call the treble to make fourths, followed by BPPPPBPPP BBPPPPBP, call the treble 56 down and finush the in-course 360.
By F. T. Blagrove:
Call the treble 56 up , followed by BBPBBPBBP, call the treble to make fourths, followed by PBBPBBPPBBPBB PPBBPBBP, call the treble 56 down, and tinush the in-course 360 .

TWO ANSWERS

BOB MINOR WITHOUT SINGLES WAS IN "CLAVIS"
Dear Sir,-1 have no idea what composition of Bob Minor Mr. Blagrove rang at Dorney, but the information on ringing 720 's without singles has been available in print since at least 1788 . In the "Clavis" of that date, on page 28 , is given the following 720 :-

|  | 123456 | - | 132564 |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
|  |  |  | 465321 |
|  | $465213$ | - | 145362 |
| - | 153264 | - | 134562 |
| - | 142536 | - | 125346 |
| - | 154236 | - | 125463 |
| - | 154362 | - | 142563 |
| - | 456123 | - | 135426 |
| - | 135462 | - | 135264 |
|  | 143562 |  | 123456 |
|  | 125436 |  |  |

The trick, of course, lies in the calls which affect the treble; examination of the nature of the rows shows that between the first and third calls affecting the treble the bells are out of course.-Yours faithfully,

RICHARD SPEED.

DIXON'S AND HOLT'S VARIATIONS

Dear Sir,-Plain Bob Minor without singles is not a new invention; the surprising thing is that it has been lost sight of for so long. A 720 is attributed to John Holt, and for all I know this may have been one of those used by Mr. Blagrove.

The Central Council recommends that only one type of bob and single should be used in any composition, and that although it is preferable to have them at the "traditional" place there is no reason why they cannot be elsewhere. Holt put three of his fourths-place bobs ipside leads. At one of these the treble makes fourths at the others it dodges in 5-6. The dodge means that it comes back to lead two blows late, and because of the nature of the rows (which is not changed by a bob) the bob has the effect of a single without being a single change. However, the call is a single according to the Central Council rules, since the coursing order of only two of the working bell's is changed.
There used to be rung in this area a variation of Plain Bob known as "Dixon's Variation," in which one of these internal bobs was made (non-conducted) every time 2 or 4 was leading. Plan Bob plain leads, bobs and probably singles occurred at the treble leads. I believe that a 10,080 was rung at Glinton about a century ago.

720 PLAIN BOB MINOR

(No Single Changes)

| W |  | H | 23456 |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| - | $x$ |  |  |
| - |  | 2 | 54236 |

| 2 | Z | - | 45236 |
| 2 |  | - | 25346 35426 |
| - |  |  | 33456 |

This is basically the standard " 6 without $5^{\text {" calling. with the addition of three internal }}$ bobs as follows:-
X -Bob after tenor wrong. Treble dodges up. Note that tenor is wrong again at the next lead-end.
Y-Bob after tenor makes seconds. Treble makes fourths.
Z-Bob after tenor 3-4 up. Treble dodges down.

Yours faithfully, JOHN DAVID.

OBITUARY

MR GEORGE CROFTS

Many of the older generation of ringers will regret to hear of the passing of Mr. George Crofts, of Castle Bromwich, Warwickshire, in hospital on March 3rd, at the age of 83 years.
For over 60 years he had been a regular ringer at SS. Mary and Margaret's Church, Castle Bromwich, but his work as a railwayman precluded him from peal ringing. He did, however, ring one peal. George will be sadly missed by all who knew him.
To his memory and with the bells halfmuffled 1,260 Plain Bob Minor was rung in the tower he had served so faithfully, by Alice M. Rhodes 1, Anne Deebank 2, Catherine Licquet 3, Lynda Deebank 4, H. Fetter 5 , F. W. Bailey (conductor) 6.

MRS. F. W. LACK

A very old friend of Huntingdon District ringers, Mrs. Lack, of Great Staughton, died on March Ist after a short illness. She will be remembered for her hospitality to ringers visiting Great Staughton and as the wife of the late Mr. F. W. Lack, who for many years was president of the District.
At the funeral service, which took place at St. Andrew's, Great Staughton, on March 5th, many District ringers were present and the bells were rung half-muffled before the service and again as the cortege left for the nearby cemetery.
On March 9th a memorial peal was rung consisting of six Minor methods. H.S.P.

LLANDAFF AND MONMOUTH DIOCESAN ASSOCIATION  LLANDAFF BRANCH A.G.M.  Report Delayed

The annual meeting of the Llandaff Branch was held on February 10th at St. John's Church, Llanblethian, Glamorgan, where the long-draughted and somewhat idiosyncratic six ( 12 cwt .) provided interesting ringing.

The bells are an assortment of Evans and of Rudhall castings dating from 1695 to 1769 , the treble being recast in 1907 by Carr, of Smethwick. The bells were rehung at that date in a wooden frame.
An encouraging number of members attended for ringing, with various methods up to Cambridge, and for the service and admirable address by the Rector, the Rev. S. H. Mogford, M.A. A sumptuous tea, provided by the ladies of the parish, was then enjoyed in the Church Hall, with nearly 50 present.
The Rector took the chair at the business meeting after Mr. Michael Pilgrim had proposed a well-deserved vote of thanks to the ladies for their catering. In the unavoidable absence of the Branch secretary, Mr. David Lewellyn, due to a severe attack of influenza, the secretary's report was read by the Association's general secretary, Mr. Jack Pryor. This told of a good year with attendance up at Branch meetings, with 32 peals rung-from Doubles to Royal. Specially mentioned were: a peal of Plain Bob Minor at Cadoxton-juxta-Neath, in which three generations of the Lewis family took part, including the 36 -year-young Mr. Derek Lewis; a peal of Grandsire Caters at Llandaff Cathedral by the local band, which included two first-pealers: and a peal of 15 Minor methods at Peterston-super-Ely, surpassing the Association's old record of 14 .

Mr. T. Yeomans, who this year passed the landmark of 175 peals, was also leading Association peal ringer with 18 . Mr. N. W. H. Simon was leading conductor with eight. Miss Susan Harber was leading Branch lady peal ringer with eight. Further peal landmarks passed were 150 by Mr. G. Lewis and 25 by Mr. D. L. Jones.

The hon. secretary's report was adopted, and a motion was carried nem con that he be thanked for this report; and also, as he was not seeking re-election, for his excellent work for the Branch throughout his secretaryship.
The following officers were elected for the coming year: Master, Mr. William T. Petty; Secretary, Mr. 1. Davies; auditor, Mr. Trevor M. Roderick; Central Council representative, Mr. Trevor M. Roderick. Eight new members were elected.
The usual Bell Fund collection was taken and realised $£ 115 \mathrm{~s}$. In the evening the bells of Holy Cross Church, Cowbridge (8, 15 cwt. 3 qr .13 lb . in E) were available and were put to good use.

BEDFORDSHIRE ASSOCIATION  Biggleswade District

Clifton always proves popular and although the Biggleswade District meeting had been delayed a month it was an excellent gathering with again a very heavy accent on youth. Ringing commenced promptly at 3 o'clock and continued until 4.30 p.m., when the Rev. Mr. Hill held a short service before 46 ringers walked to the nearby hall for a superb tea prepared by local ladies.
After tea we heard from the organiser (Mr. Rogers) that it is proposed to visit Berkshire for the annual District outing this year. Many of the young ringers were from six-bell towers and had their first real attempt at ringing on eight bells. The more experienced present were delighted to see the way in which the determined youngsters mastered the light ring.
Next meeting: Old Warden, Easter Saturday.

JIMMY GEORGE AND BURTON－ON－TRENT

Dear Sir，－The name of Jimmy George in the article on St．Paul＇s，Burton－on－Trent， brought nack to me memories of this outstand－ ing personality．My first meeting with him was on a Sunday in 1908，when I was a member of the band at St．Peter＇s，Nottingham．
We were preparing to ring for morning ser vice when a man came into the ringing room in the uniform of a railway official．After the usual＂Good morning＂he was asked if he was a ringer．He replied that be could pull a bell． Next question：＂Can you ring Stedman？＂ Answer：＂Just a bit．＂This was followed by Will you take a rope？That＇s the treble， pick where you like．＂He chose the seventh and after the touch he was asked to sign the visitors book．Judge our surprise and con－ sternation when we saw his signature－＂James George，Rugby．＂

Years passed and in 1932 I was living at Burton and bad joined St．Paul＇s company． The captain was John Swinfield，and his son Maurice was leader and composer of the Wed－ nesday Stedman team．We were to ring three new peals composed by Maurice．The first was at St．Paul＇s，and we had been ringing nearly two hours when Jimmy George asked me if I had had my dinner and made several more remarks，all of which 1 ignored．（I was chewing some raisins．I think I must have got the idea from the Rev．F．E．Robinson，who kept a few in his waistcoat pocket and would pop one in his mouth just before be called a bob．）We finished the peal in peace．

The following week＇s attempt was at Nether－ seale and Jimmy George was there and selected his victim，but we got the peal．

For the third attempt we returned to St ． Paul＇s．We stood as follows：Jimmy George 7th，myself 6th and Charlie Draper（Derby）5th． We were nearing the end when Jimmy George was about to open an attack on Draper，who was ready for anything that might happen Just as Jimmy was about to address Draper． Charlie said：Look here，Jimmy，if thou says another word I＇ll stick her up．＂We got our peal，but before Jimmy had hung up his rope Charlie was giving him a lecture on behaviour when ringing．－Yours sincerely，

Worksop，Notts．
T．R．FLINT．

It was very much a ringers＇wedding at St． Lawrence＇s Church，Swindon Village，Chelten－ ham，on March 2nd．Not only were the bride and bridegroom ringers at this church，but also both the bridesmaids and one of the ushers．The happy couple passed under an arch of bell ropes as they left the church．The next day a quarter peal of Plain Bob Doubles was rung at St．Lawrence＇s Church in bonour of the occasion．

SOLIHULL'S NEW BELLS

Dear Sir.-Would you kindly allow me to correct a serious mistake in your otherwise excellent report of the 80th Hensy Johnson Dinner in your issue of March 15th, 1968?
The two new treble bells to make up a ring of 12 for Solihull are not the gift of Mr. "Bill" Leeson One of them is from Mr . and Mrs. Charles Bragg to commemorate 50 years ringing by Charles at Solhhull. The other is given by Alderman W. E. Wright and his sisters. Miss Elsie Wright and Mrs. Eric Vanstone, in memory of their mother, Mrs. Elizd wright. who died recently.
The reference 1 made to Mr. Leeson was to the effect that he was probably the oldest ringer present at the dinner and had 70 years' service at Solihull, and to the fact that his enthustasm to see the addition of the two new bells had helped in no small way to its achievement.-Yours sincerely,

HARRY HARTLEY,
Rector of Solihull.
Note. -The Editor expresses his sincere regret at the misconception in his mind of the speeches and references to Mr. Leeson. He expresses his apology to all concerned.

THROUGH MALE EYES

Dear Sir, - Commenting on the Ladies ${ }^{\circ}$ Guild (Kent) report ("Ringing World," page 200), I must admit that in view of the recent adverse publicity directed towards the ciuld I went to Sittungbourne on a tower-grab, expecting to find a fiasco. What a pleasant surprise i got.
The local ringers had organised a sumptuous tea, for which only a nominal charge was made, and which would do credit to any hughly organised territurial Association. The ringing, too, was of a comparatively high standard, particuiariy during the evening.

Spectal mention must be given to the ladies' touch of Grandsire Triples on the old $20 \frac{1}{2}$ cwt. octave The Misses R. Sinden, F. Cannon and $E$. Todd handled the back bells in a masterly fashion, whilst the more mature members, including Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Wratten, demonstrated their skills round the lighter end. The other ladies, who 1 cannot report on by name, rang equally as well, and must share in the credit that is due. Well done, ladies -Yours faithfully,

TOM GOODYER'S VISIT

Dear Sir.-As you noted in "Belfry Gossip " on March 15th, Tom Goodyer, of Sydney, expects to be in England for a while this summer on business; and very welcome he will be, too.
I am trying to arrange some ringing for him during the three weeks' holiday that he hopes to rake in July. I have got him fixed up for July 6th-13th. Is there anybody who is organising a tour or outing during the weeks June 29 th to July 6 th or July 13th to 20th in an interesting part of the British Isles who would like to invite a big, strong fellow who is an excellent ringer and conductor to join them? If so, would they please get in touch with me.-Yours faithfully,

PHILIP GRAY.

ACRIMONY OVER RECORD PEALS

Dear Sir,-May I endorse the opinions expressed by Mr. Harold Leather ('*Ringing Wortd," March 1st) regarding the attitudes of currespondents concerning the recent record of currespondents

Such acrimonous exchanges among people whose duties are primarily to call folk to God's worship are disgraceful, and the partucipants poor examples of Christians (which one presumes they profess to be).

What is the purpose of "record" peals chiefly? In what ways do they contribute to the furtnerance of God's work? For whose giory are they rung?

Let it not be thought that 1 am writing aganst the ringing of such peals. It must be admitted that. these performances are fine feats. as such, both mentally and physically, but the matter ends there. Church bells are in the tcwer for the purpose of calling people to wership, not for the personal pleasure and self-giorification of those on the end of the ropes. Those of us who ring for pleasure as well as for Sunday service ringing would do well to remind ourselves of this fact occasionally

It is a pecular exhibition of the Christian spirit that when bands of the Church's ringers, and some of the more "famous" ones to boot, get rogether in attempts to outdo one another in umpteen thousand changes they at umes break out into catty arguments about the rights and wrongs of this or that performance.

Let us remember that, if need be, the Church can eastiy do without ringers, or even bells, come to that. The reverse is certainly not the case, unless of course record-peal-mad fraternities are prepared to get logether and raise money to build themselves secular bell towers. -Yours sincerely,

PLAIN BOB TRIPLES

Dear Sir,-Recemly I have been investigating the composition of Plain Bob Triples to see if I could produce an extent based solely on my own Ideas and work on Bob Major. came up with the following two peals-a 3-part and a 6 -part:-

Repeat twice.

When 1 discovered that the first one contained only 81 calls and the second 781 was rather surprised. since I had been led to believe that 90 calls was considered the minimum. I would like to know if these two compositions are orrginal, if this plan has been used before, and if 90 calls was considered the minimum number and, if not, what is the minimum number?-Yours faithfully,

COLIN J. E. WYLD

CLOSE WESTMINSTER ABBEY CORRESPONDENCE

Dear sir,-1 have read with interest all the correspondence on the Westminster service ringing since my first letter on this matter: mucin of it has been beside the point but one thing in parucular I have observed is that the thajoity of the letters that agree with the present state of attairs have been by ringers who have rung at the Abbey, either by gatecrashing or by introduction; there have been exceptions, but these have been by people expressing their rersonal views.
I have been accused by Mr. Pitstow of being " disgruntled," by Mr. Beach the "whine of a pampered child "; another correspendent writes "No right to ring in any church." May I remund your correspondents that my letter in the first place was to ask a question-simply, why the bells were not runa on Sundays, not, as so many of your correspondents seem to think, why I was refused permission to ring.

This question was answered by Mr. Pitstow -" The Dean prefers the Ting Tang," which is exactly as described by two bells chiming. The Dean's letter to Mr. Dodd seems to confirm this, although Mr. Dodd went to a great deal of trouble to explain to him the other arrangements made for Sunday service ringing in Londou and the rest of the country.

That it will always remain the same there remains no doubt, but as the person responsible for raising the matter 1 have no regrets for doing so. May I say, Mr. Editor, we now know it all and, however distasteful it is, 1 for one accept the facts as they are and am happy to know there is only one Church authority in the country with rules like this.

May we now, sir, close the correspondence. -Yours faithtully.
F. TONGE.

Longparish, Hants.

TOWER GRABBING AT ABBEY

Dear Sir,-Mr. Pitstow and his band cannot, of course, be held responsible in any way for the quaint regulations governing ringing at Westminste! Abbey.

What does seem very ludicrous and exceedingly patheuc, however, is that other ringers who have themselves, by some means. succeeded in a " spot of tower-grabbing ", at the Abbey should now so loudly acclaim and defend the archaic rules which they personally have managed to evade.-Yours faithfully,

ONLOOKER.

DISSATISFIED WITH PEAL

Dear Sir, I am writing on the subject of a peal published as having been rung at Ashby-de-la-Launde, Lincolnshire, on January 6 th (page 71) in which I took part. Some of the extents were fiagrantly miscalled, thus rendering the performance invalid. I have been in contact with the conducto. in regard to this bu: have been unable to elicit any direct reply beyond the observation to the effect that "the peal was no worse than many others."

In view of these circumstances I wish to dissocrate my name with the so-called peal. I regret having to call attention to this unfortunate occurrence, but the persistent neglect of tad conductor to attend to the matter personally has left me with no alternative.-Yours faithfully,

Palmer's Green.
RICHARD A. HUNT.

SEE BACK PAGE

"GOOD HUNTIN'!"

Stage 5. Pupil-controlled Hunting Practice. -Primarily, as we have seen, a pupil learning to hunt has to practise listening and looking for the bell-to-becovered. The normal rate of change-ringing is too fast, at first, for hum to do this successfully. Ideally the whole business should be slowed down in effect, untif the pupi, has found the bell he is hunting tor. Clearly the speed of continuous changeringing cannot be slowed down to that degree. But there is the technique that is similarly employed in the projection of cine-film, when a "frame" is momentarily held stationary, for some detail or effect to be spotted. The idea can be applied to our purpose in this way.
Three exercises in hunting are to be introduced, each based on one of the ihree "Rules" (as above) in turn. Conveniently, five bells may be employed, four as "" working bells and the fitth as a "cover." This calls for four ringers, or three and the tutor, together with the pupil. (Note: Only one pupil is taken at a time, others watching and awatung their turn.) The exercises all ring the Minimus plain-set, as shown in Fig. 2. The tutor explans that in these hunting exercises the pupil himself will call for the starting, conunuing and stopping of the changes, trom rounds, through a plain-set and back to rounds, but that his moment of calling will be entirely in his own good time, i.e. wh-n he will be calling "Change!" The tand will then make the next change of the set (at the next ensuing handstroke, of course) and continue to ring it, unt!! the next call "Change!" Meanwhile the pupil, ringing his bell with a steady, rhythmic stroke (as he will have learned to do earlier in the exercise of "Following, in ringing rourids), is looking round to find, and strike over his new "bell-to-be-covered." (See one of "Rules" above, according to type of hunting.) When he has found that, bell, and not before, he will call "Change!" and move into position with the others. The process is repeated until the exercise is completed. The tutor helps and corrects the pupil, but only it he seems to get lost. The two important points here are that the pupil is no longer harassed; and that be actually has time to, and does from the start, find each bell that he must strike over or "cover." Correct app!ication of this practice calls for the exercises (the true approach to hunting) in the order as given below. The pupil is already familiar, of course, with the three forms of hunting, having practised these forms in the hand-clap and handbell exercises.
Rule I Exercise.-" Tenor Behind." The simplest form of hunting, Static, is taken first, the pupil taking the 5th, "last" or tenor, the exercise starting with rounds, settling into a steady rhythm. Pupil notes the bell be is covering, i.e. the 4th. When ready he calls "Change :, The working bells move into the first change of the Minimus plain-set2143 and continue to ring that change. Meanwhile the pupil, ringing rhythmically in 5ths place, is looking round the ropes for the bell he should now be covering, i.e. "last bell down "-the 3 rd of course- that has come into 4ths place just below him; and he checks his striking over it. "As soon as he is satisfied he again calls "Change!" and the process is repeated until, after the eighth "Change !" he finds himself covering the 4 th agatn, with the bells back in rounds. He should have noted that in covering plam hunting he covers the same bell in its two blows "at back." The exercise should be continued until the pupil calls at every handstroke, when the calling may be dispensed with, as changes are made at every stroke. The practice of covering on higher numbers ( 6,8 , etc.) may now be taken, depending on the weight of the covering bell and the pupll's ability to ring it properly. It is interesting to note that pupils have been known to "cover" at tirst attempt, without this first exercise; and in such cases they ring entirely rhythmically as the result of their hand-clap exercises and use of ear. In fact their ringing in this way helps them to gain rope-sight, since they keep a steady pult whilst looking for the bell to - come up under them."

Rule II Exercise.-" Hunting up.' This Is mobile hunting, of the expanded type. Pupil takes the treble this tume. Applying the appropriate rule he looks round, during the preliminary ringing of rounds, for the bell coming over him (2nd). As soon as he feels "sure of himself" he calls "change" and moves up to cover this bell while the rest of the working bells move into their respective postitons, and continue to ring that change Meanwhile the pupil can see that he is in the second position in the change and he looks round to see which bell is covering him . As soon as he spots it (4th) he calls "change" and moves up to cover that bell. All working bells, including the one the pupil is moving up over, move into their new positions. and so the process is repeated until the pupil finds himself striking in 4ths position. when he calls "Stand." This hunting up exercise is repeated until, as in the previous exercise. the calling can be dispensed with. (Some tutors may find it helpfui to ask the pupil to name his bell-next-to-be-covered, Just before his call "change," so that if he is wrong the cutor can call "No." and the ringing continues until the pupil picks the right bell.) Rule III Exercise.-Hunting down (MobileContracted) It is well to refresh the pupil's memory as to the actual changes being, produced, e.g by looking at the "chart" we prepared tor the opening of Stage 2. He again takes the treble and notes where he left off in the previous exercise for Rule II. This was in the change where he struck his first blow in 4 tns position -4231. The next change. which is "reversed rounds." keeps him in the same position. i.e. with static hunting for just one change Then the contracted or downward hunting begins. So, the exercise begins with the ringing of reversed rounds-43215. with the pupil striking in 4ths place. Applying Rule III., he cuts under the bell he is covering (2nd) and then does what he did in Exercise 1. i.e. covers the last-bell-down of the remainder. As in the previous exercises he lets a change be repeated while he rings rhythmically and then calls "Change" before he land the rest of the band) makes the next change. Practice with plain-sets on higher numbers usefully follows Show that hunting can start from any bell position.
It is clear that Exercises II and III can now be practised consecutively. thus giving the

NOTTINGHAM UNIVERSITY SOCIETY

The annual general meeting of the Nottingham University Society of Change Ringers was heid on March 6 th in the belfry at Beeston. Mr. Paul L. Taylor was re-elected president, Peter N Mackley was elected chaırman and Ringing Master, Rosamund M Rawlings secretary, Roger Day treasurer, and Paul J. Bagshaw and Terrence Dowling committee members. whole ot the hunting, static, expanded and contracted. In the contracted form, espectally on the hagher numbers, the hunting down may be assisted by explaining how the pupil may follou his "course" bell, from behind down to lead. and that this course bell is that which one turns from the back as one strikes into the last place behind. It is to be followed down with an intervening one-bell gap, etther all or part of the way to the front or lead
"Bell-pause." -The vital factor, now, is good striking, the very core of which is bellpause. This is the brief time-interval between the pull-of or stroke-reversal of the rope and the clang of the bell itself. It varies from bell to bell, teing longer as the effective "neight" of the bell increases. (Distance from axle to mass-centre,) From the beginnang of his "open" ringing the pupil must listen for the sound of his bell and its placing in the (average) ume-Interval between bells. of about a quarter of a second. When the bellpause is consecously appreciated, the pupil's "application" of it becomes automatic in his striking

These notes on Hunting, it followed in practice. will generally save time, enabling the pupil the more quickly and positively to find his way around in his early attempts at method ringing; alwavs assuming, of course, that he has learnt the method!

URANGWOT - 4

* 1 was very interested to read of the unusual plan of that friend of yours for his ringing outings " It was George who had buttonholed me chis time. "Are you sure you don't mean the plan of that unusual friend of mine? " I smiled, for 1 could not i.elp recalling that Tom had his own ideas, mostly unconventional, on many others things besides ringing. "Have it your own way." replied George, " but what 1 wanted to tell you was that we have a plan of our own when we go on uur Saturday excursions." "Now look, I havent got the time to stand here and listen to a lecture from you on the merits of your plan and, in any case, 1 haven't gol the time to oiganise an outing of my own for writing to The Ringing World about cranks like you who have!" "Keep your harr on," said George, quite calmly, "I was only going to tell you what we do so you could write a bit about that. Don't you think it's only fair that us outing cranks should get a look in? After all, the peal cranks and the footnote cranks get their share of the limelight." "That's true enough," 1 had to admit. "Let's have your plan then and see what you do."

It emerged that this plan had four eight-bell towers tor an excursion and eight ringers only went. travelling in two cars. At the lirst tower they would stand in alphabetical order trom 1 to 8. The bells for each tower would be set uut on the plan given below on the shect forming the programme.

In the next three towers nobody had to ring again in a horizontal line with anyone with whom be bad already appeared and, similarly, he could ring only once with anyone in a vertical row. A very limited number of special requests was permitted in the last three towers.
"What happens then?" I asked. "Do you just shuffie yourselves about until you find suitable combirations when you get there?" *Certainly not!" retorted George. "The essence of successful ringing outings is always to bave things properly planned and worked out beforchand. It so happens that it is my turn to work out the bands for next month's outing and as a matter of fact, .. 1 could -.. do with . a bit of help." "And so could I," I quickly countered, "for the wife's just been on about spring cleaning! wasn't expecting you to work it out yourself, but just to see if there was any reader of "The Ringing World " who could help." "Yes and you saw what happened to Urangwot II, where a young lady got into trouble from her headmaster for working on it at school. We've had correspondence about bellringing and homework and we'll be getting it about bellringing and schoolwork next!" "Go on. Take a chance," pleaded George, "you'll noi swing for it." I winced, quickly decided that it was time to capitulate, and noted the details.

The ringers were to be Charlie, Douglas, Frank, Harold, Harry. Herbert and Henry besides George and he had got them into his own alphabetical order very ingeniously as 'Arry, Bert, Charlie. Douglas, Enery, Frank, George and Harold! As already mentioned, they were to ring in that order at the first tower. The request for this occasion are that Bert shall ring the treble in the second and third towers,

Charlie 7 in the second tower and 'Arry and Frank to :ing 3 and 5 in the fourth tower. George had already entered all this on the plans using the initials as below

Plan of dells for each lower

ESSEX ASSOCIATION

Northem District

The District held their spring meeting at Colne Engaine on March 3rd, when it seemed that someone turned up to represent Dearly every band in the Northern District.

The Rector (the Rev. F. J. Griges) conducted his variation on the Association service, much to the approval of those members who had complained of the same old hymns every time. After asking the secretary, "You're not expecting an address, are you? "' and receiving the answer, "Yes," he delivered an impromptu talk on various aspects of ringers and the Church

Tea, prepared in the Village Hall by the new local band, was followed by the business meetıng. with the District Master, Mr. R. J. Lindsell, in the chair He stressed the need for members to help the local ringers put Colne Engaine back on the map.

The six bells were rung to a variety of methods up to London, the only snag being the rather long draught, which succeeded in sorting the wheat from the chaff.

GUILD PRESIDENT AT NORTH DORSET BRANCH ANNUAL

At their meeting at Shulingstone on March 9th the North Dorset Branch were pleased to welcome the Guild president, Mr. W. C. West, and Mrs. West (Melksham), the Guild Master, the Rev. R. N. Longridge (Spetisbury) and Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Morris, of Lyme Regis. Eleven of the Branch lowers were represented. Local arrangements were made by Mr. H. A. Stapleton, tower correspondent and churchwarden. The Guild form of service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. W Eddleston, assisted by the Rev. R. A. Wells. Mr. Stapleton read the lesson, and Mrs. Bell played the organ. Tea arrangements were in the capable hands of Mrs. Stapleton and helpers, and all were sincerely thanked. The Rector gave a warm welcome to the Branch and in his address spoke of the impoitant work of both ringers and priests in callung people to worship.

At the business meeting in the Portman Hall the agenda included reports on the workings of the Branch in 1967 and the election of officers for 1968 . There had been considerable activity, and in the funds the working balance had risen slightly. Officers elected were: Chairman, Rev. R. G. Chalfey Moore, vicechairman, Rev. R. A. Wells; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mrs. A. F. Godley; assistant secretary, Miss R. M. Julius; Ringing Masters, Messrs. W. C. Shute, A. E. Woods T. Bleathmaa, J. Longridge and Ben Ridout; committee members, Mr. E. E. Chant, Miss H. M Julius and Rev. R. N. Longridge (ex officio), and it was recommended that the committee should co-opt Mr. Leslie Ridout at its turst meeting.

Attention was drawn to the fact that two veteran members of the Branch had just completed 60 years as ringers. They were Mr. W. C. Shute (Ferndown) and Mr. Ben Ridout (Okeford Fitzpaine). Hearty congratulatıons were extended to them both, and it was agreed that a greetings telegram should be sent to Mr. Shute, who was unfortunately absent through sickness.

Future activities were to include the regular quarterly meetings on June 8th at Bradford Abbas and September 14th at Compton Abbas, and the annual on December 14th. Also a joint meeting with the Wimborne Branch on April 20th, and the Guild Festival at Wimborne on May 11th. Further, a Branch outing is to be organised, probably in East Devon on September 7th. and, for this, names should be submited to the secretary at the June meeting (or earlier).

Ringing during the afternoon and evening was enjoyed on the sixes at both Shillingstone and Childe Okeford under the direction of the Ringing Masters.

BELFRY GOSSIP

The Llandaff and Monmouth Diocesan Association's 75th anniversary dinner will be held at the Grand Hotel, Cardiff, on October 19th. and not October 12th, as previously announced.
Two veteran members of the North Dorset Branch have just completed 60 years as ringers -Mr . W. C. Shute, of Ferndown, and Mr. Ben Ridout, of Okeford Fizzpaine. We join the North Dorset Branch in sending our congratulations.

At the annual general meeting of Reading University Society on March 7th the following officers were elected for the session 1968-69: Miss Anna Sadowska, Master; Mr. Richard Lloyd, Deputy Master; Miss Laura Grindrod, secretary-treasurer. (Address for correspondence: Wessex Hall, Whiteknights Road,

The peal rung at Biddenden, Kent, on March 9th, was rung to mark the return of the Rector, the Rev. Maurice Gilbert, after an absence of two months owing to illness.

Miss Hilda G. Snowden, of Cherry Cottage, Gosfield. Halstead, Suffolk, is entering Grosvenor Hospital, Vincent Square, London. for a major surgical operation next Wednesday. She will probably be there for a fortnight and would be pleased to see any ringing friends.
A peal was rung on March 16 th in one of the Southern Counties with the following footnote: "Rung with the bells open to mark the resignation of the Rt. Hon. George Brown. M.P., as Foreign Secretary," Because of repercussions that might follow, the footnot bas been expunged from our columns.

A LOSS TO BEAMINSTER

Beaminster, Dorset, is losing two prominent ringers by the departure on April 10th of Mr. and Mrs. E, Pannell to Hereford, where Ted has been appointed a verger at the Cathedral. He will be missed, as he serves the church in two capacities-as a ringer and choirmaster.

Edna will be equally missed, as she is the secretary-treasurer of the tower and worked very hard to raise the $£ 4,000$ required for the rehanging programme. She has also been a keen leader of the Brownies. Ted and Edna have two daughters-Ann and Joan. The Pannell family take with them the good wishes of Beaminster ringers-in fact those of the whole congregation of St. Mary's Church.

12-YEAR-OLD CALLS A PEAL

In submitting the report of a peal at Marston, Oxford, Mr. N. D. Deam claims that Howard Page, aged 12 years, who called the peal, is the youngest conductor of a peal on record. He awatts correction.
The Marston band is very pleased with Howard's performance, as he only rang his first quarter "inside" just before Christmas.
This sudden desire to further his ringing scope is due to dedication and interest backed by some two hours' experience. We look forward to even better things.
In the same peal Miss Avril Walton rang her first peal. Due to her nursing career she had not rung for about six months, but determination backed up by enthusiasm brought her success.

EXETER COLLEGES GUILD

Prominent in our quarter peal columns are the activities of the recently-formed Exeter Colleges Guild. This Guild comprises ringers from Exeter University, St. Luke's (Teachers' Training) College, Exeter Technical College, Rolls College and St. Loyes. Sunday service ringing takes pace in various Exeter churches during term time and weekly quarter peal attempts are made at churches in and around Exeter. They are also teaching both students and local residents and have established regular ringing at St. Thomas's, where the bells were not previously rung at all, writes the secretarytreasurer, Miss Angela Hughes, of Haldon, Birks, Exeter.

EARLY MORNING WEDDING BELLS

An unusual request was received by a Bradford, Yorkshire, ringer to ring for a wedding at Bingley at 9 a.m. On arrival he found that the wedding was actually taking place in Australia at that time ( 6 p.m. in Australia). The bride's patents, who live in Bingley and were unable to attend the ceremony, arranged for unable to service to be held at the local church and also for the bells to be rung.

LADIES' PEAL FOR SOUTHWELL GUILD

The ladies who rang in the peal of Bob Major at Tuxford, Notts, on March 9th, would like to associate the name of Miss Eleanor Rose with it, as she was in the original band.
The conductor, Mrs. Beryi N. Reed, is the first lady to call an eight-bell peal for the Southwell Diocesan Guild, and the band was made up of members of the Newark and North Notts Districts.

STILL RINGING AT 90

Saturday, March 9th, was a very special day for Mr. Thomas G. Briggs of Somerby, Leics. It was the occasion of his 90th birthday and a peal was rung in his honour at Somerby, and the band included three ringers from this tower.
Mr. Briggs was born at Oakham. Rutland, where his father was a blacksmith. It was due to one of his father's apprentices that he was first introduced into bellringing at Oakham in 1897. There was an absence from ringing between 1899 and 1906, when Mr. Briggs was in South Atrica, as he was a farrier at Queenstown during the Boer War. After his return to this country be foined the Somerby band and has been a regular Sunday service ringer there ever since.
In the last few years Mr. Briggs has been more active as a bellringer than ever before. It was not until 1962 that he rang a quarter peal and he has since rung quite a number of these. His latest quarter peal was on Sunday, March 10th, when he rang the treble at Oakham to Grandsire Triples.
On Tuesday, March 13th, a special party was held for Mr. Briggs at Somerby Rectory, which was attended by his family, together with friends ringers and friends from Somerby and the surrounding district.

OVER 70 YEARS A RINGER

As astonıshing personality in North Wales is Mr. Charles Williams, captain at St. Mary's Church, Welshpool, who has completed over 70 years as a ringer.
This long service has not been overlooked by the congregation of St. Mary's. At the church social on February 27 h Mr. Williams was presented with a gold wrist watch and cheque for his valuable work for the church.
He is a member of the Shropshire Association and a Freeman of the Hereford Diocesan Guild, and attends most of their meetings.
TOPSHAM, DEVON.-On Feb 102h, 1.260 Grandire Doubles: Lorraine Parsons (first quarter) 1, F. Williams 2, H. L. Crisd 3, G, T. Weas 4, D. A. Wills (cond.) 5. A. E. Knight 6.

ST. ALBANS DISTRICT RINGERS MARRY AT SOUTH MIMMS

On March 2nd the marriage took place of two St. Albans District ringers-Miss Barbara Goodspeed, of St. Albans, and Mr. Graham Sillis, of South Mimms. The couple met about five years ago, when "Babs," formerly of St. Albans Cathedral, went to South Mimms on practice nights soon after the bells were started ringing again following a long silence, to learn the art of teaching ringing !

Now both she and Graham give very regular attendance at the church. Graham is tower captain, and was a choir member until he became organist. Both have many friends. After Evensong on the Sunday before the wedding Graham was presented with a cheque on behalf of the Vicar and congregation. Many friends turned up lor the wedding-thoughts were warm even if the weather was not!
While a reception was held in Potters Bar, a quarter peal of Grandsire Doubles was rung on the six at South Mimms. The couple eventually departed in a highly decorated car for a fortnight's honeymoon in the West Country. Their new home is in St. Albans, although they will continue at South Mimms Church for a while yet. Every best wish for their future happiness goes to them both from all their ringing friends.
J. A.F.

KEYS AND KEAYS AT GNOSALL

It has become apparent that in Gnosall as well as the "Barney" Keys there are the other "Keays." In each case bells and music are a common link. Grahame and Valerie Keay, now in their early teens, have already appeared in the peal or quarter peals columns of "The Ringing World." As pupils of Mrs. E. M. Key, at Si. Lawrence's School, Gnosall, they were members of the original handbell group of that name, which is now a household one in the Midlands. Many readers will have seen them on television or performing at the concerts which have followed the annual ringers' service held each July at Gnosall
Being so fond of bells it was natural for Grahame and Valerie, along with several others of the young handbell ringers, to graduate to the tower, and at least nine of them are now regular members of the band. Grahame Keay has already mastered the standard methods on six bells and has rung peals of Doubles and Triples. He conducts Grandsire Doubles from non-observation positions and is unquestionably the most useful of the young members of the tower.
Arising from a recent request by the Director of Music for the County of Stafford Education Committee, six of these tower bellringers. who are also members of the St. Lawrence's, Gnosall, handbell ringers, have been chosens to ring the handbell section of Benjamin Britten's "Noah's Flodde," which is to be performed in St. Mary's Church. Statiord, on May 14th and 15th. What makes this unique is that they are all girls and also regular members of the church choir, of which Mrs. Key is organist and choirmaster. B. G. K.

Tom Lock's annual tour will be in Leicestershire for a week commencing Saturday, August 3lst.
